RAILWAY MEETING.

In accordance with the resolution passed at the late railway meeting, the Mayor as chairman of the Committee appointed thereat, called a meeting on Monday evening in the Council Chamber to receive any propositions which either the Midland or Grand Junction Companies should make.

On motion of Mr. Hatton, the Mayor was called to the chair, and after explaining the object of the meeting, called upon Mr. Bickford.

Mr. Bickford said he had come there to-night to hear Mr. Cox's proposition on behalf of the Midland. The Grand Junction scheme was fully explained and discussed before the public meeting held on the 7th of January, and it was now useless to repeat it. At that time Mr. Cox had stated that he was preparing a proposition and would in the course of three weeks have it completed, and submit it to the people of Peterborough. That time was now up, and he had hoped that Mr. Cox would have been able to submit it this evening. As for himself he had no direct proposition to make. He wished to get the influence of the town to solicit aid from the Government in building the road to Omemee and extending the Cobourg road from Chemong Lake to Bobcaygeon and Fenelon Falls. Now is the time to complete this scheme, and as he was unable to do it alone he came to Peterborough to ask their assistance. Mr. Cox understood the meeting was called to receive Mr. Bickford's proposition. At the late public meeting he had stated that the Midland Railway Company were endeavoring to arrange a scheme which, when completed, he would submit to the people of Peterborough. These negotiations although not far enough advanced to make any proposals were progressing favorably, and he hoped shortly to be able to submit a scheme which he considered to be largely in the interests of Peterborough.

Mr. Bickford feared procrastination would defeat the scheme. Delays and postponements would prevent his Company from approaching the Government for aid. He thought it more advantageous to Peterborough to have the Grand Junction build this "link" between here and Omemee than the Midland, and if the Company built the line he was perfectly willing to make it neutral—to give the Midland full running powers over it. He contended it was foolishness to think the Midland ever intended to build a line from here to Omemee; to do this would be going 18 miles out of the way, and the shareholders he thought would never consent to it. Already the Government had appropriated $32,000 between Lindsay and Harwood. What he wanted was that the town should use their influence to get the Government to transfer that grant to constructing the line from Chemong Lake to Bobcaygeon and Fenelon Falls. The speaker here produced a map and pointed out that the Grand Junction, when completed to Omemee, could by the construction of two other links—namely, from Leeds to Ottawa, 54 miles, and from Omemee to Toronto, 86 miles—answer all the purposes of the Toronto and Ottawa Road, a road which the people of Peterborough desired so much to have constructed. This scheme could be carried out at a trifling cost compared with that of the line being surveyed by Mr. Gooderham. As to the extension to Bobcaygeon, he had had soundings taken of Chemong Lake, and Mr. Dinwoodie had informed him that a bridge could be built for $9,500. The people of the northern municipalities were greatly in favor of this extension, and, he believed, would assist it liberally. Mr. W. Cluxton was called upon, and said the people of Peterborough required a competing line to the Grand Trunk, and the requirement had first given start to the Toronto and Ottawa. He had given his opinion so often on railway matters that it was almost unnecessary to repeat it. In summer time the need of a competing line to the Grand Trunk was not so much felt as in winter, when navigation was closed. The shippers from Toronto eastward were placed under greater difficulties than those to the west of that city. It cost more to-day to ship from Port Hope to Liverpool than it did from Milwaukie. A line from here to Toronto he believed would be injurious to the town, as many, instead of making their purchases here as at present, would go to Toronto for them. Even the through traffic which now runs to Toronto was, to a certain extent, injurious to the town. If the line could be constructed from here to Omemee he believed it would bring a great amount of trade from that vicinity to Peterborough that now found its way to Toronto.

Mr. John Bertram thought it was not in order for the committee to express their opinions. They had met to receive proposals from the rival railway Companies and to report to a subsequent meeting as to the feasability or desirability of accepting either or any of them.

Mr. Cox thought as the proposition made by Mr. Bickford was more antagonistic to the Toronto and Ottawa than to the Midland, this meeting should be adjourned until representatives of that road could be present. It would be unwise for Peterborough to petition for a charter to a rival line to the Toronto and Ottawa, as that town had taken such an active part in promulgating the scheme at its outset. If the Midland succeeded in obtaining the charter for the road from here to Omemee there would be 109 miles of a line from the Georgian Bay to Peterborough, passing through an excellent country, the trade of which would be to a large extent brought to Peterborough. He was now in negotiation to run a train daily between Peterborough and Haliburton, leaving in the morning at 7, arriving in Peterboro' at 11; returning leave Peterborough at 5 in the evening arriving at Haliburton at 9. This would give the Peterborough merchant the benefit of the trade along the line extending some 66 miles.

Mr. Hatton.—Would that not draw the back country trade entirely to Lindsay.

Mr. Cox—I will trust to the Peterborough merchants that they will be able to far outstrip the Lindsay merchants in competing for this trade. If I can carry these schemes out—and I have not the least doubt of success—it will make Peterborough the headquarters so to speak for this whole tract of country. I will not ask the town to give one cent unless they are going to get value for it, but I believe they will get value sufficient to relieve the Company of a portion of its indebtedness.

Mr. Hatton was satisfied the Midland was looking after the interests of Peterborough, but thought it was necessary to have a competing line. Competition had already had the effect of reducing freights. A car load of stock was now carried $10 cheaper to Montreal than formerly. We want the road to Omemee and also to Bobcaygeon and Fenelon Falls, so that we could tap the trade of the Victoria road. If we have to give money to secure this, let us give to the Company that will serve us best.

In answer to Mr. Bertram, Mr. Bickford stated the assistance he proposed asking from the Town was as follows:—for the extension to Omemee, $40,000; from Chemong Lake to Bobcaygeon, $20,000; from Bobcaygeon to Fenelon Falls, $20,000; in all $80,000.

After Mr. Stevenson and Mr. Carnegie had given brief expression to their views, in which they urged caution in assisting any road until we knew what we were going to receive, the meeting adjourned.

THE STORM IN EUROPE.

LONDON, Jan. 22.—The whole country is suffering more severely than can be imagined from the really Arctic weather of the past week. Although communication between most of the great towns has by this time been re-opened, many hamlets and villages are still completely cut off from the world without by snow and ice, which, as a matter of course, the people are less prepared for here than in America. Food is scarce. Cattle were frozen stiff in the sheds, and many people perished. The Queen at Osborne, in the Isle of Wight, and the Prince of Wales, who is here in London, manage to get about in a sleigh over roads impassible for other vehicles, an example which tradesmen in the towns might follow with advantage. At present, however, the shop-keeping class seem stunned and helpless under this unusual visitation, and their customers suffer accordingly. In Pall Mall and Piccadilly there are embankments of snow five feet high. In the country districts the roads are actually on a level with the hedges, while there are drifts fully 15 feet deep in many places. The Thames above the bridges is frozen over, and thousands of skaters are enjoying themselves upon the icy surface. In the poorer parts of London scarcely any drinking water is procurable. Trade is entirely suspended except in the necessaries of life. Outside of London letters can only be delivered by foot messengers, wheel traffic being impossible. The railroads are only kept open with the greatest difficulty. The other business of the country is carried on by means of narrow tracks cut in the snow. Nothing like the present weather has been known since the great frost of 1814, when bullocks were roasted on the ice on the completely frozen over Thames, London ran short of coals, and the Solway was frozen over.

"THEY ALL DO IT."—Everybody uses "Teaberry," the new toilet gem, to beautify the Teeth and give fragrance to the Breath. Ask your druggist for sample packages, 5 cents. 44-ly

It is said that a very weighty argument influenced the Hon. Wm. Macdougall in his determination to support the Government on the Syndicate question. His father-in-law, Dr. Beatty, of Cobourg, has been appointed chief census enumerator for Ontario. Put this and that together.

TORONTO OIL COMPANY are sole manufacturers of "Castorine Machine Oil." Infringements will be prosecuted. 1-ly

The Bobcaygeon Independent, which defines its own position to be that of a journal which has no affection for either party, says of the contract now before parliament that it is the duty of the people's representatives to approve or reject it according to their honest judgment. "But," it adds, "the house will not perform that duty on this occasion. The Conservative banditti will support their chief, and the American speculators will get the contract;" And one of the results will be that in return they will give all their influence in support of Sir John and his political party. That influence will be enormous, and "during the next twenty years it will not be the Canadian people, but the syndicate, who will appoint the government of the Dominion."

THE COUNTY COUNCIL.

H. Sanderson, Esq., re-elected Warden.

OPENING OF THE JANUARY SESSION—THE APPOINTMENT OF AUDITORS—&c.

The County Council of the County of Peterborough, elected for the year 1881, assembled in the Council Chamber on Tuesday at 2:30 p. m., when the following Reeves and Deputy-Reeves were present:—

North Monaghan—Reeve, H. Collins.
Smith—Reeve, M. Sanderson; Deputy-Reeve, T. E. Fitzgerald.
Otonabee—Reeve, John Lang; Deputy-Reeve, Geo. Stewart.
Douro—Reeve, John Moloney; Deputy-Reeve, J. W. McCliggott.
Lakefield—Reeve, R. Strickland.
Dummer—Reeve, A. R. Kidd.
Belmont—Reeve, John Brown.
Asphodel—Reeve, T. Rorke; Deputy-Reeve, T. Welsh.
Norwood—Reeve, J. B. Pearce,
Harvey—Reeve,—Oliver.
Galway,—Reeve,—Mansfield.
Burleigh—Reeve, Jas. Golborne.
Ennismore—J. McCarthy.

The County Clerk called the council to order and requested them to elect a Warden.

Moved by Mr. Golborne, seconded by Mr. Strickland,—That Mr. J. B. Pearce be Warden for 1881.

Moved in amendment by Mr. Collins, seconded by Mr. Lang,—That Mr. M. Sanderson be Warden for 1881.

Mr. Collins said that Mr. Sanderson, not having the position for a full year was his reason for making the motion.

The amendment on being put resulted in the following division:

YEAS.—Messrs. Moloney, McCarthy, Oliver, Kidd, Lang, Mansfield, Collins, Stewart, Fitzgerald and Sanderson.—10.

NAYS.—Messrs. McCliggott, Golborne, Walsh, Strickland, Pearce, Rorke and Brown.—7.

The Clerk then declared Mr. Sanderson duly re-elected, and after making a declaration of office he was conducted to the chair by his mover and seconder.

Mr. Sanderson returned thanks for the honor conferred upon him in being re-elected Warden.

The minutes of last meeting were read and approved.

Moved by Mr. Golborne, seconded by Mr. Brown,—That Mr. J. J. Hall be appointed Auditor for the ensuing year.—Carried.

The Warden nominated Mr. F. J. Bell, of Smith, as the other Auditor.

Moved by Mr. Kidd, seconded by Mr. Lang,—That the following be appointed a Committee to strike the Standing Committees:—Messrs. Golborne, Moloney, Collins, Pearce, Rorke, Strickland, and the mover and seconder.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Pearce, seconded by Mr. Rorke,—That Mr. J. Carnegie be appointed Session Clerk.

Moved in amendment by Mr. Kidd, seconded by Mr. Walsh,—That this Council appoint no Sessional Clerk, thereby causing a saving of some $20 to the County.

Mr. Kidd said that he though that office was unnecessary. That the Chairman of the different committees were quite able to write up their own reports.

Mr. Collins and Mr. McCarthy thought that it was necessary for the despatch of business that a Sessional Clerk be appointed. There were By-Laws, etc., to be drawn up that the Councillors had not time to do, without interfering with the work in Committee.

The amendment being put was declared lost. The original motion was then put and declared carried on the following division:

YEAS.—Messrs. McCliggott, Moloney, McCarthy, Mansfield, Strickland, Lang, Collins, Golborne, Rorke, Pearce, Brown and Oliver.

NAYS.—Messrs. Kidd, Walsh, Stewart and Fitzgerald.

A By-Law providing for County Auditors was passed through its several readings.

Moved by Mr. Moloney, seconded by Mr. Kidd,—That all accounts and communications in the hands of the Clerk be referred to the several Committees to which they belong.—Carried.

The Council then adjourned to meet at 10 o'clock the following morning.

WEDNESDAY.

Council met pursuant to adjournment. Present,—the Warden and all the members excepting Mr. Burnham.

Minutes of previous day read and approved.

APPOINTMENT OF COMMITTEES.

The Special Committee appointed to strike the Standing Committees reported, recommending the following as such Committees for the year:—

County Property—Messrs. Burnham, Collins, Stewart, Moloney, McCarthy, Brown and Rorke. Mr. Rorke, Chairman.

LONDON, Jan. 22.— In the House of Commons last night Mr. Ryland (Liberal) moved that the annexation of the Transvaal was impolitic and injustifiable. Mr. Gladstone said it was the resolute intention of the Government to re-establish British authority in the Transvaal in the first instance. Mr. Duff, the Under-Colonial Secretary, said the Government desired to give the people of the Transvaal the greatest possible extent of management of their own affairs, as soon as they acknowledge the Queen's government. Mr. Ryland's motion was rejected by 129 to 23.

SEED WHEAT FOR SALE.

The undersigned has a quantity of "Defiance Spring Wheat for seed for sale of an excellent quality.

This variety of wheat is of the highest promise, the result of a series of experiments to incorporate a superior quality upon the hardy stock of our common club wheat by hybridizing it with one of the whitest and most extensively grown on the Pacific coast. This variety displays great productiveness, vigor and hardiness, and yields from 30 to 120 bushels per acre, according to cultivation. It is a beardless white chaff wheat, with heads frequently from 5 to 6 inches long, very closely set with large white kernels, frequently numbering from 65 to 70 to the single head. Its white, stiff, erect straw, exempt from the attack of rust, its earliness, combined with great vigor and superior qualities, should claim for it universal trial. Samples may be seen at T. W. Robinson & Co's and at Deane & Sperry's mill. ☞ Price $2.50 per bushel.

PRESBYTERY OF PETERBORO'.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER.

SIR.—As an adherent of the Presbyterian Church I have been very much startled, in common with others, to hear of the following very extraordinary facts connected with the late meeting of the Presbytery of Peterborough.

The Rev. Mr. Bell of St. Andrew's Church, who was to have been tried by that Court for a very obnoxious letter he had written to Col. Haultain, went to the Railroad cars and got as many of the members of the court as possible, to entertain them at his house. May not this account for the partiality and partisanship so conspicuous in some of them? Col. Haultain, on the other hand purposely abstained from having any member of the Court at his house on this occasion. A certain judge was asked by a suitor to go to his house during the trial of a case in which he was concerned. The judge rebuked him in open court for his impudent presumption. It is said by Mr. Bell's friends that he was asked by Mr. Torrance to provide for some of the ministers, but that is no excuse, as he could have found berths for them among his people.

The Session of St. Paul's church appointed two of their number to support a memorial to the Presbytery relative to the charge against Mr. Bell, but they were never proposed to be received nor allowed to speak, and when one of them attempted once or twice to put in a word he was allowed to be peremptorily silenced by Mr. Bell.

As Col. Haultain was unable from sickness to be present, he sent a message requesting that the same gentlemen be permitted to represent him. This also was disallowed, whereupon the Col. cancelled his appointment of them. The Presbytery then sent a message to the Col. that his representatives had not been rejected, though the appreciable difference between their not being received and rejected is not very apparent. It was not long after their appointment had been thus annulled that Mr. Bell bravely challenged them to take up the Col's. charge against him, foregoing, as he chivalrously said, his right to ten days' notice, while all the time he had been notified of the charge about three weeks before.

It was clearly foreseen that as the offensive letter of Mr. Bell was utterly inexcusable and indefensible, he and his staunch "elder" would have recourse to some stratagem whereby the attention of the Presbytery would be diverted from its naked deformity. Their intrigue was accordingly soon developed. The Clerk of the Presbytery announced the items of business. Mr. Carnegie moved the appointment of a committee to re-arrange the order of business. He was put on the committee which soon reported that the case Col. H. versus Rev. Mr. Bell be taken up along side of a long memorial from St. Andrews Session raising a number of questions and discussions in the midst of which the original charge would be buried out of sight. Said memorial asked the Presbytery "to institute a searching enquiry into the part taken by the Presbyterian congregations in Peterboro', their sessions and individual members" respecting Mr. Hammond. Here Mr. Bell demanded (see Review report,) a "judicial investigation and Mr. Carnegie, a verdict, on the conduct of a session without ever having given notice to that session of their intention to do it, Mr. Carnegie volunteering a taunt at the same time that St. Paul's session did not sufficiently acquaint themselves with the rules of the church, while he himself was violating one of its fundamental rules. The Presbytery strangely yielded to this unjust and irregular demand, examined the session book and session Clerk of St. Paul's Church, and finding nothing there worthy of censure were about to pass a motion acquitting both sessions of any blame. To do this would be disposing of St. Andrew's memorial, and spoiling the little game of Messrs. B. & C. so Mr. Carnegie with his usual overbearing ascendancy over the Presbytery got a clause foisted into the motion to the effect that St. Andrew's memorial should be reopened along with the original charge against Mr. Bell at the next meeting of Presbytery. It is to be hoped however that the Presbytery at their next meeting will redeem themselves from the slough into which they have been plunged by those two very unscrupulous members.

NORWOOD.

The locating of the Toronto and Ottawa Railway is being steadily proceeded with. Mr. Bailey reports slight engineering difficulties between Indian River and Norwood, and in consequence the line has only been definitely located as far as Mr. John Knox's Asphodel, about six miles west of the Village.

Mr. A. Kempt had the little finger of his left hand badly cut by coming in contact with a circular saw in Cope's foundry. Mr. Kempt suffered the loss of three other fingers of the same hand by a former accident.

At the annual meeting of the Asphodel Belmont and Dummer Agricultural Society, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year.

P. M. Grover, President, re-elected.
Chas O'Rielly, 1st Vice-President,
James Stevenson, 2nd do
W. E. Roxburgh, Secretary-Treasurer, re-elected.

Directors—F. Birdsall, John Breckenridge, Daniel Kelly, Wm. Burgess, P. Fitzpatrick, J. B. Pearce, James Fleming John Boland, James Moore.

W. E. Roxburgh, P. M. Grover, F. Birdsall, John Breckenridge, C. O'Rielly, J. B. Pearce were appointed a committee to procure permanent grounds to hold our agricultural exhibitions, and to report to the Directors.

FRASERVILLE.

(From our own Correspondent.)

Mr. G. Reid, a farmer by occupation, and a carpenter by trade, in this locality has removed house to Midland city. Mr. Reid was one of the first men that attempted and succeeded in clearing that immense swamp which is at the present time so thickly inhabited bearing the name of Fraserville. The gentleman already referred to was a prominent member of the Grange society and on his departure was the recipient of a present (which is worthy of being called a present) from the members of the said society. Mr. Reid responded extremely well. On account of the numerous friends Mr. and Mrs. Reid had in this vicinity the parting was of a sad nature, and their many well-wishers in this part wish them prosperity in business and a long and felicitous life.

OBITUARY.—Mr. Adam Douglas of this neighborhood died on wednesday Jan. 12., aged 79 yrs. The good old man apparently in good health went out to the wood yard, and on returning with a few sticks of wood deposited them in the wood box. In attempting to put a stick of wood in the stove he fell to the floor and it is said never moved again. His piety was deep, intelligent, earnest and unremitting. His love for the sanctuary was fervent and deepened as the years went by. He was held in high esteem by this community. His body was laid away in the Baptist cemetery on the 14th inst. to await the call of the Master. Service was conducted by our esteemed pastor, Rev. W. Bennett.

Edward Gilroy, on the same evening, met with a serious accident. On jumping into the snow he fell on one of the prongs of a pitch-fork, which penetrated his leg between the knee and thigh, rendering the boy unable to walk. We hope it is not as serious as reported, and trust that he will fully recover in a few days.

Frederick Preston, on the evening of the 19th instant, on proceeding from school, went to his father's farm in order to cut straw for the cattle. While there he had the misfortune to lose part of the first two fingers on his left hand. Dr. King, of Peterborough, dressed the wound.

A large quantity of wood has been shipped from here. Sleighing is good, and the prognosticator of our neighborhood is of the opinion that we are going to have good sleighing for the remainder of the season.

Mr. Joseph Madill and his men cut within eight hours, on Friday last, for Mr. Wm. Reynolds, of Fraserville, 80 cords of maple and beach wood, with a sawing machine. Who can beat this?

HARVEY.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The Reeve elect, George Oliver, and Councillors elect, David Brodie, jr., John Clarkson, J. P. Davis and James Ingram, met in the Town Hall, 17th January, and having fyled their several declarations of qualification and office as the law directs, took their seats as members of the Corporation of the Township of Harvey for the current year. Minutes of the last meeting read and confirmed. A Communication was read from Mrs. Phœbe Johnson, asking aid from the Council, as the family are in destitute circumstances. The Reeve was authorized to procure supplies for Mrs. Johnson. A communication was read from the Trent Valley Canal Committee, requesting co-operation from the members of Parliament, Mayors, Wardens and Reeves of municipalities in urging claims upon the Dominion Government through the Minister of Railways and Canal to grant an appropriation for a location survey of the proposed canal during the present Session of the House of Commons. The Council passed a resolution to co-operate with the Committee in urging upon the Dominion Government the early prosecution of this scheme. A By-Law was passed, appointing James Hicks and W. P. Chase as Auditors of the township accounts; James Weir, Assessor; also, re-appointing the Clerk and Treasurer for the current year. Orders were drawn on the Treasurer in favor of Lewis Parker, for attending adjourned tax sale, $7.20; Wm. Weir, salary as Treasurer for 1880, $45. The Council adjourned to meet on the 2nd Monday in March next, at the Clerk's office.

The large artery was missed by a hair breadth. Dr. Miller, was called in and dressed the wound, 13 stitches being put in it. We are glad to be able to state that he is progressing as favourably as can be expected.

Vice-President.—John C. Sherin.
Sec'y-Treasurer.—M. S. Dean.
Directors.—John Garbutt, T. E. Bell, George Scott, Thos. Young, J. N. Telford, G. W. Fitzgerald, Alex. Fitzgerald, T. J. Nelson, and Dr. Caldwell.

Safe, Certain, Prompt, Economic.—These few adjectives apply with peculiar force to Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil—a standard external and internal remedy, adapted to the relief and cure of coughs, sore throat, hoarseness and all affections of the breathing organs, kidney troubles excoriations, sores, lameness and physical pain.

NO RISK.

THOMAS' ECLECTRIC OIL! WORTH TEN TIMES ITS WEIGHT IN GOLD. DO YOU KNOW ANYTHING OF IT? IF NOT IT IS TIME YOU DID.

Pain cannot stay where it is used. It is the cheapest medicine ever made. One dose cures common Sore Throat. One bottle has cured Bronchitis. Fifty cents' worth has cured an old Standing Cough. One or two bottles cures bad cases of Piles or Kidney Troubles. Six to eight applications cure any case of Excoriated Nipples or Inflamed Breast. One bottle has cured Lame Back of eight years' standing. Daniel Plank, of Brookfield, Tioga Co., Pa., says: "I went thirty miles for a bottle of our Oil, which effected a wonderful cure of a Crooked Limb, by six applications."—Another who had had Asthma for years, says:—"I have half a bottle left, and $100 would not buy it if I could not get no more."—Rufus Robinson, of Nunda, N. Y., writes: "One small bottle of your Eclectric Oil restored the voice where the person had not spoken above a whisper for five years."—Rev. J. Malbory, of Wyoming, N. Y., writes: "Your Eclectric Oil cured me of Bronchitis in one week."

It is composed of six of the Best Oils that are known. It is as good for internal as for external use, and is believed to be immeasureably superior to anything ever made. Will save you much suffering and many dollars of expense.

Beware of Imitations.—Ask for Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. See that the signature of E. N. THOMAS is on the wrapper, and the names of Northrop & Lyman are blown in the bottle, and Take no other. Sold by all medicine dealers. Price 25 cents. NORTHROP & LYMAN, Toronto, Ont., Proprietors for the Dominion.

NOTE—Eclectric—Selected and Electrized.

PEOPLE TORMENTED by the many disagreeable sensations produced by dyspepsia, or are thin, nervous and weak, should use the standard tonic—Northrop & Lyman's Quinine Wine. They will find it agreeable and beneficial. It enriches the blood by aiding digestion and assimilation; soothes and invigorates the nervous system, and imparts a healthful appetite. When used as a remedy for bilious and intermittent fever, it produces the happiest results, if taken between the attacks. Convalescence is hastened, and untimely decay of the physique and constitution is arrested by it. The spirituous constituent, sherry wine, is of the best quality, and the aromatics combined with it renders its flavor additionally pleasant. They who use it gain flesh as well as strength and it exerts a cheering influence upon the mind. It promotes a healthy secretion and flow of bile, sound repose and regularity in the action of the bowels. If judiciously used it may be taken without apprehension of any ill result by persons of the most delicate constitution. A fair trial is all that is needed to prove the genuineness of its claims to public confidence, and to the truth of the general verdict in its behalf. No article of its class commends its self so strongly to nervous invalids who require building up—none is so well adapted to fortify the system against the dangers which threaten the debilitated. It should not be mistaken for a mere stimulant of appetite, which so many so-called tonics simply are. It so regulates the stomach that it is enabled to perform its vari ous functions with regularity and vigor, and its action is not only thorough but prompt. Ask for the "Genuine Wine of Northrop & Lyman." Sold by all druggists.

A Lecture to Young Men

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

Vivienne's Crime;

OR,

FOR LOVE OF HIM.

By the Author of "CLIFTON MARCH," "MRS. GUELDON'S AMBITION," &c., &c.

The quiet life she had chosen to lead [illegible] had hindered these friends of [illegible] Thornton's inviting her till then; and [illegible] though the long dinner, eyes were [illegible] busy scanning her, tongues occupied with [illegible] pushing of her, her fortune, her beauty, [illegible] or odd, half-foreign manner, which all [illegible] perforce to know was charming in its [illegible]. Vivienne herself was in the [illegible] of spirits. As she quaffed an ope, [illegible] all-kind in her cozy, pretty way with [illegible], it seemed as if they had known [illegible] for years instead of hours. The [illegible] misway, too, of her own sex for once was [illegible]. Beauty like hers's admitted of no [illegible]; and the ladies present were willing to discover no fault.

Vivienne's entrance into the society of [illegible] county, long as it had been delayed, [illegible] a genuine success. Mrs. Thornton [illegible] well more than one delicate congratulation on her good fortune in [illegible] secured so agreeable a companion [illegible] a wife, plainer people might have said, [illegible] blandly in their sincerity—for [illegible]. She listened readily, well [illegible] to hear the half-veiled hints as to [illegible] advantages accruing to her from [illegible] position of chaperone to the young [illegible]; and she hoped in her heart that [illegible] general surmise might one day come [illegible].

Ethel West had been invited to the [illegible], as usual; but as yet she had not [illegible]. Gilbert, watching from his quiet [illegible], chafed at her delay; Jocelyn, too, [illegible] that she absented herself, [illegible], as she did, how much she was [illegible]. At length, when every one [illegible] given up looking for her, she came [illegible] her father.

"She waited for me, Mrs. Thornton," [illegible] explained; "and I had been unexpectedly detained."

He did not add as he might have done, [illegible] would not be here now, but that I [illegible] her to come."

Dancing was going on in the large front [illegible]-room; where Jocelyn was walking through the Lancers with Vivienne [illegible] for his vis-a-vis.

Ethel did not care to dance when Mrs. [illegible] offered to find her a partner. [illegible] preferred the quietude of the inner [illegible], where Gilbert lay waiting till she [illegible] find time to converse with him. [illegible] group of girls had gathered around [illegible], and would not let her go. One or [illegible] old friends joined the circle, and by-[illegible] by among them appeared Herbert [illegible].

"Have you been dancing, Mr. Grant?" [illegible] one of the girls, gaily lifting her [illegible] in mock surprise.

"No, I have only been looking at the [illegible]. Hearing of our late arrival, I was [illegible] to come and see her. I thought [illegible] might tell me, perhaps, why she did [illegible] come earlier."

Ethel smiled, and made way for him on [illegible] couch beside her. A favorite with all [illegible] the Doctor's daughter. They kept [illegible] busy chatting—first one, then another; and as they did so, they laughed [illegible], like the happy girls most of them [illegible], and the young Rector, for all his [illegible], joined heartily with them.

When Ethel saw her opportunity to [illegible] she seized it, and, crossing the [illegible] to Gilbert, she sat down beside him, [illegible] a low chair before the fire. She was [illegible] pale, and her eyes were dark and [illegible]-looking, full of a hidden anguish [illegible] all her gay words could hide. She [illegible] have given much to return home, [illegible] from the music swelling so joyously, [illegible] the many voices, from the echoes of [illegible]-restrained laughter, the dazzle and [illegible] of the lights. But that could not [illegible]; nor might she even let people know [illegible] secret. So she chatted with Gilbert, [illegible] once or twice went away to dance [illegible] some old friends who would not let [illegible] say "No" to them. Jocelyn Thornton was not then among the dancers, nor [illegible] those who watched them, and she [illegible] exceedingly glad this was the case.

But Vivienne Stuart was, and the two [illegible] smiled at each other as their respective partners whirled them by—smiled [illegible], though one was glad with the [illegible] of conquest, and one sad under the [illegible] pain from which she was suffering. [illegible] still, in her very sorrow, Ethel [illegible] herself well. No one guessed her [illegible], not even Vivienne. Gilbert [illegible] alone knew how the sore heart [illegible] torn, but then he could do nothing [illegible] watch the players in the side game of [illegible]; still, he was quick to read Ethel's [illegible], familiar as he was with it.

When she sat down by him again, the [illegible] in his eyes made her heart throb: [illegible] was not prepared to take commiseration, even from him. That was one of [illegible] thoughts she could not bear. She [illegible] and laughed, and stilled the pain [illegible] her heart as best she might, willing to [illegible] anything, so that no one learned [illegible] distress.

Ghastly fair she looked that night, as [illegible] ways—wonderfully delicate and fragile [illegible] the pale blue dress that made her white [illegible] and arms stand forth clearly and [illegible] as marble. Her rich golden [illegible] were dressed after a fashion peculiar to herself, so as to show the well-[illegible] head and low white brow. Not [illegible] Vivienne Stuart surpassed her calm, [illegible] loveliness, as she sat there, with the [illegible] glow of the fire on her snow-white [illegible], and the mellow radience of the [illegible] bringing out rich flashes of light [illegible] the coils of her shining hair.

[illegible]elyn, long after her arrival, came at [illegible] to see her. He had not cared to come [illegible]. He was vexed with himself and [illegible] with every one else; and his face as usual [illegible] it. He gave but a careless glance [illegible] he advanced towards her, though his [illegible] in other respects was all that it [illegible] be—at least so far as words could [illegible] it. Even then, however, the beauty [illegible] her face, familiar as it was, struck him. [illegible] she was not Vivienne, and at that [illegible] he had no care for any other.

[illegible]bert's words of warning were com[illegible] true. This girl was making him love [illegible] as he had never thought of loving [illegible] West. She had grown to be his [illegible], his one hope. That night he had [illegible] to the danger of losing her. The [illegible]piration in men's eyes warped him that [illegible], beside himself, would seek to win [illegible] prize. What if one more fortunate [illegible] he should succeed? The thought [illegible] his brain throbbing. He was longing [illegible] his heart, even while he talked to [illegible], to hear Vivienne Stuart tell him [illegible] her own lips, "Jocelyn, I love [illegible]."

The full tide was fast sweeping down [illegible] the puny barriers raised against it. [illegible] knew now that never again could he [illegible] until he was sure of the love of this [illegible], for whom he felt he could die if need [illegible] arise.

Ethel, sitting low at his feet, with her [illegible] beating so loud and fast that she [illegible]ded those near her might hear it, intuitively guessed something of this, and felt that she had lost him for ever. When Vivienne entered and stood among them, Ethel divined the mystery yet more surely. She saw how his face changed at the sight of her, just as it had changed at her own coming, in the days that were gone.

Poor Ethel! poor bleeding heart, in which pride had failed to crush out love, in which not all the new born anger could stifle the old tender yearnings that rose and died in a passion of pain.

"How pretty Grace Leigh looks to-night?" said Gilbert, watching a pleasant brown-eyed girl who passed, leaning on the arm of a gentleman. "She is engaged, people tell me, to Brook Wynne. She certainly looks like it."

"I always thought Grace very good-looking," said Ethel, turning her eyes toward her, glad to talk of anything, to hide the restlessness of her troubled spirit. "Whenever she smiles, I think her unusually attractive."

"So do I. I imagined once that Wynne had more than a fancy for Vivienne; but she did not perceive it, and the poor fellow gave up in despair."

"I did not want to see it, Gilbert," replied Vivienne.

"That I grant, of course. I rather like him myself. All the girls call him handsome—so he must be; and he is rich enough to be considered a prize by those who care for money."

"Naturally, I have no need to trouble about money," retorted Vivienne; adding, "I am certain I never could care for Mr. Wynne."

Gilbert laughed at the petulance he had provoked, while Jocelyn flushed at the words he had heard. He drew his own conclusion, however, from the blunt little speech.

Suddenly, as they chatted, the bells of Thornton church, which had been softly and solemnly ringing out the old year, with all its cares and crosses, began to ring in the new with pealing gladness. The conversation ceased; the dancers paused to listen, some with glad faces, some with grave, as the bells sent their message clanging across the snow. To each one present the message, in its throbbing melody, had a different meaning.

Gilbert Thornton heard it with sad eyes, full of a wistful longing that might never be realised, dim with a vague fear of what this new year might bring to him and to those he loved.

Ethel, standing apart from the group round the fire, looking out on the snow-sprinkled earth, the skeleton trees, the gaunt rocks, half veiled in the denser shadows, felt a dull undefined dread within her that turned her lips white and made those pealing joy-bells grate harshly upon her ears.

"May this prove a happy year to you, Ethel!" said Herbert Grant with quiet friendliness, as he paused a second by her side.

She turned to thank him; but the words died on her lips, and she felt her eyes filling with tears, that burned like great beads of fire.

He passed on, and left her to herself, without a look or word to tell how her dumb agony smote him; so unmoved indeed did he appear, that she felt sure he had not noticed this passing weakness, though her cheeks were hot at the thought of it.

Some time afterwards, when the fun and merriment were at their height, Jocelyn paused to look at Ethel, as she stood, the centre of a gay little group, where some of the worthiest men in the room were gathered. Her bright eyes had not a shadow of care in their depths, and seeing her thus, in her youth and chaste beauty, his heart smote him that his love for her was dead, that love which he had sworn should extend through life.

Raising her eyes, Ethel saw him, and the color in her cheeks deepened and spread under his glance. She continued her converse, however, as if he had been absent; but the tell-tale crimson on her bent face indicated she had seen him. Very beautiful she looked, and remorse came upon him in spite of himself, and made him half wish that he had never seen this other face which his heart held dearer than hers, fair as it was.

It was early morning, gray and cold, when the last carriage rolled away from the Manor. Hours before that Ethel, with wan visage and heavy eyes, had sought her father.

"Let us go home, father; I have said good-bye to Mrs. Thornton, and Gilbert has retired to his room. Do let us go at once. I am very tired."

"And what of Jocelyn? Vivienne, too, will think us wanting in politeness if we hasten away thus."

As she looked at him, there was a half-bitter smile on her lips.

"Both are in the library, and will not think of us."

Doctor West said no more, but gave her his hand; and as they had come, so they departed—very quietly—father and daughter all in all to each other, now as always.

That night, driving home through the snowy lanes, Doctor West wished more than ever that Herbert Grant's dream of love had not been dispelled, but that it still existed. Ethel, lying back in her corner, amid her manifold wrappers, closed her eyes that her father might think she was asleep. Her head was dizzy, her heart ached. Presently, thinking the matter over, the bitter truth, vivid, not to be put away, her pride brought down, the tenderest part of her womanly nature lacerated. Keenly feeling this, she yet strove, with all her young untried strength, to keep down the agony that rose within her, the strong anger that memory kindled.

"I will not blame him," she inwardly said to herself again and again, in her pain and distraction. "She is beautiful enough to make any man love her. When he tells me himself that he has given up his love for me, then he shall be free, and I must bear my sorrow as best I can. But he did love me, and me only till she came; and I will not blame him for what he cannot help perhaps."

So her thoughts ran, shaping themselves into words, as it were, almost on her dry lips; while for accompaniment there sounded the loud wash of the sea and the howling of the wind, at its old pranks in the hollow caverns of the crags.

The snow was deep, and the coachman had to drive with care. Doctor West would have preferred to get out and walk rather than proceed so slowly, but he feared to disturb his daughter, lying so still, her pale face shining at him from the folds of her crimson cloak, with a look on it strangely like her mother's the last time he had gazed upon it, before the coffin lid was fastened. The remembrance touched him. He put out his hand and timidly clasped the small fingers hid among the wrappings, and Ethel immediately opened her eyes and smiled at him. Even then her father's love could comfort her.

It seemed hours before she was at home in her own room, with no one to read the trouble in her face, no one to wonder at the tears that wetted it. Through all she loved Jocelyn Thornton, just as she had ever loved him, with the whole garnered-up strength of her simple unsophisticated heart.

Jocelyn Thornton, preferring to chat, as Ethel had told her father, with Vivienne in the library at the Manor, and friends and neighbors present in the house, had indeed no thought for his old love or any one save her who was by his side. Looking at her, Jocelyn forgot all he should say, and uttered all he should not say. He only knew that this was the woman he loved as he had never dreamed he could love. So dumb and awkward was he that Vivienne presently glanced up at him, a pretty pout on her scarlet lips, and said, "You are strangely reticent and gauche. Why is it? Are you thinking of Ethel?"

He answered her bluntly, stroking his tawny beard with his restless fingers, "You know I am not."

She did know it; but would not confess it; shrugging her white shoulders, she turned her face away.

"I never realised how very lovely she is until to-night. I shall never again wonder at your great love for her. I did once."

With all her self-control and nerve, her voice quivered, and her hands, toying with the roses in her belt, trembled nervously. Hearing her speak thus, Jocelyn suddenly grew angry. A fire leaped up in his silver-gray eyes. His whole face changed from what she had ever seen it.

"Why do you torture me so?" he cried. "Why do you talk as if you did not know I love you, and you only, of all the women in the world? You could not but know it."

Looking at him, she dared not say she did not. She had lost all power to answer his words lightly, as she might have answered the words of any other man, standing in his place. This stalwart Jocelyn, with his speaking eyes and manly hair, did she not know well how he loved her? Did not she know how she loved him?

Silent she stood before him, her lips quivering, the long lashes shading the eyes she dare not raise to his. He bent down his head to her, speaking fast, yet so low that no one passing without could have heard his words.

"You do not need me to tell you this, Vivienne. I see by your face you knew it long ago. The first day you were at the Manor I loved you. I did not think so then, but I know now that I did. There has never been an hour since that I have forgotten to think of you. Oh, Vivienne, my darling, tell me you love me. Only say once, 'Jocelyn, I love you,' and I shall be for ever content."

For an instant she wavered; for an instant Ethel rose between her and his proffered love—Ethel, whose right she had stolen that very night—and her heart failed her, but only for an instant. She turned and laid her face upon his breast, tears of joy in her beautiful eyes, a thrill of gladness in her sweet, low voice, whispering to him, softly, as he had bidden her, "Jocelyn, I love you!"

R. V. Pierce, M. D.:

I have used your Favorite Prescription, Golden Medical Discovery and Pleasant Purgative Pellets, for the last three months and find myself—(What shall I say)—"made new again," are the only words that express it. I was reduced to a skeleton, could not walk across the floor without fainting, could keep nothing in the shape of food on my stomach. Myself and friends had given up all hope, my immediate death seemed certain. I can never be too thankful to those who recommended your medicines, for I now live (to the surprise of everybody) and am able to do my own work. I desire to make this statement in order that those suffering may not despair until they have given your medicines a trial.

Vivienne's Crime;

OR,

FOR LOVE OF HIM.

by the Author of "Clinton Manor," "Miss. Sherlock's Ambition," &c., &c.

The quiet life she had chosen to lead [illegible] had hindered those friends of [illegible]'s knowing her till then; and [illegible] though the long dinner, eyes were [illegible] scanning her, tongues occupied with [illegible] of her, her fortune, her beauty, [illegible] cold, half-foreign manner, which all [illegible] profess to know was charming in its [illegible]. Vivienne herself was in the [illegible] spirits. As she smiled on one, [illegible] chatted in her easy, pretty way with [illegible], it seemed as if they had known [illegible] for years instead of hours. The [illegible] jealousy, too, of her own sex for once was [illegible]. Beauty like hers admitted of no [illegible]; and the ladies present were willing to discover no fault.

Vivienne's entrance into the society of [illegible] county, long as it had been delayed, [illegible] a genuine success. Mrs. Thornton [illegible] more than one delicate congratu- [illegible] on her good fortune in having secured so agreeable a companion [illegible] a wife, plainer people might have said, [illegible] thinly in their sincerity—for [illegible]. She listened readily, well [illegible] to hear the half-veiled hints as to [illegible] advantages accruing to her from [illegible] position of chaperone to the young [illegible]; and she hoped in her heart that [illegible] general surmise might one day come [illegible].

Ethel West had been invited to the [illegible], as usual; but as yet she had not [illegible]. Gilbert, watching from his quiet [illegible], chafed at her delay; Jocelyn, too, [illegible] that she absented herself, [illegible], as she did, how much she was [illegible]. At length, when every one [illegible] had given up looking for her, she came [illegible] with her father.

"She waited for me, Mrs. Thornton," [illegible] explained; "and I had been unex- [illegible] detained."

He did not add as he might have done, [illegible] she would not be here now, but that I [illegible] her to come."

Dancing was going on in the large front [illegible]-room, where Jocelyn was walk- [illegible] through the Lancers with Vivienne [illegible] for his vis-a-vis.

Ethel did not care to dance when Mrs. [illegible] offered to find her a partner. [illegible] preferred the quietude of the inner [illegible], where Gilbert lay waiting till she [illegible] find time to converse with him. [illegible] little group of girls had gathered around [illegible], and would not let her go. One or [illegible] old friends joined the circle, and by- [illegible]-by among them appeared Herbert [illegible].

"Have you been dancing, Mr. Grant?" [illegible] one of the girls, gaily lifting her [illegible] in mock surprise.

"No, I have only been looking at the [illegible]. Hearing of our late arrival, I was [illegible] to come and see her. I thought [illegible] might tell me, perhaps, why she did [illegible] come earlier."

Ethel smiled, and made way for him on [illegible] couch beside her. A favorite with all [illegible] the Doctor's daughter. They kept [illegible] busy chatting—first one, then an- [illegible]; and as they did so, they laughed [illegible]rrily, like the happy girls most of them [illegible], and the young Rector, for all his [illegible]avity, joined heartily with them.

When Ethel saw her opportunity to [illegible] she seized it, and, crossing the [illegible] to Gilbert, she sat down beside him, [illegible] a low chair before the fire. She was [illegible]ry pale, and her eyes were dark and [illegible]reamy-looking, full of a hidden anguish [illegible]t all her gay words could hide. She [illegible]ould have given much to return home, [illegible]ray from the music swelling so joyously, [illegible]om the many voices, from the echoes of [illegible]alf-restrained laughter, the dazzle and [illegible]are of the lights. But that could not [illegible]; nor might she even let people know [illegible]r secret. So she chatted with Gilbert, [illegible]d once or twice went away to dance [illegible]th some old friends who would not let [illegible]r say "No" to them. Jocelyn Thorn- [illegible]n was not then among the dancers, nor [illegible]mong those who watched them, and she [illegible] exceedingly glad this was the case.

But Vivienne Stuart was, and the two [illegible]rls smiled at each other as their respec- [illegible]ve partners whirled them by—smiled [illegible]retly, though one was glad with the [illegible] of conquest, and one sad under the [illegible]eal pain from which she was suffering. [illegible]roud still, in her very sorrow, Ethel [illegible]re herself well. No one guessed her [illegible]nguish, not even Vivienne. Gilbert [illegible]hornton alone knew how the sore heart [illegible]as torn, but then he could do nothing [illegible]t watch the players in the side game of [illegible]e; still, he was quick to read Ethel's [illegible]ce, familiar as he was with it.

When she sat down by him again, the [illegible]ty in his eyes made her heart throb: [illegible]e was not prepared to take commisera- [illegible]on, even from him. That was one of [illegible]e thoughts she could not bear. She [illegible]ssted and laughed, and stilled the pain [illegible] her heart as best she might, willing to [illegible]er anything, so that no one learned [illegible]r distress.

Ghastly fair she looked that night, as [illegible]ways—wonderfully delicate and fragile [illegible] the pale blue dress that made her white [illegible]rast and arms stand forth clearly and [illegible]istinctly as marble. Her rich golden [illegible]esses were dressed after a fashion pecu- [illegible]ar to herself, so as to show the well- [illegible]aped head and low white brow. Not [illegible]en Vivienne Stuart surpassed her calm, [illegible]ft loveliness, as she sat there, with the [illegible]mp glow of the fire on her snow-white [illegible]nds, and the mellow radience of the [illegible]mp bringing out rich flashes of light [illegible]on the coils of her shining hair.

Jocelyn, long after her arrival, came at [illegible] to see her. He had not cared to come [illegible]fore. He was vexed with himself and [illegible]th every one else; and his face as usual [illegible]nced it. He gave but a careless glance [illegible] he advanced towards her, though his [illegible]elcome in other respects was all that it [illegible]ould be—at least so far as words could [illegible]ake it. Even then, however, the beauty [illegible] her face, familiar as it was, struck him. [illegible]t she was not Vivienne, and at that [illegible]oment he had no care for any other.

Gilbert's words of warning were com- [illegible]y true. This girl was making him love [illegible]r as he had never thought of loving [illegible]hel West. She had grown to be his [illegible], his one hope. That night he had [illegible]kened to the danger of losing her. The [illegible]mination in man's eyes warned him that [illegible]ers," beside himself, would seek to win [illegible]e prize. What if one more fortunate [illegible]an he should succeed? The thought [illegible]t his brain throbbing. He was longing [illegible] his heart, even while he talked to [illegible]hel, to hear Vivienne Stuart tell him [illegible]th her own lips, "Jocelyn, I love [illegible]e."

The full tide was fast sweeping down [illegible] the puny barriers raised against it. [illegible]e knew now that never again could he [illegible]t until he was sure of the love of this [illegible]l, for whom he felt he could die if need [illegible]ght arise.

Ethel, sitting low at his feet, with her [illegible]art beating so loud and fast that she [illegible]rounded those near her might hear it, intuitively guessed something of this, and felt that she had lost him for ever. When Vivienne entered and stood among them, Ethel divined the mystery yet more surely. She saw how his face changed at the sight of her, just as it had changed at her own coming, in the days that were gone.

Poor Ethel! poor bleeding heart, in which pride had failed to crush out love, in which not all the new born anger could stifle the old tender yearnings that rose and died in a passion of pain.

"How pretty Grace Leigh looks to-night?" said Gilbert, watching a pleasant brown-eyed girl who passed, leaning on the arm of a gentleman. "She is engaged, people tell me, to Brook Wynne. She certainly looks like it."

"I always thought Grace very good-looking," said Ethel, turning her eyes toward her, glad to talk of anything, to hide the restlessness of her troubled spirit. "Whenever she smiles, I think her unusually attractive."

"So do I. I imagined once that Wynne had more than a fancy for Vivienne; but she did not perceive it, and the poor fellow gave up in despair."

"I did not want to see it, Gilbert," replied Vivienne.

"That I grant, of course. I rather like him myself. All the girls call him handsome—so he must be; and he is rich enough to be considered a prize by those who care for money."

"Naturally, I have no need to trouble about money," retorted Vivienne; adding, "I am certain I never could care for Mr. Wynne."

Gilbert laughed at the petulance he had provoked, while Jocelyn flushed at the words he had heard. He drew his own conclusion, however, from the blunt little speech.

Suddenly, as they chatted, the bells of Thornton church, which had been softly and solemnly ringing out the old year, with all its cares and crosses, began to ring in the new with pealing gladness. The conversation ceased; the dancers paused to listen, some with glad faces, some with grave, as the bells sent their message clanging across the snow. To each one present the message, in its throbbing melody, had a different meaning.

Gilbert Thornton heard it with sad eyes, full of a wistful longing that might never be realised, dim with a vague fear of what this new year might bring to him and to those he loved.

Ethel, standing apart from the group round the fire, looking out on the snow-sprinkled earth, the skeleton trees, the gaunt rocks, half veiled in the denser shadows, felt a dull undefined dread within her that turned her lips white and made those pealing joy-bells grate harshly upon her ears.

"May this prove a happy year to you, Ethel!" said Herbert Grant with quiet friendliness, as he paused a second by her side.

She turned to thank him; but the words died on her lips, and she felt her eyes filling with tears, that burned like great beads of fire.

He passed on, and left her to herself, without a look or word to tell how her dumb agony smote him; so unmoved indeed did he appear, that she felt sure he had not noticed this passing weakness, though her cheeks were hot at the thought of it.

Some time afterwards, when the fun and merriment were at their height, Jocelyn paused to look at Ethel, as she stood, the centre of a gay little group, where some of the worthiest men in the room were gathered. Her bright eyes had not a shadow of care in their depths, and seeing her thus, in her youth and chaste beauty, his heart smote him that his love for her was dead, that love which he had sworn should extend through life.

Raising her eyes, Ethel saw him, and the color in her cheeks deepened and spread under his glance. She continued her converse, however, as if he had been absent; but the tell-tale crimson on her bent face indicated she had seen him. Very beautiful she looked, and remorse came upon him in spite of himself, and made him half wish that he had never seen this other face which his heart held dearer than hers, fair as it was.

It was early morning, gray and cold, when the last carriage rolled away from the Manor. Hours before that Ethel, with wan visage and heavy eyes, had sought her father.

"Let us go home, father; I have said good-bye to Mrs. Thornton, and Gilbert has retired to his room. Do let us go at once. I am very tired."

"And what of Jocelyn? Vivienne, too, will think us wanting in politeness if we hasten away thus."

As she looked at him, there was a half-bitter smile on her lips.

"Both are in the library, and will not think of us."

Doctor West said no more, but gave her his hand; and as they had come, so they departed—very quietly—father and daughter all in all to each other, now as always.

That night, driving home through the snowy lanes, Doctor West wished more than ever that Herbert Grant's dream of love had not been dispelled, but that it still existed. Ethel, lying back in her corner, amid her manifold wrappers, closed her eyes that her father might think she was asleep. Her head was dizzy, her heart ached. Presently, thinking the matter over, the bitter truth, vivid, not to be put away, her pride brought down, the tenderest part of her womanly nature lacerated. Keenly feeling this, she yet strove, with all her young untried strength, to keep down the agony that rose within her, the strong anger that memory kindled.

"I will not blame him," she inwardly said to herself again and again, in her pain and distraction. "She is beautiful enough to make any man love her. When he tells me himself that he has given up his love for me, then he shall be free, and I must bear my sorrow as best I can. But he did love me, and me only till she came; and I will not blame him for what he cannot help perhaps."

So her thoughts ran, shaping themselves into words, as it were, almost on her dry lips; while for accompaniment there sounded the loud wash of the sea and the howling of the wind, at its old pranks in the hollow caverns of the crags.

The snow was deep, and the coachman had to drive with care. Doctor West would have preferred to get out and walk rather than proceed so slowly, but he feared to disturb his daughter, lying so still, her pale face shining at him from the folds of her crimson cloak, with a look on it strangely like her mother's the last time he had gazed upon it, before the coffin lid was fastened. The remembrance touched him. He put out his hand and timidly clasped the small fingers hid among the wrappings, and Ethel immediately opened her eyes and smiled at him. Even then her father's love could comfort her.

It seemed hours before she was at home in her own room, with no one to read the trouble in her face, no one to wonder at the tears that wetted it. Through all she loved Jocelyn Thornton, just as she had ever loved him, with the whole garnered-up strength of her simple unsophisticated heart.

Jocelyn Thornton, preferring to chat, as Ethel had told her father, with Vivienne in the library at the Manor, and friends and neighbors present in the house, had indeed no thought for his old love or any one save her who was by his side. Looking at her, Jocelyn forgot all he should say, and uttered all he should not say. He only knew that this was the woman he loved as he had never dreamed he could love. So dumb and awkward was he that Vivienne presently glanced up at him, a pretty pout on her scarlet lips, and said, "You are strangely reticent and gauche. Why is it? Are you thinking of Ethel?"

He answered her bluntly, stroking his tawny beard with his restless fingers, "You know I am not."

She did know it' but would not confess it; shrugging her white shoulders, she turned her face away.

"I never realised how very lovely she is until to-night. I shall never again wonder at your great love for her. I did once."

With all her self-control and nerve, her voice quivered, and her hands, toying with the roses in her belt, trembled nervously. Hearing her speak thus, Jocelyn suddenly grew angry. A fire leaped up in his silver-gray eyes. His whole face changed from what she had ever seen it.

"Why do you torture me so?" he cried. "Why do you talk as if you did not know I love you, and you only, of all the women in the world? You could not but know it."

Looking at him, she dared not say she did not. She had lost all power to answer his words lightly, as she might have answered the words of any other man, standing in his place. This stalwart Jocelyn, with his speaking eyes and sunny hair, did she not know well how he loved her? Did not she know how she loved him?

Silent she stood before him, her lips quivering, the long lashes shading the eyes she dare not raise to his. He bent down his head to her, speaking fast, yet so low that no one passing without could have heard his words.

"You do not need me to tell you this, Vivienne. I see by your face you knew it long ago. The first day you were at the Manor I loved you. I did not think so then, but I know now that I did. There has never been an hour since that I have forgotten to think of you. Oh, Vivienne, my darling, tell me you love me. Only say once, 'Jocelyn, I love you,' and I shall be for ever content."

For an instant she wavered; for an instant Ethel rose between her and his proffered love—Ethel, whose right she had stolen that very night—and her heart failed her, but only for an instant. She turned and laid her face upon his breast, tears of joy in her beautiful eyes, a thrill of gladness in her sweet, low voice, whispering to him, softly, as he had bidden her, "Jocelyn, I love you!"

R. V. Pierce, M. D.:

I have used your Favorite Prescription, Golden Medical Discovery and Pleasant Purgative Pellets, for the last three months and find myself—(What shall I say)—"made new again," are the only words that express it. I was reduced to a skeleton, could not walk across the floor without fainting, could keep nothing in the shape of food on my stomach. Myself and friends had given up all hope, my immediate death seemed certain. I can never be too thankful to those who recommended your medicines, for I now live (to the surprise of everybody) and am able to do my own work. I desire to make this statement in order that those suffering may not despair until they have given your medicines a trial.

Yours resp'y Mrs. Wm. D. Ryckman.

TAKING STOCK!

We duly perceiving upon the business man is as pertinent as that of 'taking stock.'

Books have been called the merchant's repeating clock, to tell him how he goes on.

By 'taking stock' and a comparison with his books, the trader is enabled to arrive at a reasonable computation of the business done during the year, and to tell whether the balance on the pages of his ledger shall be for or against him.

It is not only the recognized duty of the active tradesman to 'take stock' of his goods into trade, his custom, but of his competitors.

Just now it is the manifest duty of our citizens to 'take stock' of our newly elected MAYOR and TOWN COUNCILLORS, to see what are the indications as to their ability to drive the municipal coach safely during the present year.

The universal application of the rule is shown in the particularity with which young ladies 'take stock' of prospective matrimonial chances.

In short; tradition, business, usage, economy, convenience and other good and sufficient reasons all corroborate the advisability of 'taking stock.'

We are just now 'taking stock'—of our goods of course. This is always understood. We have a small balance of winter Goods in Woollens, Knitted Goods, &c., which we offer at very material reductions.

MUNRO & ALEXANDER.

Local News Record.

BEHIND TIME.—The trains during the week past have been somewhat irregular, owing to the snow drifts.

SNOW-SHOEING.—The "Peterborough Rangers" Snow Shoe Club have had several tramps this season.

SKATING BOOTS—chamois lined—and Russian felt boots—another lot just received at the wholesale boot and shoe store of R. Stinson & Son. 51-tf.

PARALYZED.—John Valois, aged about 26 years, was stricken with paralysis last week in the shanty at Washago, from the effects of which he died at the residence of his father, in Douro, on Friday last.

POLICE COURT.—A young man named Strickland, was sent up on Monday for two months, charged with vagrancy. He was fined $5.00, but had "forgotten to bring his purse."

A SAD TRUTH.—Grip this week has a highly suggestive cartoon. It represents the Conservative party between the D——(Sir Charles Tupper) and the deep sea of ruin. The saddest thing about this picture is its truth.

SALE OF TOWN LANDS FOR TAXES.—The total amount realized to the town at the recent sale of lands for taxes was $206.84: Thirteen lots were announced for sale. One lot was withdrawn, eight were sold, and the taxes on four were paid prior to the sale.

AN EXCELLENT LIKENESS.—We have received a copy of the steel engraved portrait of the late Hon. Geo. Brown. It is an excellent likeness, and will doubtless be the standard by which future reproducers of the deceased statesman's lineaments will be guided.

THE BIBLE SOCIETY.—The annual meeting of the Peterborough Bible Society will be held this evening in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, at 7.30 p.m. The Rev. Mr. Jefferey, General Agent of the Society, and other resident clergymen, will address the meeting.

POULTRY EXHIBITION.—The Annual Show of the Midland Central Poultry Association will be held in the old Music Hall, on the 15th, 16th and 17th of February. This exhibition promises to be the best yet given by this Society. One foreign exhibitor has promised to make seventy-five entries.

MRS. STAPLETON lost her portmonnaie on Saturday while attending market. It contained ten dollars. The ladies' pockets are made, one would think, for the purpose of inducing those who are inclined to relieve the wearers of the responsibility of taking care of any little article that they may chance to possess.

LADIES DESIRING to secure a fashionable and durable article in the boot and shoe line should call at Larmour's, where there is the choicest, most complete and varied stock between Toronto and Montreal. Mr. Larmour is now so widely and favorably known in the boot and shoe line that to say that your boot comes from his establishment is equivalent to saying that it is a fashionably cut and perfect fitting article. 44-tf.

Grip's last cartoon is exquisite. It is called "The Rescue" and represent Blake with a mighty cudgel in his hands, following at some distance by Cartwright, in the act of rescuing Canada, depicted as a little girl from the villainous clutches of Tupper, who grasps an open roll on which are displayed the outrageous terms of the Syndicate bargain. On an adjoining tree, by way of contrast, are inscribed the terms of the new Syndicate.

THE EDITOR.—If any editor omits anything he is lazy. If he speaks of things as they are people get angry. If he glosses over or smooths down the rough points he is bribed. If he calls things by their proper names he is unfit for the position of an editor. If he does not furnish readers with jokes he is an idiot. If he does he is a rattlehead, lacking stability. If he condemns the wrong he is a good fellow, but lacks discretion. If he lets wrongs and injuries go unmentioned he is a coward. If he exposes a public man he does it to gratify spite, is the tool of cliques, or belongs to the "outs."—If he indulges in personalities he is a blackguard. If he does not his paper is dull and insipid.

A FINE ENGRAVING.—The Canada Presbyterian enters upon the new year with every prospect of attaining the largely increased circulation for which its enterprising publisher is working. The paper deserves the cordial support of members of the Presbyterian church, but that support no doubt could and certainly should be extended. The publisher this year offers a remarkably fine premium to all prepaying subscribers. It is an engraving entitled "God's Word." In this picture is illustrated the parable of the sower, and the distinguished artist's conception is so admirably carried out by the engraver that the publisher is quite justified in saying that he "feels much pleasure, as well as no little pride, in presenting its to our prepaying subscribers, every one of whom is entitled to this valuable engraving." The engraving is not one of the flashy chromos that have become so common, but a chaste work of art that will be appreciated in any Canadian home where it may find its way. The Presbyterian is $2.00 a year; or, in clubs of twenty, $1.50 each.

REV. E. F. HAMMOND, the revivalist, is the guest of John Walton, Esq., during his stay in Peterborough.

I. ROBINSON & Co. are daily receiving additions to their stock of Spring Tweeds and Cloths, and are selling them cheaper than ever.

REMOVED TO PRISON.—The boys, Connors and Laplante, convicted of larceny, have been removed to the Penitentiary. Edmondsey, Patrick Barry has also changed his quarters from Peterborough gaol to Central Prison, Toronto. He will be absent one year at hard labor.

DANGEROUS.—People walking along the street should keep their weather eye open against icicles and chunks of ice falling from the roofs of the buildings; several have had lucky escapes from this species of danger. A young girl in Toronto was struck by a huge icicle as she was passing along the street and almost received her quietus.

COMPLIMENTARY BANQUET.—The friends of Mr. J. Jardine, of the Bank of Toronto, here, entertained that gentleman to a complimentary supper at the Huffman House on Thursday evening last, previous to his leaving for Barrie. W. Clarke, Esq., filled the chair, having on his right the guest of the evening, and on his left Mr. Roper, Manager of the Bank of Toronto. Mr. A. P. Poussette occupied the vice-chair. Mr. J. during his sojourn in Peterborough made many warm friends.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.—A meeting of St. John's Church congregation was held on Tuesday evening of last week to consider the advisability of erecting a new church or restoring the present edifice, which is rapidly becoming unfit for worship. A very large representation was present, and several designs and plans prepared by Mr. J. E. Belcher were laid before the meeting. After careful consideration a plan for restoring the present building at an estimated cost of $10,000 appeared to be in favor, and a committee was appointed to examine the same and report to an adjourned meeting, which is to be held this evening.

LITTERARY.—The fourth meeting of the Peterborough Literary and Debating Society, was held last Monday, in the Law library. A large attendance was present. Several new members were proposed and balloted in. After minor details had been gone through, Mr. W. A. Stratton and J. C. Robertson, read "Orpheus and Eurydice" and "At the Dawn of Itakermann," respectively. A lively debate on the Abolition of the Local Legislature, then took place. Messrs. Henry and Peck, ably supported the affirmative, with whom contending were Messrs. Orr and Hackett. The meeting decided in favor of the affirmative.

SPRINGVILLE CHURCH BURNED.—We regret to learn that the Presbyterian church at Springville, was entirely destroyed by fire on Sunday morning. The church was a brick one, and erected in 1859, with accommodation for some 500 worshippers. The cause is supposed to have been accidental. There was an insurance of $2,000 on the building in the North British and Mercantile Insurance Company, with Mr. Geo. A. Cox. The fire took place about four in the morning, and the church was burned down before any one knew of it. The Rev. W. Bennet, of Peterborough, was the Pastor of the church.

PERSONAL.—We observe in the Indianapolis Daily Sentinel, that Mr. John Moore, formerly of Norwood, but now of New Harmony, Ind, prepared and read an address to the teachers' association of Indiana, at Indianpolis, on advantages and disadvantages of our system of schools as compared with that of Canada. This address although prepared under many disadvantages was well received and has been highly spoken of by leading journals in that part of the United States. Mr. Moore a new citizen in that part and an old Peterborough boy has not fallen below par in a foreign country. He was elected Vice-President of the association.

BRUNTTES.—Are we to have a Skating Carnival this winter?..... The Assessors commence their labors next week..... Anchor ice in the raceways threatened during the early part of the week to close operations in several of the mills and factories along the river..... Considerable complaints are made as to the speed at which vehicles are driven over the iron bridges. The proper authorities should look after this..... The Lecture Committee of the Mechanics' Institute, we learn, are contemplating bringing Prof. Proctor, the celebrated astronomer, here during March, to deliver one of his interesting and popular lectures. They should receive liberal encouragement from the public. ..... The Skating and Curling Rinks are being liberally patronized..... The gentlemen who do such good service with their snow ploughs in several localities of the town, receive the hearty thanks of the citizens.

PEDAL.—The Peterborough Snow Shoe Rangers, every Wednesday evening cast off civilization and their overcoats, and with marauding instincts become veritable tramps. It is pleasant to see the boys start out, wild for freedom and the country air. Some are flat-footed, others cast equal shadows either way, but all are jolly and full of fun. They go straight ahead, single file like a demmnitive band of Pawnee Indians, making no account of fences and other obstacles. Those that can't climb over, can crawl under. Nothing seems to tire them. A bag of apples, like smoke, disappears in less than no time. A five or six mile tramp only makes the boys sleep sounder. Very few captains would be willing to take so much real trouble as their present leader does. Owing to his exertions Mr. Stevenson, of Montreal, has offered a beautiful medal for competition. This will help to brace the energies of some. Almost every member is out on tramp nights.

MUSTARD!

"WHAT SAY YOU TO A PIECE OF BEEF AND MUSTARD?"—Shakespeare.

"TAMING OF THE SHREW."—ACT IV. Scene III.

Suggested as an appropriate topic for discussion at the first meeting of the Literary Class about to be formed for the study of Shakespeare, whose works are proposed to be the subject of study and admiration during the evenings of the present winter.

This quotation from Shakespeare shows that Mustard was in use 300 Years ago.

KEEN'S MUSTARD was first manufactured 126 years after Shakespeare's death.

The popular demand for Cheap Goods together with the active competition amongst manufacturers, has led to a deplorable system of adulteration.

"TRUE 'TIS A PITY, PITY 'TIS: 'TIS TRUE." And the average article of Mustard of the present day would extort from the Bard of Avon the most vigorous condemnation.

KEEN'S MUSTARD, however, would not merit such objurgation. The manufacturers having regard to character and quality rather than cheapness, which generally means impurity and trash.

To those who seek a pure article I can recommend his brand as being unequalled in flavor and pungency.

I have also in stock a very fine assortment of Sauces, Pickles, Table preparations and Preserved Meats. The latter are peculiarly appetizing and must be eaten to be appreciated.

On the same day Mr. Mowat introduced his Judicature Bill, of which some thirty clauses were adopted at a single sitting. The Bill seems to give general satisfaction to the legal members, the only objection taken so far being the request of Mr. Harris and Mr. Meredith to change the proposed name of the amalgamated Courts from Supreme Court to Superior Court. The Bill will wonderfully simplify legal procedure and will result in a large saving to clients generally.

An inspection of the roof of the rickety old structure doing duty for the Legislature was made the other day, the result being that the timbers were found in a very bad state, showing the necessity for proceedure with the proposed new buildings at the earliest moment.

The Government have determined not to exceed the sum agreed upon, $500,000, in constructing new buildings, and the plans are being adapted so as to enable this to be done within the financial limit set.

On Friday Mr. Wood made his Budget speech in a most creditable effort, showing that the Province still retains its excellent financial footing, and pointing to the gratifying fact that the revival of the lumber trade had already effected a very large increase in the revenue of the Province, an increase which promises to be permanent.

Quite an episode occurred subsequently when Mr. McMaster, the clever young member for Glengarry, whose misfortune is that he will persist in trying to be funny and facetious, made an attack on the Government, in which he sought to make out that the surplus was only in existence in imagination, and did not practically exist at all. The Provincial Secretary, who so cruelly "sat upon" the member for Montreal, as he is termed, last year, followed him in a vigorous reply, in which he effectually demolished Mr. McMaster's sophistries, and taking up the humorous mood, fairly made his unfortunate victim writhe in his seat.

The news of Lt.-Governor Letellier's death was received here with grief, though it had been for a long time anticipated.

Conservative members here take the Syndicate deal with wry faces. They admit that it effectually destroys the chances of their party in the next general elections. Some of them appear to entertain the hope that, as some of the Liberal party have promised to repudiate the contract should the Conservatives be beaten in the next elections, the Syndicate people, being interested to the tune of so many millions, will bleed freely in the next contest, as they are already said to have done to get their scheme through the House.

The Trent Valley and Toronto and Ottawa railway schemes are to be discussed in the Railway Committee to-morrow, the result of the conference will be sent you later.

There seems to be a prospect of several railway enterprises pooling their chances, but should this be done it will probably result the same as last year, as the Government will not be forced against their judgment and the interests of the country, by any sort of combination.

NORTH MONAGHAN.

The Council is to meet on the 7th, when the usual official appointments will be made.

We are sorry to have to record the death of Priscilla Payne, eldest daughter of Uriah Payne, Esq. She had been very unwell for several months. Her illness was caused by a cold, taken last August. Her parents are deeply grieved at the great loss they have sustained.

The Presbyterian Church of Springvile, was burned on the evening of the 22 ult. The cause of the fire is unknown. The building was insured.

Mr. J. Huston, who had his leg amputated a few weeks ago, is rapidly regaining strength, and hopes shortly to be able to move round.

Mr. George Tully is having his sale on Thursday, the 3rd, of this month, after which he intends leaving for Iowa. We hope he will not wholly forget his old friends of North Monaghan.

It is rumoured we are to have a wedding before many days, in this vicinity, and anticipating such an important event, we wish the happy couple every joy and hapiness, which Cupid in his march brings along.

WARSAW NEWS.

On Friday evening of last week, after the weekly Bible class meeting, the Parsonage at Warsaw, was besieged by kind friends, and the Pastor, the Rev. C. W. Watch, was presented with a beautiful Buffalo coat, robe and gloves, accompanied with the following address:—

To the REV. MR. WATCH,
Dear Pastor.

We the members and friends of the Methodist Church, of Warsaw, beg herewith to present you with a Coat, Gloves and Robe, as a small token of our esteem. As Pastor, your labour amongst us has evidently been one of love, your every act, and word, has had a zealous intention to promote the Master's work. Your great humanity to the outcast little orphan children, who have, as it were, been cast on the cold charities of the world, specially merited our admiration and approval. With kindest regards to Mrs. Watch and Baby, we implore the blessing of the Divine Master, on your every effort, both temporal and spiritual.

Dr. Massie, has taken up his residence in Norwood. Dr. O'Gorman has gone back permanently to Hastings.

Peterborough Presbytery.

THE HAULTAIN-BELL CONTROVERSY—GENERAL BUSINESS.

The adjourned meeting of the Peterboro' Presbytery took place at St. Paul's church on Monday evening last, the Moderator, Rev. Mr. Beattie in the chair, Rev. Mr. Bennett, Clerk, and a full attendance of ministers and elders. As it had been announced that the controversy between Col. Haultain and Rev. Mr. Bell would be up for adjudication, the church was thronged with visitors both in the gallery and body of the church, half an hour before the time appointed for the meeting, which opened at 7:30 o'clock.

The Moderator opened proceedings with prayer, the reading of a portion of the Word, and the singing of a paraphrase.

Col. Haultain then said he rose to a question of privilege. He had seen in a report of the last meeting of the Presbytery that grave and serious reflections had been made upon himself by Mr. Carnegie.

The Moderator said Col. Haultain, could bring any matter up afterwards, and proceeded to have the roll called. He then enquired what was the first order of business.

Mr. Bell said the charges of Col. Haultain were first in order.

Rev. Mr. Torrance had no recollection of any such resolution.

Mr. Windell moved that the minutes of last meeting be read.

Mr. Beattie read from the church law showing that very often when matters had been fully decided it was found not expedient or necessary that they should appear in the minutes. As this was an unfinished matter he contended that it could not be considered as in the minutes.

The motion for reading the minutes was lost.

The Clerk said their was no motion in the minutes of last meeting making this the first order of proceeding.

Col. Haultain said this was a pending question. Some had spoken and some had not, giving one side of the question an advantage.

Rev. Mr. Cleland said that the charge of Col. Haultain, had at the last meeting simply been dropped to allow the charges to be properly formulated, and other business in the meantime gone on with. It was taken up again, and ought to be proceeded with until disposed of.

Rev. Mr. Ballantyne said they should pause before they proceeded further with this matter in open Court. He would move that in the interest of religion, the peace of the churches, and looking to the future that no further proceedings be taken till an effort had been made to bring about an amicable solution.

Rev. Mr. Beattie, of Baltimore, said that motion would be better further on. He would move to hear the charges against Col. Haultain.

Rev. Mr. Torrance asked if it would be fair not to give Col. Haultain an opportunity of making his explanations.

Rev. Mr. Ballantyne then moved a his resolution, with a preamble refearing to unseemly dissensions and expressing itself in favor of an amicable solution.

Col. Haultain said he should be sorry to see it passed with the preamble in its present shape. It cast a reflection on all parties which was not just. He denied that there had been any unseemly conduct on the part of the church with which he was connected, it's minister, elders or officers.

Rev. Mr. Cameron thought there were only two parties in the case, the accuser and the accused, and the motion could only affect them.

Rev. Mr. Ewing said the matter had been prominently before the public, and it was necessary that they should enquire into and dispose of it.

On understanding from the Clerk that his motion could not be held to cover both the cases of St. Andrew's session resolutions and that of Col. Haultain, Mr. Ballantyne expressed his willingness to alter the preamble of his motion.

Rev. Mr. Bell said they were getting a little out of order. St. Andrew's memorial had only been taken up in the interval, while time was allowed to have Col. Haultain's charges properly formulated. Then it was dropped and the latter gone on with till the adjournment.

Rev. Mr. Beattie moved that the Presbytery appoint a committee to have interview with Rev. Mr. Bell and Col. Haultain to endeavour to bring about an amicable understanding.

Mr. Carnegie said he would have pleasure in seconding the motion. It was just the proper thing. It would be better to take one thing at a time.

Rev. Mr. Bell asked when the Committee would meet?

The Clerk said at once.

Rev. Mr. Cameron then drew attention to a rule of the church in reference to cases where charges were tabled against a minister. They should be proceeded with by a private enquiry, by a committee of three, to enquire into the merits of the case.

The motion was carried, and the Moderator appointed the following as a committee: Ministers—Rev. Messrs. Beattie, Ballantyne, Cleland, Smith and Dunkin. Elders—Messrs Williamson, Orr, and Casement.

Rev. Mr. Bell asked if this committee was for precognition or reconciliation.

Rev. Mr. Beattie said this matter had already been precognised, and this committee was for friendly conciliation.

After some further discussion, in which the Moderator thought it quite clear that the work of this Committee would cover the whole case, the committee retired.

Mr. Haultain asked if his question of privilege would be taken up, but it was decided to proceed with other business.

Rev. Mr. Bell said at the previous meeting he had asked for a judicial investigation of the whole matter, independently of St. Andrew's memorial, and on ascertaining that it was not inserted in the minutes, asked under the rules of the church that it be inserted in the docket.

Col. Haultain said at the last meeting Rev. Mr. Bell had uttered a charge against him. The rules of the church required charges to be properly formulated and lists of witnesses furnished. He had reconciled no notice whatever, and the first thing he saw of it was in a report in a public print.

Rev. Mr. Bell asked if he would be good enough to point out in the minutes where any charge had been formulated.

The Clerk said he could only state that any charge when properly formulated would appear in the docket.

Col. Haultain asked if that was not the proper way for any charge to be formulated. Yet he had been, according to report, charged with falsehood, and had received no notice nor any intimation whatever of the nature of the charge, so that he could meet it in the proper place, and in the proper way.

Mr. Carnegie said he was glad to hear Col. Haultain ask the question. He had himself made charges three months ago which had become town talk, and yet Rev. Mr. Bell had received no notice, and it was only at the last meeting of the Presbytery that he had been compelled by requirement of the Court to formulate these charges.

Col. Haultain said if Mr. Carnegie meant what his words implied he would ask to have his words taken down. What he may have done as a private citizen was a very different thing to standing up and making a charge as a member of this Court.

Rev. Mr. Bell claimed that Col. Haultain was only drawing attention to his own conduct.

Col. Haultain said it was a question of privilege, and he had a right to know what the charges were which had been made.

After some discussion of ordinary Presbytery matters, of which a report will be given next week, Col. Haultain's presence was requested by the Committee.

At 10.20 the Moderator announced that there was no hope of the Special Committee arriving at a conclusion that evening, and the witnesses were allowed to go.

On motion of Mr. Torrance, it was resolved that when the Presbytery adjourn it stand adjourned till 9 a.m. to-morrow morning.

On Tuesday morning the Presbytery again met and proceeded with ordinary business.

After some time, several gentlemen having been sent for by the Committee,

Mr. Carnegie said the Committee were going beyond their powers in examining witnesses. The Presbytery had a right to know what they were doing.

The Clerk said the Committee were endeavoring to get at an amicable settlement, and were doubtless doing their best to that end.

Rev. Mr. Bell said they had no right to call witnesses.

Mr. Carnegie said the Committee should be called in for a report.

After some more Presbytery business, Rev. Mr. Cameron said as there was no more business and the members wanted to go home, he moved that a messenger be sent to the Committee, requesting them to send in a report.

His motion was carried and the Moderator appointed him a messenger for that purpose. Returning, he said the Committee had no report yet, but would have one shortly.

After some further business, Mr. Carnegie said it was now ten minutes to eleven o'clock and they seemed to be as near a report of the Committee as when they began. He moved that all the members of the Presbytery be added to the Committee.

Rev. Mr. Beatty, of Port Hope, said the members who knew anything of the case should not expect to be through with it in such a hurry, and he should not be surprised if it took them till to-morrow.

Mr. Windel thought if they had gone about this matter in a Godly and Christian spirit they might have been through before now. He seconded Mr. Crrnegie's resolution.

Rev. Mr. Torrance moved in amendment that Mr. Windel be a messenger to the Committee to urge them to report as speedily as possible.

The amendment was carried.

Mr. Windel returned with the information that it was "just the same thing again,"—the Committee expected to report soon, and would report as soon as possible.

Shortly afterwards the Committee returned into Court, and on a motion that they be heard

Rev. F. R. Beattie, Convener, said:—"I feel that the Committee owe the Court an apology for detaining them so long. I am glad to be able to state that we feel that we have had the Master's presence with us, and that all along we have been convinced that we have been on the right track. This is the apology which we have to offer for the delay, and I have now the pleasure of presenting the following report of the Committee:"

Your committee, having taken into consideration the difficulty between Col. Haultain, and Rev. Alex. Bell, as instructed by the Presbytery, are glad to report:

That after explanations, the parties have agreed to a mutual withdrawal of the letters in the case, and the matter has terminated amicably, honorably to the parties, and to the glory of God.

He moved the reception and adoption of the report.

Mr. Carnegie said he was willing to second the reception of the report, but not its final adoption. They should have time for consideration of its wording before its adoption.

The motion for reception and consideration was accordingly carried.

Mr. Bennett, seconded by Mr. Torrance moved the immediate consideration of the report.

Col. Haultain moved, seconded by Mr. Carnegie, that it be considered at the next Sederunt.

The latter motion was carried by a majority of one.

The Moderator then discharged the witnesses till 1.30 p. m.

On a question as to whether there was any other business to be concluded before adjourning, Mr. Cameron drew attention to the Memorial from St. Andrew's Church.

A Presbyter thought that was among the matters settled by the report of the committee.

Rev. Mr. Bell said it must be understood that the report included only the settlement of the personal question between himself and Col. Haultain. It could not effect the Memorial of the St. Andrew's Session.

Rev. Mr. Cameron drew attention to the fact that the report mentioned simply letters and did not include the charges.

Rev. Mr. Torrance said of course the report would cover all the charges.

Rev. Mr. Beattie said the Committee had carefully avoided the use of the word charges.

Rev. Mr. Bell said if the report did not include the charges, he would not consent to it.

The matter was deferred to the afternoon session, when the Presbytery met again and after some discussion, and several amendments, the following amended report was accepted by the Presbytery.

Moved by Rev. Mr. Cameron, seconded by Rev. Mr. Beattie,—That the report be amended to read as follows: "That your Committee, as instructed by the Presbytery, having taken into careful consideration the difficulty between Col. Haultain and Rev. Alex. Bell, are glad to report that after explanations the parties have agreed to a withdrawal of the correspondence in the case; Col. Haultain having simultaneously withdrawn the charges, the matter terminates amicably.

Peterborough Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, FEBR'Y 3, 1881.

A Parliamentary Nuisance.

If the member for Niagara, Mr. Plumb, have any friends, they will do that gentleman good service, if they can induce him to have a little regard for himself, and to remember that a member of Parliament is supposed to have some respect for the common rules of decency and propriety. Since Mr. Plumb first entered Parliament he has apparently made it his highest ambition to achieve the reputation of buffoon of the House. During the Parliament from 1874 to 1878, he fairly achieved that reputation, making himself conspicuous by silly speeches ranging from three to four hours in length, and by interjecting ridiculous remarks, which some of his friends of whom he was the unconscious butt made him believe was wit, during the speeches of Liberal members. Since the change in the House, by which the party of which Mr. Plumb is such a prominent member, became a majority, that gentleman has continued those habits which made him always a nuisance in the House, but, in a more aggravated, impertinent and offensive manner. He seems to consider it his duty, to interrapt and insult the leading members of the Opposition on every opportunity, and the more prominent the speaker, the more offensive he makes his interjections. He has devoted himself particularly to Mr. Blake, and, although that gentleman has several times, had the Speaker call the offending member to order, Mr. Plumb seems to be too thick-skinned, or too thick-headed, to know when he is disgraced in the House, and what would humiliate and mortify men of self-respect, is taken by him as a recognition of his position as the mountebank of the House. The other day, he excelled himself during an able and earnest address by Mr. Glen, the member for South Ontario, and though time after time rebuked by the Speaker, persisted in his disgraceful misconduct. It is a good indication of the degree of responsibility felt by the majority of the Tory party, in dealing with the great question under consideration, that they joined Plumb in his levity, and applauded conduct which would have been properly punished by placing the member for Niagara under charge of the Sergeant-at-Arms. Mr. Plumb, is most decidedly a Parliamentary nuisance, and ought to be suppressed by the application of the rules of the House.

A GOOD CURLING STORY

A laird of Strathaven who owned a quarry, and who was reported to be worth "a gay twa-thee bawbees beside," was playing one day, and his foreman, whose name was Lawrence, was playing with him on the same side. The laird was very auxious he should play a certain shot, and he cried out in this fashion :—"Noo, Jock Lawrence, d'ye see whaur my broom is? Lay you stane doon there, and, as sure as death, I'll gie ye my dochter Jean if ye do." Birr rushed the stone out of Jock's hand, and went trintling along to the spot where the laird wished it. "Capital, Jock, capital! Ye couldna done better, and ye can get Jean the morn if ye want her." "Ye may gie me something else than Jean Laird, I hae got her already. We were married sax weeks ago, an' we've been thinking o' askin' your blessing ever since but something aye come in the way." The laird was dumbfounded when he heard this but compromised matters by saying, "Aweel, aweel, Jock, I'll let by-ganes be by-ganes. A man that could lay doun sit a pat-lid like is worthy o' the best and bonniest lass in Lanarkshire; keep her an' welcome, an' ye'll mavbe get the matter o' sax hunder wi' her. Keep her, Jock, an ' if ye hae ony laddy weans atween ye, bring them up in the fear o' the Lord an' be ye sure ye dinna' forget to mak' guid curlers o' them."

The Hammond Meetings.

WEDNESDAY.

All the meetings to-day, were held in St. Paul's church. The morning service for prayer and conference was fairly attended, and proved to be one of interest and profit. Several requests for prayer for a special object were made, and suitable prayers offered, invoking God's aid and blessing.

A few texts encouraging backsliders to return to God were announced, and brief addresses given by several gentlemen present in connection therewith.

A prayer and praise meeting followed, when prayers were offered and praises rendered, each for a single thing.

In the afternoon the body of the Church was well filled with children, scattered among whom were quite a number of adult Christians, while in the gallery, not a few persons were assembled.

In the evening the church was filled with an attentive audience. After singing and prayer Mr. Hammond preached from Acts 16, 31, "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shalt be saved."

Having briefly referred to the circumstances under which the text was uttered, the preacher said the question asked by the Philippian gaoler, "What must I do to be saved?" to which the text furnished a reply, was the most important ever asked by man. Intellectual faith and saving faith are not one and the same. A man may believe that he is a sinner, that he is lost, that Christ is able and willing to save, and yet he may not trust in Jesus for salvation. This is simply intellectual faith. In addition to this, there must be a proper use of the means of salvation provided.

The text does not say that in order to be saved you must weep so much, you must feel so much; only "believe in the Lord Jesus Christ." If you don't feel, that should alarm you. You live on God's bounty, you trample on his laws, you helped to crucify the Lord of Glory and yet you have no faith on the subject.

IN THE ENQUIRY MEETING

that followed, it was manifested that many were troubled on account of their sins, and some received saving faith in Christ.

THURSDAY.

The morning meeting was held in the Baptist Church, Alymer St. The Church was filled with an attentive audience. Rev. Mr. Edmison, of Plainville, was present for the first time. Mr. Hammond spoke for a short time upon the "Power of Prayer".

Remarks were made by Rev's. Torrance, Edmison, Stobo and Mr. Stratton as to the best way in which to deal with those who, when asked to become Christians, pleaded as an excuse, the inconsistencies of professors of religion. Several requests for prayer were read after which a Praise Meeting was held. Mr. Mason praised God because that yesterday he believed his little girl was soundly converted to God. Rev. Mr. Fletcher said he believed in the conversion of children, and a meeting of great interest was brought to a close by Mr. and Mrs. Hammond singing "On the Cross my Saviour died."

THE AFTERNOON Meeting was held in the George St. Church. The little folks, filled the body of the church.

The evening meeting was held in the same place. The usual service of song was held from 7 to 7.30. Rev. W. H. Laird, from Port Hope, was upon the platform, and briefly addressed the audience. Rev. Mr. Blatchford had the conduct of the meeting. Mr. Hammond's remarks were founded upon the story of "Naaman, the Leper." First, his leprosy; secondly, his effort to be cured; thirdly, his displeasure at the condition of cure; and fourthly, the suddenness and completeness of the cure when he complied with the condition. This Mr. Hammond applied to the unsaved, and further showed that whereas many expected that they had some "great thing" to do, yet Christ had, for them, done the one great thing, and all the sinner had to do was to lean upon him for salvation. At the close of his Sermon, he asked all those who could honestly say that for a long time they had loved Christ, loved christians, loved to pray, loved their Bible, and loved christian work, to rise to their feet, and a large number of christians all over the house stood up. "Now," said Mr. Hammond, "all these young or old, who have been lately converted or want to become christians, stand up." And with few exceptions, the whole audience rose en masse. The Choir sang and the Enquiry Meeting began, hundreds remaining behind.

FRIDAY'S MEETINGS.

The morning service was held in the Baptist Church, which was comfortably filled with an audience evidently in sympathy with the Evangelistic movement, now in progress in this town.

Mr. Hammond read letters written by children, and calculated to show that God hears and answers the prayers of the little ones, and makes them useful in bringing others to the Saviour.

After prayers by the Rev. Mr. Ratcliffe, and Mr. Hammond, the latter gave an address on the "Conditions of Prevailing Prayer." He said that in order to secure success in this work of saving souls, we must be much given to prayer.

Several brief prayers were then offered, each containing a single petition.

Rev. Mr. Jeffrey, of Cobourg, followed with a short and stirring address, in which he remarked that if the Christians in Peterborough would unite in earnest prayer, they would command an influence sufficiently great to empty every saloon in the town,

After singing one of the "Gospel Hymns," the Praise Meeting began.

A lady thanked God that she had been blessed since these meetings began.

A gentleman thanked the Lord that he gave his heart to God last night, and asked prayer for his father, who was a Roman Catholic.

His wife praised God for the forgiveness of her sins the previous evening.

A christian mother thanked God for the conversion of her youngest daughter, and about twenty others with whom she had spoken in the enquiry meetings.

Rev. Mr. Jeffrey thanked God that he came to Peterborough, and heard all these children praying yesterday afternoon.

Space forbids the mention of many others, who had something important to thank God for.

Requests for prayer were then made. Let me mention just a few :—

A young lady who has lately given her heart to God, asks prayer that she may be kept faithful.

A young christian requests prayer for his unsaved father.

A child for a drunken parent.

A sister for a dissipated brother.

After singing and a short enquiry meeting, a blessed service was brought to a close.

In ahe afternoon the last children's meeting for last week was held in the George Street Methodist Church, and was well attended.

Mr. Hammond in his addres sexplained to the children what a new heart is :—

And then told them that those who gave evidence of a change of heart would be allowed to sign covenant cards. In all some 273 applied for, and received cards.

The evening service was held in the same church, and judging from the number present, there is no abatement of interest in the good work that is going on.

After singing and prayer, Mr. Torrance read a letter from Rev. Mr. Bruce, of St. Catharines, which states that the Christians were more united, as a result of the meetings held there by Mr. Hammond a year ago.

Dr. Harper followed, with an address on how to deal with awakened sinners.

Mr. Hammond took for his text Phil. 1, 22. "For me to live is Christ, and to die is gain." "Our future condition," said he, "is not determined by arbitrary laws, but by character, by fitness."

SATURDAY.

There was but one service, it was held in the Baptist church, and commenced at 9:30. By ten o'clock the church was filled to over-flowing with children and grown people. Mr. Hammond talked to the children during the first hour, and then the little folks retired. Meantime the vestry had been filled. When the children had been dismissed those in the vestry took their, places, and the services were continued.

A short prayer meeting was held, those who took part being requested each to think of some one particular blessing, and in a few simple words to ask directly for it. A number responded to the invitation.

Upon Mr. Hammond asking the young converts to stand up, a large number rose to their feet, and prayer was offered that they might be kept faithful.

Gen. Haultain spoke forcibly and feelingly upon the conversion of children. He said that at first he was doubtful as to the effects of the meetings upon the young hearts, some with whom he had talked having said so thoughtlessly that "they loved Jesus." But he said he had changed his mind now, for when he got down "among the slain" and felt them grasp his hand, and heard them say with tear-dimmed eye they did love Jesus, he could not but believe that they were in earnest, and had found the Saviour.

A Praise Meeting was then held, and a large number of both sexes testified that their sins were pardoned, others with tears in their eyes, asked for prayer in their behalf.

SUNDAY.

Services were held in all the churches as usual, in the morning. The Sabbath Schools next at two o'clock. At 3.30 a children's meeting had been announced for the George-street Church, and before that hour the church was crowded to its utmost capacity. Mr. Hammond talked to the little folks about four little things that are not little things, viz: "A little soul, a little sin, a little prayer and a little turning point; and urged upon all present the importance of deciding for Christ—making the turning point. A large number remained to the enquiry meeting, and many signed the Covenant.

About ten o'clock the enquiry meeting was commenced, hundreds remained, and it wasnot until Mr. Hammond at 11:15 begged every one togo home that the church was cleared.

The evening meeting was announced for 7 o'clock. By half-past six the George-street Church was comfortably filled, and by the time Mr. Hammond arrived there was scarcely tanding room. Many went over to St. Paul's, where an over-flowing meeting was held, conducted by the Rev. E. F. Torrance, assisted by the Revs. Roberts, Blatchford and Starr.

MONDAY.

There were about three hundred and fifty persons present at the Prayer and Praise meeting in the Baptist church, this morning.

Besides the Rev. E. P. Hammond, the following ministers were in attendance :—Dr. Harper, Roberts, Torrance, Stobo, Starr, Blatchford, Beattie, of Port Hope, Harper, of Keene, Muxworthy, of Lakefield, and Hoskin, of Cartwright.

As one of the ministers said, this is a peculiar Monday in Peterborough. It is manifest that a deep interest has been awakened, when a church can be filled at 10 o'clock on Monday morning.

After singing, Mr. Hammond read a few verses of scripture, and offered a few appropriate remarks.

Then came nine prayers in about five minutes.

Several passages of scripture were referred to, which gave encouragement to those who feel that they are too great sinners to be forgiven, to come to Christ.

In speaking of the unpardonable sin, Mr. Hammond said, "There is a time we know not when, a place we know not where," beyond which if a man go he is lost forever. But, he believed that, as a general thing, when men have committed the unpardonable sin, they are past feeling.

With regard to the question of receiving children into the church, Mr. Roberts stated that Spurgeon said, "I have often felt sorry for receiving old sinners into the church, but never yet was I sorry for receiving a young one."

Some very interesting and encouraging reports of past meetings were given by a number of the ministers present. Two of them could rejoice that nearly all if not all the members of their bible classes were either seeking or had found the Saviour. One, of many years experience, said that if ever he had seen a work of grace in his life, he had seen it since Mr. Hammond had come to Peterboro'.

Assuredly this is a harvest time of the Holy Spirit in this town and vicinity. Christians work and pray.

THE AFTERNOON

meeting was held in the George-street Church—a large number of children were present.

Rev. Cecil Harper, from Keene, addressed the little folks, and told them that eighteen years ago, at one of Mr. Hammond's meetings in Montreal, he commenced to serve Christ.

AT NIGHT

the church was crowded—many having come from 6 to 15 miles—with an attentive audience. Mr. Hammond's subject was, "The recognition of friends in Heaven."

Hundreds remained to the inquiry meeting, but the lack of Christian workers was lamentable. How Christians can see people anxious about their souls and not speak to them is a mystery. Last night there were scores present who were desirous of becoming Christians and there was no one ready to take them by the hand.

Christians! The ministers cannot do the work. It is altogether too great. You must help. Go at it. Work somehow—somewhere!

REPLY TO "JUSTICE."

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:

DEAR SIR,—I received the copy of the EXAMINER which you were good enough to send me, and note the letter of "Justice" anent the action of the Presbytery of Peterborough, and since there is no daily edition of your paper, I must ask you to allow me to reply through the columns of the Review. I feel that an unfair attack has been made not only upon Messrs. Bell and Carnegie and the Presbytery generally, but also upon myself, although unnamed.

It is quite true that Mr. Bell received a postal card from Mr. Torrance on Monday requesting him to find accommodation for some of the Presbytery, and he not for a moment having such a low opinion of them as "Justice" seems to have, invited three of them to his own house, of whom I was one, my invitation being a standing one as well as special. How this was likely to influence their view of the case I fail to see. I had the honor of dining on the second day with a member of St. Paul's, who had been specially active on Col. Haultain's side; Mr. Torrance, the Moderator, and another member of the Presbytery being also guests. The whole case was very fully discussed there, Col. Haultain's properly formulated charges—a document then not yet handed into court—was read, and certainly it was no fault of our hosts if all present were not convinced of the impropriety of Mr. Bell's conduct. This may have been blameable, but was not unnatural, for I suppose this topic was the uppermost one, wherever members of the Presbytery were quartered. I do not think it was possible that it could have been otherwise.

As I cannot possibly be present at the next meeting, and so am, so far as these cases are concerned, not on the jury, it may be no breach of propriety for me to explain the action of the Presbytery, especially as I have better knowledge than most members regarding some of the points mentioned by "Justice."

1. The session of St. Paul's appointed two of their members to support a so-called "memorial," but as this document simply narrated certain circumstances, without asking the Presbytery to do anything, it was wholly informal, and might have been remitted to St. Paul's session unread. The Presbytery, however, did not do this. The utmost consideration and respect was shown towards the session, and the document was simply laid on the table until the papers to which it referred, and on which it was based, were read. When these come up next week the commissioners will be heard.

2. Col. Haultain sent in a number of documents to the Presbytery, and as is usual in such cases, they were remitted to a committee to ascertain whether they were in proper form or not. That committee reported that there were charges made against Mr. Bell, but "not properly formulated." As convenor of the committee I may say that one reason for this report was that in his letter Col. Haultain charged Mr. Bell not only with discourteous language, but that his language was unsupported by facts, although he stated that this was not made a formal charge, yet he argued at considerable length to prove Mr. Bell guilty of misstatements, and had the document been r d in open court, either Col. Haultain ould have been compelled to formulate a charge of falsehood against Mr. Bell, or, he himself would have been guilty of publishing a fama and so chargeable by Mr. Bell with slander. The wisdom of our report is vindicated by Col. Haultain himself, who in his finally formulated charges, wholly withdraws this portion of his first letter. It was when he observed this that Mr. Bell entered a charge against Col. Haultain, so that he might have an opportunity of vindicating himself what has been all through the most prominent and offensive accusation in the mouths of the public—that of deliberate falsehood.

A tyro in such matters would know that no document can be spoken to till it is formally before the Court, and so Col. Haultain's representative could not be called upon to speak till his documents were in proper shape. The papers were sent back to Col. Haultain to be correctly drawn up, and after a great deal of unnecessary delay they came back correct in form, but with no names of witnesses attached. Had the Presbytery now read the charges and call on Mr. Bell to plead, Col. Haultain would have been precluded from calling any witnesses, but so anxious were the Presbytery (and I am bound in fairness to add Mr. Bell and Mr. Carnegie also) that no undue advantage should be taken of what might have been a mere oversight, that the documents were again sent to Col. Haultain with the request that if he wished to call witnesses he would endorse their names upon the charges. Here again vexatious delays occurred which led some of us to think that the Colonel was acting under very injudicious advice from somebody. I think the friends of Col. Haultain should thank the Presbytery for their forbearance in not reading his papers sooner and hearing his representative, for had they done so not one of the twenty-four witnesses the Colonel asked the Presbytery to summon could have been cited.

3. "Justice" insinuates that the order in which the charges were taken up was invidious to Colonel Haultain, but the first document read was the "memorial" from St. Paul's Session; the second was Col. Haultain's charges, and only in the intervals of delay, for which Col. Haultain and his advisers were responsible, was the memorial from St. Andrew's Session considered.

4. The memorial from St. Andrew's Session did not violate any rule of procedure, for it made no charges against St. Paul's Session, nor did it even presume to complain of what they were supposed to have done, so far as I recollect, for I have not a copy at hand. It simply narrated facts, stating that there was a difference of opinion of so grave a character that a scandal had arisen, and loyally laying the case before the Presbytery, prepared to bow to its decision, if that court should judge that they had erred.

5. As it was my motion that was carried both in Committee and in Presbytery, I ought to know whether the Presbytery "were about to pass a motion acquitting both Sessions of any blame," and I am certain that no such motion would have had the slightest chance of passing at that stage. Mr. Carnegie's suggestion, which "Justice" courteously and elegantly says was "foisted into the motion" by Mr. Carnegie's "usual over-bearing ascendancy over the Presbytery," (i.e., over myself in this case), did not in the slightest alter the tenor of the motion as at first proposed. It simply made its meaning, as I intended it, a little more definite. It was carried nem. con. at both votes.

I have merely sought to vindicate myself and the Presbytery from the charge of partiality and injustice. Were such an article to appear in reference to a case sub judice in any of our civil courts both yourself and "Justice" would probably find yourselves placed for a time in the custody of Sheriff Hall. I do not suggest that probable impunity, and the freedom of anonymity encouraged the gentleman who misnames himself "Justice" to make such an unfair attack. The immorality of his act is, however, the same, and I need not characterize its discourtesy. The only fault I find with the action of the Presbytery was that they to frequently allowed persons not not members of the Court to address it—a fault which I am pretty sure will not be repeated next week.

Yours, &c.,
T. N. FOTHERINGHAM.

HARWOOD,

(From our own Correspondent.)

Idyl Wild is not, so far, winter-killed.

No horses have been drowned in the Lake this year yet.

Roseneath and Fenella have each had little matrimonial transactions during the past holidays.

A very fine specimen of pork, fed by Mr. N. Doidge, of Alnwick, was sold on the Peterboro market on Saturday. It turned the scale at 542 lbs.

Rice Lake is extra safe this winter for driving on but you must make your own track every time, as it soon fills with the loose snow.

The members of the Presbyterian church of Bethesda and Alnwick have instituted a call to Rev. Mr. Ross, who graduated last year.

The Reeve and Councillors of Alnwick are placed in office this year without any election. Reeve—Mr. Wm. Brisbin; Councillors—Messrs. Doidge, Wier, Gregg Masterson.

The Trustees of S. S. No. 4 Alnwick, have put in force this year their authority regarding the Compulsory Act, thereby nipping quite a number of the careless. The Inspector has also declined to accept the supplementary reports of trustees, who have not attended to the same.

ACCIDENT.—While Mr. Dean Boyd was engaged threshing clover at Mr. Cruikshank's near Plainville, he had his right hand mashed in the gear of the machine, about two o'clock, on Monday 17th; Drs. Bennett, of Cobourg, and Greer, of Cold Springs, were soon in attendance, and the limb, which had the appearance of a bundle of greasy rags, was amputated near the elbow. Dr. Waters was also called but the wound was dressed before his arrival. Mr. Boyd, whose circumstances required all his time, has the sympathy of his neighbors and others, which was shown a few days ago when nearly 40 teams turned out to haul wood for him.

ENNISMORE.

(From our own Correspondent)

COUNCIL MEETING.—The Council elect met at the Town Hall, on the 17th instant, and after the members had taken the oaths of office, J. McCarthy, Reeve, took the chair and called the meeting to order. After appointing John Crough, as township Clerk, and Maurice Galvin, as township Treasurer, each at a salary of $30.00, orders were drawn on the Treasurer for $2 for each of the Councillors and Reeve for one day in Council. The Council then adjourned till the next morning at 10 o'clock, when votes of thanks were passed to Thomas Telford and Francis Moloney, late Clerk and Treasurer, for their long and faithful services in their respective offices. Phillip Crough, was appointed Collector, to be paid two per cent; Thos. Conners and Michael Collins, were appointed auditors at a salary of $4.00 each; Richard Cosgrieff, was appointed Assessor, at a salary of $15. The following were appointed Pound Keepers for the current year:—Wm. Geary, John Tellford, Wm. Cummings and Thos. Collins. A by-law confirming the above appointments, was then duly passed and the corporation seal attached thereto. An order in favor of W. H. Robertson, for $20; and also one for $2, each for the Reeve and Councillors, for one day in Council, were then drawn, after which the Council adjourned until called together by the Reeve.

EXTRAORDINARY SCENE.

A terrible scene took place at a suprise party in Adelaide township a few nights ago. A number of young people called at the residence of Mr. John Hannah, who was about to remove to Petrolia, to celebrate the occasion. Two of the young men became rivals for the attentions of a young lady. She treated them equally and affairs went on all right until one of the young men began to sing a song. In the midst of his singing he noticed that the young lady was chatting with his rival. He suddenly stopped, grew deathly pale, and, rushing across the room, raised a chair and broke it over the head of his hated opponent. A free fight ensued, in the course of which the furniture was nearly all broken in pieces, and in endeavoring to restore order and eject the rioters the host, Mr. Hannah, had his leg broken.

THE SNOW BY-LAW.

A correspondent in an exchange says: If a sidewalk is broken and a person injure himself thereby, is the owner of the property opposite such broken sidewalk responsible for damages or the corporation? Certainly the corporation. So with snow and ice—it is the duty of the corporation to remove it. If a storekeeper places any obstruction on a sidewalk then he is bound to remove it or submit to the consequences. The corporation tax property owners enough, goodness knows, and it is their bounden duty to see the property owners do not suffer either by fines or other penalties for the neglect of duty by those employed by themselves, viz., the corporation. The sidewalks of the city do not belong to any individual, and no person has a right to destroy or or take up boards for kindling wood, and yet the corporation by their act of imposing fines indirectly says the sidewalk is the property of an individual, and it is his duty to take care of it. In England, all all dirt, snow, slush, etc. must be cleaned off the pavements by scavengers employed and in the pay of the corporation. A shopkeeper sweeping his store, or a servant cleaning a hall and sweeping the contents on to the pavements must afterwards sweep the same out on the roadway, and this must be done before the hour of 10 a. m. It is then the duty of the scavengers to finish the work. A question of law arises whether the whether the fine can be legally collected, and in the case of imprisonment, if damages could not be claimed by the aggrieved party from each individual of the corporation, and not the corporation as a body, and further, that the funds of the corportion could not be used to defend the case?

In the first terrible winter spent by the Pilgrims at Plymouth, Massachusetts, the seeds of pulmonary diseases were planted, and took deep root in families which became the progenitors of thousands of the American people. The prevalence of consumption, thus early doveloped, directed the attention of the most eminent physicans and scientific men to an investigation of its cause and the means of prevention and cure. The best results of professional studies on this subject are combined in Dr. J. C. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which is now recognized as the world's remedy for coughs, colds, consumption and other diseases of the throat and lungs. We believe it to be absolutely certain in its remedial effect. It is a safe pleasant and reliable remedy, and if kept on hand in every household, will prove, in many cases of colds, cough, &c., a means of preventing more serious results. —Richmond, Va., Religious Herald.

Peterborough Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, FEBR'Y 3, 1881.

Local Municipal Debt.

A very important piece of statistical information was laid before the House by Mr. Wood in his Budget speech. Mr. Wood referred to the cry for economy which had been sought to be raised, without any reasonable groundwork of existing extravagance, the expenditures having not varied in ten years more than $200,000, and in the face of a surplus to the credit of the country of four and a half millions, and that after distributing several millions of money for the construction of public enterprises throughout the country. Mr. Wood showed, that in the municipalities themselves, where they had complete control over their own affairs, annual elections and direct taxation, the debt of the municipalities of the Province as represented by debentures, has already reached the sum of $22,557,984, or an average of $14 per head of the whole population. The money represented by this debt, was principally expended as follows:

Roads and Bridges	$1,861 700
Railway Aid	8,427 362
Public Buildings	1,044 206
School Houses	1 497 616
Drainage and Sewerage	2,036 133
Water-works and Fire Apparatus	4,792 720
Aid to Manufacturers	202 350
Agricultural Societies and Grounds	39 200

There are against these liabilities assets available to the amount of $5,531,189, so that the net amount of municipal indebtedness is something over $17,000,000. The total assessment, however, reaches $1,200,000,000, and of this only $500,000,000 is liable for the bonded debt. But the rate of taxation on the average is very low, and the taxes are not found to be burdensome on the whole, save in isolated cases where extravagance has been the ruling characteristic of the municipalities, or where in new sections the people have taxed themselves for improvements beyond their reasonable capacity. In 1879, the taxes collected by municipalities amounted to no less than $7,872,461, and from this amount $993,361 was paid for the expenses of municipal government, and $148,736 for charities. These figures show that it is to the municipalities that the attention of economy pr. chers should be directed, as their revenue is directly collected in cash from the people. The revenue of the Provincial Government, arising from investments, crown timber dues, and other sources, does not bear directly upon the earnings of the people, which are encroached upon, firstly by the municipal arrangement, with its direct taxation, and secondly by the indirect taxation of the tariff, which adds to the cost of every thing entering into common use and consumption. The public will therefore do well to turn their attention to the municipal machinery, which takes out of their earnings every year nearly $8,000,000 in cash, with a view to ascertain if, by simplification of the machinery, and by lessening the number of members of Councils, or Councils themselves, an economy might not be effected which would be worth millions to the Province. A reduction of 50 per cent. in municipal expenses would save $4,000,000. Those who think economy ought to be got at by reducing the number of the people's Parliamentary representatives, which at the best could only save some $26,000 a year, should direct their attention to the larger economy, the easiest to enforce, and by all odds the best. Mr. Wood will have done good service by having this information prepared, if it has the effect of bringing about a reduction in the cost of managing the Provincial affairs.

Owing to a telegram received from Mayor Smith, the Clerk called a meeting of the Council and members of the Toronto delegation, at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when a proposition by the Secretary of the Toronto and Ottawa Railway Company was fully discussed. The result was a motion adding ex-Mayor Lundy and Mr. Denne to the delegation, and instructing them to press their opposition to the obnoxious legislation proposed by the Company.

EDITORIAL SUMMARY.

The Ottawa Parliament—or at least the mechanical majority which registers the decrees of Dr. Tupper—has swallowed the St. Paul Syndicate contract, body and bones, and that monstrous swindle of the people has now passed into the hands of the potent, grave, and reverend signors of the Senate.

Under Reform rule the Province prospers in its public finances. In 1879 the Ontario deficit on the current year's transactions amounted to $33,013. In 1880, according to the return just submitted by the Provincial Treasurer, the surplus of receipts over expenditures was $202,271.

Our down town contemporary denies that it ever favored biennial sessions. We are not at all surprised at it. We revere its virtues, but we remember that even Peter denied his Master. It will now be in order for the Review to come out and deny that it ever denounced protection as an insane and absurd theory, or advocated free trade.

The Biddulph murder trial has been in progress for over a week past, the evidence being in the main the same as has been previously published. One new witness was produced by the Crown, whose evidence went to destroy the alibi set up on behalf of Ryder. The case went to the jury on Wednesday morning, and by a telegram received as we go to press, we learn that the jury, after being out three hours and ten minutes, returned with a verdict of "Not guilty." Our despatch says it is probable that the other prisoners will be let out on bail, the Crown abandoning further prosecutions.

TOWN COUNCIL.

A special meeting of the Town Council was held on Monday evening last.

Present—His Worship the Mayor, and Councillors—Cahill, Taylor, McNaughton, Kelly, Paterson, Chamberlain, Yelland, Rutherford, Menzies, Richardson, Douglas.

The reading of the mimutes of last session being dispensed with, the Mayor stated that the object of the meeting was to pass a memorial to the Ontario Assembly, asking that the legislation now sought for, by the Toronto and Ottawa Railway, so far as relates to the Town of Peterborough be not granted. He stated that Mr. Dennistoun, who was acting for the Town in this matter, strongly recommended the employment of a parliamentary agent, to watch the matter in the Legislature, as there was no doubt every effort to secure the proposed legislation would be made, especially as so large a sum of money was at stake.

The Memorial was read a first, second and third time, and after a conversational discussion, as to the necessity of appointing an agent now, or leaving the matter in the hands of the deputation to do so if they deemed it necessary, it was Moved by Councillor Menzies, seconded by Councillor Rutherford,—That Thos. Hodgins, be appointed as parliamentary agent for the Corporation, to watch legislation in the Ontario Legislature, and to oppose any Act that may be brought in by the promoters of the Toronto and Ottawa Railway, towards bringing us to pay the $150,000, bonus.—Carried.

On motion of Councillor Cahill, the name of Geo. A. Cox was added to the deputation on the railway matter.

Councillor Yelland asked what he should do in reference to a request from some of the ladies of the town, as to what the town would give towards supporting an infant which was at present being cared for by Mrs. Courtney. The mother of the child had died a few weeks ago, and since then the father had broken up house. Some of the children had been sent to the Protestant Home. The matter was left in the hands of the charity committee.

Mr. Samuel White asked to have the school taxes on lot assessed to Edward Connolly, transfered from separate schools to common schools, as the said Connolly had left the premises.

Moved by Councillor Chamberlain, seconded by Councillor Menzies—that the Street and Bridge Inspector is hereby instructed to make out immediately an inventory of all the hoes, or scrapers, rakes, spades, shovels, picks, wheelbarrows and all other tools and implements, all nails, spikes and lumber, of every description, belonging to this corporation, together with the estimated value of the same in detail, and report to this Council at its next meeting.—Carried.

Accounts from Stephen Payne, $7.00, and H. Best, $6.40, were received and ordered to be paid.

A petition from Chas. Brewer was received asking remission of dog tax, to be granted on making declaration.

Also one from John J. Lundy and 200 others asking that as the Government is likely to pass an act doing away with the market tolls, that the tolls for present year be re-let at once, the present lessee being willing to give up his lease. Referred to market committee, with power to act.

The Council then separated.

THE HON. MR. ANGLIN.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

Sir,—I see it stated in some of our Ontario papers that a petition from the County Council of Gloucester, N. B., has been presented to the House of Commons disapproving of Hon. Mr. Anglin's position on the Syndicate question. I have lived in that county more than four years and know the feeling there. As far as I know there is not a County Council in Ontario that could not be got to do the same thing to strike at a man of his stamp. But he is invulnerable there. No living man could come within 800 or 1000 of his majority. He had in 1873 a majority of 1,239, the largest I think of any member of the Commons, and that against a very prominent local Barrister, Mr. DeBirsay, of Bathurst, the County Town.

NORTH MONAGHAN.

Council Meeting.—The members of the new Council met at the Town Hall at noon on the 17th January, when Henry Collins, Esq., Reeve, and Councillors Crealy, Brownscombe, Dunlop and Forster, severally made and subscribed to their respective qualifications and declaration of office, as Reeve and Councillors for 1881. On motion of Mr. Dunlop, seconded by Mr. Forster, the Council went into session. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and confirmed. Moved by Mr. Dunlop, seconded by Mr. Brealy, that the communication, and accounts now received be laid over for further consideration.—Carried. The Reeve named Mr. Robert Eastland as one of the auditors of Township accounts and Mr. James Edwards was named as the other auditor. A By-law was then introduced, and passed, appointing said auditors of Township accounts for the year 1880. Moved by Mr. Forster, seconded by Mr. Brownscombe, that a By-law to appoint certain Township officers be read a first time.—Carried. On motion of Mr. Brealy, seconded by Mr. Forster, orders were given on the Treasurer for the following amounts: James McNamara remission of statue labor tax, $3.00; J. R. Stratton, printing, $8.34. Moved by Mr. Dunlop, seconded by Mr. Brownscombe that Councillors Forster and Brealy be a deputation to wait on the several parties interested in the moving of fences on the 11th Concession of this Township and request them to have said fences moved off the public Highway and placed on the line as surveyed by Mr. T. B. Clementi, P. L. S., and that said deputation report to this Council at its next meeting.—Carried. On motion of Mr. Dunlop, seconded by Mr. Brownscombe, the Council adjourned to the 7th day of Feb. next, at one o'clock p.m.

Mr. Thos Carr, of Norwood died on Sunday morning at the age of 36 years. The deceased, for about four years, has been engaged in manufacturing pumps.

An old smoker declares that he had been using "Myrtle Navy" tobacco ever since the second year of its manufacture and that during that time he has never suffered from a blistered tongue or parched tonsils or any other of the unpleasant effects which most tobaccos will leave behind them. His experience, he says, is that no other tobacco which he has ever tried is quite its equal and that in value for the money "no other comes anywhere near it."

Co-Operative.

NOT AFRAID!

We are not afraid of competition from any source, from co-operative stores or dry goods stores, or any other kind of stores.

The people of Peterborough, as a whole are quite wide awake to their interests, and will buy their goods where they are best served. A co-operative store has as much right to sell dry goods, and pins and needles, as a dry goods store has to go into boots and shoes.

The real secret of business success is to be thorough in whatever branch is taken up, as a general rule a jack-of-all-trades is master of none, whether he has on his sign that he is a co-operative, dry goods or grocery Store, or whatever it may be. We keep strictly to the branch of business we have adapted, Tailoring and Gents' Furnishings, and as a result do a good trade.

We therefore can smile at the frantic efforts of any, whose foundation is so insecure that they view with alarm the establishment of any new business.

A GREAT SUCCESS!

Our Clearing Sale of Underclothing is a Great Success.

We have just received a Splendid Stock of

THE BEST REMEDY

FOR

Diseases of the Throat and Lungs.

In diseases of the pulmonary organs a safe and reliable remedy is invaluable. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is such a remedy. It is a scientific combination of the medicinal principles and curative virtues of the finest drugs, chemically united, of such power as to insure the greatest possible efficiency, and uniformity of results. It strikes at the foundation of all pulmonary diseases, affording prompt relief and rapid cures, and is adapted to patients of any age or either sex. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it readily. In ordinary Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Influenza, Clergyman's Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup, and Catarrh, the effects of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral are magical, and multitudes are annually preserved from serious illness by its timely and faithful use. It should be kept at hand in every household for the protection it affords in sudden attacks. In Whooping-cough and Consumption there is no other remedy so efficacious, soothing, and helpful.

Low prices are inducements to try some of the many mixtures or syrups, made of cheap and ineffective ingredients, now offered, which, as they contain no curative qualities, can afford only temporary relief, and are sure to disappoint the patient. Diseases of the throat and lungs demand active and effective treatment; and it is dangerous experimenting with unknown and cheap medicines, from the great liability that these diseases may, while so trifled with, become deeply seated or incurable. Use Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and you may confidently expect the best results. It is of acknowledged curative power, and is as cheap as its careful preparation and fine ingredients will allow. Eminent physicians, knowing its composition, prescribe it. The test of half a century has proven its certainty to cure all pulmonary complaints not already beyond the reach of human aid.

THE COMMITTEE'S REPORT.

The Committee of the Peterborough Branch Bible Society in presenting their annual report have abundant cause for gratitude to the Giver of all Good for the blessings vouchsafed to us during the year just closed. Your Committee have held seven meetings during the year, all characterized by a desire to extend the operation of the Society in scattering around the precious seed of the Word of God. Your Committee arranged for and opened a branch Depository in the Village of Apsley, County Peterborough, placing it in the hands of Mr Ratcliffe, a suitable assortment of Bibles and Testaments having been forwarded to him. The annual meetings at the various country parts of the Peterborough District were held by deputations from the town during the month of October and were fairly attended, collectors appointed, and your committee are hopeful of increased contributions. Your Committee, feeling that it would be in the intrest of the Society instead of appointing one collector for the town at a commission for services—as formerly—divided the town into collecting districts appointing gentlemen interested in the work to do the collecting, and hope the increased amount realized will justify their action. Your Committee in referring to the death of their late lamented Treasurer, Geo. E. Shaw, Esq., who passed away during the year just closed, would state that their appreciation of his services to the Society have been by resolution duly recorded in the books of this branch, and a memorial thereof by order presented to the family of deceased. J. H. Roper, Esq., was appointed by your Committee as successor to the late G. E. Shaw for the balance of the current year. Your Committee would nominate the following as office-bearers for the ensuing year:—Dr. Fife, President; J. H. Roper, Treasurer; James Stratton, Secretary; P. Connal, Depository; Committee Col. Haultain, W. H. Taylor, John Erskine, R. Kingan, R. Fairbairn, John Lochart, Jos. Ford, W. Tallason, W. A. Morrow, J. L. Hughes, W. Greenhow, Wm. Wand, J. Walton, W. C. Nichols, W. Aldridge, Dr. Bell, J. Carnegie, R. Tully, Isaac Robinson, Wm. Eastland, W. H. Barritt, M. D., Wm. Yelland, Harry Pothick, F. Goodfellow. The reports were then adopted on motion of Dr. Harper, seconded by the Rev. Mr. Stobo. The Rev. Mr. Jeffrey moved, seconded by the Rev. Mr. Fletcher, the following motion; which was carried unanimously:—That in view of the noble object of the British and Foreign Bible Society, its past grand achievements, and the facilities it at present affords to all educational and Missionary Societies to aid them in carrying on their work, we pledge ourselves to abiding interest, faithful labor, and increased liberality in its behalf. After a vote of thanks to the Rev. Mr. Jeffrey and the singing of the Doxology, benediction was pronounced and the meeting brought to a close.

THE SCHOOL BOARD.

The Secretary called the Board to order, and announced that the newly elected members of the Board had taken the necessary declaration of office, and said the first duty of the Board would be the election of a Chairman.

It was moved by Mr. McClelland, seconded by Mr. Wrighton, that James Stevenson be Chairman of the Board, for the ensuing year.—Carried.

The Chairman returned thanks for the honor done him by the Board.

The minutes of the previous meetings were then read and confirmed.

Mr. Dumble moved, seconded by Mr. McClelland, that the following be a committee to strike Standing Committees, Messrs. Wrighton, Dennistoun, McClelland, Stratton and Dumble.

The Committee retired, when in an informal way, Mr. Denne enquired if any reports of a pupil being abused by a teacher had reached the Chairman.

The Chairman said he had heard the report, and had taken pains to enquire into the facts of the case. Both the teacher and the parent of the refractory pupil agreed that there had been no violence, nor even an undue use of the necessary authority which a teacher must have to enforce discipline.

Mr. Denne said he quite agreed that the authority of the teachers must be maintained. But as this rumour was in common circulation, he thought it as well to have it set at rest, if there were no foundation in it.

The Special Committee appointed to strike Standing Committees returned and reported the following Standing Committees which were adopted without amendment:

FINANCE.—Messrs. Dennistoun, Denne, Wrighton and Stratton.

APPOINTMENTS.—Messrs. Dumble, McClelland, Denne, Burnham, Cox and Dennistoun.

SCHOOL PROPERTY.—Messrs. Sawers, Best, Rutherford and Stratton.

SCHOOL SUPERVISION—Messrs. Dumble, McClelland, Burnham, Rutherford and Sawers.

Mr. Dumble moved that the old Inspector, Mr. James Stratton, be reappointed at the same salary as before. He said he believed it would be in the interest of the town to pay an Inspector a larger figure and require him to devote more time and attention to the work, but as the desire of the Council seemed to be for economy, he would put his motion in its present shape.

Dr. Burnham seconded the motion, which was carried unanimously.

Mr. Rutherford asked whether the Committee on Prayers, of last year, had made any report.

Mr. Dumble said Scripture Readings had been selected by the clergymen of the town, printed, and distributed in the schools. The form of prayer was that recommended by the School Act.

Mr. Rutherford asked why they were not used.

The Principal said they were.

Dr. Burnham said many ratepayers were complaining of the frequent changes in the text books in use in the schools. These changes were a source of annoyance and expense. He asked for an explanation.

The Principal said he had prepared a list of books for use in the schools three years ago, and it had not been deviated from. In regard to the High Schools the changes were necessitated by the Department. In the 4th Form, the class for matriculation, the books this year were not the same as last year, and the books in the other forms had to be changed so as to obtain a regular course of studies.

Dr. Burnham said according to the law no change could be made in the authorized text books in use in the schools without the sanction of the Board.

The Principal said he might explain that about the time he had prepared the list of books referred to, certain books were going out of use by order of the Department. He had told the booksellers not to get any more of these, and had adopted others. Subsequently through some row raised by the booksellers these books had been restored to the authorized list. He had then issued instructions to the teachers that they should endeavor to get along without changing the books, where the pupils had purchased the new kind or still retained the old.

Mr. McClelland said there were very serious complaints among the ratepayers. He knew from his own experience that the grammars and arithmetics were being changed continually. He had himself intended to have brought this matter up before.

Mr. Jeffers said the teachers must have acted contrary to his instructions, and he should be glad if any such complaints in future were brought to his notice.

Mr. Dennistoun enquired if the Chairman could give any information as to the action of the County Council in reference to the usual grant.

Mr. Stevenson explained to the Board, that Mr. Dumble, Mr. Dennistoun, the Principal and himself had gone to the County Council to urge them to make this grant. They received a fair hearing but were told—in fact they had been told in advance—that the Council had determined to give nothing. They had thought it their duty, however, to make the application. The rate for the past month would not be collected till Monday, to see what action the Board would take.

The Principal's school report for December showed: On roll, 1,029; average attendance, 873. For January: On roll, 1,077; average attendance, 924.

Miss J. Brook tendered her resignation as teacher in 3rd Ward School, and asked appointment to a higher form on receiving necessary qualification.

Mr. J. L. Hughes' resignation was received, and on motion of Mr. Stratton, seconded by Mr. Best, the Secretary-Treasurer was instructed to take the necessary steps to have the vacancy filled.

The Secretary-Treasurer said he had answered a request of the Port Hope Board for a list of salaries of our schools for 1880.

Thomas Parrington offered to act as Janitor for "Ward No. East," if a vacancy occurred, for $350; also, for Ward No. 1 for $83.

A memorial from the Stratford Board of Education in relation to School Inspectors was received.

A communication from the Principal, recommending a uniform fee of $1.00 a month, for non-resident pupils was received.

A memorial from Bowmanville School Board, respecting intermediate examination and work in the schools, was received, and will receive future consideration.

The report of the Collegiate Institute Literary Society was received.

The Secretary-Treasurer reported collections for January:—From the Institute, $100; non-resident pupils, $10.

The following financial statement was then read.

On motion of Mr. Dennistoun, seconded by Mr. Stratton—the report was received and referred to the Finance Committee.

The following accounts were ordered to be paid when certified to, the balance to referred to the Finance Committee.

Lochart & Chowen	$3.00

Mr. Wrighton, presenting the report of the property committee, said the expenses in connection with repairs etc., at the schools amounted to $36. The Janitor received praise for the amount of work done by him. A contract for wood, hard at $2.60 and soft at $1.50 had been made.

Mr. Rutherford suggested that Mr. Tighe should receive some more substantial recognition, say $25, but Mr. Dennistoun objecting, the report was adopted.

Mr. Dumble presented the report of the committee on appointments.

Mr. Rutherford complained that the committee filled vacancies, and then asked the Board to confirm them; also that they appointed outsiders when competent persons could be secured in the town.

Mr. Dumble said the committee had always made it a rule to appoint teachers belonging to the town, but it sometimes happened that the interests of the town were better served by taking an outsider of superior qualification. Such cases were however, very rare. As to filling vacancies, the emergencies were sometimes such that the teachers' place had to be filled at once, and they had always been filled with a view to the best interests of the schools and the town, and to the satisfaction of the Board.

Mr. Dennistoun brought up the report of the committee to whom was referred the matter of the withdrawl of the Douro section from the Auburn school in connection with the town. The committee found that the steps taken by the Douro people were legal and effectual. The committee therefore thought proper to remove the furniture from the school, and recommended the appointment of a committee to adjust the accounts of school property with the Douro board.

The report, the adoption of which was moved by Mr. Dennistoun, seconded by Mr. Stratton, was carried, and Messrs. Dumble, Dennistoun and Wrighton, were subsequently named as such committee.

Mr. Dennistoun moved, seconded by Mr. Denne,—That the Board having learned with deep regret of the withdrawal by the County Council, of the usual grant to the Collegiate Institute, the reduced fees be restored to the old standard of $2 per month.

An amendment by Mr. Dumble, to make the charge $1.50, having been lost, the motion was carried.

Mr. Denne brought up the subject of the use of the 5th readers in the Public Schools, these readers being now only used in the Institute. He pointed out that the law required the use of the 5th Reader in the Public Schools, and gave any parent who felt aggrieved by its not being used in any school, to enforce its usage by resort to use action at law.

COUNTY COUNCIL.

WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON.

The Council met at 2 p.m., all the members being present with the exception of Mr. J. Burnham, M. P., Reeve of Ashburnham.

On motion of Mr. Golborne, a By-Law was passed authorizing the Warden and Treasurer to borrow $15,000 to meet the current expenses of the county until the taxes are collected, sufficient to be borrowed from time to time as deemed necessary by them.

Mr. Pearce suggested that the county should take advantage of the low rate of interest and obtain from the several Banks the best terms they would give.

A motion was then passed with the same object.

Moved by Mr. Strickland, seconded by Mr. Pearce,—That the Committee on Printing be allowed to report.—Carried.

The Committee then reported, recommending that the List of Convictions be inserted twice in the Norwood Register and twice in the Peterborough Times, and that the remainder of the printing be divided equally between the EXAMINER and Review printing offices.

The report was adopted unanimously.

Mr. Kidd presented a petition from the Municipal Council of Dummer, asking the County Council determine the amount to be paid by the Councils of Dummer and Asphodel, respectively, for the repairs on the boundary between them, and that such sums be equivalent to the equalized valuation of these townships.

Moved by Mr. Collins, seconded by Mr. Lang,—That the Clerk procure the necessary ice for the Court House.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Lang, seconded by Mr. Golborne,—That no special grants be made this session except $50 each to Burleigh, Galway and Harvey.

Mr. Brown moved that Belmont be added in this motion.

Moved by Mr. McCarthy, seconded by Mr. McCliggott,—That the whole matter be referred to the Road and Bridge Committee.—Carried.

A communication was read from Toker & Co., asking the Council to subscribe liberally for a number of copies of a directory about to be issued by the of the Town and County.—Referred to the Finance Committee.

The Council then adjourned till next morning at 10 a.m.

THURSDAY MORNING

the Council met and were occupied in Committee.

In the afternoon all the members of the Council were present and the Council met in session.

A petition against the action, or rather want of action, on the part of the Municipal Council of the Township of Otonabee in the matter of S. S. No. 11 was received and a deputation heard. The matter was referred to the County Judge, the Warden and the Public School Inspector.

LAKEFIELD BRIDGE.

Moved by Mr. Strickland, seconded by Mr. Pearce,—That the County Engineer be instructed to examine the Lakefield Bridge and report at the June Session, and to make any repairs necessary before that time.—Carried.

ROADS AND BRIDGES.

On motion of Mr. Lang, the Committee on Roads and Bridges were allowed to report, recommending:—

1. That the accounts of Messrs. Irwin & Boyd for lumber for $8.35, and R. Chapin for bill boards for $2.50, be referred to the Finance Committee.
2. That no action be taken with reference to the Bobcaygeon bridges as requested by the Warden of Victoria.
3. That in order to ascertain whether this County is or is not liable to any extent whatever for the maintenance of the Kinmount bridge, the County Engineer be instructed to examine and report on its geographical position.
4. Your Committee recommend that the Warden, in conjunction with some one appointed by the Town Council of Peterborough, have the Iron Bridge replanked, and that the Bridge Company be notified before any action is taken.
5. That the balance due from Northumberland and Durham be laid over for further consideration.
6. That Mr. Kidd be allowed to withdraw the petition of the Municipality of Dummer, with reference to the repair of the boundary line road between the townships of Dummer and Asphodel.
7. That a special grant of $50 each be made to the municipalities of Harvey, Galway and Burleigh, for the repair of the roads and bridges therein, and that the Reeves of these municipalities be commissioners for the expenditure of the same, and that they make a return of such expenditure, accompanied with vouchers, to the County Treasurer.
8. That the replanking of the Lock's Bridge be left in the hands of the Warden.

JOHN LANG, Chairman.

January 27, 1881.

Moved in amendment by Mr. Brown, seconded by Mr. McCarthy,—That the report be not adopted but that it be referred back to the Committee with instructions to give a grant of $50 to Belmont as well as to the municipalities of Galway, Harvey and Burleigh.

Moved in amendment to the amendment by Mr. Moloney, seconded by Mr. McCliggott,—That the matter be referred back to the Committee with instructions to remove from the report all the special grants.

The amendment granting $50 to these townships was adopted.

The adoption of the report was then moved, and it was Moved in amendment by Mr. Moloney, seconded by Mr. McCliggott—that the report be not adopted, but that it be referred back to the committee with instructions to remove from the report all points. The amendment on being put was declared lost on the following division:

Yeas.—Messrs. Moloney, Welsh, Kidd, Lang, Collins, Fitzgerald and McCliggott.—7.

Nays.—Messrs. McCarthy, Mansfield, Strickland, Oliver, Pearce, Rorke, Brown, Golborne and Burnham.—9.

The report was then adopted as amended.

Mr. Garbutt presented a petition and addressed the Council on the necessity of the Dominion Government taking control of the dam at Lakefield. He stated that the lock at Youngs, six miles from Lakefield, would be useless but for this dam as it pens back the water, when properly regulated so as to give sufficient depth on the sills for steamboats to pass through. Steamboat owners suffer to a great extent owing to the supply of water being shut off at the will of the owner of the dam. He referred to the expense the lumberman suffer, owing to the low water, and the benefit of the respective communities, as a whole, should the Government take charge.

A short discussion followed, and it was Moved by Mr. Strickland, seconded by Mr. Rorke—that the mover and Mr. Pearce be a deputation to wait on the Dominion Government to urge on them the necessity of their accepting the control of the Lakefield dam.

Moved in amendment by Mr. Kidd, seconded by Mr. Fitzgerald—that a memorial be presented through Mr. Burnham to the Dominion Government. The motion was carried.

On motion the committee on appointments to office reported recommending the following appointments for the current year, viz:

1. That Thos. Rork, Esq., be appointed trustee for the Norwood high school.
1. That Messrs. John Moloney and John Carnegie be appointed members of the board of audit of criminal and county accounts.
3. That John E. Belcher Esq., be appointed county engineer.
4. That R. Kincaid, Esq. M. D., be jail surgeon.
5. That Mr. James McWilliams be appointed caretaker of the Court House and grounds.

H. COLLINS, Chairman.

A By-law confirming the appointments was passed and adopted.

The matter was then referred to the Finance committee. The Council then adjourned.

FRIDAY.

The greater part of the day was occupied in committees. The council met in session in the afternoon and the minutes of yesterday were read and approved.

A letter was read from F. Birdsall and others asking that the boundary line between Otonabee and Asphodel be repaired.

Moved by Mr. Pearce, seconded by M. McCarthy—that the petition be referred to the municipalities of Otonabee and Asphodel, being the townships concerned in the matter.

On motion of Mr. Rork, the committee on county property presented the following report:

1 With reference to the suggestion of the prison Inspector that work should be provided for the prisoners committed to hard labor, your committee would recommend that the Warden would name a committee of three to confer with the Town Council and consider the whole matter and report at the same session.

2. That the Warden and Clerk be instructed to procure flag for the Court House, the cost of the same not to exceed $20.

3. That the County Clerk be instructed to give orders for such clothing and bedding as may be required from time to time for the prisoners in the jail.

4. That no action be taken with reference to the Old Burying ground until the present lease expires.

THOS. RORK, Chairman.

The report was adopted.

On motion of Mr. Golborne the Finance Committee reported as follows:—

Your Committee would recommend that the application of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute for a grant be laid over for further consideration at the June Session.

Your Committee recommend that the Treasurer be authorized to pay the Gas Co'y the sum of five dollars per quarter for the lamps on the Iron Bridge, as the same becomes due, and that his past payments on this account be approved. With regard to the Gas Company's account for gas used in the Court House, they would recommend that the Treasurer be authorized to pay the same, if found correct.

Your Committee regret that they cannot under existing circumstances take any action to comply with the request of the Town Council with regard to the support of the indigent poor.

That Mr. Pope's application be laid over till the June Session.

That in settling up the accounts with the town the Treasurer be authorized to allow the town one-half of the town's expenditure on the Iron Bridge.

Your Committee recommend that in the event of Messrs. Toker & Co. publishing a Directory of the County of Peterborough as set forth in their letter of the 25th January instant and the prospectus thereto attached, this County take 100 copies of the same at the price therein named.

Upon consideration of the communication of the Prison Inspector with reference to the manner of supplying the prisoners with food, your Committee recommend that the present arrangement be discontinued on the 1st of April next, and that tenders for the supply of the same, in accordance with the Prison Regulations, after that date be advertised for, and the contract therefore let by the Warden and Treasurer.

Your Committee would recommend that the memorandum herewith attached of accounts paid by your Treasurer on the authority of the Warden, or under contracts duly entered into, be confirmed by By-Law.

JAMES GOLBORNE, Chairman.

Moved by Mr. Golborne, seconded by Mr. Burnham, that the report be adopted.

Moved in amendment by Mr. Fitzgerald, seconded by Mr. Collins,—That the report be not adopted, but, that it be referred back to the Committee with instructions to have the clause relating to the application of the Collegiate Institute for a grant erased therefrom.

For the amendment—Messrs. Moloney, McCliggott, McCarthy, Mansfield, Kidd, Fitzgerald, Lang, Collins, Stewart, Oliver and Walsh.

For the motion—Messrs. Pearce, Rorke, Golborne, Brown and Burnham.

The report was then referred back to Committee.

On motion of Mr. Pearce, a By-Law to grant licenses to auctioneers in single municipalities in the county upon the payment of the sum of $10.00 was passed, such licenses to be issued subject to the same conditions as licenses for the county.

Moved by Mr. Kidd, seconded by Mr. McCarthy,—That whereas it appears by the report of the Finance Committee of January 30th, 1880, page 2, that Mr. Kidd moved, seconded by Mr. McCarthy, "That the sum of $300 be granted to the Volunteer Companies of the county to assist in the payment of helmets," is in effect an error, said motion being an amendment to a much larger sum proposed in Committee, this Council would suggest the propriety of greater caution on the part of those having charge of committee reports, and that hereafter no motion or amendment made in committee be published unless specially authorized.

Mr. Kidd, in moving the resolution, said that had all motions made in Committee been published he would not complain, but to have his amendment to a motion published as an original motion, when the amendment was for a less amount, misrepresented him before his constituents. He stated that it must have been through design or culpable neglect on the part of those through whose hands the report passed. He had no objections to all motions being published both in Committee and in Council, but he objected to be singled out as was done in the Finance Report of January last.

A discussion then ensued, in which nearly all the members took part, and the motion with the addition of the following clause was passed:—And that this Council are satisfied, after explanations have been made, that the said statement in the report was placed there unintentionally, and that no blame is to be attached to any one in the matter.

The Finance Committee's report as amemended was again presented and adopted.

The Council then adjourned until to-morrow morning at nine o'clock.

SATURDAY.

This morning the Council met in session. All the members of the Council present with the exception of Mr. Strickland.

The minutes of yesterday's proceedings were read and confirmed.

The Warden named Messrs. Burnham, Collins and Lang a committee to confer with the town in connection with the providing of work for prisoners committed to hard labor.

On motion of Mr. Stewart, the committee on petitions presented the following report:—

That the memorial of the Council of the county of Frontenac in reference to exemptions &c., be adopted, with the exception of the clause relating to the taxation of mortgages.

That the petition of the county of Elgin, with reference to the prosecution of auctioneers and pedlars and prosecuting their calling without license be adopted.

That the petition of the Brant memorial committee be referred to the Finance committee.

The committee would also recommend the adoption of a memorial similar to that of the county of Welland with reference to market fees.

G. STEWART, Chairman.

January, 28th 1881.

The report was adopted.

A communication from Hudspeth & Jackson, Solicitors for the County of Victoria was read, together with a by-law passed ot the meeting of the County council of Victoria asking the county of Peterborough to rebuild in conjunction the bridge across the Burnt river, in the village of Kinmount, as the bridge at present is unsafe and not fit for travel.

A by-law authorizing the Warden to act in conjunction with the county of Victoria, was passed.

On motion the Committee in county Property, presented a second report recommending.

1. That the Warden and Treasurer be instructed to have gas lamps provided for the Lawyer's table in the Court House.

2. Your Committee would recommend that the committee already appointed with reference to prison labor be instructed to take into consideration the feasibility of employing the same in keeping and improving the Court House grounds and that the same committee arrange with the town of Peterborough for re-planting such trees as they may deem expedient on the same grounds.

THOS. RORKE, Chairman.

The report was adopted.

Moved by Mr. Pearce, seconded by Mr. Golborne—whereas the county council in deferring the limits for the Norwood high school have connected it to school section No. 8 of the township of Asphodel, which included the village of Norwood previous to its incorporation, the whole of which is not ten miles square;

Therefore be it resolved that the usual special grant of ten hundred and fifty dollars be made to the Norwood high school district to section No. 8 Asphodel, which now includes the village of Norwood. This section is not ten miles square. It will be seen that the people of this very small section are compelled to erect buildings and maintain a high school without any assistance from the county with the exception of the equivalent to the Government grant. The school is free to all county pupils, maintained in an excellent state of efficiency, without any additional grant. He thought that it was only right, proper, and fair, that the council should pass this resolution and continue the grant, or in case that they determine otherwise the jurisdiction of the section be extended to the adjoining municipalities.

For the motion—Messrs. Golborne, Pearce, Rorke, Collins, Burnham and Welsh.—6.

Against—Moloney, McCarthy, Oliver, McCliggott, Mansfield, Lang, Stewart and Fitzgerald.—8.

The By-Law confirming the Finance report was passed as amended.

Moved by Mr. Stewart, seconded by Mr. Lang,—That the Warden appoint a Committee to draft a memorial to the Minister of Education, praying that the matter of agricultural instruction in schools be brought before the Legislature with the view of having said subject included in the programme of studies in our Common and High Schools.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Laug, seconded by Mr. Fitzgerald,—That the Treasurer be instructed to pay the Reeve of Lakefield his full sessional allowance, his absence being caused by sickness.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Fitzgerald, seconded by Mr. Moloney,—That this Council rescind the motion passed at the meeting yesterday, appointing a delegation to Ottawa in connection with the Lakefield dam, and that a memorial be prepared and handed to Mr. Burnham and Mr. Hilliard to act in the matter.

For the motion—Messrs. Moloney, McCliggott, Mansfield, Oliver, Kidd, Lang, Stewart and Fitzgerald.—8.

Against.—Messrs. Pearce, Golborne, Rorke, Walsh, Collins, Burnham, Brown and McCarthy.—8.

The Warden declared the motion lost.

On motion, Messrs. J. Leys, solicitor for the T. & O. R. R., and Mr. Dumble, addressed the Council, asking that an extension of time be granted them to commence work, as they were proceeding as rapidly as it was possible with the survey locating the road.

On motion of Mr. Burnham, a by-law was prepared, extending the time until July 1st 1881.

And it was in amendment,

Moved by Mr. Moloney, seconded by Mr. McCliggott, that whereas a law-suit is now pending between this County and the Grand Junction Railway Company, regarding a by-law granting aid to the said Company, to the extent of $75,000, the result of which is not yet known. And whereas a doubt exists as to the position of this County, in the event of adverse judgment being given in the suit of the Grand Junction Railway Company, as to the liability of this County under the provision of the by-law, granting aid to the Toronto & Ottawa Railway Company, to the extent of $150,000. Therefore be it resolved that the time be not extended for the commencement of work on the Toronto & Ottawa Railway.

For the by-law—Messrs. Kidd, Pearce, Brown, Rork, Welsh, Collins, Burnham, and Golborne—8.

For the amendment—Messrs. Moloney, McCarthy, McCliggott, Mansfield, Oliver, Lang, Stewart, and Fitzgerald—8.

The division being even the Warden declared the by-law lost.

Moved by Mr. Lang, seconded by Mr. Stewart, that this Council memoralize the Ontario Government to grant no further legislation, so far as concerns this council, in reviving any Railway by-laws passed by this Council.—Carried.

The Council then adjourned.

Early in the new year, before the snow had all melted, Paul Knox went back to London. He was still thin and pale—a dark, gaunt man, whose face as it looked out from its warm wrappings, was chiefly noticeable for its strikingly brilliant eyes and thick, luxuriant whiskers. Doctor West accompanied him to the railway station, and chatted with him up to the last moment of departure, his hand on the window of Paul's carriage, his foot on the step.

"You will write often, Paul, and tell me everything in your letters—mind, everything; keep back nothing. And if you should feel tired or unsettled, then come back to us at the Crags. Don't forget, too, that you must not over-exert yourself in any way at present."

The Doctor's manner emphasized his words; the other understood him and nodded assent, saying—

"I will do my best, Dick, depend upon me. And should I feel the need of change I will return to you."

These two men, more alike just then than ever, seemed loth to part, and when, at length, the last hand-shake given, the train began to move, Doctor West stood on the platform and Paul Knox leaned bare-headed out of the carriage window, to take the last look at each other, as far as present circumstances permitted.

Once at London, Paul did not go back to his former lodgings. He took apartments in a quieter street, where there was more light and fewer children. There he again began work, applying himself to it steadily, while old friends, meeting him, noticed a wonderful change. He was not the Paul Knox they had known once; not by any means the Paul they cared to know now; and so one by one they dropped his acquaintanceship. Working hard for his daily bread, and earning it too, having nothing in common now with those Bohemians of Art, whose chosen friend he had once been, it was plain that he had come back from Thornton-on-the-Crags with an aim in life, something to toil for, which he had never had before. What that aim was he never communicated to others, but he talked it over to himself at times, grew quite earnest about it, as he quietly mixed his colours and skilfully touched up his work.

This old soliloquising habit of his appeared to grow stronger daily, and, had opportunity presented for any one to have listened to him, two names might have been heard distinctly repeated again and again, like the refrain of a song, namely, Dick and Ethel—always those two; it seemed as if a spell lay in them.

One of his pictures, finished late in the Spring, had found many to praise it. It brought more money than any sketch of his hitherto had. It brought him more work too, and kindly notice from men whose favor was worth the winning.

The picture was a sea-view—a strip of yellow sand, a reach of water, a gray sky flecked here and there with crimson, and a number of fisher-boats putting off for the night's work. A simple thing in its way, yet was it wholly true to Nature. The beach at Thornton, as he himself had seen it, was before the spectator; it embraced every detail, even to the little bare-legged boy standing some short distance out up to his knees in the incoming tide. Somehow the simplicity of the canvas won it favour, and secured for the artist a number of orders.

Paul was hard at work—so hard that the Doctor wrote up more than once, asking him to give himself a holiday, begging him to run down to Thornton, if only to rest for one brief week. But Paul would not consent. He was prouder than he was wont to be. His aim had yet to be accomplished.

He remained, therefore, in London, continuing to paint in his quiet room that looked out over house-tops to the dusty grass-pots of a private square, till one morning, when he stood before his easel as usual, he found he could not work. A curious fiery tingling was in every nerve; the colours on the canvas mixed and moved before him. He rubbed his hand across his eyes, and endeavoured to steady his nerves for a fresh effort; but still the colours mingled, and the canvas seemed to swell into mimic waves before him.

"It won't do to be ill," he said, his voice sounding faint in his own ears—"of all times, it won't do to be ill now."

He put his palette down, and held his heavy head in his hands while he reflected. Very ill he began to feel, in spite of his resolute attempt to battle on. The thought of it appalled him. No man knew better than he what it was to be ill in London lodgings.

"I'll write to Dick. He is right; he always is. I'll rest a little. That will set me up."

So he mused, leaning heavily against the table beside him. His voice had grown weak and husky; his breath burned his lips as it passed; the room appeared to heave and roll about him. His courage was fast forsaking him; so putting his brush down, he made a movement towards his arm chair, scarcely a yard from where he stood. Suddenly, with a low cry, more of fear than of pain, he fell forward on the floor, not insensible at first, though in a brief while this followed. Recovered from his insensibility, he became delirious; calling out faintly, and moaning, as he lay there, helpless, with none to heed him.

Hours after, the servant of the house entered, and found him "lying all of a heap," as she expressed it to her mistress, who came running up stairs at her cry of alarm.

"Stone dead for sure he is, and no one to claim him!" was that good woman's lament, awestruck, she bent over him—perhaps a trifle angry, too, because death had taken from her one of he steadiest lodgers, leaving the burial of him unexpectedly on her hands.

But Paul Knox was not "stone dead," although he was the next worst thing to it, in the eyes of a woman who lived by letting her rooms. He was stricken down with fever. "Brain fever," the doctor she called in pronounced it to be—"and not at all infectious." But what of that? Who would believe her if she said so? The word "fever" was enough to empty her house.

Still, he was there, and not fit to be removed, the physician had decided. After all, she was a woman; so, grumbling and lamentation notwithstanding, poor Paul was attended to. A good-hearted dressmaker, from the rooms above, sometimes stepped in, while he was unconscious, to help in the nursing; the servant of the house did her best; and among them he battled though. Fourteen days, however he lay ignorant of those about him, calling on the home-names of his later life, asking constantly for "Dick" promising much, and threatening not a little, evidently at people the memory of whom roused the anger of his fevered brain.

"His friends should be sent for," the Doctor said, one night, finding Paul worse than usual: "it is a chance if he ever recovers."

"He has no friends that I know of," answered Mrs. Law, shaking her head dismally. "He paid his way, and no one came near him. I shouldn't know one to send for if he was to die to-night."

"That is very sad, Mrs. Law. I am extremely sorry for the poor fellow; for it is very probable he may not see to-morrow's light."

Saying this the doctor departed, leaving those at Paul's bedside with grim and troubled faces.

"If he do die, the parish must bury him. Even at that, I shall have lost by him; not to count the trouble and worrit, and the loss of my natural sleep."

Next day came a letter from Thornton-on-the-Crags—a long letter, from Doctor West to Paul. Mrs. Law, reading the letter through—"which I felt in duty bound to do," she afterwards explained to the dressmaker—gathered enough to know that the writer of this closely covered sheet was a friend of her lodger and a gentleman—a gentleman able and willing no doubt to pay her for all her trouble, and bury Paul when he died, without aid from the parish. "Which it would have been hard for her," she said, "to have seen a workhouse coffin going down her stairs, and she brought up respectable."

She told the doctor of the letter, when he made his next visit, and he copied Dr. West's address from it, sending soon afterwards a note, stating all particulars, and asking his prompt attention in the matter if he were a friend of the patient. "He is reduced by severe and long continued privation; and my present opinion is, that if he shakes off the fever he will die of exhaustion."

Doctor West, reading these candid words in the little parlour in Thornton grew pale and faint. Great tears welled up into his eyes, and his lips quivered. "My poor Paul, I foresaw this—I dreaded it all along."

That night he left for London. When he arrived at Mrs. Law's the crisis of the fever had passed, and the dreaded exhaustion had set in. Doctor West read the tokens of this terrible weakness in the worn face, attempting a little pitiful smile at sight of him.

Observing that meeting, Mrs. Law—shrewd woman of the world—began to doubt if Paul Knox was the real name of the sick man. Like others before her, she was struck by the likeness between him and the Doctor.

"Born brothers they are," she said in confidence to her friend the dressmaker—"born brothers, for sure, they look, and as fond as fond can be."

No more privations for Paul Knox; no more reluctant attendance. Doctor West made himself promptly understood, and the landlady obeyed him with alacrity.

He stayed a week in London, full of care and anxious tenderness for ever-wrought Paul; but longer than the week he might not stay, even for him. Before he returned, however, he knew that the worst was past, that Paul Knox would recover.

"Always a trouble, Dick," poor Paul whispered, clinging fast to the Doctor's hand, that last evening they spent together. "I only did what I thought to be right. You see how it was turned out. Everything goes wrong with me: I'm the same unlucky fellow I always have been."

He was very weak still—very low-spirited. Just out of the shadow of the grave, as it were, its chill gloom was upon him, and his thin low voice trembled as he spoke.

"No repinings of that sort, Paul. Twice snatched back to life, you have no right to murmur. As for me, I never felt more troubled in my life than when I thought I was about to lose you."

"Nothing changes you, Dick!"

The white fingers closed tighter round the hand they held; the dark eyes looked up tenderly into the Doctor's face.

"As soon as Doctor Newton thinks you are fit for travelling, I shall come up and take you down to Thornton."

"Very well, Dick."

Paul had learned through many failures that the Doctor was not to be moved.

Quietly those two men talked together, till the lamps were lit in the silent street, and the shadows crept about them. They had much to say to each other, and the time seemed to pass all too swiftly.

Early the next morning Doctor West returned home. Ethel was at the station, to meet him. Perhaps the intense heat had wearied her; perhaps his not seeing her for those past few days had made him keen to notice any slight change; whatever the cause, he thought she was looking ill—very pale and fragile, now that the first flush at meeting him had died out of her face.

Her mother had died young—her beautiful mother, whose memory was yet green in his heart, whose beauty lived again in this child. Would the semblance end there? Should he lose the daughter in her first bloom, as years back he had lost the mother, when Ethel was "baby Ethel," and he was still young? His heart failed him at the thought. With this great dread was mingled a sudden angry suspicion. Had Jocelyn Thornton anything to do with this change? The notion grew upon him that he had.

"Gilbert is ill again," said Ethel. "John was over this morning for you before breakfast. I told him that you would be home to-day, and that you would go up at once. He said that Gilbert had been taken ill in the night, and that Mrs. Thornton was greatly frightened."

Doctor West listened gravely.

"One of his old attacks. He has been excited. I warned him against this—I also warned his mother, the last day I was there, that he might die if she permitted his feelings to be disturbed. He has been annoyed in some way or other."

Ethel reddened, as though she thought so too.

"When did you see him last?"

"On Wednesday. He then seemed to me rather better than usual."

"Just so, just so."

The Doctor walked on very briskly, so absorbed in thought that he forgot to speak to, much less to look at, Ethel, till they had reached their own house. Then he looked up. "Has Vivienne been often to see you?"

"Every day since you left."

"And Jocelyn—did he come with her?"

"Not always. Twice she came alone."

"Very kind of her, I am sure, said the Doctor, hanging up his hat in the cool hall, with the air of a man glad to be at home again. Ethel did not reply. The cause was plain: as she passed into the parlour before him, her eyes were suffused with tears.

* * * *

Very often, during the past few weeks, had Vivienne found her way to the stone house. The Doctor, however busy, had always a welcome for her. Ethel, jealous of her self-pride, and morbidly sensitive, at once welcomed and shrank from these visits.

Willingly or unwillingly, the girls were friends. Hour after hour, while Jocelyn looked after business matters for his helpless elder brother, these two would wander together by the sea, or inland among the crags, climbing and slipping, and helping each other, like sisters, over the awkward obstructions.

In her way Vivienne was fond of Ethel. Her sense of the beautiful, strong and keen in her Southern nature, was gratified by the perfect face, pleasant manners, and simple truth of Doctor West's daughter. Ever since the past New Year's Eve, when, her head on Jocelyn's breast, she had told him she loved him, she had had a great desire to make up, if possible, for that past wrong. A curious sort of pity, too, she had for the life she had made so bare. She would have done anything for Ethel but surrender her love—would have gladly given up to her anything she possessed, save Jocelyn Thornton's love.

Ethel, with a gentleness rare among women, bore all this—even tried at times to show some affection in return; but that she found impossible. A woman less proud than Ethel would surely have shown temper; a woman less generous would certainly have retaliated. Ethel did neither: she endured. Often, after Vivienne had departed, would she hasten to her own room, and weep passionate tears over her lost love. But none knew of this. After a time, however, a change crept over her face—a shade of sadness; but it did not dim its rare sweet beauty.

Careless handsome Jocelyn, blind to everything, went his way content, save when Gilbert, by some cutting word or speech, meaningless to all but him, roused him to a late repentance. He still assured his brother he would marry Ethel. But a strange saving clause had been added to his resolve—namely, he would marry her if she loved him wholly and unreservedly. If she did not—he rather thought she did not—why, then, he could marry Vivienne, and there would be an end to the matter.

This stalwart young Englishman, with his large gray eyes, his sunny hair, his candid, open manner, had not the least idea of being selfish or cruel; he fully intended to do right; only, by some subtle workings of the mind, right was changed and twisted until it took the shape of marrying the woman he loved most, even though by so doing he acted contrary to the principles of honour and justice due to her whom he had loved first.

True, he was helped on not a little toward this conclusion. His mother was on his side; and Vivienne was a host in herself, although the latter sometimes, in their quiet walks and delicious tete-a-tetes, spoke a great deal of restraining her love, and leaving him free to marry Ethel West, "as he had promised."

"I have no right to love you," she would say, smoothing his curls with her soft, white fingers, and looking sadly into his eyes. "Before you had seen me, you had given your heart away. I have no right to ask you to reclaim it."

And he would answer, passionately, "Don't talk of 'right' between us. It is plain that we love each other and cannot help it."

About one thing she was decided. She would never marry him, if by so doing she brought discord into the house. She would not marry him unless his mother wished it—unless Gilbert also wished it.

"I am sure your brother does not like me," she would say to Jocelyn; "he, above all others, would never wish to see me your wife."

"He shall wish it! He must learn to wish it!" Jocelyn would exclaim, a flash of the Thornton anger in his eye. And yet no one know better than he how hard it was to bend the will of quiet ailing Gilbert.

Thus passed away the long Summer days, the burning noontides, the golden sunsets, the tender, dreamy evenings, heavy with flower scents, musical with the ebb and flow of the great calm sea.

The week the Doctor was in London, attending to Paul Knox, Ethel had been to the Manor, as she told her father. She had gone early on Wednesday. Vivienne had called for her, and they had walked back over the sands, before the heat of the day had come to its height. A merry, happy time she had spent. Everybody was kind to her and made much of her. Jocelyn was almost like the Jocelyn of old. So that for a while she almost forgot the pain which had distressed her, and fancied the happy past was stealing back again—the past in which no Vivienne had appeared to haunt and trouble her.

RESTORATION OF THE HEALTH.

During the past ten years the Great Shoshonees Remedy has faithfully redeemed every promise and guarantee made to the public. Alarming and apparently hopeless cases of Lung Diseases, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaints, Afflictions of the Kidney and Chronic Complaints of every description, including Scrofula and Skin Diseases of life-long duration, have been permanently removed and eradicated. Those who volunteered their testimony to the efficacy of the Remedy, are not bogus people in unheard-of localities of foreign countries, but respectable citizens of this country, easy of access and open to question, upon whose verbal recommendations we are willing to rest the reputation of the Great Shoshonees Remedy If you are afflicted, do not delay until medicine may be powerless to aid you. No injurious effects can possibly follow the use of these Indian Remedies, as they contain no minerals, by which the fate of the invalid is so often sealed under the form of some temporary sedative or stimulant. These Indian Remedies are widely known and still possess the public confidence, after the lapse of sufficient time to test their efficacy.

The Shoshonees Vegetable Sugar Coated Pills have won for themselves the most favorable reputation of any pill before the public. Their efficacy has been fully proved as a remedy for billiousness, Sick Headache and inactivities of the stomach. Price of the Remedy in pint bottles, $1; Pills, 25 cents a box. Sold by all medicine dealers.

PEOPLE TORMENTED by the many disagreeable sensations produced by dyspepsia, or are thin, nervous and weak, should use the standard tonic—Northrop & Lyman's Quinine Wine. They will find it agreeable and beneficial. It enriches the blood by aiding digestion and assimilation; soothes and invigorates the nervous system, and imparts a healthful appetite. When used as a remedy for billious and intermittent fever, it produces the happiest results, if taken between the attacks. Convalescence is hastened, and untimely decay of the physique and constitution is arrested by it. The spirituous constituent, sherry wine, is of the best quality, and the aromatics combined with it renders its flavor additionally pleasant. They who use it gain flesh as well as strength and it exerts a cheering influence upon the mind. It promotes a healthy secretion and flow of bile, sound repose and regularity in the action of the bowels. If judiciously used it may be taken without apprehension of any ill result by persons of the most delicate constitution. A fair trial is all that is needed to prove the genuineness of its claims to public confidence., and to the truth of the general verdict in its behalf. No article of its class commends its self so strongly to nervous invalids who require building up—none is so well adapted to fortify the system against the dangers which threaten the debilitated. It should not be mistaken for a mere stimulant of appetite, which so many so-called tonics simply are. It so regulates the stomach that it is enabled to perform its various functions with regularity and vigor, and its action is not only thorough but prompt. Ask for the "Quinine Wine of Northrop & Nyman." Sold by all druggists.

A Lecture to Young Men
ON THE LOSS OF MANHOOD

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediment to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.
Price in a sealed envelope, only 6c. or two postage stamps.
The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicines or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.
This lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

PERSONAL.—We learn with pleasure that Mr. F. W. Haultain, passed a highly successful examination—first intermediate—in law.

SAW MILL SOLD.—Mr. Thistlethwaite, of Norwood, has sold his steam saw mill situated by the river Ouse, to Mr. Eddy, of Cramahe, for $1,500.

SKATING BOOTS—chamois lined—and Russian felt boots—another lot just received at the wholesale boot and shoe store of R. Stinson & Son. 51-tf.

"THEY ALL DO IT."—Everybody uses "Teaberry," the new toilet gem, to beautify the Teeth and give fragrance to the Breath. Ask your druggist for sample packages, 5 cents. 44-1y

BOWLERS.—The best scores in the last bowling match were as follows:—J. Lynch, 212; F. Chilcotte, 209; H LeBrun, 179.

COLD WEATHER.—The weather, which was positively cold on Monday, was more than comparatively so on Tuesday, and most superlatively cool on Wednesday. The cold on Tuesday night was the most intense experienced for years, and many householders report that vegetables were frozen in their cellars for the first time.

SNOW BY-LAW.—Nearly all our citizens comply with the By-Law requiring the snow to be cleared from the walks, but a few seem in utter ignorance that such an ordinance exists. Surely it is the duty of some official to see that delinquents are made to do as others do in this matter.

SCHOOL TRUSTEE ELECTION.—We are requested to announce that Mr. T. W. Robinson, of the firm of T. W. Robinson & Co., is a candidate for Public School Trustee, for No. One Ward, in the stead of Mr. J. L. Hughes, resigned. If elected, he will, we believe, serve his constituents faithfully.

SNOW SHOE.—The Snow Shoe Rangers had another run last Wednesday. After having tramped over half of creation, they were entertained at a splendid lunch by Mr. Joseph Walton. Several new members have joined the club. The handsome medal presented by Mr. Stevenson, of Montreal, is now on exhibition in Mr. McClelland's window. Great interest is taken by the boys and others in the general health of the club.

COMMENCING WORK.—As it was incumbent on the Toronto & Ottawa R. R. Company, in order to lay a claim to their county bonus, to commence work on the 1st inst., a number of men were set at work getting out cordwood on the proposed line in the township of Otonabee. It is questionable, however, if this will be recognized as a bona fide commencement of the work.

LOCAL IMPROVEMENTS.—In the Provincial appropriation for Public Improvements are the following items:—For dredging the Scugog River, $5,000; Otonabee River Works, $1,500; Burleigh Road, south of Apsley, $500; Bobcaygeon road, repairs south, $400; Buckhorn road, repairs south of Monk road, $800; Chandos road repairs, $400; Methuen road repairs, $300; Anstruther road, to extend, $600. Total, $9,500.

LATEST NEWS.—Our readers will notice in another column that bargains are in store for all who require hats, caps, furs, or gents' furnishings. A sale of the bankrupt stock of James Delaney, which was sold on Thursday by the Sheriff, and purchased at a very low price by Messrs. Fairweather & Co., is now going on in Delaney's old stand, opposite Stethem's hardware store, and will be continued until the whole stock is cleared out. We understand that the stock was quite new, having recently been bought in the best markets, and as the time is limited, the goods must be sold even at a great sacrifice. Call in and see the great bargains.

BELLEVILLE CURLERS.—On Thursday the Belleville curlers arrived in town and played a match in the Rink with the Peterborough men with the following result:

In the evening the visitors were entertained at supper at J. & H. Long's, where a very pleasant evening was spent and speeches made by Mr. Jellett, President of the Belleville Club, Thos. Kelso, Morgan Jellett, C. G. Kelso, J. F. Dennistoun, interspersed with songs by Mr. A. McNeil and W. Robertson. Mr. W. G. Ferguson, President of the Peterborough Club, occupied the chair in most felicitous style.

VITAL STATISTICS.—There were 18 births registered last month with the City Clerk, three marriages and five deaths.

I. ROBINSON & Co. are daily receiving additions to their stock of Spring Tweeds and Cloths, and are selling them cheaper than ever. 4-tf

ANOTHER CANDIDATE.—Mr. R. W. Errett, an old member of the School Board, is a candidate for the vacant place created by Mr. Hughes' retirement from the Board.

POLICE COURT.—John Adlum, charged by the Chief with being drunk, made his appearance before Mayor Smith, in absence of the Magistrate, who administered some good advice and let the man go.

Having suffered for some time past with bilious headache as a result of constipation of the Bowels, I was induced to try Burdock Blood Bitters which proved very efficacious, removing both headache and constipation. I strongly recommend it to all similarly afflicted. S. R. ROGERS. Cedarville, Grey County, Ont, 4-2t

COUNTY L. O. L.—At the annual meeting of West Peterborough County Orange Lodge, held on Tuesday evening last, the following officers were re-elected for the ensuing year:—Robert Weir, C.M.; R. Waram, D.C.M.; J. H. Campbell, C.C.; John Smith, C.S.; Samuel Nelson, C.T.; G. W. Hall, C. D. of C.; R. Waram, jr., C. L.

"HONESTY IS THE BEST POLICY."—Our daily bread is sweetest when gained by honest toil. Hagyard's Yellow Oil is an honest oil, and honestly speaking it cures more cases of Aches, Pains, Lameness, Stiff joints, Flesh Wounds, Burns, Scalds Bruises, Rheumatism, Deafness, Colds, Sore Throat and Inflamation, that any other remedy offered for sale. No household should be without it. 4-2t

LITERARY.—Mr. Jas. Henry took the chair at the meeting of the Literary Association on Monday night, and after readings from Messrs. Hillton and Dixon, the subject of Home Rule for Ireland was affirmed by Messrs. F. Hilton and J. Corkery, and negatived by Messrs. W. A. Stratton and E. A. Peck. The question was decided in the affirmative by the meeting.

LADIES DESIRING to secure a fashionable and durable article in the boot and shoe line should call at Larmour's, where there is the choicest, most complete and varied stock between Toronto and Montreal. Mr. Larmour is now so widely and favorably known in the boot and shoe line that to say that your boots come from his establishment is equivalent to saying that it is a fashionably cut and perfect fitting article. 44-tf.

I. O. G. T.—At the regular meeting of Peterborough Lodge, No. 340, I. O. G. T., held in their hall on George street, the following officers were elected for the ensuing quarter:—Bro. G. B. Sproule, W. C. T.; Sister Mis. Mowry, W. V. T.; Sister I. Mowry, W. S.; Bro. John Weir, W. F. S.; George Browne, W. T.; John Minore, Chap.; Walter Paterson, W. M.; Sister Maggie Connolly, R. H. S.; Lizzie Hamilton, L. H. S.; Lillie Minore, I. G.; Bro. Thos. Brown, O. G.

$50 REWARD.—Mr. A. E. Lyon, left in one of the pews of the George street Methodist church on last Sunday evening a purse containing a sum of money and other valuable papers, of use only to himself. Any person returning the purse will be handsomely rewarded. Should the purse have been removed by a dishonest person who desires to keep the money, Mr. L. wishes to announce that he will give the money in the purse if the papers are returned.

NIP AND TUCK.—This talented organization which has been playing with such great success in the principal cities and towns of the west, and of which the newspapers unanimously speak in such high terms, gave a performance in Bradburn's Opera House on Tuesday evening to a large audience. The performance was in every respect up to the high expectations which newspaper notices had led us to entertain. Mr. Webber is a whole show in himself and his support was throughout most excellent. The play abounds with scenic effects, striking "situations," plenty of the emotional, and is crowned with the most uproarious fun conceivable. We can recommend them to our conferers along their route.

180 LAUGHS IN 180 MINUTES.—The Alvin Joslin Comedy Company are announced to show in Bradburn's Hall, on Tuesday evening next, 8th instant, and if we are to judge from the very many flattering notices which the press of both the United States and Canada has bestowed on it, the fun-loving people of Peterboro' will have the opportunity of enjoying an evening's amusement, such as is seldom afforded in this town. An exchange says: "Alvin Joslin" is a wonderful performance, and gave all of the 180 laughs in 180 minutes. As an old man, Mr. Davis is inimitable. His make-up is wonderful, even to the most minute detail. His facial expression is unequalled." Reserved seats for sale at Mr. T. Bradburn's store.

ST. LUKE'S.—The entertainments in connection with St. Luke's Church Parochial Association, are becoming quite an "institution" for pleasure and amusement, during the winter evenings. The one held on Thursday evening last was, like its predecessors, largely attended, and the programme, consisting of songs, readings, recitations, and instrumental quartettes by members of the Fire Brigade Band, was pronounced equal to many for which an admission of 25 cents is charged. The growing favor with which these entertainments are received, both by residents of the village as well as the town, will necessitate the Committee of Management to provide more seating accomodation, as the school room is very much too small to provide all with seats.

CORRECTION.—In the report of the County Council proceedings, elsewhere, some aggravating errors appear. The portion of the report alluded to, should read as follows:—

Moved by Mr. Pearce, seconded by Mr. Golborne—Whereas the County Council in defining the limits of the Norwood High School have confined it to school section No. 8 of the township of Asphodel, which included the village of Norwood, previous to its incorporation, the whole of which is not two (2) miles square; Therefore be it resolved that the usual special grant of two (2) hundred and fifty dollars be made to the Norwood High School, and that the corporate seal be affixed thereto to give this resolution the effect of a by-law.

Mr. Pearce said, it will be seen that the people of this very small section are compelled to erect buildings and maintain a high school without any assistance from the county with the exception of the equivalent to the Government grant. The school is free to all county pupils, maintained in an excellent state of efficiency, without any additional grant. He thought that it was only right, proper, and fair, that the council should pass this resolution and continue the grant, or in case that they determine otherwise the jurisdiction of the section be extended to the adjoining municipalities.

THE EDITOR'S TABLE.

"THE UNION JACK," an illustrated paper for boys, published in England, has now a good Canadian circulation. It is a well got-up, attractive monthly, and contains numerous exciting stories, besides instruction in manly sports. Mr. G. A. Henty, late war correspondent of the London Standard, is the editor, and the Toronto News Co., are agents for Canada.

LITTELL'S LIVING AGE.—The number of The Living Age for the week ending January 29th has the following noteworthy articles: The Prophetic Power of Poetry, by J. C. Shairp, Fraser; The Unity of nature, Part V, by the Duke of Argyll; Contemporary Review; Don John, by Jean Ingelow, Day of Rest; A Day with a War Balloon, Nineteenth Century; Fina's Aunt, Cornhill; Suwarrow, Temple Bar; Bird-Lore, Chambers' Journal; George Eliot, Spectator; and the usual amount of choice poetry. The new volume of this standard weekly magazine began January 1st,—a good time for the beginning of a subscription. For fifty-two numbers of sixty-four large pages each (or more than 3,300 pages a year), the subscription price ($8) is low; while for $10.50 the publishers offer to send any one of the American $4 monthlies or weeklies with The Living Age for a year, postpaid. Littell & Co., Boston, are the publishers.

MUSTARD!

"WHAT SAY YOU TO A PIECE OF BEEF AND MUSTARD?"—Shakspeare.

"TAMING OF THE SHREW."—Act IV, Scene III.

Suggested as an appropriate topic for discussion at the first meeting of the Literary Class about to be formed for the study of Shakespeare, whose works are proposed to be the subject of study and admiration during the evenings of the present winter.

This quotation from Shakespeare shows that Mustard was in use 300 Years ago.

KEEN'S MUSTARD was first manufactured 125 years after Shakespeare's death.

The popular demand for Cheap Goods together with the active competition amongst manufacturers, has led to a deplorable system of adulteration.

"TRUE 'TIS A PITY, PITY 'TIS; 'TIS TRUE." And the average article of Mustard of the present day would extort from the Bard of Avon the most vigorous condemnation.

KEEN'S MUSTARD, however, would not merit such objurgation, the manufacturers having regard to character and quality rather than cheapness, which generally means impurity and trash.

To those who seek a pure article I can recommend his brand as being unequalled in flavor and pungency.

I have also in stock a very fine assortment of Sauces, Pickles, Table preparations and Preserved Meats. The latter are peculiarly appetizing and must be eaten to be appreciated.

THE IRISH REVOLUTION.

ARREST OF MICHAEL DAVITT.

Obstruction in the Commons.

Expulsion of the Irish Members—Extraordinary Scene in the House of Commons.

LONDON, Feb. 4.—In the Commons this evening Sir William Harcourt, replying to Mr. Parnell, said that Davitt was arrested because his actions were considered incompatible with his ticket-of-leave. Mr. Parnell asked what conditions Mr. Davitt had violated? There was no answer to this question, and the Irish members shouted "shame." The other members cheered tremendously. The scene surpassed all description. The Speaker called upon Mr. Gladstone to move a resolution. Mr Dillon rose, but the Speaker refused to hear him.

After repeated warnings the Speaker "named" Mr. Dillon, and Mr. Gladstone moved his suspension amid enthusiastic cheers and cries of "Order," the Irish members shouting "Shame." The motion for the suspension of Mr. Dillon was adopted by 395 to 33. Mr. Dillon refused to withdraw from the House, and was forcibly removed by the Sergeant-at-Arms by order of the Speaker amidst cries of "shame" by the Irish members.

Mr. Gladstone, replying to Mr. Cowen (Radical), said it was due to the House and to the Speaker that Mr. Gladstone's action of yesterday should be discussed as early as possible, but the house cannot give a motion on that subject priority over obstruction resolutions or the Protection Bill. The remarks of the Premier were greeted with loud cheers. Mr. Sullivan withdrew his motion relative to the Speaker, saying that he refused to be party to a farce. He protested against Mr. Dillon's forcible removal as an act of violence and illegality. The Speaker pointed out the fact that Mr. Dillon defied the chair. Mr. Gladstone rose to address the House. Mr. O'Donoghue (Liberal) rose and moved the adjournment of the House. The Speaker ruled that Mr. Gladstone was in possession of the floor. Mr. Parnell moved that Mr. Gladstone be no longer heard. The Speaker declared that Mr. Parnell was defying the chair, and upon his persisting the Speaker declared that he was wilfully obstructing the proceedings, and "named" him.

Mr. Parnell's suspension was moved, but upon the Speaker making an order that the House be cleared for the division all the Home Rulers refused to leave the House. The motion to suspend Mr. Parnell was ultimately voted upon and resulted in his suspension by 405 to 7, the Home Rulers not voting. Mr. Parnell declining to withdraw, was forcibly removed from the House by the Sergeant-at-Arms and five other officers, the Home Rulers waving their hats as he passed out. Mr. Finnegan (Liberal and National) then persisted in speaking, and was "named" by the Speaker. It appears that all the Home Rulers will cause themselves to be suspended successively. The force used in Dillon's case merely consisted in the Sergeant-at-Arms taking his arm. The motion for the suspension of Mr. Finnegan was carried by 405 to 2. The Home Rulers again refused to vote, and the Speaker had their names, numbering 27, taken down. A division proceeded on a motion to suspend all the Home Rulers refusing to vote. Their conduct was in accordance with a resolution taken at the meeting this afternoon to adopt the course recommended by Mr. Sullivan that the Irish members should remain in their seats instead of going into the lobbies on a division. The motion to suspend the 27 Home Rulers was carried by 410 to 6, whereupon they individually declined to leave the House, only yielding to superior force. They were removed singly by the Sergeant-at-Arms.

After the vote suspending the Home Rulers Mr. Gladstone rose to move his resolution for preventing obstruction. Mr. O'Donnell moved that Mr. Gladstone be not heard. Mr. O'Donnell was immediately named, and Mr. Gladstone moved his suspension. Carried by 311 to 1. Mr. O'Donnell declining to withdraw was removed, with two other Home Rulers who refused to leave the House when the division was taken. Mr. Gladstone then moved his resolution. Mr. Gladstone referred to the irretrievable loss of time since the commencement. With regard to his resolution, he stated that the Government had drawn largely on the loyal confidence of the Opposition. The only way of meeting obstruction was to give the House enlarged powers to check it. He earnestly appealed to the members to support the Government and rally to the performance of the great duty, and not let the House degenerate into the laughing stock of the world. Sir Stafford Northcote fully recognized the necessity of Mr. Gladstone's resolution. He then moved the first part of his amendment, viz., that a Minister shall declare any motion urgent. Sir William Harcourt (Home Secretary) said the Government were ready to accept the amendment as an addition to, but not as a substitution for any words in the resolution. Sir Stafford Northcote assented. The amendment as an amendment was withdrawn and moved by Sir William Harcourt as an addition to the resolution. Mr. Mitchell Henry said the resolution would go forth to Ireland and and to Europe as an unfair advantage over the expelled Home Rulers. Mr. Henry moved the adjournment of the debate as a protest against injustice. Sir Jos. McKenna (Home Ruler) seconded the motion. Lord Hartington said he could not admit that there was any validity in the argument founded on the absence of members through their own misconduct. The motion was defeated by 371 to 28. The first amendment of Sir Stafford Northcote was added to the original resolution and agreed to. Sir Stafford Northcote's second amendment that the majority to decide the question of urgency must consist of not less than 300 members was rejected by 234 to 150. The Government subsequently adopted a slight amendment offered by Sir Stafford Northcote, and Mr. Gladstone's resolution as amended was agreed to. Mr. Gladstone then moved that the Bill for the Protection of Life and Property in Ireland was urgent. The motion was carried, and the House adjourned. The Home Rulers expelled from the House decided to issue a manifesto denouncing the conduct of the House, but advising the Irish people to keep within the bounds of constitutional action. In the expectation that the Home Rulers might carry resistance to extremes 180 policemen were stationed in the vicinity of the House to-day. It is reported that four hundred extra police were on duty near the House to-day. The expelled House Rulers will take their seats in the House as usual to-morrow.

The principal alterations in Mr. Gladstone's resolution as finally adopted are that the motion for urgency must be made by the Minister, who must state the reasons. The majority voting urgency must consist of three to one in a house of at least 300 members. Modifications are also introduced making it clear that the Speaker was intended to use the powers conferred upon him only for facilitating a particular business which might be declared urgent.

The most extraordinary precautions were taken in the House last night. Almost every door leading into the lobbies and corridors were watched by detectives.

Mr. Forster's office, the Speaker's house and Mr. Gladstone's private room were guarded by police. The lobbies were cleared from an early hour, and strangers were not allowed to enter for several hours.

London, 4.—Davitt's licket of leave having expired he is liable to seven years more of penal servitude.

Mr. Davitt was consigned to the Millbank prison on the bank of the Thames, about half a mile below the Houses of Parliament. The steamer arrived at Holyhead about an hour before midnight. Mr. Davitt was in charge of detectives who went over from Scotland Yard to make the arrest; accompanying them were six from Dublin. On the arrival of the steamer the party at once took a special train for London. Detachments of police guarded all the stations on the route, and a pilot engine ran ten minutes ahead of the train to secure it an uninterrupted transit. The train arrived at Euston Square Station at 6.45 and Mr. Davitt was at once conducted to the Bow Street Station where the Magistrate, Sir James Ingham, was sitting in pursuance of a previous arrangement, and who heard the case privately at that unnaturally early hour for any kind of court proceeding. These occupied but a short time. Mr. Davitt, when arraigned, asked the Magistrate why his ticket-of-leave had been revoked, and was informed it was no question for the Magistrate to answer. Sir James Ingham then signed the document committing Davitt to prison, to which he was immediately driven in a common police van or "Black Maria."

The Hammond Meetings.

(From the Gospel Herald.)

WEDNESDAY.

The morning meeting was one of more than usual interest and power. The influence of the previous night's meeting was most apparent. Many new faces were present.

Mr. Hammond spoke regarding the necessity of all working, and by the relation of several incidents which had come under his own personal observation, showed that a word dropped by the most humble instrument had often resulted in great good. He related the story of "Crazy Jack," of Newark, N J., and in order to show how dangerous it is to throw impediments in the way of young converts working, related how Dr. Kirk would, if he could, have stopped Moody when he was a boy, because he thought him not fitted to point sinners to the Cross.

A large number remained to the enquiry meeting, which was commenced by Mr. and Mrs. Hammond singing, "I will sing of my Redeemer." At night two meetings were held—one in the Bible Christian Church, exclusively for ladies, the other in St. Paul's Church, exclusively for men. The ladies' service was conducted by Revs. Roberts and Cecil Harper. The church was crowded, and a most interesting service was in progress at nine o'clock.

The men's meeting was announced and held at the request of Mr. Torrance. He had seen such meetings conducted by Mr. Moody, when on a visit to Scotland, and found them productive of much good. By half-past seven the church was filled in every part with men only—a male choir, a male organist—a male audience exclusively. One could not help but be impressed at such a sight—all kinds and classes and conditions were represented. Many were present who seldom, if ever, have been seen in a church. Selections were sung from the Hymns of Salvation, after which three young converts stood up before their associates and told their experience, Messrs. Denoon, Lilly and Webb. It was a brave thing to do—stand there before 1,000 men, many of whom scoffed at religion and tell how they came to the cross. As one said, not for the whole town would he have done such a thing a week ago, but, with God's help they took up the cross, and spoke nobly for Jesus, and had time permitted others were prepared to do just as nobly.

Gen. Haultain also told how in India when nothing else could give him satisfaction, the religion of Christ filled the want in his heart.

Mr. Hammond then delivered an address, in tender language pointed to the bleeding Saviour as the sinners' only hope. The inquiry meeting was a busy place. Scores upon scores remained. Many said they never saw such a meeting. Hundreds were spoken to, who, expressed, not only a desire, but a determination, by God's help, to lead holier and better lives.

THURSDAY

morning, in consequence of the proposed meeting at Lakefield, the praise and conference meeting in the B. C. Church commenced at nine o'clock. A large number of requests for prayer were read. Mr. Hammond spoke particularly about the importance of personal work. The influence of the Spirit was manifest, and many a heart was cheered and strengthened in a determination to work for Christ. Mr. Hammond was very weary, and for the most part spoke while seated in a chair. Indeed, it is a wonder to many how he bears up at all under the mental strain, worry, and physical exhaustion incident to the work of an Evangelist. Every word yesterday morning was a nail in the right place. Nor was yesterday's service an exception, for since first the services commenced, Mr. Hammond, if one may so speak, has ever had his finger upon their pulse. Several new converts were present.

In the afternoon, Mr. Hammond held a meeting in the P. C. A. Hall Lakefield. About a hundred people, including ministers, singers, and other Christian workers, went up from Peterborough in sleighs. The hall was crowded. There must have been upwards of five hundred people there, many of whom had driven several miles through the frosty air to be present.

The announcement that Mr. Hammond would preach to lawyers drew a large audience to St. Paul's Church. Aisles, platform and galleries were crowded. About eight o'clock Mr. Hammond asked the Christians who had heard him night after night, to give up their seats to the people, who were yet crowding in, and retire to the basement, where they could hold a meeting for prayer for the Holy Spirit's presence. Mr. Fairbairn conducted the meeting in the basement. Mr. Hammond took for his text, "We have an advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the righteous." I John, ii., 1, 2. Having pointed out the essentials necessary to a successful advocate, viz: Freedom from guilt, knowledge of the law, knowledge of his client's desperate condition, sympathy, and the possession of a good plea, he brought a most powerful sermon to a close by urging upon his hearers the importance of retaining Christ as their advocate, paying him all the retainer he asks—their hearts—and leaving their case altogether in his hands.

FRIDAY.

morning the B. C. Church was again crowded.

Some twenty-five young converts bore testimony to the saving power of Christ. A large number of requests for prayer were read. The reading of the requests for prayer is one of the most interesting features of the morning meetings. It is astonishing how the interest keeps up, but Mr. Hammond has always something fresh and racy to say, so that the meetings never become tedious. Besides that the people come for one purpose—to do good and get good—and such has been the power manifested by the Holy Spirit at the morning meetings that many count them the best of the series.

The Presbyterian Church (St. Paul's) was so crowded Friday night that there was not standing room; many, we learn, had to return home without hearing Mr. Hammond. An over-flow meeting was held in the basement of the Church, to which many resorted. Rev. Mr. Hill, of Millbrook, led this meeting, which became a very profitable one.

SATURDAY.

As announced on Friday night the B. C. Church was open all day. By ten o'clock it was comfortably filled. Mr. Hammond, by way of assisting those who work in the Inquiry meeting, spoke concerning the way in which sinners could be helped who think they have too many things to give up. He quoted Mark viii: 35 37, Phil. iii; 7 8. Mr. Campbell, Classical Master at the Institute, gave a short address in which he stated his belief that not only in his own heart, but throughout the Town, the services had been productive of much good. The meeting adjourned about noon to the market square, where Mr. Hammond assisted by Mr. Stobo, held a short service. On Sabbath there was no afternoon service, but the schools met as usual in the several churches. But, that the attendance was never so good as on Sabbath afternoon. In all the schools it was found that there is a marvellous work of Grace going on among the young people. In the evening by six o'clock, the George-street Church was crowded to suffocation. There was service also in the basement, and service in St. Paul's Church.

The Rev. E. P. Hammond preached from John iii, 16. It was a masterly effort to vindicate God's character as Love, and to set forth his love in the administration of His moral government. He showed the loving and merciful character of God's law, but above all, the great love of God in the gift of His Son, Jesus Christ. In the course of his sermon he completely demolished the arguments of the universalist and the sceptic. He had full control of the great audience, and when an expression of their desire for salvation was called for, between five and six hundred rose to seek an interest in the prayers of God's people. Mr. Hammond spoke for three hours all but eight minutes, part of the time being taken up with the reading of the story of the conversion of Roland Diller, the drunkard, who by God's grace became a sober man. The inquiry meeting lasted until midnight, and the anxious had to be turned out of the building. After two weeks' earnest and honest work for God, the interest instead of abating is becoming the more intense—no building in this town can possibly accommodate the crowds who come to hear Mr. Hammond sing and preach the Gospel of the grace of God. All opposition is now silenced; men of every shade of opinion now acknowledge that God is in the work and that good is being done. Those who called Bro. Hammond a fool and mountebank, now take all that back, and say that he is an humble-minded man of God, who is seeking to serve Jesus the best way he can, and such persons have learned to love the man for his work and also for his qualities of mind and heart. On every hand we hear expressions of regret that his stay amongst us is to be so brief, and all speak in the loudest praise of the man and his work.

MONDAY'S SERVICES.

If Monday morning's meeting indicated anything, it pointed to a glorious week's work. The body of St. Paul's church was comfortably filled. Fully four hundred were present. The exercises opened by singing and prayer. United prayers were offered that God's blessing might attend Mr. Hammond's contemplated visit to Toronto, and that the Christians of that city might prove themselves "working Christians." The written requests for prayer were so numerous that instead of reading them persons requesting prayer either for themselves or friends were asked to stand up and say so.

On Monday, at 3.30 p.m., there was an audience of about one thousand persons present at the children's service in the George-street Church. On the platform were Rev. Messrs. Harper, Fletcher, Cleworth (Cavan), Torrance, Starr and Stobo. Rev. E. P. Hammond spoke to the children from Heb. xii., 2. He spoke of faith and its work, warned the children against little sins—advised them to keep up secret prayer, and to read their Bible every day.

The students of the High School had a meeting in the Basement this afternoon, about fifty being present. At night the George-street Church was again filled to repletion with a deeply interested audience. Rev. Mr. Cleworth, of Cavanville, was on the platform and led in prayer. Mr. Hammond preached on the story of the prodigal son; and as he dwelt on the prodigal's departure, return, and reception, almost every eye in that immense audience was fixed on the speaker.

PETERBOROUGH, FEBR'Y 10, 1881.

The Pratical Results of Protection.

The comparison of the figures afforded by the Trade and Navigation returns of the fiscal year 1880, with those of the previous years, furnishes food for reflection, and points out in the most conclusive manner the real cause of the showing made by our revenue and expenditure statements. The fact that there has been an excess of exports over imports this year has been hailed with hilarious glee by the Conservative press, as a convincing evidence of the efficacy of the N. P. as the great factor in the restoration of prosperity. The total exports, according to the returns, amounted in the last year to $83,336,197, while the exports of the previous year reached only $68,445,222, showing an increase in exports of $14,890,975. Referring to the tabulated statements, however, we find that this large apparent increase of exports is due to natural and not to artificial causes, and that in those particular branches of export which the National Policy was supposed to stimulate, there has been, not an increase, but a falling off. The following statements from the blue book, will make this sufficiently clear: The exports of the products of the Mine, (which interest was an especial subject of the tender care of the N. P.) in 1879 amounted to $3,187,722; and in 1880, to $2,961,615, showing a falling off last year in that branch of export alone of $206,109. The decrease in the value of our exports under head of Fisheries is still more striking, being in 1879, $7,072,203, as compared with $6,653,347 in 1880, or a falling off last year of $418,856. In our two great staple industries, lumber and agriculture, however, there is a marked and striking increase, the first owing to the accelerated demand and higher prices created by the revival of trade in the United States and Britain, and the other due to the improvement in our agricultural yield contemporaneously with a partial failure of crops in Europe. Our exports from the Forest in 1879 amounted to $13,797,259, while last year they footed up $17,666,693, or an increase of no less $3,869,434. Exports of agricultural products afford a still more striking showing. In 1879 we sent out of the country agricultural products to the amount of no less than $25,970,887, but last year our agricultural exports reached the sum of $32,278,128, or an increase in a single year, of $6,316,241. In manufactures there is a small increase exhibited, which vanishes on close inspection. The advance reported is as follows: 1879, $3,288,761, and in 1880, $4,484,211, or an increase of $1,255,450. Animals and their products were exported in 1879 to the amount of $14,737,393, and last year to extent of $18,504,009, or an increase of $3,767,616. It will be noted that while the total increase in the exports for the year amounts to $14,890,975, considerably more than the whole increase, or $14,953,294, is accounted for by increase in the agricultural, animal and lumber exports, indicating beyond dispute that the gross increases in no measure, nor in any way, affected by the tariff. Our mining and fishing interests have fallen away, and the apparent increase in manufactures is the result of clever preparation, as we shall presently point out. One item in the export statement which does not enter into that calculation, because it is a kind of export by no means desirable, is that of the coin and bullion sent abroad. In 1879 the coin sent abroad out of the circulation of the country was only $704,586, while last year this undesirable export reached $1,771,753, or an increase of $1,067,169. The details in the statement under the head of manufactures are somewhat interesting. Altogether there is an apparent increase of $1,253,450 in this branch of exports, but as a matter of fact this increase is made up of articles which are really more of the nature of raw material, as in the case of wood, leather, scrap iron, and pig iron, which make up the increase. We find that while the amount of leather exported in 1880 was $146,986 greater than in 1879, last year we exported of boots and shoes $27,281 less than in the former year. Our exports of agricultural implements have fallen off in the year, $20,564; carriages, $6,644; clothing, $18,579; cordage rope and twines, $10, 024. There is a falling off in the export of stoves, but the quantity of pig iron exported in 1880 was greater by $421,011, than in 1879, and of scrap iron, $278,657, or in this kind of raw material, an increase in exports of $699,668, which has its appropriate consequence in an increase in the imports of iron (paying duty,) of $852,009. While our export of oil cake has decreased by $16,493, our export of oil has increased by $3,670. Perhaps it is an indication of the true inwardness of the N. P., that the export of "rags" increased in 1880 by no less than $22,662. Our export of sewing machines decreased by $16,583. In 1880 we sold ships to other countries less than in 1879, by $65,497. Our export of woollens fell short of 1879 by $7,506. The comparative statement of imports is also an interesting study, as showing how a "surplus" is ground out of the people by the Ottawa tariff-tinkers. Take for instance the item of coal. In 1878 there was not one cent of duty on this article of fuel, a necessity of life, and a necessity of the manufacturers. In 1879 under three and a half months of the tariff $2,985,601 worth of coal imported paid duties to the amount of $109,404.69. Last year the amount imported was not so great, being $2,762,164 in value, but the duty reached $505,616.41. Had Sir Richard Cartwright sought to grind revenue out of the necessities of the people in this manner, he, too, might have boasted of surpluses. And mark how the Province of Ontario becomes the victim of our paternal Government's policy. Out of this confiscation of over half a million of the people's earnings, to the necessities of the Government, Ontario contributed no less than $345,411.19, or some $30,000 MORE THAN TWO-THIRDS OF THE WHOLE TAXATION. Books and publications in 1878, were taxed only $61,747.85. Under the policy of taxation on knowledge, last year the country paid $132,044.10. The duty on cotton and its manufactures, instead of decreasing the importations and "encouraging home manufactures," had no appareut effect, the imports in 1878 being $7,370,222, and in 1880, $7,825,164, or an increase of $454,942. The taxes levied on the purchasers, however, were increased by a little more than the gross increase in value of the goods imported being $454,765.28 more in 1880 than in 1878. The taxation on bread-stuffs in 1878 was $90,045.04. In 1880 it was $362,107.63. The imports of sugars in 1878 amounted to $7,126,951, and in 1880 were reduced to $4,586,741. But the duties in 1878 were $2,830,247.98, and in 1880, instead of being reduced in proportion with the decrease of imports, amounted to nearly as much as formerly, being $2,151,925.66. In 1878 seeds, an essential to the operations of farmers and gardeners, imported to the amount of $280,039, paid duty to the amount of $26,003.79. In 1880 the imports were $231,641, or $28,398 LESS IMPORTED, and were taxed $32,873.83, or $6,970.04 MORE DUTIES. The imports of woollen manufactures in 1878, were $8,670,158, and the duty collected, $1,513,303.09. In 1880 the imports of woollens had fallen off to $6,358,867, but the duties were increased $1,638,895.28. That is to say the imports in the latter year were LESS by $2,311,291, and the duties HIGHER by $125,592. These figures are sufficient to indicate the practical working of the tariff, and the lesson they teach must be plain to the meanest comprehension. We trust our erstwhile free trade, and now Protection contemporary, the Review, will give them due consideration.

Trade and Navigation Returns.

The Trade and Navigation returns for the last fiscal year, ending on June 30th last, have been received and present some very interesting figures. For some reason on the plan of printing separate tables for each province, has been abandoned, and the convenience of the statement considerably impaired. The total imports for the year footed up to $14,129,953.39. The value of the exports from the Dominion exceeded in value those of any other year since 1874, and that value was only exceeded in two years, viz., 1873 and 1874, since the date of Confederation. It also shows a result never shown before in the Dominion statistics, viz: an excess of exports over imports, the amount of such excess being, over total imports, $16,421,711, and over value of goods entered for consumption, $16,129,109. The amount of Import and Export Customs duties collected, $14,138,849.22, was exceeded in 1874 by $283,033.45, and in 1875 by $1,222,532.90, but in no other year since 1867. An analysis of the report shows that the falling off of imports of some sight and a half millions, is due to the reduced capacity of the people to purchase, owing to the enhanced prices which they are now compelled to pay for all articles entering into consumption, while the increased productiveness, of the lumber trade and of agriculture, accounts for the increase of nearly sixteen and a half millions in the exports of the surplus products of the country. The money brought into the country by the sale of this surplus, has afforded such measure of returning national prosperity as we have received. We notice that the shutting out of the trade with the United States by the tariff, has made our aggregate trade exhibit an increase in the trade with Great Britain, over that of 1879, of $13,018,438, and a decrease in that with the United States of $6,207, 983. The trade with the British and foreign West Indies and South American during the last year amounted to $7,562,678, and in 1879 to $5,498,929, showing an increase in favor of last year of $2,063,749. The trade with China and Japan shows an increase in the last year over 1879 of $425,944, and a still larger amount over the two preceding years. The trade figures for Peterborough are of special interest. They show that the aggregate trade at this port was in 1879, $148,026, and in 1878, $187,322. It has decreased in 1880 to $131,011, or a falling off $56,311. Nor is this balanced by any remarkable increase of exports which in 1878 were $45,379, and in 1880 $53,481, an increase of about $8,090, due to the larger export of grain and stock. Again we find that in 1878, we are reported as having purchased $141,943, worth of imported goods, on which the Government exacted $11,941.17, whereas last year we only received $78,530 worth of goods, just about one half the former amount, and yet the duties on that half were $10,084, or only a trifle less than paid on the former amount. Revenue from last year has fallen off $4,816.60, indicating that increased prices following the higher tariff compel people to buy less, as the purchasing power of their earnings is reduced. We direct the attention of the Review to these figures.

MR. MCCRANEY, of Halton, seems to have a somewhat novel idea of economy. He wants to have an amendment made to the drainage act, to the effect that, instead of the Council advertising drainage "by-laws in the newspapers says the municipalities may" direct that a copy of such by-law and notice, written or printed, or partly written and partly printed, be given to each of the several owners, their lessees or occupants, or to the agent or agents of such owners; or may, where the land is unoccupied, causes to be sent by registered letter to the last known address of such owner or owners a copy of such by-laws and notice." Mr. McCraney's intentions may be strictly honorable; but the fact of the matter is, that the "printing" or "printing and writing" of the necessary copies of such by-laws, delivering, posting, registering, etc., would cost far more than the more effective and better means of using the columns of the newspaper.

P. D. DORAN.

Is a compound of the virtues of sarsaparilla, stillingia, mandrake, yellow dock, with the iodide of potash and iron, all powerful blood-making, blood-cleansing, and life-sustaining elements. It is the purest, safest, and most effectual alterative available to the public. The sciences of medicine and chemistry have never produced a remedy so potent to cure all diseases resulting from impure blood. It cures Scrofula and all scrofulous diseases, Erysipelas, Rose, or St. Anthony's Fire, Pimples and Face-grubs, Pustules, Blotches, Boils, Tumors, Tetter, Humors, Salt Rheum, Scald-head, Ring-worm, Ulcers, Sores, Rheumatism, Mercurial Disease, Neuralgia, Female Weaknesses and Irregularities, Jaundice, Affections of the Liver, Dyspepsia, Emaciation, and General Debility.

By its searching and cleansing qualities it purges out the foul corruptions which contaminate the blood and cause derangement and decay. It stimulates the vital functions, restores and preserves health, and infuses new life and vigor throughout the whole system. No sufferer from any disease of the blood need despair who will give AYER'S SARSAPARILLA a fair trial.

It is folly to experiment with the numerous low-priced mixtures, without medicinal virtues, offered as blood-purifiers, while disease becomes more firmly seated. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA is a medicine of such concentrated curative power, that it is by far the best, cheapest, and most reliable blood-purifier known. Physicians know its composition, and prescribe it. It has been widely used for forty years, and has won the unqualified confidence of millions whom it has benefited.

Last year, Mr. McArthur of Seymour, was thrown from his horse and injured on the bridge, in Campellford, by the animal stepping into a hole through one of the planks. He entered an action against the Counties' Council for damages; but the counties' authorities wisely did not allow the matter to assume the shape of a law-suit. They appointed a Commissioner to inquire into the case, and it was settled to the satisfaction of both parties.

A despatch from Belleville says there will be a heavy business transacted in lumbering trade this winter. Messrs. Gilmour & Co., who do an extensive trade, yearly, six shanties, employing 600 men. This gang will get out 400,000 pieces, 150.000 of which will go down the Moira, and 250,000 via the Trent river, in the spring. Messrs. Rathbun & Son are also said to be operating more heavily in the lumber business than they did last year.

There is not a more dangerous class of disorders than those which affect the breathing organs. Nullify this danger with Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil—a pulmonac of acknowledgd efficacy. It cures lameness and soreness when applied externally, as well as swelled neck and crick in the back; and, as an inward specific, possesses most substantial claims to public confidence.

On Monday a petition was filed in the Court of Queen's Bench, against the return of James Sutherland, member for North Oxford in the house of Commons. The petitioner is the unsuccessful candidate Mr. G. R. Patullo, and the grounds on which the petition is filed are bribery and other unlawful practices on the part of Mr. Sutherland and his agents. The time for the trial has not of course been fixed yet.

ORANGE ELECTION.—At the annual meeting of the County Orange Lodge of East Peterborough, held at Norwood on Tuesday last, the following brethren were elected county officers for the current year;—Rev. W. M. Pattyson, County Master; D. MacFarlane, Deputy County Master; John Bonar, Chaplain; Charles Stephenson, Treasurer; Wesley Dafoe, Secretary; Alex Smith, Dir. of Ceremonies; Thomas McIntyre, Lecturer.

Mr. R. G. Bell, a young man well known in Lindsay and all over the county died very suddenly, of consumption, at his father's residence in the north ward on Saturday morning last. He had been in poor health for a long time and had just returned from the races at Beaverton, where it is said he was thoroughly chilled by the cold which hastened his death. When his friends left his room Friday night he did not seem to be dangerously ill, but when they went into his room next morning they found him dead.

The annual meeting of the County Orange Lodge of the county of Victoria was held in Lindsay on Tuesday last for the election of officers for the year and other business in connection with the county lodge. Bro. Wm. Adams was re-elected C. M.; Bro. J. L. Winters, D. M.; Bro. Rev. Dr. Smithett, chaplain; Bro. Jos. Inglis, Co. Secretary; Bro. Dr. Norris, Co. treasurer; Bro. Thos. Roberts, D. C.; Bro. Wm. Foley, Co. lecturer.

The Picton Times says;—A man named Barney DeMoore, from South Marysburgh, was fined $2 and costs, by the Police Magistrate last week, for having driven one of his horses eight miles with a broken hind leg. It appears he tried to pass another team on the road. The animal's leg was broken by coming in contact with the sleigh, but notwithstanding the accident he drove it home. One or two persons who met and remonstrated with him, received only insolence in return. The general opinion is that he got off far too easily.

There are some amusing stories of a certain Andrew Watson: "His workshop was visited on one occasion by a beggar who, by aid of artificial signs, indicated that he was deaf and dumb, and desired an alms. Suspicious of the applicant, and resolved on testing him, Andrew called uo his wife in another apartment, 'Annie shut the outer door,' bring my sharpin'-stone. Here's a dummie wi' plenty o' bawbees' an' nae body saw him come in. We'll do for him !'. Before the outer door could have been locked the 'deaf and dumb' man was on the safe side of it."

It will be remembered that a woman calling herself Mrs Irwin, whilst staying at the house of Mr. James Arksey, Lindsay on 22nd Dec. last, attempted suicide by taking laudanum. Prompt medical attendance, however, foiled her object. It seems that the woman has since married John Greer of Ops, and that on Friday evening of last week, she made another attempt at ridding herself of the cares of this world. This time the agency employed was paris green of which she took a teaspoonful. As soon as it was discerned that she had taken the poison a messenger was dispatched to Lindsay for medical aid and he returned with Doctors Poole and DeGrassi who administered an emetic and succeeded in saving the woman's life. It seems that the woman is a confirmed drunkard and to this is attributed her desire to commit suicide.

PUBLIC OPINION.

Bystander says "Sir William Howland's name was in itself enough to vindicate his syndicate from the imputation of being a mere party dodge; undoubtedly he and his partners believed that they were rescuing the North-West from the grasp of a giant monopoly and the community at large from the jaws of a ruinous engagement." The writer cannot be accused of harbouring any undue affection for the Liberal party. His opinion of the "political syndicate" as Thomas White termed it is, therefore, not without significance.

We cordially endorse the following form the Guelph Herald, a staunch supporter of the Government: "We very much "prefer to see a man exercise his independ-"ence, and if he does not agree with every "item the Government introduces, yet "has the courage to give his own views. "Such a man is more ready to support "his friend in the day of trial than the "parrot who reads his lesson and knows "no more, or if he does, dares not to give "utterance to his true sentiments. These "latter are the men who in the day of ad-"versity shrink away from the field leaving "the general in the dust." And it was be-"cause the Messenger would not act the ": parrot on the Syndicate question that "we had the recent tilt with the Mail and "a few others.—Collingwood Messenger.

THE LINDSAY ASSAULT CASE

(From the Port Hope Times.)

The Barr vs. Grace suit in Lindsay has resulted in the imposition of a fine of $20 and costs on the defendant, who had made a cowardly assault on the plaintiff, the editor of the Lindsay Post. The fine is seemingly a heavy one, but all decent people who know anything about the facts will agree with us in the opinion that it is not a tithe as heavy as the magistrate should have made it. It is imperative in a country like ours that the hand of the law should come down with its full weight on every one who usurps its authority. There is no necessity, no excuse, for any one's taking the law into his own hands. Redress for wrong done is easily accessible and cheap. In a new country vigilance committees may be necessary, lynching may be excusable, rough-and-ready modes of punishment—even tarring and feathering—may be necessary. But such methods are not needed here, and least of all in such long settled places as Lindsay or Port Hope. Even if Mr. Barr had, through his paper, done Grace and his family the worst conceivable injury the law was well able to protect those whom he wronged and avenge the wrong done them. A fine of $20 is a contemptible penalty for the insult which was paid to society by the ruffian who, taking the law into his own hands, practically affirmed that society was powerless to protect its members. But, then, it was only an editor.

CENTRAL EXHIBITION ASSOCIATION.

The annual meeting of the central exhibition association was held at the town hall, Millbrook, on Wednesday last. In the absence of Col. Williams, M. P., President, Mr. Marshall Porter, vice-president, took the chair.

Mr. Rea Dickson, secretary, read the list of delegates as follows:—West Durham,—Marshall Porter and S. Bradshaw; East Peterborough,—John Carnegie, (absent); East Durham,—Richard Howden and Johnston Beatty; West Northumberland,—John Isaac (absent) and W. J. Westington; North Victoria,—Thomas Winter; South Victoria,—John Connolly, P. S. Marks, Col. Deacon, Robt. Oxby, M. Thorndike, Jas. Farrell, M. H. Berkley, Wm. Minty, I. W. Reid, Dennis Scully, Chas. Reeder, John Berry, James Keith, and N. P. Murdoch.

A letter was read from the Secretary of the East Peterborough society, stating that their society had decided for the present not to unite with the central.

Mr. Foot, Treasurer of the Port Hope exhibition, submitted the auditors report which shewed the liabilities to be $175.80; and the assets, cash on hand, $83.87, E. Durham society, bal. guarantee fund, $91.93, total $175.80.

The minutes of last meeting were then read and approved.

The Secretary read an interesting address, which had been forwarded to him by the retiring President, Col. Williams.

The following officers for 1881 were selected:—President, John Connolly; vice-president, W. J. Westington; secretary, Jas. Deacon; treasurer, Jas. Keith; auditors, J .H. Knight and H. Wade. Executive committee.—President, vice-pecsident, and Messrs. Carnegie, Winter, Smithson, John Isaacs, Marshall Porter, J. Beatty, John Berry, Phillip Mark, M. H. Berkley, D. Scully, C. Reeder, P. N. Murdoch and I. W. Reid. General committee.—Mr. Wilmot, representative on board of agriculture and arts, Mr. John Carnegie, delegate agricultural and arts association; all ex-presidents of the central association as well as all officers and delegates to this meeting.

At the meeting of the Executive Committee, it was decided to hold the next central exhibition in Lindsay, in October next, the date to be subsequently fixed.

If Mrs. A. M. Sullivan, Miss Parnell, and other Irish women are successful in their scheme for the formation of the Land League composed of the gentler sex, Mr. Gladstone will be confronted by a new and most perplexing difficulty. The Coercion Act may close the months of the male agitators, or throw them into prison, but where is the civilized Government, outside of Russia, that would care to coerce women. British soldiers, thoroughly disciplined as they are, would most unwillingly obey orders if called upon to break up a meeting of women, or to march off to prison the wives and sisters of men already in durance for political offences of a not very grave character. The idea of a Women's League is worthy of the Parnellite brain, and successfully elaborated, may become an important factor in one of the most remarkable struggles that this generation has been called upon to witness.

CONSUMPTION

CAN BE CURED

IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable specifics, in a form perfectly palatable, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach, and we make the unqualified statement that Scott's Emulsion is being used with better results, and endorsed and prescribed by more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Anæmia, General Debility and the Wasting disorders of children than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food medicine diet, is truly marvellous.

SEE WHAT PHYSICIANS AND THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT IT.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE: 66 West Thirty-sixth Street, New York, Sept. 2, 1876.

GENTS—I have frequently prescribed SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation, in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficacious. C. C. LOCKWOOD, M. D.

MESSRS SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used my own family, and in my private practice very extensively SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach; which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases.
Oct. 12, 1879. Yours respectfully, A. H. SAXTON, M.D., Baltimore.

MESSRS SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last two months I have fairly tried SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES, and I candidly declare that it is the finest preparation of the kind that has ever been brought to my notice; in affections of the lungs and other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly elegant and agreeable form.
December 10th, 1878. Very truly, J. SIMONAUD, M.D., New Orleans, La.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—In September, 1877, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health did not improve, and early in the winter, I began to raise blood and rapidly grew worse. In May last I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to my bed and my life was despaired of for many weeks; violent symptoms appeared, night and morning coughs, night sweats, short breath, and a return of the spinal trouble. My physician stopped the bleeding and then ordered Cod Liver Oil and Lime; and I used various preparations, but they did me no good. I lost all hope of life, and was an object of pity to all my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of your EMULSION and before it was all taken I was better. I then bought a dozen bottles and have taken all with the following results: Cough subsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pains in spine disappeared, strength returning, and my weight increased from 118 to 140 pounds in sixteen weeks. I have taken no other medicine since commencing with your EMULSION and shall continue its use until I am perfectly well. I frequently meet some friend on the street who asks, what cured you and I answer, SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL, &c., I have a friend who has not spoke aloud for 15 months and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle, and he bought two more, then got a dozen and says it is food and medicine for him. He was given up to die a year ago; but he is improving now wonderfully. My recovery is exciting the surprise of many people, and I shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine.
Jan. 30, 1879. Very truly yours, H. F. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE: LYNN, Randolph Co., Ind., July 2nd, 1878.
About the 25th of last April I got a bottle of your EMULSION and at that time I was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live but a few days at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the EMULSION in small doses; it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some two or three have already tried it. I am sure I shall entirely recover. I am gratefully yours,

PETERBOROUGH, FEBR'Y 10, 1881.

Toronto and Ottawa Railway.

The wisdom of the action of the Council, in appointing a deputation to visit Toronto to oppose the legislation proposed by the above Company, so far as it was to affect the position of this town, has been fully demonstrated by the result. The Bill, as submitted to the Railway Committee, was of the same retroactive character as that by which the Grand Junction Company have been able to give so much trouble to the county of Peterborough, and would virtually have enabled the T. & O. Company to compel the town to carry out the conditions of the lapsed bonus. The Deputation appointed were Mayor Smith, and Messrs. J. Bertram, F. J. Dennistoun and Jas. R. Stratton, to whom were afterwards added ex-Mayor Lundy and ex-Councillor Denne. The Mayor and Mr. Stratton went to Toronto early in the week and devoted themselves actively to the duty of interviewing the members of the Railway Committee, to whom individually the merits of the case were fully explained. The Bill was appointed for hearing before the Committee on Friday morning, when the Deputation, with Mr. Hodgins, Q C., who had been retained for the town, appeared in opposition to, and Messrs. Bethune and Leys in favor of, the proposed legislation. The objections of the town were put before the Committee forcibly by Mr. Hodgins, and the Deputation desire to acknowledge the assistance, also, of Messrs. Blezard M. P. P., Ross, M. P. P., Miller M. P. P., and Wells, M. P. P., members of the Committee. As a vote which it was apparent would be in favor of the town was about to be taken, Mr. Bethune suggested the willingness of the Company to expunge the objectionable clause, and to substitute one in the stead thereof requiring the assent of the ratepayers to be taken under the old law, making a majority of votes cast sufficient to carry a by-law. The deputation opposed this, but the Chairman of the Railway Committee, Hon. Mr. Pardee, stated that this was a matter for the government to consider, as it involved a change in the general legislation, which the government would require to examine. At his suggestion further consideration of the subject was therefore postponed till Tuesday. The effect of the action of the Committee, so far, is sufficient to satisfy us that the town is freed from the old by-law, which is in itself a sufficient cause for congratulation, and is mainly due to the energetic canvas of the Railway Committee made by the advance members of the deputation. Even should the government accede to the request of the Railway people, the town will still have the granting or the refusal of a new bonus in the hands of the ratepayers.

Since the above was written, we are in a position to announce that the adjourned consideration of the question before the Railway committee on Tuesday morning resulted most satisfactorily to the town. Fortunately the matter was not left to take its chances in the committee, though we believe there were fair prospects that a majority of the committee would have pronounced in favor of the town. The Government had effectually decided the matter, and when the committee met him, Mr. Pardee announced that the Government would not permit any special legislation to affect the town, and as the committee had already decided not to allow lapsed by-laws to be renewed, the proposed legislation would have to be abandoned. This result will be most satisfactory to the citizens of Peterborough.

AN EFFORT IS TO BE MADE to oust the Mayor of Ottawa, on the ground that he is not properly qualified within the meaning of the law. Four of the aldermen of the Capital are to be put to a similarly crucial test.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

THE BELLEVILLE Intelligencer turns its batteries upon the Irish Canadian, which it accuses of endeavoring to foment discord in the Conservative ranks in East Northumberland for the benefit of "the Grits." How is this, Messrs. Boyle and Murphy?

MR. PATTERSON, THE TORY member for Essex, on Monday presented in the House of Commons, a petition from his constituents, setting forth that "the tariff of the Dominion of Canada as it at present exists, discriminates unfairly against the interests of the farmers of Canada." The farmers all over Canada will say amen to this opinion.

SIR JOHN MACDONALD has announced the opinion that any correspondent of a newspaper at Ottawa, who expresses an opinion in his correspondence, ought to be deprived of his seat in the gallery. This is good old Tory doctrine with a vengeance; but Sir John will find that the days when Power can gag the Press in Canada, are long gone into the limbo of the things that were.

THERE ARE TWO VACANCIES at present in the Senate, one caused by the retirement of Hon. James Skead, and the other by the death of Hon. David Christie. It is understood that Dr. Grant, of Ottawa, will replace the former, and Hon. John Carling, of London, the latter. As we have no voice in the matter of filling the vacancies, we can only say that the two gentlemen named are about the most respectable that could be selected from the Syndicate party.

THE FOLLOWING CIRCULAR telegram was some time ago sent to all the Tory organs, and gains publicity through being sent by some mistake, no doubt, to a good Liberal journal:

Ottawa, December, 1880.

How many copies of my late speech, supplied gratuously, can you circulate as a supplement to your newspaper? Answer by telegraph, paid here.

CHARLES TUPPER.

The Sarnia Observer asks: "who paid for all the printing and advertising?" Why, simple friend, the Syndicate, of course.

THE WORLD OF LETTERS has sustained an irreparable loss in the death of the veteran philosopher, Thomas Carlyle, whose writings have, for half a century, dazzled and delighted the students of knowledge. On Saturday morning at half-past eight he passed away into the mystery of the unknown future, in the eighty-sixth year of his age. The deceased philosopher has several relatives residing in Canada. Among them are a sister, Mrs. Henning, a widow lady in Hamilton, Ont.; a family of nephews and nieces in Burford, Ont., the children of his brother Alexander, who settled there; a family of nephews and nieces in Brant township, the children of his brother John. One of these neices is the mother of Mr. Ellis, of Barber & Ellis, of Toronto. Dr. Carlyle of the Normal school is a nephew. Alex. Carlyle, B. A., son of the late Alex. Carlyle of Burford married the niece who was present at the death bed.

IN THE HOUSE OF COMMONS last week, in answer to a question, Sir John Macdonald made the statement, that it was the intention of the Government this year to give effect to the following resolution passed in Parliament in 1873:

"The Right Hon. Sir John Macdonald moved, seconded by the Hon. Mr. Langevin, —'That an humble address be presented to His Excellency the Governor-General, praying that he will be graciously pleased to give directions that the remains of the Hon. Geo. E. Cartier be interred at the public expense, and that a monument be erected to the memory of that excellent statesman, with an inscription expressive of the public sense of so great and irreparable a loss, and to assure His Excellency that this House will make good the expenses attending the same.'"

We believe we are correct in saying that had not the resolution above quoted been adopted before the Pacific scandal iniquity was fully proved, the Parliament of 1873, which punished Sir John and his colleagues in that year, would never have sanctioned this motion. However, as Sir John has made up his mind about it, we suggest the following as an appropriate inscription, as commemorating that achievement of Sir George Cartier, which is likely to live longest in the minds of his countrymen:

(Private and Confidential.)

"Montreal, July 30, 1872.

"DEAR SIR HUGH.—The friends of the Government will expect to be assisted with funds in the pending elections, and any amount which you, or your Company, shall advance for the purpose shall be recouped to you.

PERSONAL INTELLIGENCE.

Mr. Thos. Stephenson, ex-reeve of Emily, is, we are pleased to learn, recovering from a serious illness with which he was recently prostrated.

Mr. A. Burton, the popular agent of the Midland at Lindsay, is about again, after having been confined to his house with a very severe cold.

Mr. R. Mimms, conductor on the main line of the Midland Railway, has for a few weeks been in charge of the Peterborough train instead of Mr. Riley, who has been laying off.

The Oshawa Reformer says:—Mr. J. Carey has purchased a boot and shoe business in Peterborough, and will remove there in a few weeks. The business is a large one, twelve men being constantly employed in making ordered work. Although sorry to lose Mr. Carey from our midst, we hope he will be successful in his new venture.

Owen Daly, a former resident of Lindsay, and brother of Mr. Jas. Daly, of the St. James Hotel, died in Rochester, on Saturday week.

REV. MR. FOTHERINGHAM AND THE PRESBYTERY OF PETERBOROUGH.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:

DEAR SIR,—Having read the letter of "Justice," and Mr. Fotheringham's "reply," I am not surprised that the Review should report Mr. F. as saying that he would be "on Mr. Bell's side," seeing he had not only a "standing," but a "special" invitation to Mr. B.'s house on the occasion of the Presbytery's meeting. Why was a "special" invitation given? That is enough to account for Mr. F.'s "special" pleading and partiality in the business.

There is no parallel betwixt Mr. F.'s discussing the case one day at the table of a friend, who in common with all his guests was neither the accuser nor the accused, and Mr. F.'s discussing it the day before at the table of the accused, where he acquired the exparte "better knowledge." The "special" was doubtless given because Mr. B. fancied him more influential than "most members," an idea perhaps not unconsciously indulged by Mr. F. himself, from the circumstance that he was so anxious to have his "reply" published before the approaching meeting of Presbytery, at which he could not be present himself. There was one thing, however, in which the Presbytery did not accede to his suggestion, namely, that "the Commissioners of St. Paul's Session would be heard," for they were condemned without being allowed a hearing. Not ashamed of the arbitrary, irregular and arrogant proceedings of the Presbytery, Mr. F. would fain, like tyrants and persecutors of old, be armed with civil power, and have persons who called in question his brief authority "placed in the custody of Sheriff Hall."

But to pass from Mr. F. to the Presbytery's last meeting. As they open their doors to the public, they will not object to a little wholesome criticism from one of the spectators, especially as the writer does not intend to inflict much of the censure they so justly deserve.

The first thing done in the case, "Col. Haultain vs. Rev. A. Bell," was to appoint a Committee consisting of five ministers and three elders to arrange a difficulty between a brother minister and an elder. What chance was there for the latter from such a composition? Had the respective numbers been reversed there would still have been a very preponderating clerical element, for who does not know that an average clergyman is more than a match for six average elders in the powers of talking, arguing and dogmatizing. The report of the Committee thus constituted was such as might have been expected. The sin of the brother clergyman must not be exposed as was Achan's in the Old Testament times, and that of Ananias in the New, that they might receive the due reward of their misdeeds, and others made to fear of sinning in a like manner, but they must follow the well-known practice of another church, whose ecclesiastics hush up the sins of their fellow-priests, lest they themselves and their order should receive damage in the eyes of the world. But for this esprit du corps among the brethren of the black cloth, it would be a mystery how a military and a Christian gentleman like Col. Haultain could have been prevailed upon by them to think it his duty not to insist upon an open acknowledgement of, and satisfaction for, the (to him unprecedented) offence committed by the accused party. Instead of trying to appease Col. H., everything was done to gratify the exactings of his adversary, who got the Presbytery to change the report of the Committee again and again to suit his requirements, till at last a clean sheet was presented to him.

Having thus gained an ill-gotten triumph over Col. H., his next onslaught was on St. Paul's Session, for having presumed to place themselves by the side of their injured brother and ask the Presbytery for redress. Their principal in the case having unexpectedly surrendered his position, the Session, as a consequence, had to share in the collapse and submit to the indignity of being condemned without being allowed to say a word in their defence.

For the Committee to say that the matter had been "honorably and amicably settled," and the Presbytery to confirm it to the extent of its being "amicable," when the violent animosity of Mr. B. towards Col. H. was meanwhile unblushingly manifested, it was awfully hard to believe the solemn finding of the Presbytery to that effect.

What is to be thought of a court that proceeds to institute a judical investigation into the conduct of St. Paul's Session without having given that Session any previous notice, and then turning round and inflicting disgrace upon them for simply asking the Presbytery to examine into the charge against Mr. Bell? For a Court to dispense (with) justice in that way is more than enough to disgust and alienate all Presbyterians in the bounds of its jurisdiction, and to make them pray "from such ecclesiastical tyranny, Good Lord deliver us."

How it fares with elders in the Presbytery was illustrated by one (when quoting from the Free Church of Scotland Book of Proceedure, that being the collective wisdom of a whole church) being snubbingly told by the Moderator that they had nothing to do with the Free Church. On the other hand a minister, when afterwards speaking to another point of the same case, was allowed to read as much as he chose from the writings of one minister of that church without any objection being made. No wonder that some people on seeing and hearing the above scenes were congratulating themselves as they withdrew from the place that they were not in bondage to such "lords over God's heritage."

SPECTATOR.

February 5th, 1881.

Public speakers and singers who would possess a clear voice, freedom from hoarseness and sore throat should use Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam, a safe, pleasant and certain healer for the throat and lungs; it speedily breaks up a cold and cures all pulmonary complaints, that so often lead to incurable Consumption. 6-2t

If you are suddenly attacked by Pain or Inflammation, Colds, Burns, Cuts, Bruises and Wounds, or suffer from any painful or inflammatory disease, or for accidents or emergencies, don't delay till the doctor comes, but use Hagyard's Yellow Oil according to special directions, and the chances are that you will find relief before you could find a docter. Every household should keep this well known valuable remedy at hand. 6-2t

If reference to the last purchase of Burdock Blood Bitters, I have sold medicine for over twenty-five years, and in that time never sold medicine that gave as good satisfaction. Taken for the diseases recommended, it has always helped the patient to such a degree, that, warranting the medicine, every person is satisfied to pay for it. I could get you any quantity of testimonials if I had time to see parties, but we are very much drove in our business.

Yours with respect,

Shocking Tragedy at Belleville.

A POLICE SERGEANT SHOOTS HIMSELF IN PRESENCE OF HIS LITTLE DAUGHTER.

BELLEVILLE, Feb. 5.—Sergeant Snider, of the Belleville Police Force, shot himself in the head after dinner to-day, and expired about 3 o'clock. No cause is arraigned for the act beyond the fact that he got into debt and was harrassed by duns. He was about 32 years of age, had been several years on the force, and leaves a wife and several children.

An evening paper gives the following further particulars as to Sergeant Snider's suicide. He came home to dinner about noon and ate a hearty dinner, apparently being in better spirits than usual, even joking with his children in his usual genial way. After dinner he went upstairs to his bedroom.

ATTEMPTED POISONING.

His eldest daugnter, Maud, a girl of about thirteen years of age, went up a few minutes after, and found him in his shirt sleeves, with a bottle of medicine which he just received from a doctor in his hand. As she entered the room he lifted the bottle to his lips, and drank off almost the entire contents, and in a moment or two he was seized with a violent fit of vomiting. When he had recovered he walked across the room once or twice, and then came and sat on the side of the bed.

ANOTHER MEANS OF DEATH.

Presently he said to his daughter, "Maudy, I am going to put an end to my life," after which he laid himself down on the bed and placed his revolver by his right side on the cover. His daughter, after she had recovered from the shock caused by this terrible declaration, flew towards him and begged him not to carry out his awful resolve; but he repeated his intention in the same words, and a moment or two after, raising the revolver to his right temple, he said, "Maudy, I'm gone," and pulled the trigger. The shot had been well aimed. The bullet entered the temple just in front and a little above the right ear, penetrating into the brain.

THE SICK WIFE'S DISCOVERY.

The report of the revolver and the screams of the child startled Mrs. Snider, who was lying sick down stairs, and she rushed up into the bedroom, to find her husband lying unconscious on the bed with the still smoking revolver in his hand and a terrible wound in his head, from which the blood and brains were oozing. The neighbors were at once aroused, and in a few minutes the house was filled with a crowd of people, many of whom came in order to render assistance, and many out of pure curiosity. Dr. Curlett was summoned, but on examining the wound he pronounced death inevitable, and only a matter of a few hours at the most. He died about half-past two, an hour and ten minutes after the shot. He remained perfectly unconscious, with closed eyes, to the very last. Dr. Willson, Coroner, was summoned, but under the circumstances did not consider it necessary to hold an inquest.

THE MOTIVE OF THE ACT.

The cause of the suicide remains a mystery at present. It was apparently the result of a sudden resolve or impulse. The only cause which can be assigned is that for a long time past the deceased has been harassed by many small debts, which he was unable to pay, and for which he was constantly being dunned. But his cheerful demeanor a few moments before he committed the awful deed would go to show that he was not then suffering from the cause. Sergt. Snider first entered the Police Force on the 27th of September, 1869, and with the exception of a couple of years has remained a member of it ever since. He has always been considered a most efficient officer. The deceased leaves a wife and three children, the youngest of which is a babe in arms.

Railway Notes.

At the annual meeting of the Grand Junction Railway Company, held at Belleville on Monday of last week, the line as completed was accepted by the Company, and the contractors released. A Board of Directors was elected, who, appointed the following officers:—President, Thos. Kelso; vice-President, John McDougall; Managing Director, E. O. Bickford.

The following is the Midland Railway traffic receipts for the week ending Jan. 31st, 1881, and the corresponding week of 1880:—Passengers and mails, $2,074.61; freight, $3,048.09; total for the week, $5,132.70. 1880—Passengers and mails, $2,306.44; freight, $2,683.81; total for week, $4,990.25; increase, $142.45; aggregate receipts from 1st January, 1881, $14,348.93; total increase, $758.23.

The Grand Junction Railway Company is applying to the Local Legislature for a charter to enable it to extend its line from Tweed eastward to Perth, where it will connect with the Canada Central, and from Omemee westward to Toronto, where it will connect with the Credit Valley and other roads. If the charter is granted, the company will have its new lines completed in eighteen months.

The bill respecting the Whitby, Port Perry and Lindsay Railway Company provides that the time for the completion of the extensions and branches shall be extended for six years, that power be given to issue "extension bonds" to the extent of $15,000 for each mile constructed, to lease to, or amalgamate with, other companies, and that an agreement to be made with the Midland Company for certain divisions of the earnings of the two roads be declared valid.

The bill to incorporate the Weston and Duffin's Creek Railway Company provides that Messrs. Alx. Manning, John Upper, Kingston, David Tisdale, Simcoe, and Wm. Scully, shall have power, with other shareholders, to construct a railway from a point at or near Weston to a point on the line of the G. T. R. near Duffin's Creek, via a point on Younge-street near Eglinton. The capital is to be $300,000 in shares of $100 each, and when $50,000 is subscribed and ten per cent. of it paid up, directors may be elected. The ten per cent. must be paid within twenty days of subscription, and the qualification for a director is the possession of 100 shares. There are to be five directors. The line is to be commenced within three years and completed within seven.

It is said that the deputation from the Town Council, appointed to attend to the interests of the municipality in respect to the Midland Railway legislation, will endeavour to have a clause inserted in the Bill before the Local Legislature, declaring that the General Traffic Manager's and Chief Engineer's offices form part of the Head office of the corporation, and should be stationed at Port Hope. The argument set up to advance this proposition is, that at the House last session, the town deputation agreed to assist in the passage of the Bill then before the Legislature, on condition that the "Head Office" should remain here, and that the railway has broken faith with them in removing the offices referred to to Peterborough.—Pt. Hope News.

The Barrie Examiner says:—The sum of $2,600 was paid over to the legal heirs of the late Dr. McConkey, by the members of Barrie Lodge No. 77 A. O. U. W., of which the deceased was a member, this morning. An acknowledgment of the payment appears in our advertising columns to-day. The Barrie Lodge of the Order is receiving large augmentations to its membership. The fact is, the Order is popular wherever it exists.

It is not always the man that knows the most who has the most nose. One frosty day in winter a gentleman accosted another, saying: "Hello! myf riend, you have frozen your nose, I fear." "Well may-be I have," replied the other, "but I have rubbed it as far as I could reach." If he had rubbed with Hagyard's Yellow Oil he would have speedily cured the first bite. Yellow Oil is the great specific for Burns, Scalds, Frost bites, Chilblains, Wounds, and for internal use in all painful and inflammatory diseases, curing Colds, Bronchitis, Croup and Sore Throat speedily. 6-2t

NOT AFRAID!

We are not afraid of competition from any source, from co-operative stores or dry goods stores, or any other kind of stores.

The people of Peterborough, as a whole are quite wide awake to their interests, and will buy their goods where they are best served. A co-operative store has as much right to sell dry goods, and pins and needles, as a dry goods store has to go into boots and shoes.

The real secret of business success is to be thorough in whatever branch is taken up, as a general rule a jack-of-all-trades is master of none, whether he has on his sign that he is a co-operative, dry goods or grocery Store, or whatever it may be. We keep strictly to the branch of business we have adapted, Tailoring and Gents' Furnishings, and as a result do a good trade.

We therefore can smile at the frantic efforts of any, whose foundation is so insecure that they view with alarm the establishment of any new business.

MUSTARD!

"WHAT SAY YOU TO A PIKCE OF BEEF AND MUSTARD?"—Shakspeare.

"TAMING OF THE SHREW."—Act IV, Scene III.

Suggested as an appropriate topic for discussion at the first meeting of the Literary Class about to be formed for the study of Shakespeare, whose works are proposed to be the subject of study and admiration during the evenings of the present winter.

This quotation from Shakespeare shows that Mustard was in use 300 Years ago.

KEEN'S MUSTARD was first manufactured 125 years after Shakespeare's death.

The popular demand for Cheap Goods together with the active competition amongst manufacturers, has led to a deplorable system of adulteration.

"TRUE 'TIS A PITY, PITY 'TIS; 'TIS TRUE." And the average article of Mustard of the present day would extort from the Hard of Avon the most vigorous condemnation.

KEEN'S MUSTARD, however, would not merit such objurgation, the manufacturers having regard to character and quality rather than cheapness, which generally means impurity and trash.

To those who seek a pure article I can recommend his brand as being unequalled in flavor and pungency.

I have also in stock a very fine assortment of Sauces, Pickles, Table preparations and Preserved Meats. The latter are peculiarly appetizing and must be eaten to be appreciated.

The Town Council.

MONDAY'S MEETING—STREET INSPECTOR'S REPORT—THE TAX COLLECTOR'S DIFFICULTIES—THE TORONTO DEPUTATION—NEW MARKET BY-LAW—TWO YEARS LEASE OF THE TOLLS EFFECTED.

The Council met on Monday evening last, when there were present Messrs. Cahill, McNaughton, Kelly, Paterson, Chamberlain, Rutherford, Yelland, Douglas, Menzies and Hartley.

Mayor Smith being absent in Toronto attending the Railway committee in the interest of the Town, on motion of Mr. McNaughton seconded by Mr. Douglas, Mr. Chamberlain was elected chairman.

The minutes of the previous meetings were read and confirmed.

The Clerk read a statement of the treet property and lumber in the hands of the Street Inspector, the gross value eing estimated at $214.75.

An application from Mrs. Curran, for remission of taxes, which had been thrown upon her by a flitting tenant, was referred to the Court of Revision.

Accounts from Thos. Sargission for carting prisoner to goal, 25c; Geo. Benton, carting wood, 50c; and Geo. A. Cox, renewal of Insurance on the town clock, $5, were ordered to be paid.

A communication from the town Trust set forth that $7,000 of debentures fell due on Oct. 1st. The Trust believed that they could place renewal debentures in small sums, at par, at a rate of interest not higher than 5 per cent, payable in 10 years. They asked the Council to authorize the issue of debentures not to exceed $7,000. A communication from Hatton, Hatton & Beck addressed to Wm. Cummings and John McGhee his bailiff, was read. The effect was to warn these parties that the goods seized by them for taxes were not the goods of John O'Neil, but the prosperity of Hatton, Hatton & Beck's client. They had been lent to Mrs. Mary O'Neil, and the Lawyers gave notice that if the goods were removed, they would institute an action for damages.

The Clerk stated that the Mayor did not feel warranted in signing cheques except by order of the Council. He alluded to the charity cheques.

Mr. Menzies moved a resolution complying with the request of the Town Trust, authorizing the issue of $7,000 debentures to meet those falling due on Oct. 1st. He said if the Trust could place these debentures at 5 per cent, he thought the terms were very favorable to the town.

Mr. Hartley seconded the motion which was carried.

Mr. Cummings, the Collector, was heard in reference to the O'Neil matter. He said these goods were found in the possession of John O'Neil. He was taxed for them, and the goods had to be held for the taxes. They were told that the goods belonged to his son or to Mrs. O'Neil, but if this thing were to be allowed it would put a stop to the collection of taxes altogether.

Mr. Paterson asked if the goods were on the premises?

Mr. Cummings said no, O'Neil had moved them away, but the goods were followed for the taxes. There was an eternal war between the landlord and tenant; one says the other is to pay the taxes, and the other says the opposite. The Collector has to look first to the goods on the property, before he can return the taxes against the property. In answer to a question he said this was the same case as Edge's, and he had made the taxes out of Edge.

Mr. Yelland said the Collector ought to know his business by this time. He should be allowed to go on and do the best he could.

Mr. Paterson said, if he could'nt get the taxes out of the tenant, to return them against the land.

Mr. Rutherford moved, seconded by Mr. Paterson, that the matter be left in the hands of the Collector.

Mr. McGhee was heard, and said he had made this seizure on the warrant of the Collector. He was told that the goods did not belong to John O'Neil, and that he could take them away and take the consequences. He could'nt afford to bear the cost of an expensive law suit, and wanted to know what he was going to do.

Mr. Menzies said Mr. McGhee was employed as constable on the distinct understanding, that it was to be part of his duty to act as bailiff to the Collector. If he wasn't prepared to do so, he had no business to have taken the office.

Mr. Cahill said he did not see that Mr. McGhee had any responsibilty. The Collector had given the Constable a warrant to execute, and he thought it was the Collector, and not Mr. McGhee, who would be liable for any action that might arise.

Mr. Cummings said the Council had given him a roll, and he was bound to collect every penny of it. Was he to be liable for all the taxes the Council had given away? The Council must make the roll good to him. He could return the taxes against the land, but he must first make an oath that there was no other property to be levied on.

Mr. Hartley thought it would be well to have legal advice, for the guidance of the Collector.

Mr. Cummings said since he had collected taxes in 1853, in matters of this kind, he had always been authorized to consult a solicitor.

Mr. Rutherford's motion having been declared carried, the subject was dropped.

Mr. Cahill moved that Mr. Stratton be heard as to the result of the visit of the deputation to Toronto.

Mr. J. R. Stratton said as a member of the deputation appointed by the Council to visit Toronto on behalf of the town, in company with Mayor Smith, he had gone to Toronto on Wednesday last. They had at once set about seeing as many of the members of the Railway Committee as they could, and thought they had personally seen the majority of them. They had found in every instance that the members had been already consulted by the agents of the Railway company, and that everything that could be done by the company to prejudice the committee against the views of the town had been done. Some of the committee seemed to think that no obstacle ought to be thrown in the way of the Toronto and Ottawa Railway, and others appeared to have an idea that Peterborough people were always trying to get out of their bonuses. They had pointed out to the members of the committee that the Railway company had never in a single instance complied with any of the conditions under which they had secured the bonus, that they had allowed the by-law to lapse through their own failure to meet its conditions, and that the by-law had finally been formally rescinded. Mr. Hodgins had also addressed the Committee, and Mr. Bethune on behalf of the Company, the former showing that this legislation if passed would place a debt of $150,000 upon the town, without the people of the town having a voice in the matter. Previously to this Mr. Smith and himself had waited upon the Government and asked them if they would allow such unjust legislation to pass. The Government did not care to commit themselves but preferred to wait the result of the proceedings in the Committee. In the committee on the first clause of the bill, which provided that "all by-laws passed by any municipality * * are hereby declared legal and valid," after some discussion the company withdrew the clause as the sense of the committee was evidently hostile. The second clause giving power to build branch lines, they also withdrew. On the third clause which provided that:

"The councils of all corporations, which, have heretofore granted or may hereafter grant aid by way of bonus to the said company, and the reeves representing any grouped portion of any county, may by resolution extend the time for the commencement of work beyond that stipulated for in the by-law or by-laws granting such aid, from time to time, and such extension may be made notwithstanding that the time limited for the commencement of work under the terms of any such by-law or by-laws shall at the time of passing any such resolution have been passed: Provided that no such extension shall be for a longer period than one year from the passing of this Act," they showed them that the Town of Peterborough, at the time of the original passing of the by-law were so anxious for another railway outlet, that they had even advanced money to promote the undertaking, and they had extended the time for the commencement of the work from time to time until June 30 last, when, as the company had done nothing towards complying with the conditions of the by-law, they refused to further extend it. They were now in an entirely different and better position than when they first offered conditional aid to the road. They had secured an additional railway outlet to the east and didn't want this debt of $150,000 to be placed upon them. The town felt that they had done everything they could in good faith with the company, and the latter had not complied with one single condition of the by-law. The town was therefore, neither in honor nor in duty bound to assume this burden. Mr. Leys then took the position that the Company had done work enough on the surveys, to entitle them to this bonus, and thought they could hold the town to it. They then asked him, if this was the case, why he was seeking this legislation. To this he made no reply, but asked leave to withdraw this clause, and insert another giving the Company power to submit a new by-law, to be voted on under the same conditions as the former one, that is a majority of votes cast to carry, instead of a majority of qualified votes on the lists, as the law now stands. The deputation took the position that the town did not want any exceptional legislation passed affecting them. The Chairman of the Railway Committee, Hon. Mr. Pardee, then took the ground that as the proposition of the Company would interfere with the general legislation of the Province, it would be a matter for the Government to consider, and had requested the further consideration of the case to be postponed, and come up as the first business on Tuesday. Mayor Smith had consequently left this (Monday) evening, to be present at the Committee when the matter came up again. He (Mr. Stratton) had telegraphed to Mr. Pardee to-day, and received the following reply, but, Mr. Smith had left for Toronto before the message came.

"TORONTO, Feb. 7.

"J. R. Stratton:

"The Government will see that no improper clause relating to By-Law is passed.

"T. B. PARDEE."

He took from that that the Government did not feel justified in sanctioning the new proposal of the Company. He had omitted to mention that they had also pointed out to the Committee that the old By-Law required the Company to secure $1,000,000 in municipal bonuses before Peterborough's bonus became available, and that they had utterly failed to meet that condition. They had done everything they could to have the Bill of the Company so far as it concerned the town killed in the Committee, and he believed the prospects were good that they had succeeded.

Mr. Paterson asked if the Company wanted to submit the old By-Law over again.

Mr. Stratton said the Company wished to submit a new By-Law, for the same amount as the old one, and under the same conditions of voting. He pointed out that the Committee was a large one, and the Company had had four days in which to work upon them since the matter was up. They would, no doubt, use every influence to change the feeling of the Committee, and he thought it would be wise for the Council to pass a strong resolution, protesting against the Company's proposal, which could be telegraphed to the Mayor in the morning. Such a resolution would materially strengthen the Mayor's hands before the Committee.

Mr. Cahill, seconded by Mr. Taylor, moved the following resolution, which was carried unanimously:

That this Council having heard the explanations of Mr. J. R. Stratton on behalf of the deputation to Toronto re the Toronto and Ottawa Railway Bill, request the deputation and Mr. Hodgins to urge in the strongest manner upon the Railway Committee their earnest protest against the insertion in said bill of any clause subjecting the town to exceptional legislation, or permitting the Company to submit a bonus by-law to the ratepayers of Peterborough, in any other manner or on any other condition than those provided for by by the existing laws, and that the Clerk be instructed to telegraph a copy of this resolution to Mayor Smith.

Mr. Taylor then presented the report of the Market Committee, which recommended that the tolls be leased for two years from this date for $1,100 a year, and that the time for opening the market to hucksters be changed from 11 to 10 o'clock.

The Market By-Law was then introduced, passed its first reading and the Council went into Committee, Mr. Cahill in the chair.

On the 12th clause, Mr. Paterson moved, seconded by Mr. Chamberlain,—That the hour of 10 o'clock be substituted for 11 o'clock.

Mr. McNaughton, seconded by Mr. Yelland, moved to retain 10 o'clock.

Mr. Chamberlain urged strongly the adoption of the change to 10 o'clock.

Messrs. McNaughton and Yelland opposed this, when Mr. Hartley moved that the hour be fixed at 10.30.

This compromise was adopted and the Council rose, reported the By-Law, which was put through the remaining stages and passed.

Mr. Yelland moved, seconded by Mr. Douglas,—That the Treasurer be authorized to pay small orders from the Chairman of the Charity Committee.—Carried.

Mr. Cahill, seconded by Mr. Kelly, moved that Messrs. Paterson and Menzies be a Committee to ascertain what better banking accommodation could be obtained than at present, and report to the Council.

On motion of Mr. McNaughton the Council adjourned for one week.

SPORTING NOTES.

The Lindsay Post gives the following account of the trotting on the snow track, at that place, on Tuesday and Wednesday of last week.

The named race was next called and all the entries made their appearance except Bird, which met with an accident on her way to Lindsay, and had to be taken home again. The same trouble was experienced in getting a fair start, that was felt in the green race. They scored four or five times in every heat and then got off badly. After the first quarter was reached in the first heat, it was plain that Peterboro' Maid would not only take the heat but the race also. She took three straight heats with ease, and her admirers held that had she been pushed would have distanced her competitors. The purse was $60.—1st, $35; 2nd, $15; 3rd, $10, The race resulted:

Omemee Maid	2	2	2
Kitty	3	3	3

Time—1st heat, 2.52; 2nd, 2.55; 3rd, 2.55.

SECOND DAY.

The attendance on Thursday was very large and much interest was manifested. The three minute race was called at two o'clock, but it was half an hour before a start could be got. The purse was $50, 1st, $35; 2nd, $10; 3rd, $5. Peterboro' Maid again took the lead and maintained that position throughout the three heats. The result was as follows:

Nettie	2	2	2
Josey	4	3	3
Young Whalebone	3	4	4

Time—1st heat, 2.47; 2nd, 2.47; 3rd, 2.41.

The only protest entered was that against Peterboro' Maid, in the three minute race, it being alleged that she had trotted in better than three minutes before. Mr. Sawers last night made affidavit that the mare never made better than three minutes at any previous race, and it is expected that the money will be handed over to him.

The judges were Mr. John Simpson, Bobcaygeon; Mr. A. McKenzie, Port Perry; and Mr. W. Conant, Oshawa. Mr. John Simpson was the starter.

Bowmanville Curlers are not pleased with the treatment they received in Toronto, in the Tankard competition.

Bowmanville and Whitby Curlers played a match at the latter place last week, and, when they finished, it was found that the four rinks of each club were ties. One rink of each club played one end, and gave Bowmanville the game by 1 shot.

The Sentinal-Star of Thursday says.—A match game between two rinks from Peterborough, and two from Cobourg, was played here yestrday afternoon, resulting in a tie. After the game was over, the visitors were entertained at a supper in the British Hotel.

Kingston, Feb. 4.—The curling match which was played here to-day, between the Kingston and Belleville clubs, resulted in an easy victory for the Kingston players. At the end of the match the score stood:—Kingston 72; Belleville 23.

The following is the score of the curling match, Peteterborough v. Port Hope played at the latter place on Wednesday last.

PETERBOROUGH.—Rink 1—W. H. Budden, T. P. Attrill, G. Dunsford, A. H. McDougal, skip, 23; Rink 2—G. Hilliard, Dr. Boucher, W. G. Ferguson, Geo. Brown, skips, 15; total 38. Rink 1—Van Every, M. Jellet, J. Jellett, Kelso, skip, 18; Rink 2—Ward, Clemes, Roddick, Renwick, skip 17, total 31. Peterborough's majority 7.

On the same day Peterborough curlers played at Cobourg, the game not being concluded, and standing a tie, McDougall's rink having scored 13 in 17 ends, and Brown's 15 in 15 ends.

At the bowling match last Thursday, the following were the highest scores: H. LeBrun 184, P. D. Doran 180, George Brown 174, W. Rudkins 172.

On Monday night, the Peterborough Curlers left to attend the Lindsay Bonspeil, where they were drawn to play against Lindsay and Orillia Clubs. The first game was played in the morning with Orillia, and resulted, after an exceedingly tight game, in a majority of one point for Orillia. The following is the score:

ORILLIA.		PETERBOROUGH.
Rink No. 1.		Rink No. 1.
W. M. Harvey,		W. H. Budden,
D. J. Beaton,		T. P. Attrill,

Majority for Orillia, 1

In the evening the home rinks played Lindsay, winning by two points. A peculiarity of the game was that the scores of each rink on both sides were precisely the same. The following was the score:—

Lindsay Rink No. 1.—McIntyre, Needler, Bertram, McMurtry, (skip)—15.
Peterborough Rink No. 1.—16.
Lindsay Rink No. 2.—McLenan, Bradburn, McBurney, Flavelle, (skip)—15.
Peterborough Rink No. 2.—16.
Lindsay 30. Peterborough 32. Majority for Peterborough, 2.

YOUTH.

(For the EXAMINER.)

Oh! youth it is a Dreamland,
Where all is palace lit,
The heart is where the home is,
And o'er our fancies flit
Bright, dazzling dreams of splendor,
Filled with the light of love,
Where all around is sunshine
Like that fair land above.

Oh! youth it is a Dreamland,
Priceless the happy hours,
Which shed such softening radiance
To gild earth's fairest flowers;
Sweet, transient dreams which brighten
The golden morn of life,
Ah! why not stay to cheer us
'Mid future care and strife.

Yes! youth it is a Dreamland,
And life it is a tale,
And both are soon effaced
By time's unsparing scale;
But if the pilgrim's record
On high, be faith and love,
One long unending summer
Is sure in Heaven above.

A CLERGYMAN LOSES HIS EDUCATION

One of the strangest cases knowu in medical history—in fact, there are but about one-half dozen such cases reported in the world—has just been presented by the Rev. Marcus Ormond, of Pennsylvania, who is among friends in Rushville. He was, a few months ago, among the most eloquet and profound expounders of the gospel in the Presdyterian Church, and on returing to his town in Pennsylvania one day he found that his house, library, and everything he had had bee consumed by fire. A day or so afterwards he was stricken with the brain fever He recovered his health, but his memory was literally wiped out. His Greek, Latin and English were all gone. He had no language, and didn't even know his letters. His wife at once began to teach him his alphabit, and he can now read a little. He seems to be cheerful and contented, lacking nothing but he once learned at school. He is in appearance a gentleman of intelligence. He hopes to again get pack to where he jumped off so suddenly.

DOURO COUNCIL.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The new Council met at the Town Hall on Monday January 17th, the Reeve, Mr. John Moloney in the chair. Present,—Councillors McCliggot, Foley, McManus and Shea. After the usual routine Messrs. Patrick Ryan and Henry Carveth were appointed Auditors for the ensuing year. Mr. James McCliggott was appointed Deputy-Reeve. On motion Alex. Wallis was allowed to close up a portion of the Douro and Dummer boundary till required for use; Mr. Foley was authorized to sell the timber on road allowance between Cons. 4 and 5, and to apply the proceeds to Young's Point Road. A communication from the Secretary of the Trent Valley Canal Committee, asking the Council to memoralize the Government upon the matter, was complied with. Mr. McCliggott was authorized to purchase $14 worth of flour for Mr. Casey, she to get no more charity this year. Taxes were remitted as charity to James Edwards, 93 cents, and Jos. Brabant, $1.37. The following accounts were received:—E. Hanrahan, work on road, $2.50; Thos. Hanrahan, postage for 1880, $15.70; John Towns, work on road, $15. The Reeve was authorized to pay the account of John Burnham, M.P., for gravel used on Dummer road. The Reeve was appointed to assist Mr. McManus to let the Indian River Bridge contract. Mr. Dumble addressed the Council at some length, strongly advocating the drainage of Buckley's Lake. He said there were some 1,500 or 1,600 acres of waste land n said lake that could be reclaimed at an outlay of between $4,000 and $5,000, and went on to explain the benefit that would be derived by the whole township if the lake was drained, and said it would greatly increase the value of the lands in the immediate vicinity and at the same time do away with a great nuisance. He said he had laid out a considerable sum already in draining a portion of the lake westward from between concessions 6 and 7, and hoped the Council would take advantage of the Drainage Act; if not he hoped the Council would make a small grant, if only $100, as an experiment. The Reeve said the Council was not financially prepared to make any grant at the present time. The Clerk was instructed to notify the Sec'y-Treasurers of the various school sections, that at next meeting the Council would pass a consolidated By-Law defining the boundaries of sections, but without altering the limits as at present existing. The Council then adjourned till March 7th.

CHARLIE ROSS AGAIN.

Charlie Ross has again been found. This time it is at a farmer's, near St. Thomas. The story is that the boy has been traced from Suspension Bridge to Tuscarora, and thence to his present location. He has been among the Indians until recently. Mr. McCallum, the finder of the lost boy, received a telegram from Mr. Ross, Philadelphia, on Monday morning, desiring him to hurry home with the boy, and all expenses would be paid. There is great excitement in the village regarding the affair.

A RICH MAN'S WHIMS.

The London correspondent of the Liverpool Mercury says: "Some unauthentic details appear in the society papers about the late Sir Robert Burdett. It is very well known that he left fabulous sums in his rooms which he had never taken the trouble to invest or even bank. But the money was not the only thing that he allowed to accumulate. It would seem as if he never parted with anything that he had once acquired. He never sold an old coat or gave it away. Every piece of paper once in his house seems to have remained there. In the house in York-street, St. James' square—where there is a fine library, many of the volumes distinctly the books of a solitary bachelor—the place was almost like a second-hand curiosity shop. At Ramsbury Manor, Wilts, the collection was a veritable museum. All the clothes had to be searched for some will, or paper, or hidden treasure. All the books underwent the same treatment. It became a question whether the labour expended was not cheaply given for so small a trifle as £100,000 or so, which is, I believe, what goes to the Baroness Burdett-Coutts."

THE LATE LIEUT.-GOV. LETELLIER.

M. Letellier de St. Just, who has been ill for many months, died at midnight on Friday at Riviere Ouelle. He was born there on the 12th May, 1820, his father being Francois Letellier, of St. Valier, in the county of Bellechass, and his mother a daughter of Charles Casgrain, seigneur of Riviere Ouelle. He was educated at St. Ann College, and married Eugenie, a daughter of F. Laurent, Quebec. He was a member of the Executive Council and Minister of Agriculture for Canada from May, 1863, to March, 1864. He was a member of the Privy Council, an ex-officio Commissioner of Patents, and co-leader of the Senate with Hon. R. W. Scott for the Government in the Senate up to December, 1876, when he succeeded Hon. Rene E. Caron as Lieutenant-Governor of Quebec. In 1851 he sat for Kamouraska, was defeated for this constituency in 1852, again in 1857, and again in 1869. He also was defeated for L'Islet in 1871. From May, 1860, until the Union he sat for Granville divison. He was called to the Senate by royal proclamation in May. 1867.

A GOOD RELIGION TO TRAVEL ON.

The Primitive Baptists make it a rule to expel a member from the church who takes advantage of any relief law or refuses to pay a debt. A few months since one of this class—a pretty rough-looking case, entered an Athens store and wanted credit for a few goods until he could sell his cotton. Not knowing his customer the merchant refused, but about this time a well-known elder of the church entered, and, tapping the farmer on the sholder, asking:—

"How are you brother Frank?"

"Is that gentleman a member of your church, Uncle D," asked the tradesman.

"Oh, yes, and a good one, too," was the reply.

"Well, then, my friend," continued the dealer, "go through this house from cellar to garret and pick out what you want. I will sell you the whole establishment, clerks and all, on credit, with only your religion as security.

The Township of South Monaghan Agricultural Society have leased a lot from Mr. Robt. Fair, Centreville, for a show ground. They intend levelling and fencing the property. The annual exhibition will in consequence, be held at Centreville for the future, instead of, as in the past, alternating its meetings between Baillieboro' and Centreville.

Vivienne's Crime;

OR,

FOR LOVE OF HIM.

By the Author of "CLEVEDON MANOR," "MRS. SHELDON'S AMBITION," &c., &c.

In the evening, sitting outside the open window, under the roses that fringed it round, Vivienne sought to please them by singing. Ethel sat outside too, a little way off; and Jocelyn, in the shade of the lace curtain, leaning his shoulder against the heavy oaken frame, observed the two. Gilbert, from the dim corner where his couch stood, his eyes half closed, his mouth quivering slightly, as with pain, also looked on at the two girls as well as at his brother. To him each appeared happy indeed, blessed as all were with health, youth, and joyousness of spirits.

Vivienne's songs were old ones, dreamy, and full of a sadness that accorded well with the quiet shadowy twilight. She sang of pain, of parting, of death, and at times her rich sweet voice trembled and faltered. Then she sang of love—love that never fades and cannot die—and every note as it swelled had a thrill of jubilant gladness in it.

That little white figure with softly folded hands, sitting almost still under the overhanging branches, singing those old melodies with a passion and power that gave them new expression, lived long in the memories of those who that night saw it. Ethel never forgot that hour between the dusk and nightfall. All her life long its vivid charm came back to her, mingled ever with the odor of lilies and the perfume of roses. Years after the same scene arose over and over again in the dreams of Jocelyn Thornton—the bright picture stood before him framed in by the evening dusk and the swaying shadows of the tall old trees, while the glad young voice he seemed to hear thrilled through his system like strong wine.

That night, when Ethel had returned home, and all the house was still, the brothers talked together. For a time their conversation was kindly, as it had ever been; but hot words presently crept in, and by and by words of furious anger. Jocelyn, pale with rage, hastened out of the room, and Gilbert, exhausted, fell back upon his pillow. Full of pain and passion, the hard lines about the mouth of the invalid told of a strong will stirred and excited by opposition.

"It shall never be, Jocelyn, while I am master of Thornton! I could not die in peace, thinking that she would live here, enjoying her cruel, unwomanly triumph. It shall never be!"

So had he spoken to his brother, who turned from him, proud in his defiance—his brother whom he had loved and cherished, and of whose spotless worth he had been so proud all these years, only to find it tinsel at the last.

Gilbert's lips, dry and rigid, repeated the last four words more than once as he lay waiting for Ralph to come to him.

When the old servant entered, he found his master exceedingly cross, and full of whims not easy to satisfy.

"One of his cranky turns come on," the faithful fellow whispered to himself, as he moved about, keeping his patience as best he might. "He have been upset, surely."

How much upset, every one in the house became aware before many hours had elapsed.

Towards the early morning, before the stars had all disappeared, Gilbert's hand-bell was heard to ring. Ralph, hurrying into his room, found his master convulsed with pain. His mother, summoned immediately, and sick with fright, thought he was dying. Doctor West was sent for in all haste, but he had not returned home. Vivenne, aroused like the rest, waited outside the room, anxious and frightened by the sudden alarm; while Jocelyn, passing in and out in his restless anxiety, had neither word nor look for any one. The thought was haunting him that he was not friendly with poor Gilbert, who lay writhing in pain, unconscious of his presence, ignorant of his remorse. Jocelyn would have given anything then that he had never quarreled with his brother.

CHAPTER X.

"Unless he can be kept free from excitement of every kind, I will not answer for his life."

That was Doctor West's declaration, given almost sternly after his visit to Gilbert, on the afternoon of the day he had returned home from London.

For very many mornings and evenings afterwards, grave, troubled, full of an anxiety not altogether professional, he came and departed. The man whose life he had such faint hope of saving was his friend, and Doctor West was true to whom he loved.

Very dismal days were those of Joclyn—scarcely less to Vivienne. The girl seemed haunted with some vague trouble. She was altogether unlike her wonted self. A wild fear seemed ever to be upon her—a creeping horror that made her go about the old house like a ghost. Seeing her thus, a stranger might have thought that she loved the man who lay so near to death. Had Gilbert permitted her, she would have nursed him day and night; but he would not grant this—indeed, he could not rest if she were near him. His sufferings were severe, attended at intervals by delirium, and on these occassions he would invariably talk of Vivivenne with dislike, dread, terror even.

No one told her of this; yet, with the rare instinct strong within her, she seemed to divine it. Nevertheless, she showed neither surprise nor anger. Perhaps pity quenched all other feelings in her heart during those days wherein the members of the household waited for the crisis, the turn in this illness that would mean either life or death. Passing often by Gilbert's room door, she had heard him designate her by name, and describe, quakily or shrilly, as the case might be, how cruel she was and how false, for all her beautiful face and wonderful voice. For he, too, had not failed to feel the power of her siren music. The memory of that last night, when Ethel and Jocelyn and he had listened to her songs, was with him in his wild, rambling imaginings. At such times fire would glow in her eyes, her lips tremble and part, showing the even white teeth fast locked together and over her face a shadow creep, blotting out its youth, its beauty, its innocence.

This illness of Gilbert Thornton puzzled Doctor West. His skill could find no name for it. It was not fever, and yet in every vein a fierce fire burned. He could not even guess at the cause.

"Had it been any one else but the petted owner of Thornton," he said, in confidence to Herbert Grant, "I should say he was fretting himself into his grave. As it is, however, that seems out of the question. The poor fellow's lot is no sadder than it has been any time these many years, and I don't know what to think."

Was the shrewd Doctor right? Had the iron entered at last? Had the strain on the life cord worn it quietly away, without the knowledge of the owner.

As Gilbert's pain was ceased, the fever left him; but in its place came an utter lassitude and weakness that boded ill. It seemed as though it were what Vivienne had once said to his mother: "He appears to be dying because he does not care to live."

Jocelyn had heard the remark and shuddered. The dread of losing Gilbert was terrible to him, and it grew day by day. The brothers were fast friends again. Long hours would Jocelyn spend in the darkened room, watching by the couch of the invalid, and tending him with hands gentle even as a woman's.

Towards the end of the second week, Gilbert rallied a little. Doctor West on his morning rounds, brought Ethel to see him, but if unable to chat with her, he evinced plainly how welcome was her presence. He smiled softly, almost sadly, when she told him how she longed to see him down in his old corner; and the tears in the girl's eyes, as she heard his mother tell how he had suffered, brought tears into his.

When Ethel returned home, Vivienne accompanied her part of the way. The two girls, skirting the edge of the gray sea, and picking their way over the wet sands, had but little to communicate to each other. Ethel noticed, however, that Vivienne's complexion had turned to a sickly pallor, which touched even her lips, and asked considerately if she felt as well as usual. Vivienne, first sighing, then frowining slightly, but hastening to hide the expression almost before it could be seen, replied, "Yes, Ethel, thank you, quite as well—indeed, I might say, I never felt better." Nevertheless, the cloud upon her companion's face had struck Ethel, and she wondered much at it.

Doctor West met them on the way. He was going to Gilbert. Vivienne therefore stopped, and turned back with him, bidding Ethel good night, and leaving her to proceed homeward alone.

"Do you think Gilbert is recovering, Doctor West? Is there a likelihood that he will live?" asked Vivienne of her companion, her eyes turned seaward, and a hot flush rising in her pale cheek, as though the question she had put inconvenienced her.

"At present I cannot say," replied the Doctor. "He was better this morning than when I left him last night—in that there is hope. Had it not been for the accident in his youth, he would have been a strong man, in all probability long-lived, like most of his family; but that sad occurence has weakened him, left him with but little strength to fight against his present ailments. Still, I am not without hope.'

Vivienne sighed, and the anxious look upon her face deepened in intensity; nor had she much to say for the remainder of their walk, the doctor's own thoughts keeping him silent.

He found Gilbert better even than he had been in the morning—so much better, that a great load was, as it were, lifted off the hearts of those watching over him. Doctor West, among the rest, hailed the change gladly; slight as it was, it was in the right direction.

As soon as he had departed, Gilbert asked Jocelyn to stay with him a little; and Jocelyn, glad to find his companionship welcome, willingly consented. Still sensitive concerning their past quarrel, he was eager to make amends for those hot and angry words of his which had borne such bitter fruit.

All else had retired, save Vivienne. Pale and anxious, she stood without in the passage. No one, seemingly, had ears to her quiet footfall going up and down between the open door of her own room and the closed one of that wherein lay Gilbert, with Jocelyn watching by his side.

In this last everything was profoundly still. Naught could be heard but the sound of the distant waves, breaking gently at the foot of the Crags; and the swish, soft and even, of the leaves, as the wind moved the stout old trees without.

Long did Gilbert lie with closed eyes, motionless. Jocelyn thought that he slept, and feared to wake him by stirring. But he was not sleeping. He was busy thinking all the while, planning, in his kindliest way, how, without seeming to be harsh, or to rule him unduly, to induce his brother to keep to his promised word. It would be a hard task he knew. Could he have read the thoughts brooding in Jocelyn's heart just then, it would have seemed harder still.

One thought predominated in Gilbert's mind—a thought that had lurked within him through all the hours of those weary days wherein he had fluttered between this world and the next, certain of neither, vexed and tortured in body and in spirit. He could not live long—that he knew. He must not die, however, leaving Ethel to suffer, as he had suffered, the pangs of a love that can win no return. Thinking therefore, more of Ethel than of himself, than of his brother even, he found strength to speak at last.

Vivienne, standing with clasped hands and bent head on the threshold, heard every word he uttered—heard it plainly, though his voice was faint and low, and sank at times to a whisper.

"You have not forgotten our last talk, Jocelyn? You have since thought better of it?"

"We won't say a word on that subject to-night, dear brother. Wait till you have improved and are well; then we'll discuss it."

"But what if I am never better?"

"Oh, don't say that Gilbert! The fear of such sorrow, I hope, is past. You must not even name it."

The handsome open face was clouded, and, looking at it, Gilbert knew how his brother loved him. But he had no time to take pleasure in the thought he had no time to take pleasure in anything, till this work he had set himself to do was wrought, and his heart set at rest.

"Death has no terrors for me," said he, the almost inaudible voice scarce rising above the stir without, slight though it was. "You, knowing what life is to me, cannot wonder at that. But, living or dying, it would ease me to know that right had been done—that your word, pledged freely, would not be broken. Promise me, Jocelyn, that you will give up this mad new love of yours. You loved Ethel first; you will love her best, I know, as the years roll on and you learn more of her real worth day by day."

Daniel Plank, of Brookfield, Tioga Co., Pa., says: "I went thirty miles for a bottle of our Oil, which affected a wonderful cure of a Crooked Limb, by six applications."—Another who had had Asthma for years, says:—"I have half a bottle left, and $100 would not buy it if I could not get no more."—Rufus Robinson, of Nunda, N. Y., writes: "One small bottle of your Eclectric Oil restored the voice where the person had not spoken above a whisper for five years."—Rev. J Mallory, of Wyoming, N. Y., writes: "Your Eclectric Oil cured me of Bronchitis in one week."

It is composed of six of the Best Oils that are known. It is as good for internal as for external use, and is believed to be immeasureably superior to anything ever made Will save you much suffering and many dollars of expense.

Beware of Imitations.—Ask for Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. See that the signature of S. N. THOMAS is on the wrapper, and the names of Northrop & Lyman are blown in the bottle, and Take no other. Sold by all medicine dealers. Price 25 cents. NORTHROP & LYMAN, Toronto, Ont., Proprietors for the Dominion.

NOTE—Eclectric—Selected and Electrized.

NOT THE SLIGHTEST AFFINITY exists between the numberless cough mixtures with which the market is flooded and that successful preparation—Northrop and Lyman's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda. It stands alone, distinct, itself, and nothing else. It embodies the best results of pharmaceutical science. It accomplishes positive, decisive results, effectually relieving coughs when the lungs are not tuberculous or hopelessly affected) colds, larnygitis and diseases of a scrofulous origin. While it does not cure Consumption it is the most reliable means of defence against that dreaded scourge. The invigorating properties of the hypophosphites reimburse the system debilitated by the constant tear and wear of a cough, while the paroxysms rapidly diminish in violence, in consequence of the soothing emollient action of the cod liver oil upon the inflamed lung membrane. The phosphorus, lime and soda, in combination with it are all natural components in the construction of the bodily edifice, which, in a state of decay, lacks a sufficiency of those elements. These the hypophosphites supply, increasing the nutritive properties of the blood, and building up and rehabilitating the tottering human structure with a degree of promptitude as astonishing as it is gratifying to the invalid. A perceptible gain in flesh as well as strength is one of the consequences of using this standard preparation, which both time and experience have demonstrated to be fully worthy of the confidence reposed in it. Prepared by NORTHROP & LYMAN, Toronto and sold by all druggists.

I. ROBINSON & Co. are daily receiving additions to their stock of Spring Tweeds and Cloths, and are selling them cheaper than ever. 4-tf

A HUMBUG.—The Prescott Telegraph says:—"Look out for the chap who is travelling about the country selling an article which he alleges will, if put in kerosene lamps, prevent them from exploding. The article sells for a $1 a handful, and is said to be nothing but ordinary table salt colored. The dodge is an old one, and anybody foolish enough to be caught deserves to lose his money."

LADIES DESIRING to secure a fashionable and durable article in the boot and shoe line should call at Larmour's, where there is the choicest, most complete and varied stock between Toronto and Montreal. Mr. Larmour is now so widely and favorably known in the boot and shoe line that to say that your boots come from his establishment is equivalent to saying that it is a fashionably cut and perfect fitting article. 44-tf.

RECOVERED.—Mr. A. E. Lyon, who had the misfortune to lose his pocket-book at a revival meeting in the George St. Church about a week ago, and who advertised that if the purse was returned with the papers it enclosed no questions would be asked about the money lost with the purse, on Tuesday evening received a visit from a mysterious stranger, of the female persuasion, who restored him the purse and papers without any money, and vanished.

P. C. I. L. S.—At the general meeting of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute Literary Society last week, in the Institute building, the President Mr. J. G. Douglas, being unable to attend through illness, the chair was taken by Mr. Earle. The financial statement was read as follows. Debit—balance from last term, $92.74; received from sub-Treasurer, $14.40; do from Concert $175.50—$281.64. Credit—working expenses, $49.15; in bank of Commerce, $230.74; on hand, $2 75—$284.64. The following officers were elected:—President, J. J. Wright, Vice-President, Miss Eva Ludgate; Sec'y-Treas. A. B. Ventress. After various votes of thanks and some music the meeting adjourned.

THE HALL TRUST FUND.—The annual meeting of the Trustees of this Charity, took place on Monday at the office of Messrs. Poussette & Roger. Col. Haultain was re-elected Chairman of the Board and Mr. A. P. Poussette Secretary and Treasurer. A statement of accounts was presented and referred to the audit of Messrs Edg. Pearse and J. H. Roper, their report to be received at an adjourned meeting to be held on the 21st, after which the statement will be published as provided in the act. The Relief Committee for the ensuing year, under the By-law, are Messrs. Poussette Chairman, Fairbairn and Robinson. Messrs. Fairbairn Carnegie and Pousette were appointed a Committee on Investments, after which the meeting adjourned.

YOUR LOCAL PAPER.—Some one has written this about the local papers:—You might nearly as well forget your churches, your academies and school-houses, as to forget your local paper. It speaks to ten times the audience that your local minister does. It is read eagerly each day and week from beginning to end. It teaches you all, and as it has a lower spirit and less wisdom than a sermon, it has a thousand times better chance at you. Lying, as it does, on every table in almost every house, you owe to yourselves to liberally add to its support, and exact from it as heightened a character as you do from any education in your midst. It is in no sense below notice and care—unless you yourself are below notice and care—for it is your representative. Indeed, in its character, it is the sublimation of the importance interest and welfare of all. It is the aggregate of your own consequence, and you cannot ignore it without miserably depreciating yourself.

PETTY THEFTS still continue, notwithstanding the recent example of offenders.

MEDICAL ASSOCIATION.—At the annual meeting of the Newcastle and Trent Division Medical Association, held at Grafton, on the 2nd, Dr. Burritt, of Peterborough, was elected President. Dr. Bell, of Peterborough, was elected one of the Local Secretaries.

CHURCH REVIVAL.—At the latter part of last week a subscription was commenced among the adherents of St. John's Church, with the object of raising $10,-00, to carry out the proposed improvements. We understand that already $6,00 have been subscribed.

LAW SOCIETY.—At a meeting of the Peterborough Law Society held on Monday evening, the new Judicature bill was discussed, and resolutions passed objecting to changes made from the draft bill, the effect of which, in the opinion of those present, would be to attract business from the country towns to Toronto.

VETERINARY SURGEON.—As will be seen by announcement elsewhere, Mr. J. Beatty, Veterinary Surgeon, member of the Ontario Veterinary Association, has opened an office for the practice of his profession on Hunter street. Those requiring an efficient Vet. will do well to call on Mr. Beatty.

SEPARATE SCHOOL BOARD.—At the meeting of the Separate School Board last week, there were present Messrs. Kelly, in the chair and Messrs. Cahill, Lemay Grant, McGrath and Hourigan. A number of communcations were received and disposed of. A number of accounts were received and ordered to be paid.

POINTING A PISTOL.—Charles LeDrake, an ill-looking fellow, evidently belonging to the lowest type of humanity, was up before the P. M., on Monday, charged by Lucinda Storms, an ancient and not very prepossessing female, with pointing a revolver. The evidence being somewhat misty, the Magistrate inflicted the lowest penalty, $20 or 30 days. Not having the ducats, the man with the awful name chose the latter alternative.

SCHOOL BOARD NOMINATIONS.—The nomination of candidates for the vacancy at the Board of Education created by the retirement of Mr. Hughes, took place yesterday at the South Ward Mission School, Joseph Lundy, Returning Officer. The following nominations were made: T. W. Robinson, by J. R. Stratton, seconded by S. White; R. W. Errett, by Wm Menzies, seconded by Wm. Martin; Robert Tully, by John McGhee, seconded by Aaron Comstock. Polling on Wednesday next.

SPLENDID OPPORTUNITY.—On Thursday, the enterprising firm of Fairweather & Co. purchased at Sheriff's sale the stock of Mr. Jas. Delaney, and is now selling the same off, at prices that want to be personally interviewed to get any idea of them, at Delaney's old stand George street. The stock comprises hats, caps and furs, and a choice line of gents' furnishings, all newly put in, and of the best quality, and latest styles. Young men can satisfy both good taste, fashion and economy, by taking a look at this stock. 6-1in

AUCTION SALE OF FARM.—As will be seen by advertisement in another column, as well as by posters, Messrs. Gilbert & McIlmoyle will offer for sale by public auction at 2 o'clock p. m., on Wednesday next, 16th instant, that valuable property at present occupied by Mr. Hiram Lithgow, and being composed of the North-East Quarter of Lot 15, in the 13th Concession of Otonabee, containing 50 acres. The property is situated about five miles from town and adjoins the "Bowie Farm," and is well worthy the attention of any one wishing to procure a small farm. 6-1

ALVIN JOSLIN.—The Alvin Joslin company played in the Opera House here on Tuesday night to an overflowing house, and provided our citizens with a treat which does not often fall in their way. The agents of the Company billed "180 laughs in 180 minutes," and the promise was more than fulfilled. Alvin Joslin in the hands of Mr. Charles L. Davis is a unique character, and it has to be witnessed to be in the least degree appreciated. Every wrinkle in Alvin's clothes is full of unconscious fun, and he has only to put himself in motion to throw the audience into convulsions. What does not generally prove to be the case, the company throughout the entire cast was first-class, there being no inferior stock to mar the effect of the representation. We hope Mr. Davis may find his way back to Peterborough again, when he may be assured of a crowded house.

POULTRY SHOW.—Few people have any adequate idea of the importance which the production of poultry and eggs for export has reached. In 1879 we exported poultry to the amount of $90,885, and last year, (that is the year up to June 30, 1880,) we exported $141,134 worth of poultry. Our export of eggs in 1879 was $574,095, and last year it reached no less a figure than $740,665. We mention these figures to show the growing importance of this trade, as well as the importance of encouraging improvement in breeding, as a means of increasing the value and productiveness of both articles of export. The Peterborough Central Poultry Association open their annual exhibition this year on Tuesday next. We would like to see a large attendance of farmers from the county, so that they might have an opportunity of judging for themselves the difference, both for laying qualities and the market, between the ordinary barnyard fowl and thorough-bred stock.

ALWAYS AHEAD.—Mr. H. LeBrun, o the City Clothing Store, is the first to open up his spring and summer tweeds for inspection. Judging by the present condition of the weather, people will require to order their spring suits a month earlier than usual, and Mr. LeBrun's promptness in getting in his stock so early, will enable them to accommodate themselves to their perfect satisfaction. These new importations comprise the new designs in Scotch, Canadian and West of England Tweeds, and French Worsteds. The goods are elegant, of substantial value, and remarkably reasonable in price. It is useless for us to say a word about the style in which these clothes are made up for customers. You may pick out LeBrun's customers on the street by selecting the best-dressed men you meet, and with such an elegant and stylish assortment of material to work on, we may be assured that spring and summer suits from the City Clothing Store, this season, will comme il faut. 6-1t

It cost $164, 675 to maintain the Governor General and his aids last year, or about $450 a day, including Sundays. In addition to this His Excellency has the use of a house and grounds that originally cost the country $93,000. But in a "rough, raw and democratic" country like this there is no use of grumbling.

Let there be no mistake about this, that the "Myrtle Navy" tobacco is manufactured from the very finest Virginia leaf. No higher quality of leaf can be purchased for any tobacco made. It is selected with the very greatest care, and treated with the most approved processes for preserving the flavor of the tobacco.

SELWYN NEWS.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The Templars have purchased an organ. This will do much to attract new members, maintain regularity of attendance, and keep the organization in a healthy working condition.

It is currently reported that a tavern license has been applied for, and, also, that there has been a good deal of business done in the tavern lately, even without a license. A visit from our Inspector of licenses would probably not be out of place.

The Methodists under the superintendence of Rev. Geo. Washington, have been working very diligently to raise money for a new Church, and we believe their efforts have been crowned with success, nearly all of the required two-thirds being already subscribed.

The Presbyterians held their annual Missionary Meeting a short time ago. Rev. Mr. Torrance gave a very interesting address on the Foreign Mission work, dealing particularly on the good that was being accomplished on the Island of Formosa. Rev. Mr. Bennett delivered an address on Home Missions, and dealt with the question of finance.

A meeting was held on Friday evening, for the purpose of organizing the cheese factory, for the coming season. The company made a much more advantageous offer to the patrons than they have had in former seasons.

Scarletina has broken out in one or two families, but does not appear to spread very rapidly.

Mr. John McKenty, who suffered from a runaway accident some time ago, is not yet able to be up.

ENNISMORE.

From Our Own Correspondent.

WEATHER NOTES.—The weather and sleighing during January month have been all that could be desired, although between the two extremes, ranging from 35° above zero, on the 13th, to 18° below zero on the 24th, the mean temperature of the month stands at 5° above zero. Snow fell on twelve days, making a depth of 20½ inches, giving 3⅝ inches of water. Some rain fell on the water guage. We had no January thaw during the past month, but one noteworthy thing occurred on the evening of the 28th, with the thermometer standing at zero, a fine small rain from the south-west, merely sprinkling things exposed to that point. The morning of the second of February was the coldest so far of the season, the mercury standing at 25° below zero at 7 o'clock.

SMITH COUNCIL MEETING.

The Council met Jan. 31st, pursuant to adjournment. All the members present. The Reeve in the Chair. Minutes of last meeting read and confirmed. The Council authorized the Treasurer to pay $2.50 per week for board of Alex. Delay, while under medical treatment in Peterborough said money to be paid to John B. Fowler till otherwise ordered. The Clerk was instructed to give notice to parties and to the trustees of the several school sections interested, that application has been made to have the south part of lot 30, in the 10th con., detatched from school section No. 8, and attached to S. S. No. 6, also to have the south half of lot 17, in the 5th con. detached from S. S. No. 11, and attached to S. S. No. 4. The following resolution was passed: "That whereas no further limitation of tavern or shop licenses has been asked for by the electors of the township of Smith. Therefore be it resolved, that that this Council will give no influence for or against tavern or shop licenses in the township, for the year 1881, but leave the locating of such taverns or shops solely with the commissioners and people." S. McKibbin, Esq., was appointed Assessor for the year 1881 at a salary of $70. R. Waram, Esq., was appointed Collector at a salary of $65. A by-law concerning the same, passed its several readings. On motion, the Councillor's allowance was reduced to $1.50 per day exclusive of miliage. The Clerk was instructed to prepare a by-law to amend by-law No. 144, so as to allow 3 days statute labor for one day of a team and driver. The time for the Collector to return his return his roll was extended. The Clerk was instructed to notify Mr. Galvin to remove the timber and open up road according to previous agreement. The Council then adjourned till Monday the 28th day of February.

Poets have sung of the "Beautiful Snow,"
That comes in at the heel and goes out at the toe
Whenever you have leaky boots;
And men will cough with a cold you know,
As the bleak winds of winter whistle and blow,
Till their lung are near out by the roots;
When Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam would cure
The very worst cough they have to endure.
If they only would venture to try it.
Then never a troublesome cough neglect,
But heed this advice with proper respect.
And go to your druggist and buy it. 6-2t

Peterborough Markets.

[Supplied by W. H. Wrighton, Grain and Produce Dealer, and General Grocer, George Street.]

FEBRUARY 10th, 1881.

The market in grain continues slow. Up to Wednesday wheat, peas and oats sold at a considerable advance, without any apparent cause—outside markets being dull and declining. Wheat went up to $1.14; oats, 33c.; and a few loads of peas sold at 66c. This state of affairs could not possibly hold out, and on Wednesday a reaction took place and grain fell to about market value, closing at the following prices:—Wheat, $1.10 to $1.12; peas, 63c.; oats, 31c. to 32c.; rye, 70c. to 73c. Barley remained about the same, very little offering. Hay is abundant, with slow sale at about $8, the supply exceeding the demand. Wood not offering quite so freely, green wood being $2.50 to $2.75; seasoned, $2.75 to $3.00; mixed, $1.50 to $2.00. On the Market not much doing, receipts being small and prices unchanged. Pork in demand. Butter firm. Eggs scarce. Poultry rather slow—chickens, and geese selling the best. Potatoes slow. Beef rather better. Cheese and vegetables rather slow of sale.

REV. EDWARD PAYSON HAMMOND.

Rev. E. P. Hammond.

In giving a sketch of the life of the Rev. E. P. Hammond, whose portrait appears on this page, we copy from an article published in the Cincinnati Gazette, from the pen of Rev. B. P. Aydelott, D. D., a prominent Clergyman of the Church of England:—

Mr. Hammond was born in Ellington, Connecticut, in 1831, but his early years were spent in Vernon, a town of Toland county, about fifteen miles northeast of Hartford, in the same State. After having finished his studies at Williams College, Massachusetts, he went to the Union Theological Seminary, in the city of New York, and there spent two years. He then crossed the Atlantic and entered the Theological Seminary of the Free Church of Scotland—that "School of the Prophets" which Dr. Chalmers had so much at heart, and for which he labored so hard.

Every one who approaches him is struck with his kind, pleasant manner, his entire freedom from guile and constraint. He is frankness itself. He seems never to have anything to conceal, or if he has, you feel that he could not do it; it would be certain to come out either in word or manner. Hence a very short interview with him will show you the whole man. We are old observers of human nature, and we must say that we scarcely ever found an individual who united so much that is manly in spirit and deportment, with such beautiful, childlike simplicity and ingenuousness.

And this last trait shines out, not only in private and friendly intercourse, but in all his ministrations, in the pulpit, the lecture room, and the platform; and we often felt, in listening to his speaking, that it was this striking peculiarity which so wonderfully fits him to arrest the attention and win the hearts of little children, while even the oldest of his hearers, whether pious or worldly, are deeply impressed with its naturalness, and with its power to call up with tears their earliest and most fondly cherished memories and feelings. He carries such hearers back from their present position of duties, trials and cares, to the free, joyous Eden of childhood.

Let it it not be thought, however, that Mr. Hammond is a sensational preacher in the ordinary sense of the term; that he attracts merely by fervor of manner, vivid pictures of the imagination, thrilling tones, beauty of articulation, much less by any of those claptraps of the merely popular speaker. Not at all; there is underlying all the winning simplicity of Mr. H. an earnestness of felling which runs through all his discourses and exhortations—a deep substratum of doctrinal instruction—the most precious truths of the Gospel, which cannot but be retained and felt as a light and a power long after the exercises and the excitement of the hour have passed away, and which, in multitudes of cases, have been followed up by a total and blessed revolution in the character and lives of multitudes, and will doubtless, in many other cases, ripen, years hence, into the same happy fruits.

The one object which he ever presents in such varied and wonderful attractive lights to all his hearers—old and young, believers and infidels—all who may come to him to listen or to enquire about their soul's interest, the one object, we say, he always holds up in the brightest, clearest, fullest and most vivid terms, is the Lord Jesus Christ—as the sinner's only and all sufficient Saviour, and the hearer's duty instantly to accept the salvation thus freely and lovingly offered to him in the Gospel. The sinner is most earnestly urged to throw aside all excuses and hindrances, and to come now and be saved now—saved from darkness, guilt, sin, wretchedness, and made at once a "new creature in Christ Jesus"—wise, holy, useful, happy here and forever.

But, even after all we have said, it may be asked: "What is the secret of Mr. Hammond's power? Is it great force of intellect? Is it brilliant genius? Or both?" Not at all. Mr. Hammond's mind is, indeed, of no common order, and his training, both preparatory and theological, was thorough; but these alone will not account for his marvellous success. Many more highly gifted than he in these respects—faithful ministers too—fall short of him in the salutary results of their ministry. What, then, is it?

We venture our judgment. It is his intense individuality. His all prevading theme in preaching, exhortation, prayer—a loving, dying Saviour, and a present and free salvation through him. This theme, constantly urged, with deep earnestness and perfect simplicity, sinks down into the bosom of almost every hearer, because it does most manifestly fill and move, and melt the heart of the preacher. His tones of voice, his countenance, his whole manner, are, of course, deeply emotional. It could not be otherwise. Just what he feels in the inmost recesses of his soul comes rushing out with the frankness and the impetuosity of a child. The last thing we would ever suspect in Mr. Hammond is artifice and affectation. Everything about him about him forbids the thought. His views, his feelings gush out with the perfect abandon of an honest, warm hearted, unembarrassed little child, absolutely indifferent to critical remarks or reproaches.

Mr. Hammond's Work in Peterborough.

The revival in Peterborough in connection with the labors of the Rev. E. P. Hammond is certainly the most remarkable movement of the kind which has ever taken place in our community. Many who have been familiar with revival work for years say that this is the most remarkable work of grace which they have ever witnessed. There was at first a great deal of diversity of opinion as to Mr. Hammond and his method of work. His style of preaching afforded abundant opportunity for criticism to those who were so disposed. His method of conducting the meetings was so novel that opposition was awakened in the many minds of his hearers, but as the work went on and people saw the intense earnestness of the man, much of the criticism was disarmed, and those who had been the most opposed frankly admited that a great deal of good was being accomplished. For the first week Mr. Hammond devoted special attention to the children, experience having taught him that they may be brought to a saving acquaintance with Christ, and that the parents can be more easily reached through their children. It was a touching sight to see the children drinking in the story of the Cross as it came from the speaker's lips. Now they wept as they were convinced of sin, and again their faces lit up with gladness as they put their trust in the Saviour. During the whole of his stay, Mr. Hammond held a meeting in the morning for Christians and young converts, and an evangelistic meeting in the evening. Night after night the largest churches were crowded to excess, and people were obliged to leave, unable to gain entrance. Although an opportunity was given after the sermon, for all who wished, to retire from the church, almost the whole congregation remained to the Inquiry meeting. The Christian workers then went among the people and pointed them to the Lamb of God. Towards the close of the inquiry meeting, young converts told their experience, and this was often blessed to the conversion of souls.

One of the most interesting features of the revival has been the work among young men. In some of the Bible classes nearly all the young men are among the new converts. A young men's prayer meeting has been started in the Union School, with an attendance of from twenty-five to thirty. The young men of the different churches have begun a prayer meeting on Sabbath morning, which gives promise of much blessing. And not only have those been reached who are accustomed to attend church, but many who have not been in church for years. Some of the worst characters in town have become the subjects of saving grace.

It must not be supposed that the work has ceased, now that Mr. Hammond has gone. The meetings which have since been held have been most encouraging both as regards attendance and results. On Monday evening several of the more recent converts related their experience. The account which one young man gave of his life, previous to his conversion, made a deep impression upon all present.

No one can estimate the blessing which this revival will be to Peterborough. There are some who ask how long these converts will remain steadfast. We can only answer their question by pointing them to the result of Mr. Hammond's work in other places. A gentleman from Belleville, who addressed one of the meetings a few days ago, stated that some of the worst characters in that city who professed conversion when Mr. Hammond was there, were now consistent members of the churches. Letters from Rev. J. R. Battisby, as to the results of the work in Chatham, and from Rev. J. B. Clarkson, as to the results of the work in Brantford, give us every reason to believe that the converts in Peterborough will remain steadfast. Ministers and church members have received a fresh baptism of the Spirit, and are determined to labor more earnestly for the salvation of souls.

When Mr. Hammond was invited to Peterborough no one dreamed that there would be such an extraordinary work of grace. Truly this is the Lord's doing, and it is marvellous in our eyes.

PRESENTATIONS.

Mr. Geo. Tully, of North Monaghan, having decided to "get from under" the N. P., and make his future home in Iowa, was waited upon last week by a number of friends, in whose behalf Mr. Richard Lillico read an appropriate address to Mr. and Mrs. Tully expressive of their regard, and at the same time hauded Mr. Tully a gold watch chain, Mrs. John Fowler presenting Mrs. Tully with a silver cake basket. A pleasant social evening ensued.

Friday last, was the silver wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas George Choate of the Caisse House, and the auspacious occasion was appropriately celebrated by a presentation on an extensive scale. First the happy bride and bride-groom were presented by Mr. Barton Earle, on behalf of the family and intimate friends, with a spoon-holder containing a dozen silver spoons, silver butter knife, and pickle cruet with silver top, all being of the most sterling value. Mr. and Mrs. Choate were next waylaid by the boarders, on whose behalf Mr. T. E. Braden, presented a silver butter cooler, of handsome design and engraved with an appropriate inscription, and likewise a suitable address, acknowledging the "sterling worth and unwavering good nature," of the host and hostess of the Caisse House. The next thing on the programme was the presentation by the domestics of the house, of a pair of china cups and saucers, and silver mounted syrup and cream pitchers. Mr. Choate replied in feeling terms, to this spontaneous manifestation of esteem, expressing his appreciation of the feelings which had dictated the various presentations and addresses. The party were then entertainted by Mr. Choate at supper, following which a most pleasant social evening was spent. The party separated at an early hour, wishing Mr. and Mrs. Choate many happy returns of the occasion.

Peterborough Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, FEBR'Y 17, 1881.

County Almshouses.

We referred a short time since to the very important subject of Charities, pointing out briefly the economy which could be effected by taking advantage of the law which authorizes County and Town Municipalities, either singly or conjointly, to establish Industrial Farms with Workhouses in connection with the same. The subject is one of no little interest to the people of a community so heavily taxed for purposes of charity, both by payments out of the town treasury and by charges upon the benevolence of private individuals, churches and societies, as the town of Peterborough is, and it will bear further investigation and discussion.

The Municipal Act provides as follows:

"The Council of every County, City or Town separated from a County may acquire an estate in landed property for an Industrial Farm, and may establish a House of Industry and a House of Refuge, and provide by by-law for the erection and repair thereof, and for the appointment, payment and duties of Inspectors, Keepers, Matrons and other servants for the superintendence, care and management of such Houses of Industry or Refuge, and in like manner make rules and regulations (not repugnant to law) for the government of the same;

"2. Any two or more United Counties, or any two or more contiguous Counties, or any City and one or more Counties, or any Town or one or more Counties, may agree to have only one House of Industry or Refuge for such united or contiguous Counties, or City and Counties, or Town and Counties, and maintain and keep up the same in the manner herein provided.

"The Inspector of a House of Industry or Refuge appointed as aforesaid, shall keep an account of the charges of erecting, keeping, upholding and maintaining the House of Industry or Refuge, and of all materials found and furnished therefor, together with the names of the persons received into the house, as well as of those discharged therefrom, and also of the earnings; and such account shall be rendered to the County Council every year, or oftener when required by a by-law of the Council; and a copy thereof shall be presented to the Legislature.

"The Council of every City and Town may respectively pass by-laws:

"1. For erecting and establishing within the City or Town, or on such Industrial Farm, or on any ground held by the corporation for public exhibitions, a Workhouse or House of Correction, and for regulating the government thereof;

"2. For committing and sending, with or without hard labour, to the Workhouse or House of Correction, or to the Industrial Farm, by the Mayor, Police Magistrate, or any Justice of the Peace, while having Jurisdiction in the City or Town respectively, such description of persons as may by the Council be deemed, and by by-law be declared expedient; and such farm or ground held as aforesaid shall, for the purposes in this subsection mentioned, be deemed to be within the City or Town and the jurisdiction thereof."

It will be seen by this enactment that by the adoption of this system the authorities of the town, or of the town and county combined, would have the means of reaching a great many cases with which they are now unable to deal, as in the case of old and infirm persons, who under the law may not be committed to the Common Gaol (which is by law the House of Correction in each county until other provision is made), but who have to be maintained at a cost which, under a proper system, would maintain seven or eight paupers. As an instance, the town is now paying $5 per week for the support of a bed-ridden pauper. The average cost of such a person in the Elgin County Poor House, including the interest on the cost of the building, land, etc., IS ONLY SIXTY CENTS A WEEK. The counties which have adopted this economical method of dealing with the costly and unpleasant difficulty entailed by paupers, tramps, and others who, though not in any sense criminals, are burdens upon society, are Elgin, Waterloo, Norfolk and Wellington. The County Council of York have recently taken steps for the establishment of a County Poor House, and have instructed their Engineer to prepare plans and specifications for the necessary building. The County of Ontario is also contemplating similar action. The experience of these municipalities is this: The County Poor House takes a burden off the shoulders of the charitably inclined and prevents impostures, which are so constantly practised upon the benevolent by the unscrupulous. The expense of maintaining the aged and infirm is equitably divided among all the ratepayers, and the proper care of these ensured, instead of having them left, as now, to be foisted about from one municipality to another, finally to be thrust upon the country town at unreasonable expense. In counties where the Poor House system has been adopted the "tramp" nuisance, with its expense and attendant dangers to person and property, is avoided. Beggars soliciting alms are unknown. The tramp or beggar is sent to the County Poor House, where, if able, they are made to work for their bread and kept under discipline. Women are employed in sewing, knitting, housework, and light out-door work. The men cultivate the Farm, the work being divided according to physical capacity. Work is a thing abhorrent to the soul of the able-bodied tramp, and when he manages to cut loose from the Industrial Farm, he will give that county a wide berth in the future and direct his operations to some less prudent community, where, like Peterborough, he can at all events rely upon the comforts of the Common Gaol, where "hard labor" is at its worst but a pleasant and salutary exercise. These institutions are to a large extent self-sustaining. The products of the farm supply in a great measure all the necessary wants of the inmates, and the sale of the surplus goes to defray the expenses of management. The cost of maintenance, including interest on the cost of building and lands, is, in the County of Elgin, 60 cents per week; in the County of Waterloo it is $1.21; in Norfolk, 74½ cents; and in Wellington, $1.32. Last year charities cost the town, it is stated, upwards of $1,600, and we think it would be a low estimate to compute the average cost to each township municipality for charitable purposes at $100 a year, or $1,400 additional. We will say nothing of the cost of maintaining vagrants in gaol, which has to be borne by town and county, or of the drain upon private means for charity. What we wish to point out is that the sum of $3,000, paid out in one year alone, by the municipalities for charity, would afford all the capital necessary to purchase the requisite land and erect the necessary building for establishing an Industrial Farm and Almshouse, by means of which the whole cost, to town and county combined, would be reduced to not more than $250 or $300 a year, to say nothing of the relief afforded to the community from the depredations of tramps and vagrants, and the constant expense for private charity and cost of gaol maintenance. The subject, we think, is worthy of consideration by the heads of municipalities, and we would suggest that the Mayor should endeavor, by joint action with the Reeves of the various townships, to have the Town and County Councils unite in the adoption of the system wisely provided in the Municipal Act, for the public advantage and convenience of the county and town municipalities.

Port Hope Central Fair.

The Secretary of the Port Hope Central Exhibition writes to the Port Hope Times as follows:

"DEAR SIR,—In reference to the Central Exhibition in your leading article of yesterday's issue of the Times, I would say, that the substance of my remarks at the Millbrook meeting were to the effect that the Printing Committee were instructed to ask for tenders from the three offices in Port Hope; and they done so, and the printing was awarded to the lowest tender, (I think I omitted to mention that only two tenders were received), and that by so doing we lost the support and influence of the other local papers in the town; that they ignored the Fair, and that influence was used outside to have other papers do the same; that although a large sum had been saved, compared with what the printing cost four years ago, yet there could be no doubt that the lack of support from the local press had much to do with the financial failure of the Exhibition. Yours truly,

"R. DICKSON."

We have before referred to the "penny wise and pound foolish" policy of the managers of the Port Hope Central Exhibition in their treatment of the newspapers of that town, which had done so much for many years to encourage agricultural societies and to promote the success of their exhibitions. The managers chose to award their printing at prices which neither of the established offices would care to take, to a new venture, and yet seem to feel injured becase the papers which they had treated with so much ingratitude did not afford them gratis use of their editorial columns in order to give them an influence with the public which their new protege did not possess. To our mind such an assumption is the height of "cheek." The managers were to withdraw what little patronage they had to give these offices, and yet the printers were expected, as a matter of patriotism, to extend their whole influence to make their Exhibition a success! No doubt the publishers of the Times and Guide thought that if the managers could afford to "ignore" the printers, the printers could equally well afford to "ignore" the managers; and Mr. Dickson's letter only serves to show that the managers got the worst of it. Mr. Dickson is quite in the right, no doubt, when he says that the lack of active support from the local papers had "much to do with the financial failure of the Exhibition," but he should carry his argument back to the primary cause, and say further that the "lack of support from the local press" was due to the niggardly and ungenerous conduct of the Committee of which he was the Secretary, and he would get exactly at the cause of the failure, which lay with himself and other members of the Committee who were studying rather how they could get the Exhibition printing for the Weekly News, than how they should promote the success of the Exhibition. As to the statement made by the News that "the Times was a party "to inducing the Peterborough press to "ignore the Central, because the News "received the printing," we can only say that we can't speak for other papers, but so far as the EXAMINER is concerned it is without any foundation whatever, and is made out of whole cloth to suit the purposes of the News.

The popular thing now is to have belles in the sleigh.

Editorial Jottings.

DURING THE PAST YEAR the Government organs have been concentrating all their ingenuity to prove that there was no monopoly in coal oil under the precious regulations of their government. Of course the consumers who were paying 40c. per gallon for very inferior oil, owing to competition being destroyed by the tariff, knew better; and so, apparently, did the Government, for when Mr. Orton, the Tory member for Wellington, got up in the House to ask a Special Committee to investigate the alleged monopoly, Mr. Mousseau was ready with the answer, for the Government, that they intended introducing fresh regulations regarding coal oil before the session was over, thus acknowledging the evil which has been forced on their attention by the Liberal press, and against the protests of the Tory organs. Whatever course the Government may take, the people will not forget that for the past year they have been allowed to remain at the mercy of the coal oil kings, and made to pay just double the reasonable price for the lighting of their houses, and that any concessions now to be made will be due to the agitation of the friends of the people—the Liberal party.

IT IS STATED, on what is believed to be reliable authority, that the Syndicate have decided to put an upset price of $2.50 per acre on their lands in the North-West. This would make the cash value of their land grant $62,500,000. The fact is, however, the Syndicate are in no hurry to place their lands in the market. Settlement will be of no great advantage to them till the railway is ready for traffic. They are assured of 4 per cent. interest on their deposit of $1,000,000, which is as much as they could get from the banks. They can build the road to the base of the Rocky Mountains, with the Government cash bonus of $10,000 a mile, payable on the completion of every 20 miles, without the outlay of a dollar of their own. The Government have to build the intervening section and make them a present of it. The Government are going on to settle the alternate sections at the public expense, and the work of the settlers thus located, will constantly increase the value of the Syndicate lands. In three or four years the Government and the settlers will have more than doubled the value of the Company's lands, and we shall be very much surprised if the Syndicate exhibit any haste in disposing of their property.

A TELEGRAM from Washington says:

"On Monday an effort was made in the House to pass under a suspension of the rules a joint resolution providing for the appointment of commissioners for negotiating a reciprocity treaty with Canada. It met with a prompt and fatal resistance."

Reciprocal trade relations with the United States have always been admitted to be Canada's best hope for the future, but the adoption by the Government of a tariff avowedly hostile to the trade of the United States, even to the extent of the sacrifice of our own interests to Sir John Macdonald's Yankeephobism, has rendered the hope of obtaining mutually advantageous trade relations between the two countries, a vain one, so long as the present Government lasts and the present fiscal policy remains in force.

IN ORDER TO obtain an adequate conception of the magnitude of the area and value of the public domain handed over to the Syndicate, with privilege and exemptions which practically make them lords paramount over the North-West, let the reader consider the following figures from the census of 1871. At that date the area of cultivated land in the Dominion was as follows: Ontario, 8,823,626 acres; Quebec, 5,703,944 acres; New Brunswick, 1,171,1157 acres; Nova Scotia, 1,627,091 acres; Prince Edward Island, 445,103 acres—total number of acres under cultivation in the Dominion, 17,770,921, or over 7,000,000 acres less than the gift of "choice lands" in the North-West Territories to the St. Paul Syndicate.

THE TORONTO Telegram, whose estimate of political matters is generally pretty accurate, is right when it says of the Ministerial outlook:

"The Maritime Provinces are as good as good as gone already so far as the Government are concerned, and nobody will pretend that the railway contract, however acceptable it may be to Quebec, has strengthened the Government in Ontario. The Mail says the recollection of some of the amusing things in the recent railway debates still excites it to laughter. There is no denying that the the spectacle of the Conservative majority standing solidly at Sir John Macdonald's back was a very funny one; but it will not be nearly so funny when the general election comes round to those members who hold uncertain seats."

THE BOBCAYGEON Independent says:

"The Norwood Register speaks in an aggrieved tone respecting the action of the Peterborough County Council in refusing to extend the time of the Ottawa and Toronto bonus By-Law. It is very hard on the Warden. But the Warden is not a man to have the wool pulled over his eyes, and he acts as common sense and prudence dictates."

THE ISLE OF LOVE.

(For the EXAMINER.)

There is in this life's stormy sea,
A bright and sunny isle,
Its meads perennial glory see,
And heaven's eternal smile.
Supernal sweet and passing fair,
Ne'er love light zephyrs fanned,
And silvery songs float everywhere
Around this fairy land.

The heavenly angels oft descend
And through the valleys rove,
For golden sunshine knows no end
On this sweet Isle of Love.
Fadeless and sweet the flowers that blow,
Upon this golden strand,
For chilling blasts they never know
Within this fairy land.

And oft as evening shades appear,
In dreams I see thee smile,
And ever think I will be near
Thee on this sunny isle.
I often hear thee sweetly call
And gently take my hand,
Just when the evening shadows fall
Around this fairy land.

In dreams thy songs of beauty live,
Those eyes of love I see,
When goodnight kisses round I give,
I kept the best for thee.
E'en now I hear the angels say,
That fondly hand in hand,
For many a happy, happy day
We'll roam this fairy land.

TEACHERS' CONVENTION.

The Peterborough teachers held their 4th Semi-Annual Convention in the Collegiate Institute on Friday and Saturday last, the 11th and 12th.

The convention opened on Friday, at 10 a.m., with a few remarks from the President on his election, and expressing a wish to resign.

Mr. Brown moved, and Mr. Adams seconded,—That his wish be complied with.—Carried.

Mr. Braden moved, seconded by Mr. Wood,—That J. C. Brown, Esq., be President.—Carried.

Mr. Braden then spent nearly an hour in illustrating his method of teaching elementary writing, and was followed by Mr. Smith on the subject of teaching pupils to read the 3rd Book.

Convention then adjourned till 2 p.m., when Mr. Earle explained the Grammar of some difficult sentences.

At 3 p.m. Mr. Jeffers followed on the subject of 3rd and 4th Class History.

After a short discussion it was Moved by Mr. Stratton, seconded by Mr. Jeffers,—That there be no public meeting in the evening.—Carried.

At 4 p.m., Mr. Tilley, P. S. I. (County Durham), gave a most interesting lecture illustrating his method of teaching Grammar and Composition, after which the Convention again adjourned to meet next day at 9 a.m.

On meeting on Saturday morning Mr. Tilley took up the subject of Elementary Fractions, and at the close of his lesson the thanks of the Association (moved by Mr. Shearer, seconded by Mr. Braden) were voted.

There now being some time to spare, Mr. Braden addressed the meeting on the subject of the disposal of the funds of the Association, no amounting to over $100; after which Mr. Braden moved, seconded by Mr. W. Wood,—That the Executive Committee, with the addition of Mr. Shearer and Mr. Stratton, P.S.I., be a Special Committee to make arrangements for affiliation with the Mechanics' Institute, with power to act.—Carried.

Mr. Brown, P.S.I., then introduced the subject of Addition, illustrating the best method to adopt in teaching the subject; and some discussion ensued.

The last subject on the programme, "Mistakes in Teaching," was then taken up by Mr. Stratton, P. S. I., in which several mistakes common to many teachers were pointed out, and teachers present advised to avoid them.

The Convention then closed.

A young man named Nelson Denyea, aged 19, was assisting two others in skidding at Rathburn's shanty, Deer Lake. He was following a rolling log, when a large knot in it caught his clothes, and he was drawn over it and then under and was crushed in a dreadful manner. The poor fellow expired to-day. The strangest part is that he pointed out this knot in the log to others and said how dangerous it was, and how easily anybody might be caught by it.

Norwood has had a sensation. It appears that Mr. G. A. Powles of Kincardine recently secured the position of assistant teacher, as was subsequently developed, by fraudulent use of the name of a prominent educationalist, and by misrepresenting his qualification. This coming to the knowledge of the Board, they promptly at their last meeting paid him one month's salary, and gave him the grand bounce. We trust this may prove an effectual warning to other pedagogues who may be tempted to resort to similar dishonest practices.

The Norwood Register says Mr. John Anderson, of Belmont, met with a serious accident at the races which came off at Campbellford on Thursday last. While the horse was running round the course, Mr. Anderson, thinking that all the horses had passed his position, ran out to look after them in their progress on the home stretch, when another racer came up behind him at a racing pace. The driver, seeing him in his path, pulled up as quickly as possible, but the suddenness with which this was done, was too much for the horse, which struck Mr. Anderson, reared, and then fell upon him, breaking several of his ribs, and otherwise severely injuring him. Mr. Anderson is recovering.

Captain John Donnely of Garden Island, has been in Ottawa in consultation with the promoters of the wreckage bills. He advocates the stationing of life-boats and other life-saving apparatus at different points on lake Ontario especially along the coast of Prince Edward county. He also recommends the adoption of one of many natural harbors on on that coast, and states that if the merits of Weller's Bay as a harbor of refuge were sufficiently known to mariners many wrecks would be obviated. He favors not keeping crews stationed permanently, but leaving life-boats in charge of one man, say a light-keeper who could summon a crew at a short notice.—Ontario.

The social evil in Napanee has assumed alarming proportions, and virtuous people are becoming alarmed. Last Sunday the pulpit opened a crusade against it, Rev. Rural Dean Bogart, of St. Mary Magdalene Church, preaching a scathing sermon on the evil, and calling on the authorities to take steps for the suppression of the vice. On Monday night a councillor called attention to the matter, and stated that he had it on good authority that there were seventy professional prostitutes in the town, or about three per cent. of the population. The gross immorality of Napanee was the talk of the pulpit, the talk on the streets, the talk on the railway trains, and the police of the town should be forced to do their duty. He moved, and the Council adopted a resolution, calling on the Mayor to vigorously enforce the by-laws for the suppression of vice.

THE DUTY OF THE HOUR.

(From the Irish Canadian.)

The letter we published last week from a correspondent in Peterborough is conceived in the true spirit of the policy and interest of our people. The writer gives to know, as we had previously understood, that he has always acted with the Tories; but he does this in terms which show that he acted with them as an intelligent man, reserving his own independence and subject to their conformity with his views of the interests of the country and of his duty to his class. He says:

"You are aware that humble as my course in the Dominion has hitherto been, it has been on the other side of politics, on the side of "knavish tricks," although at no period have my opinions or acts been pinned to the coat-tail of the Conservative party.

"But though my faith in it has from time to time been considerably shaken, owing to its policy on the Pacific Railway, Land administration in the North-West, and upon other questions that vitally affect the well-being and progress of Canada, it is only by its present unpatriotic effects to commit National suicide that I feel constrained to range myself against the Government, against the gigantic and crushing monopoly it seeks to impose on our new country, and on the side of freedom and the people."

Intelligent and independent men like the writer of the letter we refer to, will spurn, as he does, the claim of party where they are called on to change sides by duty to the interests of the country and to the rights of their own people. This Irish Catholic Tory says with great force:

"The Canadian people must be sole arbiters of their own destiny. They have not delegated, and will not delegate, to any Government or Syndicate the power to deal with half a continent. No new Ireland—practically about double the cultivated area of Ireland—must be created in Canada.

"No system of Russian serfdom or Irish slavery must be introduced into its institutions or laws, or be permitted anywhere to take root in its virgin soil.

"Let the people continue to use, as they have lately to good effect, the bit of liberty vouchsafed them from Ottawa, the right of speech. Let them protest and petition, and, by the aid of the patriotic press of the country put on record their determined resolution to fight out this question to the end, even to repudiation when the time comes. Let us insist on better terms, or hold fast to our inheritance. Let us keep new homes for our own people, and a place of refuge for our kindred in the old land, who must, in the near future, flee from the galling tyranny of oppression and persecution of landed monopolies in England and Scotland, and from those hereditary scourges of God's people in Ireland."

Our own correspondent points out, still further, the proper way in which every Irish Catholic of intelligence who has found cause to support the Tories in the past, should act now. He says:

"It does infinite credit to you, not only in paying a just tribute to the great abilities of Mr. Blake, to his great services to Canada and the greater yet to come, but as an evidence of your own political consistency, and a proof, if such were needed, where THE IRISH CANADIAN shall be found on the day of reckoning. The handwriting on the wall stands out in bold relief. The day is near when a grateful country will not fail to recognize the services of Hon. Mr. Blake, by placing the palm of victory upon his manly and patriotic brow.

"Every true Canadian, every good man should henceforth rally around the standard of liberty held aloft by our great Canadian Tribune.

"Especially should every good Irishman rally to the support of the Hon. gentleman, who has been the first political leader in Canada who has shown the heart to feel and the courage to declare for "Home Rule" for the people of Ireland."

Mr. Blake possesses great personal claims on the sympathy of the Irish Canadians. A man of our people, he is one of whom they are, and well may be, proud. When the Irish are presented with a choice between one leader distinguished, as our correspondent intimates, by "knavish tricks," and another by straightforward integrity, they could not hesitate, under ordinary circumstances, to spurn the sharper for the man of honor. When they find themselves operated on by, not only their sympathy with the leading of a gentleman—an Irish gentleman whose word is his bond—but by also their duty to the country and to themselves, as they are at this moment in Mr. Blake's struggle for free labour and popular rights on the lands of the North West, they will not hesitate to rally, as our Peterborough correspondent says, "around the standard of liberty held aloft by our great Canadian Tribune," Edward Blake.

While we have no doubt the Irish Catholics of Ontario will give Mr. Blake an enthusiastic and solid support, we rest that conviction on the belief that he will make good their right of representation. He has sought to do so in his project for the representation of minorities; but pending that, we count confidently on his sense of fair play to use his leadership so as obtain for our people a legitimate representation in the next parliament and Government. The Irish Catholics are bound by their most sacred interests in politics to revenge the treachery in which Sir John Macdonald repaid their support in the last general elections by repudiating their claims, a week afterwards, to fair representation in the Cabinet and Civil Service. That duty, we are ready to pledge our life, they will discharge to almost a man, when Mr. Blake, whose verbal assurance they will accept without a moment's question, shall have given them to understand that he will supply them with a further duty to work for, by the justice to which the genuineness of his liberalism holds him committed—the justice of a fair representation of the Irish Canadian Catholics in the Commons and the Cabinet.

BARONESS COUTTS' MARRIAGE.

LONDON, Feb. 12.—Baroness Burdett-Coutts and Wm. L. Ashmead Bartlett were married this morning at church. The marriage was performed by the Rev. Henry White, chaplain at Savoy Chapel Royal. No one but the nearest relatives and most intimate friends were present, including Sir Francis and Lady Burdett, Sir Harry and Lady Keppel, Lady Sarah Lindsay, Admiral and Mrs. Gordon and Mr. Ellis Ashmead Bartlett, M. P. Mr. Lacarta acted as best man. Sir Francis Burdett, head of the family, gave away the bride. The wedding party were afterwards entertained at the residence of Mrs. Trevannion, the eldest sister of she bride, whose health prevented her presence in church. The baroness looked remarkably well. Previous to the marriage Bartlett, in accordance with the Duchess of St. Alban's will, assumed the name of Burdett de Coutts before his own surname. He and wife leave this afternoon for the seat of Admiral Gordon in Kent.

FEES OF DOCTORS.—The fees of doctors is an item that very many persons are interested in just at present. We believe the schedule for visits is $3,00, which will tax a man confined to his bed for a year, and in need of a daily visit, over $1,000 a year for medical attendance alone! And one single bottle of Hop Bitters taken in time would save the $1,000 and all the year's sickness.—Post. 7-2t

The Trent Valley Canal

(Pearlon Falls Gazette.)

The Globe of the 14th inst, in its reply to the Peterborough Review's comments on its remarks with reference to the Trent Valley Canal, says; "It is easier to see the advantages that the Trent Valley scheme has over other projects than to hope what means can be found to begin and finish the work;" adding that the ratification of the bargain with the St. Paul Syndicate will cause such a drain upon the resources of the Dominion for years to come that it will be difficult to provide funds wherewith to further smaller but, proportionately, far more important enterprises, and regretting that "the money which might have been used in completing the Trent Valley work will be paid out for the coal, wood, grease and labour necessary to operate trains through the wilderness." It is gratifying to find our Toronto contemporary, who was at first thought to be inimical to the canal, thus candidly admitting its feasibility and, inferentially, its superiority to rival projects; and we have sanguine hopes that, the Pacific Railway to the contrary notwithstanding, means will be found to carry the Trent Valley scheme to a speedy and successful issue. Asevidence (if any be needed) that its advocates are determined to "keep the ball rolling" with zealous industry, we publish with much pleasure the following brief but eminently satisfactory letter received a few days ago by the Reeve of this village from Mr. Hector Cameron, M. P. for North Victoria:

Ottawa, Feb. 7th. 1880.

DEAR SIR,—

I presented to-day the petition of the corporation of Fenelon Falls in favour of the Trent Valley Canal, and I am pleased to be able to state that the Minister of Railways and Canals has given me an assurance privately, which he will repeat officially in reply to a question I intend to put to him in the House that a sum will be included in the estimates for this year for a location survey of the work, with a view to its actual prosecution. My constituents may rely on my urging this scheme on the Government and the public to the utmost extent of my power and on every opportunity when it is judicious to press it.

Yours truly,
HECTOR CAMERON.

Ayer's Hair Vigor,

FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR TO ITS NATURAL VITALITY AND COLOR.

IT is a most agreeable dressing, which is at once harmless and effectual, for preserving the hair. It restores, with the gloss and freshness of youth, faded or gray, light, and red hair, to a rich brown, or deep black, as may be desired. By its use thin hair is thickened, and baldness often though not always cured. It checks falling of the hair immediately, and causes a new growth in all cases where the glands are not decayed; while to brashy, weak, or otherwise diseased hair, it imparts vitality and strength, and renders it pliable.

The VIGOR cleanses the scalp, cures and prevents the formation of dandruff; and, by its cooling, stimulating, and soothing properties, it heals most if not all of the humors and diseases peculiar to the scalp, keeping it cool, clean, and soft, under which conditions diseases of the scalp and hair are impossible.

As a Dressing for Ladies' Hair

The VIGOR is incomparable. It is colorless, contains neither oil nor dye, and will not soil white cambric. It imparts an agreeable and lasting perfume, and as an article for the toilet it is economical and unsurpassed in its excellence.

PETERBOROUGH, FEBR'Y 17, 1881.

The License Question.

A letter in another column from an old and respected resident of the town brings the subject of liquor licenses under our notice. Last year, previous to the issue of licenses by the Commissioners, we referred to the subject hoping that the commissioners would exercise care and discretion in the granting of licenses both for the moral welfare of the town and as a matter of justice towards the respectable and law abiding hotel-keepers. The number of licenses granted last year was to our mind excessive, and beyond the reasonable wants of the community, supposing taverns to be a necessity. One of the parties to whom license was granted last year is now lying in gaol undergoing sentence as a receiver of stolen goods, a fact which ought to make the Commissioners exceedingly cautious in the future, in granting license to any person except of well-established character for honesty and integrity. The transition from the hotel to the haunt of vice and school of depravity is so easy, that those charged with the responsibility in the issuing of licenses cannot be too careful in their enquiries as to the character of those to be licensed to vend what has, with more truth than facetiousness, been called the "curse of Canada." We are of opinion that the number of licenses in this town ought not to exceed ten, or, at the outside twelve, although the law would warrant the Commissioners in granting more. Of course the Commissioners cannot refuse to grant the full number authorised so long as the applicants comply with all the requirements of the law, but it is in the power of the Council to direct the Commissioners as to the number of licenses to be issued, and the latter, we have reason to believe, would be only too glad to carry out any instructions conveyed to them by resolution of the Council. As the license question will probably engage the attention of the Council on Monday evening next, we hope a motion will be passed defining the number of licenses to be issued by the Commissioners.

Census Commissioners.

We understand that on the nomination of Mr. Burnham, M. P., Mr. J. B. Pearce, of Norwood, has been appointed Census Commissioner for East Peterborough, and that Mr. Hilliard, M. P., has appointed Mr. John Carnegie to a similar position for the West Riding. So far as capacity goes, perhaps two better men for these positions could not have been picked upon, and we have no doubt the work will be well and thoroughly done in both cases. Had Mr. Burnham seized the opportunity of the first patronage that came under his hand to pass it over to a relation, we should have been surprised. We cannot say that we are at all astonished at the evidence that Mr. Hilliard acknowledges no merit among his supporters of the last election except in his own family. A certain kind of delicacy, which is undoubtedly a stranger to Mr. Hilliard's bosom, might have suggested that, for fear of misconstruction, some capable supporter to whom he was not related, would have been a wiser choice; but Mr. Hilliard is evidently a believer in the saying that "blood is thicker than water," and acts accordingly. No doubt there will be some heart-burnings over the matter, but we must acquit Mr. Hilliard of any conscious nepotism. The fact is, it never occurred to him that any other person than the gentleman appointed had any claims upon the "pairty."

An amendment to the Protection Bil was offered by Mr. O'Donnell in the British House of Commons on Friday night, professing to omit high treason from the list of crimes for which arrests may be made under the provisions of the bill.

Rev. Mr. Hammond's Visit.

The visit to Peterborough of the Rev. E. P. Hammond calls for more than a passing notice. Mr. Hammond came here under somewhat unfortunate circumstances, inasmuch as a dispute had arisen between two local congregations as to the propriety of his coming at all, and one of these parties in their eagerness to give a reason for the course pursued towards the proposed meetings, were quick to accept, and we are sorry to believe, too ready to circulate in advance of his arrival, every story that came to hand disparaging to Mr. Hammond and his modes of conducting religious services. Large numbers of those, consequently, who attended his opening meetings went with preconceived prejudice, fully anticipating that the condemnation with which they came prepared would be fully justified by the conduct which they had been led to expect on the part of Mr. Hammond. It was not many days, however, before those prejudices gave way before the evidence which they had of Mr. Hammond's simplicity of character as a man, his intense earnestness as a Christian, and his wonderful power as an exhorter. It is true that Mr. Hammond's manner and method were considerably out of the ordinary pulpit routine, and that the more conservative churchgoer was naturally apt, at the first blush, to be rather skeptical as to their wisdom or prudence. But it took only a very short time to convince that the originality, which was the result of great force of mind and character, was in itself an agent of good and an advantage to the work to which the preacher had devoted himself. While we do not consider it any part of the duty of a lay journal to express opinions or to sit in judgment upon such matters as occasioned the dispute prior to Mr. Hammond's arrival, we believe it to be but a simple duty to acknowledge that Mr. Hammond's labors in the community have been productive of very great, and we believe lasting, good amongst us. There are such abundant evidences of this fact, that we fancy no one will dispute it, and we believe, therefore, that the community owes a debt of gratitude, both to Mr. Hammond himself, and to those who were instrumental in bringing him here. Mr. Hammond's farewell meeting was a testimony to his worth and goodness, and to his Christian simplicity and earnestness, such as any man might envy, and it was attended with more force, when we reflect that the man who had made so warm a place for himself in the hearts of thousands was less than three weeks before an entire stranger to every one of them.

The Appeal to the Senate.

The Review, stimulated by the "crushing majority" of its party leaders on the Syndicate question, publishes a most remarkable article on the "appeal of the Senate." The singularity of the production, in the respect that the writer evidently forgot what he sat down to comment upon, after meandering through four sentences, like the human anatomy, "fearfully and wonderfully made," is most striking. For instance, our truly good friend flies off at a tangent on the bare suggestion that, as the duty of the Senate is to avoid hasty legislation, they should take time to consider this very important question, and says "the pretence is absurd, for the matter has been before the country for a decade." Now this will be news to the St. Paul and Manitoba railway people, who, ten years ago had not even a corporate existence, and certainly, individually, never dreamed that any Government would be crazy enough to build a railway out of public funds and make them a present of it, with the additional gift of the bulk of the arable lands in the North-West. Our contem laughs at the idea of a paltry twenty-five millions of dollars being of any account with the people; and as for a mere twenty-five million acres of land troubling any "trooly loil" subject whose taxes are paid out of the public pocket, perish the thought! The appeal to the people it says "was an utter failure." Well, the appeal to the people was asked for by the Liberal party, but was refused by the party who never do appeal to the people, except when the constitution obliges them to do so. The Syndicate Government dared not risk leaving this great question in the hands of the electorate of the country. The Liberal party have made their appeal however, to the intelligence, the patriotism, the integrity and the common sense of the country, and it will be time enough for the local Syndicate organ to say that that appeal has "utterly failed" after the people have recorded their verdict in the next general elections. The Review goes on to say that "forgeries, admission by tickets, refusal to permit discussion, gross misrepresentations," etc., were resorted to by the Liberal party. These would be serious charges, if they came from any other source, and were seriously uttered; but old readers of the Review know it so well that when they hear it cry "stop thief," they only wonder, so to speak, whose pocket it has been picking. Our contemporary winds up its article by quoting the following alleged letter, as an evidence of the utter corruption and total depravity of the Liberal party. "Private."

TORONTO, January 24, 1871.

"DEAR SIR, In accordance with the resolution of the reform Association of 22nd instant, that funds should be obtained for aiding the efforts of Hon. Edward Blake and the opposition at Ottawa in their struggle against the Pacific Syndicate contract, we beg to request you to send your subscription ($—— to Hugh Blain, Treasurer, 11 Front street Toronto.

(Signed) D. H. ALLEN, Secretary.
(Signed) ADAM CROOKS, President.

"To——."

Our contemporary does not say by what means this document became public, whether it was fished like another celebrated "private" letter in fragments out of a spittoon, or whether it is, indeed, but a bold draught upon a disordered imagination. But assuming it to be genuine, it is certainly harmless and devoid of the veriest suspicion of wrong-doing. Money is needed to defray the expenses of printing, circulating and placing before the public the Syndicate swindle in all its enormity and not having "contigencies" of the public Treasury to draw upon, nor a wealthy Syndicate with millions almost within its grasp to fall back upon, a subscription is a necessity. When our contemporary finds the name of Adam Crooks signed to an agreement to barter away the honor of his country for hard cash or any other consideration, or when it reads it at the bottom of a telegram calling for "another ten thousand," then it may rightly charge him with dishonor; but the Review writer will be Commissioner of as many decennial censuses as he will get dollars for his present job, before he will be able to find the stain of dishonor on Mr. Crook's political garments. What the above letter had to do with the Senate's consideration of the Syndicate swindle is, however, not at all clear to the average mind, but there the Review writer leaves the matter. We may add that the appeal to the Senate turned out precisely as we anticipated. The old ladies, obedient to the intimation of the Premier, and to the injunction of the Mail that they had "only to register the decrees of the House of Commons," have swallowed the Syndicate arrangement holus bolus, much to the gratification of the people of St. Paul and all who have axes to grind in connection with the Syndicate. They have thus given one more reason why they should be, at the very earliest moment the proper constitutional means can be brought to bear, abolished as a useless, expensive and obstructive body, whose duties of registering the decrees of the Lower House could be much more economically and quite as efficiently performed by the Clerk of the House of Commons.

Railway Extension.

Last week the Railway Committee of the Legislature sanctioned the amendments to its charter asked for by the Midland Railway Company, and at the same time refused to grant the application made by the Grand Junction people. This brings us back to a meeting held a short time since in the town hall, at which the public were confidently assured by Mr. Bickford that the Legislature would never grant the Midland authority to construct the direct line to Omemee. Mr. Cox's statements to the public on that occasion, so far as the charter is concerned, have been fully carried out by the facts, and thus a step in advance is made in the direction outlined by the President of the Midland on the same occasion. The accomplishment of Mr. Cox's plans would make Peterborough the centre of a railway system embracing almost the whole carrying trade from the the north, and from Lake Huron to Lake Ontario, and is one of the best hopes we have as a community for the future. There is good reason to believe that Mr. Cox will be successful in carrying out his designs in this respect, and we have no doubt the people of the town who are so vitally interested in their accomplishment, will be ready to lend him any reasonable assistance they may be called upon to give, if their aid should be required.

THE LAST ESTIMATES submitted to Parliament by Sir Richard Cartwright as Finance Minister, on account of Consolidated Fund amounted to $23,669,073. The estimates brought down on Tuesday by Sir Samuel Tilley reach $26,189,896, or an increase of over two and a half millions. The sum of $6,000 only is voted for survey of the Trent Valley Canal, while $25,000 is voted for the Murray Canal for the purpose of construction. Evidently the Government have not forgotten that there is a vacancy in East Northumberland.

DEATH OF DR. HARKIN.

Dr. Harkin, M. P. for Prescott, died of apoplexy on Friday in the Legislative buildings, Toronto. His illness and decease were terribly sudden, and all that could be done by his medical friends who witnessed his fall was insufficient to prolong his life. Deceased was born in 1831 and has long practised his profession at Vankleek Hill. He became a member of the Legislature in 1875 and since that time worked harmoniously with his Conservative colleagues. The House adjourned out of respect for him, and his body was sent to his home in charge of several members of the Legislature from the same district.

Peterborough Markets.

[Supplied by W. H. Wrighton, Grain and Produce Dealer, and General Grocer, George Street.]

FEBRUARY 16th, 1881.

Last week there was very little doing in grain. On Saturday nothing was done, owing to rain and bad roads. This week there has been a decided improvement. Tuesday and Wednesday a good deal of grain changed hands—more wheat offering than usual prices closing as follows:—Wheat, $1.11 to $1.12, a few loads bringing $1.13. Oats were firm at 30 to 32 cents. Peas have been selling freely at 63 to 64 cents. Barley and rye are almost out of the market, very little doing in either. Saturday's market was one of the poorest we ever saw, only about half-a-dozen teams came on the Square. Wednesday's market was a very fair one, the principal offerings being eggs, butter, apples, potatos and meat. Fresh butter brought 20 to 22 cents, and in good demand. Eggs sold freely at 18 to 20 cents. Apples were very slow of sale at 60c. to 75c. per bag. Potatos not wanted—40c. a bag being asked, but can be bought for less. Meat rather slow sale. Poultry is in fair demand—extreme prices being asked prevents quick sales. Turkeys bring 65 cents to $1.00; chickens, 40c. to 50c.; geese, 50c. to 60c.

TEAS! TEAS!

CHINA and JAPAN.

As an article of Domestic use, there is none perhaps for which there is at the present day a greater demand in the aggregate than TEA.

Notwithstanding the increased demand, yet the price of TEAS is lower to-day than it has ever yet been.

The causes which have procured so desirable a result to the TEA-DRINKER are practical.

FIRST: A more extended and scientific system of cultivation in the Tea producing countries.

SECOND: Cheaper and better carrying facilities, and

THIRD: Increased and closer competition amongst traders and dealers.

TEAS are popularly known as Green, Black and Japan, and of each of these there are a number of grades and varieties. Thousands of pounds are annually adulterated and sold in this country.

For description of grade, modes of adulteration, and tests for detection, see "ads" to follow.

TOWN COUNCIL.

The Town Council met on Monday evening, His Worship Mayor Smith in the chair. Present, Messrs. Cahill, Taylor, McNaughton, Kelly, Chamberlain, Rutherford, Menzies, Richardson and Hartley.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

A communication was read from Mr. J. Lookhart Gordon, in reference to the proposed Ontario & Quebec Railway, the effect of which was that the Company applying for a charter contemplated building a road to connect the railway system of western Ontario with that of Quebec, and to form an independent trunk line apart from the Grand Trunk Railway. The proposed company believed the local traffic on the contemplated route warranted the enterprise as a business speculation. They did not ask for any bonuses, but, if the municipalities on the route chose to grant them rights of way or grants of land for stations, they would not refuse. The letter enclosed a copy of a resolution passed by a western municipality, and suggested that a similar resolution from the Town Council of Peterborough would be an advantage.

The communication was on motion received.

A communication from Jas. Edwards Esq., asking the re-consideration of the action of the previous Council in his case was received and referred to the Finance Committee.

A petition for aid from Mrs. Ellen Robinson, was received and referred to the Charity Committee with power to act.

Mr. Sydney Johnston notified the Council that he had been assessed for a dog by the Assessors. He did not own any such alleged dog, and naturally did not want to pay taxes thereon. On motion the tax was ordered to be remitted, on Mr. Johnston taking the usual statutory declaration.

A request from Thos. Bradburn, Esq., for remission of some arrears of taxes against Thos. Taylor, was referred to the Court of Revision.

An account of T. F. Blackwood, for 23 feet of suction hose and couplings, $130.60, was referred to the Finance Committee with power to act.

Geo. Benton's account of 50c. for drawing furniture, was deemed a matter of sufficient importance to warrant an investigation by the Finance Committee.

John Madden's account of $60, for charity wood, was ordered to be paid.

Mr. Rutherford introduced Report Number One of the Committee on Fire, Water and Gas. The Committee reported that they could not grant the request of the old Fire Brigade for $20 salary for 50 men, but recommended that the Chief of the Brigade be authorized to select a Brigade of 30 men, who were to receive $15 each per annum; that the thanks of the community were due to the late Brigade for their services during the past year; and that tenders be advertised for, for services of three horses for fire duty for one year from date of making the contract.

Mr. Rutherford said Mr. White, who had furnished the horses last year, had given every satisfaction, but as there were a number of livery keepers, it was thought proper to advertise for tenders.

Mr. McNaughton asked if the $15 a year would include the $2 taxes.

Mr. Rutherford said certainly not. Last year they had 70 men at $2 each, now they proposed to have 30 men at $15 each. They would pay their $2 tax, which would leave the cost of the Brigade at about $390.

Mr. McNaughton said there was to be an extra horse, which would cost $50 more.

Mr. Cahill asked that the report be received in the meantime, as he wished to consider it. He then read the report of the Street and Bridge Committee, to the effect that the contract for the supply of cedar and plank for the ensuing year be given to D. A. Macdonald, at $6.90 per M. for pine plank, and $6.00 for cedar scantling. Mr. Macdonald to give security for due performance of his contract to the amount of $350.

Mr. Richardson said the security should be had before the contract was signed. Last year the contract was not fulfilled, and there being no security the town lost by it.

The matter was left in the hands of the Street and Bridge Committee with power to act.

Mr. Rutherford moved the first reading of the Fire By-Law, seconded by Mr. McNaughton, and the By-Law was read a first time, to come up for second reading at the next meeting of the Council.

Mr. Richardson drew attention to the sidewalk on the Midland Bridge leading to the Auburn factory. He said the bridge was used by the public, and was the only means the people employed in the factory had of reaching their work without going down to the lower bridge and walking up through the snow and mud. He had spoken to Mr. Cox about the matter, and Mr. Cox had very generously said that not only had he no objection to the bridge being used for foot passengers, but if the town would supply the necessary lumber he would have the Company's men make the walk good. He moved that the Council grant 1,500 feet of inch lumber, and sufficient three inch nails to make the necessary repairs.

The Mayor suggested that it would be better to make a good job of it by putting down plank, but Mr. Richardson said the boards would be sufficient to last till a new bridge was built, and the motion carried.

Mr. Rutherford moved the adoption of the Fire, Water and Gas Committee's report.

Mr. Cahill considered 20 men too low. In case of fire some might be unavoidably absent, which would leave the working force too small to ob effective. He thought it would be better to have 40 men at $12 each. If they got an extra horse to draw the waggon it would cost the $30 of difference, and he thought it would be better to spend the money in getting more men.

Mr. Hartley said, as an old fireman, he considered having a horse to draw the hook and ladder waggon would be an advantage. When the roads were bad, either in winter or summer, the pulling of the wagon long distances was a serious task, and the firemen were not as fit for work at the fire after as they would be if they had not to draw the wagon.

The Mayor said the Chief had prefered a smaller number of men, and would ensure attendance by making the fines heavier. The fines would be fixed at 75c instead of 10c.

The report was adopted.

Mr. Richardson said the Grand Junction had torn up a portion of the sidewalk, at the upper end of the Town, and if it was left as it was the people would be up to their knees in mud when the spring time comes.

Mr. McNaughton—Oh don't you be asking too much for No. 4 Ward.

The Mayor said the Council had taken action in the matter last fall, and Mr. Bickford had promised to have the sidewalk relaid. It would be sufficient for the Clerk to give him another notification.

Mr. Chamberlain moved, seconded by Mr. Kelly, that the Street Inspector be instructed to measure each load of lumber as delivered, and that no lumber be paid for without the certificate of measurement by the Inspector.—Carried.

Mr. Taylor moved, seconded by Mr. McNaughton, that the Street and Bridge Committee make an approach for the steam fire engine at the east end of Lake street. He said at the late fire at the bakery the engine had been unable to get water at the most advantageous point, and serious delay was caused. Mr. Johnston had been ordered to do it last year, but it had not been done.

The motion carried.

A petition was read, signed by the holders of shop and hotel licenses, asking the reduction of licenses, claiming that $160 was excessive.

The Mayor brought up the subject of signing weekly charity cheques, and asked instructions from the Council.

Mr. McNaughton referred to the case of the widow Martin who should be getting $1.50 a week, and thought the payments should be continued. He said there were persons getting charity from the Town who could go to the concert and pay 50 cents, and others who could wear gold broaches and silk dresses. Mrs. Martin was a poor woman with eight small children, and ought to be looked after. He intended to move that all persons getting railway tickets from the Town should have their names printed once a month.

Mr. Richardson thought Mrs. Martin should be getting $2 instead of $1.50, and didn't see why the Mayor couldn't sign the cheques as other Mayors had done before him.

Mr. Rutherford thought the Hall Trust Fund should be interviewed, to see if they couldn't do something for Mrs. Martin.

The Mayor said it was the intention to call a meeting with a view of systematizing the Town charities. He had no objections to sign the cheques, but did not like to do so on his own responsibility without the authorization of the Council.

Mr. Menzies moved that the matter be referred to the Charity Committee to report, on the understanding that in the meantime the Mayor should issue the cheques as usual.

Mr. Hartley in seconding the motion, thought that the proper course to pursue; if on investigating the Committee found $1.50 too little for Mrs. Martin, they would be able to give her a larger grant.

The motion carried.

Mr. Cahill moved, seconded by Mr. Rutherford, that the Street and Bridge Committee be authorized to procure cedars, at a cost not to exceed $200 for street and bridge purposes.

Mr. Menzies hoped the Committee would not procure any material not absolutely required. They didn't want any more monuments like the piles of stone down street.

Mr. Chamberlain suggested that the Committee should advertise for the cedars, and that suggestion being embodied in the motion, it was carried.

The Council then adjourned for one week.

At the County Court, Guelph, Matthew Jaffray, of Elora, was charged with indecent assault on Mary Ann Trieberger, a girl 14 years of age. It appears she got off at Elora by mistake and Jaffray seeing her on the platform apparently lost, she alleges, put her forcibly into a cutter and drove her to a hotel in the country, where he made her drink some liquor and would not allow her to speak to anybody but himself. He afterward drove her to two other hotels and, she alleges, several times attempted to outrage her person. The prisoner was found guilty.

Or only about $451 a day, including Sundays. In addition he has the free use of a house and grounds that originally cost the country $3,178.83. It seems to us the above vast and unnecessary expenditure might be curtailed nearly $100,000 without reducing his Excellency to a state of starvation.

The mass meeting of the Quebec branch of the Irish Land League on Saturday night lasted until near midnight. The Music Hall was about three-fourths filled, and addresses were delivered by Messrs. Costigan, M. P., John O'Farrell, M. A. Hearn, T. J. Malony, J. J. Gahan, Tarte, and others.

When a commercial traveller named Jonn Shepherd was brought before the St. John police magistrate on Saturday, on a charge of doing business without a licence, the recorder, who appears for the city, said that owing to the judgment given at Ottawa on Friday in the Jones case, the case would not be pressed for the present.

Monday morning the sexton on opening the new Baptist tabernacle on Elgin-street, Ottawa, found that fully three-quarters of the ceiling had fallen during the night. The whole community in Fern Creek, Ky., is alarmed by the number of dogs which have bitten other dogs, cats, sheep, and cattle. A large number of rabid beasts have been killed, but many mad dogs are still at large. Some of the principal members of the Irish Land League meet in Paris next week. Mr. Parnell's future course will probably be then decided. In not returning to England Mr. Parnell has been acting on the advice of his friends in London. His absence is seriously disorganizing the Home Rule party. Co-Operative.

NOT AFRAID!

We are not afraid of competition from any source, from co-operative stores or dry goods stores, or any other kind of stores.

The people of Peterborough, as a whole are quite wide awake to their interests, and will buy their goods where they are best served. A co-operative store has as much right to sell dry goods, and pins and needles, as a dry goods store has to go into boots and shoes.

The real secret of business success is to be thorough in whatever branch is taken up, as a general rule a jack-of-all-trades is master of none, whether he has on his sign that he is a co-operative, dry goods or Grocery Store, or whatever it may be. We keep strictly to the branch of business we have adapted, Tailoring and Gents' Furnishings, and as a result do a good trade.

We therefore can smile at the frantic efforts of any, whose foundation is so insecure that they view with alarm the establishment of any new business.

FARM, GARDEN AND HOUSEHOLD.

REMARKABLE NEW SPRING WHEAT.

Of late years farmers have devoted more care anxiety than formerly to the selection of spring wheat for seeding. Lack of good varieties and failures of crops have made them naturally very cautious. They will therefore be glad to learn that a new wheat is being introduced, which, for hardiness and abundance of yield, has not been surpassed by any of the old favorites in their palmy days. This wheat comes from the uplands of California, and originates from a soil and climate similar to our own. "The Defiance," say the American Agriculturist is a white 'bald' wheat, in which characteristic it is like the popular Clawson and yields are reported of 128 bushels per acre." The yield averages from 38 to 128 bushels per acre. Mr. T. H. Best, of Mt. Pleasant, is introducing this new wheat for seed, and samples may be seen at T. W. Robinson & Co's r Denne & Sperry's Mills.

HINTS FOR THE FARM.

—Harriet Martineau published a book entitled, "Four Acres Enough," or sufficient for any one to make a good living off. The experience of Mr. W. B. Vanvleit, of Lacolle, Que., tends to show that Miss Martineau was not so visionary as some people thought her. Off eight acres of land he harvested, this fall 86 bushels of barley, 96 of oats, 30 bushels of potatoes, and about 70 of corn, several bushels of beans, and a quantity of peas, pumpkins, etc. The value of the produce thus obtained is placed at $500, or, say $62 per acre.

The importance of having pure water for the dairy, as well as for animals to drink, is not sufficiently apprehended. Prof. Sheldon says, in the London Live Stock Journal; "Not only is the blood of animals who drink impure water liable to be poisoned by the bacteria which such water frequently contains, but these putrifactive germs will impregnate both butter and milk if permitted to come in contact with them. The boiling water which should be used in washing dairy utensils will destroy the bacteria; yet as butter cannot be washed in boiling water, it is in the first degree important that the cold water it is washed in should be pure. The water is intended to purify the butter, not the butter the water.

It was resolved at the last annual meeting the American Shorthorn Breeders Association, "That, inasmuch as the Shorthorn race of cattle was brought to its present matchless perfection by the judicious selection of the best animals in blood and useful qualities for breeding purposes, and the vigorous weeding out of inferior individuals regardless of pedigree, it is the opinion of the Convention that the high standard of excellence can only be maintained by a steadfast adherence to this practice." This course is sadly neglected by the majority of Canadian breeders of all kinds of stock. A rage for pedigree to a greater or lesser degree is found everywhere. All animals, especially a male, must have individual merit to be of value in the breeding yards. A good animal with a good pedigree is what we want—others are an evil.

The advantage of a rotation, either regular or irregular, results from a number of considerations, some of the more important of which are as follows: First, different crops required food elements in different proportions—thus potatoes required much more potash than wheat, and this crop grown for a succession of years would exhaust the natural supply much more rapidly than when only grown with a number of other crops between, not demanding a large amount of potash. In the second place a rotation, when manage properly, enables one crop to prepare food for another. Clover sends long tap roots into the subsoil which act as pumps to bring up food elements that may be used by surface feeding crops require different methods of cultivation. The rotation can be so arranged that there will be a constant supply of labor distributed through the whole season. For the same reason the variety of crops permits of a better cultivation and improvement of the soil, the destruction of weeds, etc.

There are few things which cause more delay and trouble in farm work during the hot months of summer, than the galls and sores that come upon the shoulders and backs of work horses. The preventive is in reducing the friction to the least possible amount. In the first place, the harness must fit closely and smoothly to the form of the horse, that the weight of the load may be uniformly distributed over the surface beneath the harness. Secondly, the horse should be in a healthy state, that the muscles and skin may be of their normal toughness, and the sweating not unaturally profuse. This involves the proper care and feeding of the horse. A poorly kept animal, or one not in good health, will become sore more rapidly than one in good health. When the sores are already formed a speedy cure is the thing needed. Sponge carefully the afflicted parts, to remove accumulations from sweat. Then bathe with a little laudanum added. All pressure upon the sore should be removed by a proper adjustment of the harness, and, if necessary keep the horse from work until cured.

EVERY HOUSE-KEEPER SHOULD KNOW

That a little ginger put into sausage meat improves the flavor.

That salt fish are quickest and best freshened by soaking in sour milk.

That in icing cakes the knife should be frequently dipped in cold water.

That clear boiling water will remove ink and other stains from white cloth.

That fish may be scaled much easier by dipping into boiling water about a minute.

That a small piece of charcoal put in the pot with boiling cabbage removes the smell.

That cool rain-water and soda will remove machine grease from washable fabric.

That oil-cloth should be cleaned with milk and water; a brush and soap will ruin them.

That if your coal fire is low a table spoonful of salt will help it very much.

That a tablespoonful of turpentine boiled with your white cloths will aid the whitening process.

That a spoonful of stewed tomatoes in gravy of either roasted or fried meat is an improvement.

That tumblers that have milk in them should never be put in hot water.

That fresh meat, after beginning to sour, will sweeten if placed out of doors in the cool over night.

That ke rosene oil will soften boots or shoes which have been hardened by water and render them as pliable as new.

That milk which is turned or changed may be sweetened and rendered fit for use again by stirring in a little soda.

That fish may be as well scaled if desired before packing them down in salt; though in that case do not spoil them.

It is exceedingly nice fun to slide down hill for the privilege of drawing up fifty pounds of sled with one hundred and fifty pounds of female thereon, isn't it?

Perhaps the true inwardness of Mormonism is to be found in the story of the man who, on being arrested for having six wives, excused himself by declaring that he was only trying to get a good one.

The following is said to have been a very popular song among the married men during the cold snap:

"In the morning—
In the morning by the dim light,
I hate to build the fi-yer in the mo-o-o-rning!"

"Courtesy opens many doors," says the old adage. "This may be true, as far as it goes," says a commentator; "but you might stand before a bank-building and courtesy till you spinal column was as limber as an old postage-stamp, yet the doors wouldn't swing back on their hinges worth a cent."

PUBLIC SCHOOL TEACHERS.

The following additional regulations for the examination of candidates for certificates of public school teachers have just been issued by the Education Department at the instance of Hon. A. Crooks, Minister of Education:

1. Candidates for first class certificates at the non-professional examination must make fifty-two per cent, for grade C, sixty-one per cent. for grade B, and seventy per cent. for grade A of the aggregate marks obtainable on all the subjects, and in any case where a candidate has exhibited such manifest deficiency in any particular subject as would in the opinion of the Central Committee of Examiners show his unfitness for a first-class certificate, the said committee may refuse to recommend such candidate for a certificate, notwithstanding he shall have obtained the said percentage of the total aggregate marks required; but the said committee will in such a case report the circumstances to the Minister for his dicision thereupon.

2. No appeal on the part of any candidate for the first-class certificate claiming to have his papers re-read shall be entertained by the Central Committee of Examiners.

3. Candidates for second-class certificates who fail in passing at their first professional examination shall be excluded from coming up for such an examination again.

4. Candidates for second class certificates who fail in passing at their first professional examination are to be arranged by the examiners in two classes. The first to include those who are permitted to come up to a subsequent professional axamination without further attendance at a Normal school, and the second to include those who are required to attend an additional session at a Normal school before going up again to the professional examination.

WRITING FOR THE PRESS.

1. Wright upon one side of the sheet only. Why? Because it is often necessary to cut the pages into "takes" for the compositors, and this cannot be done when both sides are written upon.

2. Wright clearly and distinctly, being particularly careful in the matter of proper names, and words from foreign languages. Why? Because you have no right to ask either editor or compositor to waste his time puzzling out the results of your selfishness.

3. Don't write in a microscopic hand. Why? Because the compositor has to read it across his case, at a distance of nearly two feet; also, because the editor often wants to make additions and other changes.

4. Don't begin at the very top of the first page. Why? Because if you have written a head for your article, the editor will probably want to change it; and if you have not, which is the better way, he must write one. Besides, he wants room in which to write instructions to the printer as to the type to be used, where and when the proof is to be sent, etc.

5. Never roll your manuscript. Why? Because it maddens and exasperates every one who touches it—editor, compositor, and proof-reader.

6. Be brief. Why? Because people don't read long stories. The number of readers which any two articles have is inversely proportioned to the square of their respective length. That is, a half-column article is read by four times as many people as one of double that length.

7. Have the fear of the waste-basket constantly and steadily before your eyes. Why? Because it will save you a vast amount of useles labor, to say nothing of paper and postage.

8. Always write your full name and address plainly at the end of your letter. Why? Because it will often happen that the editor will want to communicate with you, because he needs to know the writers name as a guarantee of good faith. If you use a pseudonym or initials, write your own name and address below it; it will never be divulged.

9. These precepts in thy memory keep," and for fear you might forget them cut them out and put them where you can readily run through them when tempted to spill innocent ink.

Poets have sung of the "Beautiful Snow,"
That comes in at the heel and goes out at the toe
Whenever you have leaky boots;
And men will cough with a cold you know,
As the bleak winds of winter whistle and blow,
Till their lung are near out by the roots;
When Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam would cure
The very worst cough they have to endure.
If they only would venture to try it.
Then never a troublesome cough neglect,
But heed this advice with proper respect,
And go to your druggist and buy it. 6-2t

If reference to the last purchase of Burdock Blood Bitters, I have sold medicine for over twenty-five years, and in that time never sold medicine that gave as good satisfaction. Taken for the diseases recommended, it has always helped the patient to such a degree, that, warranting the medicine, every person is satisfied to pay for it. I could get you any quantity of testimonials if I had time to see parties, but we are very much drove in our business.
Yours with respect,
6-2t H. LAISHLEY, Elgin.

RESTORATION OF THE HEALTH.

During the past ten years the Great Shoshonees Remedy has faithfully redeemed every promise and guarantee made to the public. Alarming and apparently hopeless cases of Lung Diseases, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaints, Afflictions of the Kidney and Chronic Complaints of every description, including Scrofula and Skin Diseases of life-long duration, have been permanently removed and eradicated. Those who volunteered their testimony to the efficacy of the Remedy, are not bogus people in unheard-of localities of foreign countries, but respectable citizens of this country, easy of access and open to question, upon whose verbal recommendations we are willing to rest the reputation of the Great Shoshonees Remedy if you are afflicted, do not delay until medicine may be powerless to aid you. No injurious effects can possibly follow the use of these Indian Remedies, as they contain no minerals, by which the fate of the invalid is so often sealed under the form of some temporary sedative or stimulant. These Indian Remedies are widely known and still possess the public confidence, after the lapse of sufficient time to test their efficacy.

The Shoshonees Vegetable Sugar Coated Pills have won for themselves the most favorable reputation of any pill before the public. Their efficacy has been fully proved as a remedy for billiousness, Sick Headache and inactivities of the stomach. Price of the Remedy in pint bottles, $1; Pills, 25 cents a box. Sold by all medicine dealers.

PEOPLE TORMENTED by the many disagreeable sensations produced by dyspepsia, or are thin, nervous and weak, should use the standard tonic—Northrop & Lyman's Quinine Wine. They will find it agreeable and beneficial. It enriches the blood, by aiding digestion and assimilation; soothes and invigorates the nervous system, and imparts a healthful appetite. When used as a remedy for bilious and intermittent fever, it produces the happiest results, if taken between the attacks. Convalescence is hastened, and untimely decay of the physique and constitution is arrested by it. The spirituous constituent, sherry wine, is of the best quality, and the aromatics combined with it renders its flavor additionally pleasant. They who use it gain flesh as well as strength and it exerts a cheering influence upon the mind. It promotes a healthy secretion and flow of bile, sound repose and regularity in the action of the bowels. If judiciously used it may be taken without apprehension of any ill result by persons of the most delicate constitution. A fair trial is all that is needed to prove the genuineness of its claims to public confidence, and to the truth of the general verdict in its behalf. No article of its class commends its self so strongly to nervous invalids who require building up—none is so well adapted to fortify the system against the dangers which threaten the debilitated. It should not be mistaken for a mere stimulant of appetite, which so many so-called tonics simply are. It so regulates the stomach that it is enabled to perform its various functions with regularity and vigor, and its action is not only thorough but prompt. Ask for the "Quinine Wine of Northrop & Nyman." Sold by all druggists.

ocelyn looked at her with staring eyes, though he doubted his hearing. Vi- nne's face, lately so pale, now became nson, and the burning sensation in cheeks forced scalding tears into her . She leaned her throbbing temple inst the cool ivy leaves, and her lips ted and quivered.

"Could it be that Gilbert was right? s he to find her first false, and then el?"

Very angry and stern he looked as he ught of this, until her pitiful cry, "Oh elyn, forgive me!" melted him, and ned his arms to her, this girl he loved ough all.

"I could not resist the temptation, elyn," she whispered, her wet cheek close to his—"indeed, I could not. I felt that I must hear all he had to say. Dearest, I love you so, I could not retire."

Could anger remain on Jocelyn's face after these words? "I love you so" bathed everything in golden light, and his sternness vanished.

Standing under the porch a brief while afterwards, they watched the great round moon rise slowly, and cut her pathway in silver on the dark, gently heaving waters. The night was still and clear, the shadows of the crags looked almost as solid as the crags themselves, spreading as those shadows did over the sands, black and well defined in every curve and sweep.

As the moonlight crept up to the house, and rested upon the porch, the carved faces upon it stood out grim and ghastly, as though peering down on the whispering figures beneath. The armless hands, holding up the shield of the Thorntons, seemed like the hands, strong and rigid, of living men.

Vivienne, with head slightly raised, saw the hideous things creep out from the shadows about them, and, viewing their strange, unearthly ugliness, shuddered. She was excited, nervous. It appeared to her as though the thick, coarse lips mocked at them, and the stony, orbless eyelids were filled with fire.

"Oh, Jocelyn," she exclaimed, "look up at those terrible faces. I never thought them so satanic in expression as I do to-night."

"It is the present misty light which is the cause. Do not heed them. Look only at me, and forget them and everything else. Let us think of our love while we are permitted to do so."

Turning to him then, and replying instinctively to his thoughts rather than his spoken words, she said—

"If Ethel loves you as I love you, Jocelyn, she will never surrender you."

"That remains to be seen. If I do not misjudge Ethel's nature, pride is stronger in her heart than even love. When I told her all—and I will be honest with her—I know she will set me free from a promise given somewhat rashly—given before I knew what true love really was, before I saw you, Vivienne."

Did nothing tell him how cruel, how hard and selfish was this building up of his future happiness on the crushed pride of the girl whom he had sworn to love all his life?

A shade passed across Vivienne's face, as, looking from him with wistful eyes, she listened to his words—a shade that made her features look cold and stern as the carved figures above her. Had Jocelyn noticed her then, he might have learned how cruel, how pitiless she could become, with all her youth and grace and passing beauty.

But his thoughts were elsewhere. He was thinking of Gilbert, who might be near to death, as he himself indeed had hinted—who might even die strong in his prejudice against Vivienne, unalterable in his resolve that Ethel, and Ethel only, should be mistress of Thornton.

Presently they entered the house, and, as the great heavy door closed behind them, the place seemed strangely, unearthly still. The moon, gradually rising higher and higher, brightened the darksome nooks and corners as though it were day, deepening, however, the shadows of the crags till they stood out like duplicate rocks, stretching out to meet the incoming tide.

Vivienne, looking from her window, saw none of the beauty that lay like a spell over the smooth lawn, the level sands, the slowly rising sea. Her heart was torn with passion, and the pain that rose to her eyes blinded them.

Jocelyn, entering his brother's room before retiring to his own, found Gilbert sleeping peacefully, with something like a natural colour in his worn face.

The old nurse nodded in her chair by the bedside; but Jocelyn's tread, soft as it was awoke her, and together they bent over the sleeper.

"He is better to-night, nurse."

The woman nodded her head signifibut did not venture to speak, and Jocelyn stole out again, comforted.

"He will soon once more be what he was, and then all will come right," he thought, as he strode softly through the quiet, half-lit passages. Easy, handsome Jocelyn, full of strange whims and notions, like the rest of his species, marking the page of his life with blots and contradictions, much as better men before him have done with theirs. Kind undoubtedly he was, yet terribly cruel also; generous, yet full of a selfishness that knew no pity. How many there are like him!—men who walk past you every day, mingle with your lives, and sometimes rule them—men whose days are full of good and noble deeds, whose lives are dear to us by reason of their worth, and yet who through all, and after all, "men of like passions with ourselves."

CHAPTER XI.

Old Mrs. Holt was dead and buried. To the last she had raved of the "dark West" who had given her the bright silver pieces, who had spoken to her with the voice of the boy she had nursed. And to the last people paid little heed to her words, save as the ramblings of old age, the wild fancies that at times will come to the dying.

"He was wild," she would say to any one who would stay to listen to her—to the doctor himself once, though she was past knowing him then—"he was the bad one of the house, and he broke his mother's heart. But he have turned by this, surely. He come here to the old place. Didn't I know him as soon as ever I heard his tongue go in my room? Didn't I know his face? A West he is all over."

So she spoke. The Doctor, like every one else, made light of her words, and seemed not to remember them afterwards. Why should he? The man she raved about had been dead for years. All in Thornton had heard of his death from a friend of the brothers who had mentioned it in passing through the village. He had died soon after his father was buried and the old Hall sold, years before Doctor West married Ethel's mother. As the old nurse had said, he had been wild—more than wild—rebellious, undutiful, wicked. But that was years ago. Let the dead rest.

Paul Knox, paler, thinner, gaunter than ever, had come back to Thornton. He crept up the lane leading to Doctor West's arm, looking almost the shadow of a man. This time he did not go to Dixon's cottage, as might have been expected. The Doctor kindly took him to be his own guest—so all Thornton knew before sunset.

Ethel made him right welcome. She seemed only too glad to have some one to occupy her attention during those long Summer days that had become so terribly monotonous to her. Vivienne came to see her as usual; Jocelyn, too, came at intervals. But withal the girl was tired of the quietude, utterly sick of this hush that brought no real calm, this cruel waiting for what she knew so well might never come back to her.

Gilbert was still weak, and not yet free from danger; Jocelyn therefore had not thought it right to speak to him again upon the vexed question lying unsettled between them. He had not thought it right to speak to Ethel, either, on the subject. So the days slipped by.

Dark-faced Paul seemed to be quite at home in the little stone house. For hours he would lie by the open window, looking out on the sea, talking, in his quiet way, to Ethel, or to himself if she was not there to hear. Among other persons, he often spoke of Vivienne Stuart.

One day, coming to see Ethel, she had chatted with him a little, but in a careless style, that said plainly, "You are worn and poor; even old. You are not worth my winning your good favour."

"Who and what can that girl be?" he asked himself, watching her as she walked away from the house. "Her face is perfect; her voice is the sweetest I have ever heard; she is exceedingly attractive in every way; and yet, for the life of me, I do not like her."

A strange fellow, this Paul Knox, with fancies and likings such as no one else had. Among the rest, his health having improved, he had a liking for wandering away by himself, sometimes in the dusk, for many hours at a stretch, till often night found him far from the Doctor's house—on the sands, it might be, or up among the winding turns of the numerous dangerous paths that ran over the face of the crags. People got to know him, meeting him so often. Some few had a passing friendship with him; though, as a rule, the folk of Thornton were shy of strangers.

"I shall soon be away again," he would say to Ethel, coming in from one of his long walks—tired, perhaps, but yet capable of enduring much more fatigue. "I am fit for my work now, if the Doctor will but let me start."

But the Doctor did not seem anxious to get rid of him, and so he lingered on in Thornton. A fast friend of Ethel he had already grown to be; a friend also of Ethel's friend, Herbert Grant. These two men, each so different from the other, agreed well together. Something in Paul won on the Rector; something in the Rector won on Paul.

Pleasant days those were, as each remembered long afterwards, when they were past and over.

On the last evening in August Doctor West came in from his visit to the Manor House, looking somewhat grieved and downcast. Ethel at once thought of Gilbert.

"Is he worse to-night, father?" she asked.

The Doctor sat still a minute before he answered her.

"No better, that I can see—not rallying at all—failing fast even, for very lack of strength, as I feared; and he is not easy in mind, either."

Hearing this, tears rose in Ethel's eyes.

"What is it that's troubling him?" interposed Paul, speaking bluntly, yet with genuine kindly interest; for he had heard of this Gilbert Thornton till it almost seemed that he knew him.

The Doctor did not answer directly. He turned the question quietly aside, and seeing that, Paul did not ask again.

"He has had a sad life, poor fellow—sad and lonely, although his mother and Jocelyn had always, and in every way, done the best they could to lessen the bitterness of it. I do not know when I felt as sorry for any man as I feel to-night for Gilbert Thornton."

Not often was the Doctor so depressed, not often did he speak out his feelings so freely. Ethel's heart was very full. She had known and loved Gilbert as a sister all her life, and hearing now of his being in pain, in distress, in danger of death it might be, smote her with keen sorrow. Paul Knox, with a wistful sympathetic glance at the grave faces he was leaving behind him, put on his hat and went off for his evening ramble. Soon afterwards the Doctor went into his study, situated at the opposite side of the little square hall, and Ethel was left to herself.

A man who as a rule lived little of his life alone was Doctor West. Writing, reading, thinking, he generally liked to have his daughter near him; and she on her part was only to gratify his wish. This room he called his study was full of the signs of her presence. Her hat and garden gloves lay upon a chair. A book, with a tasteful marker placed between its open pages, rested on the low wide window ledge. The flowers she had gathered fresh that morning stood upon the centre table; even the crochet work she had been engaged upon was piled amid a heap of the Doctor's papers.

The room was lined around with shelves. These shelves were full of bottles, almost as a druggist's shop. For the Doctor dispensed his own medicines, and trusted his precious mixtures to no other hand. All sorts of bottles there were, of all kind of shapes, from the bulky jars to dainty phials scarcely thicker than a lady's finger.

The light made them all shine again as he turned up the shade of the lamp and began to read. Presently a bottle on the ledge of his desk caught his eye; he rose hastily to put it in its place. He wondered to see it where it was, knowing that he had not been using it; but reflecting a moment, he remembered having taken it down that morning to show to Vivienne Stuart and Ethel, telling them how terrible a power lurked in the harmless-looking liquid it contained.

"With one dose of that," he had said to the listening girls, "the strongest man would sleep his life away and never even sigh in dying. The liquid is one of the subtlest vegetable poisons known."

"An ugly little bottle," Vivienne had pronounced it to be after that. And such in truth it was, at the lamp-light flared on its white label, where one word stood out distinct in black lettering, easy to be read, not to be misunderstood—"Poison."

Next morning the Doctor went as usual to see Gilbert. He was no better, no worse.

"I shall never be better," he said, turning his eyes towards the Doctor's face. "All your care and skill are wasted on me. Lying awake in the night, I know well I am failing fast, faster even than you imagine. Perhaps if I could hope, as other men can, I might live. But hope died in my heart twelve years ago. Twelve years ago it is this very month since you and Bates, and the London doctors, told me my fate was fixed—I should never go about as long as I lived."

He spoke calmly, smiled even when the Doctor raised his hand to stay him.

"Don't be afraid for me. I know my own strength—and weakness," he added, after a pause, with a slight flush on his pale face.

"Let me talk while I am able. I have much to say. First—how is Ethel to-day?"

Doctor West hesitated ere he answered. The two men, during the interval looked earnestly in each other's eyes.

"Much as usual—a trifle paler perhaps, through the heat—but very anxious about you."

The sick man gave a little sob that died on his dry lips painfully.

"She does not know——".

Mayor Smith occupied the chair.

THE COVENANT.—The work accomplished by the Rev. E. P. Hammond during his mission here may be conceived from the fact that over nine hundred and seventy men and women have signed what is called the Covenant, which is a simple agreement reading as follows:

The first name on each rink to be the respectivo skips.

TRENT NAVIGATION.—In the annual report of the Minister of Railways and Canals we note an interesting report from Mr. T. D. Belcher, Superintending Engineer of the Government works in this district. We notice in the report that the evil of the saw-dust accumulations at Peterborough is pointed out, and the employment of a dredge commended. Reference is made to the improvements on the bee during the year. The following refers specially to the advantages possessed by this system of water communication for general traffic, if improved as contemplated:—"Of late years, with the exception of one month in the season there has never been less than 5 feet on the locks sills, the variation ranging from 9 ft. 6 in. to 5 ft.—The water that can be held in reserve on the feeders for supply, although never required before the middle of September, exceeds 110,000 acres, and by the erection of properly constructed dams, a 4-feet head can always be stored which will give when required for the main line of navigation a supply of 19,406,400,000 cubic feet, a volume greatly in excess of what can ever be required for navigation purposes. The number of lockages made at any single lock during the past fiscal year was 1,144, the total number of lockages was 1,821, of which 667 were for barges of between 200 and 250 tons capacity, and 1,154 for steamers, the total tonnage carried amounted to a little over 74,000 tons, consisting of products of the forest, agricultural and mineral products and general merchandise. The works embraced in this navigation consist of locks and canals constructed to connect the several long expansive stretches of navigation that open up the midland portion of Ontario and permeate its most fertile districts, extending as it does in a north-westerly direction from the Bay of Quinte to Lake Huron; it would give, if opened out, the shortest and safest possible water route for barges between Montreal and Lake Huron. There are also some works erected to facilitate the descent of timber, such as slides, dams and booms."

THE LICENSE QUESTION.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:

DEAR SIR,—Permit me the use of a short space in your paper to draw attention to the subject of licenses. Is it not time attention was being drawn to the direction in which we are drifting? Last year the Commissioners increased the number of licenses, and now one of the licenses is held by a man who is in gaol for receiving stolen goods. Other places have licenses which should never receive them. Twelve at the outside ought to be all the licenses to be granted—one whiskey-seller can sell poison enough for every five hundred souls. If it keeps on at its present rate it will soon be as bad as before the Dunkin Act. Let the License Commissioners scrutinize carefully all the applications that may come before them this year, and they will find ample room for weeding out some of them. The fathers and mothers of the town, and all who want to see the temptations which beset not only youth but manhoood, lessened, will regard the action of the Commissioners with no little anxiety.

Yours truly,
A PARENT.

THE IRISH TROUBLE.

THE PARALYZED LEAGUERS

LONDON, Feb. 12.—In the House of Commons last night the retrospective clause of the Coercion Bill was carried by a large majority. Mr. Forster said the object of the Bill was not punishment for, but the prevention of outrage and the incitement thereto. He was willing to limit the retrospective action to the 1st of October last. Sir William Harcourt said members of Parliament will not be allowed to visit Davitt contrary to the regulations. One friend will be allowed to visit him to satisfy his friends in regard to his health, but no communications will be allowed on political affairs.

It is rumoured that a plot has been discovered to blow up Windsor Castle, and the authorities are taking precautions to gard against any such attempt. The Queen will delay her return to Windsor. The rumor has caused a great sensation throughout the city.

There has been great disquietude during the past week in the camp of the Land Leaguer's owing to fears of new arrests and apprehensions based on the knowledge by the leaders that all the important secrets of their organization are now in possession of the Government. The mysterious disappearance of Parnell from England at so critical a period is said to be attributed to this very fact. It is quite certain Parnell anticipated arrest. There seems to be no doubt that evidence has been obtained connecting him with seditious projects. The papers found on Davitt were of a most damaging nature to the leaders of the movement. Since his arrest other proofs of their complicity, with plans held to be treasonable, have been received by the Government. It is said that Davitt carried the documents upon his person as the safest place for concealment, entertaining apparently not the slightest idea of his apprehension. An armed insurrection was certainly planned, the Ireland rising to be simultaneous with Fenian outbreaks in various parts of England. How far Parnell is implicated in this scheme is known only to the Government. The Leaguers are alarmed at the Government's silence. Messengers daily pass between Parnell in Paris and the leaders here neither post nor telegraph being deemed safe for important communications.

It is expected that Mr. Parnell will go direct from France to America. It is rumoured that he is being "shadowed" in Paris by English detectives.

A regiment of cavalry and two batteries of artillery have been ordered to Natal from Bompay.

Toronto & Ottawa Railway.

The Transfer of the Charter.

We have received a pamphlet in reference to the above subject, issued by the new proprietors of the Toronto & Ottawa Railway Charter, the following summary of which we take from the Globe:—

An interesting pamphlet has been issued in the interest of the Toronto and Ottawa Railway Company, giving reasons why the rival scheme now before Parliament should not receive its sanction. The pamphlet sets forth the history of the Toronto and Ottawa Railway charter up to the time of its sale to Mr. Gooderham, Jr. The negotiations for the sale were brought to a conclusion through the intervention of Mr. W. B. Scarth, a well-known gentleman of Toronto. The instrument of sale was dated April 23rd, 1880, and its principal points are these:—

The vendors agree, for the consideration hereinafter mentioned, to assign and transfer all the subsisting stock in the Toronto and Ottawa Railway Company, except ninety shares, and should any objection be raised by them as to the transfer of said stock which vendors cannot agree to, then the same shall be referred to Hon. M. C. Cameron, whose decision on such point or objection shall be final between the parties.

That they will deliver, or cause to be delivered, over to the purchasers the stocks book and all other books, and all papers, and all property and assets of every kind of the company.

That they will, before or at the time of payment, of the consideration hereinafter mentioned, pay or cause to be paid and discharged all debts, demands, and liabilities of the company due or accruing due, except any contracts or engagements (if any) which may be binding on the company under any municipal by-laws.

That they will procure to be assigned to the purchasers all and every claim and interest which John Fowler has in or against the company, and his agreement with the company, or the said Scott and Dumble, or either of them.

That they will assign and transfer to the purchaser all claim which they, or either of them, have against the company for promotion of the company's undertaking to this date.

That they will use every exertion and use all means within their power to procure to be withdrawn or defeated the Bill now before the Parliament of Canada known as the Quebec and Ontario Railway Bill.

That they will, at the expense of the purchaser, and upon his request, give all the assistance in their power towards obtaining from municipalities on the line of railway such bonus as may be reasonably asked for in the interest of the said railway.

The purchasers agree that on the fulfillment of those conditions they will pay to their attorney or assignee the sum of $33,000.

Subsequent to this there was paid to W. B. Scarth, on behalf of the Hon. J. C. Aikins, H. S. Howland, and A. M. Smith, the sum of $10,000 for 200 shares of the Toronto and Ottawa Railway Company's stock. There is also published the first report of Mr. Bailey, the Engineer, dated July 9th, 1880. He says:—

I started for Peterborough on the 23rd of June and began work at once, and now lay before you an estimate of the cost of both the Northern and Southern routes. As you will observe by the accompanying memorandum, the Northern route is three miles shorter than the Southern one, being 155 miles, and the other 158 miles in length. There is, however, little difference in the actual work of either lines. Should we go to Perth we could not very well connect with the Canada Central at Carleton Place, but build an independent line through to Ottawa. Again, if we take the north line and join the Canada Central at Carleton Place, it will be necessary to well consider whether it is better to run and use their track right through to Ottawa or build an independent line parallel with their present fence. It may pay to build an independent line, as I notice a few of the grades on the Canada Central are 65 feet to the mile, and if all these grades had to be made up by the other road, this, with the annual rent or charges might amount up to more than the building of our own independent track. Perth is the only town of importance through which the line passes on the south. Lanark on the north is quite small, but has several mills, and does a large business. The principal trade, so far as local traffic is concerned, on either lines will be that derived from mining operations. There are numerous mill-sites with first class water power, and only now await the opening of some railway through the country to bring the mill in full operation. As far as the building of the roads is concerned, it can be done for the figures in my estimate, for although it is very rough, rocky, and broken, yet by careful calculation we can get a good alignment, being sharper than three degrees (1910), and the maximum grade one in one hundred (53 per mile.) The only formidable stream is at Peterborough. The others are small, and without exception all have good rock bottoms, so that there will be no trouble with the foundation. Ties can be delivered on the track for fifteen cents. Timber is plentiful, and the very best stone for culverts, bridge piers and abuttments, so that should the company build the road themselves a great saving can be made with ties, timber, stone, and right of way, which cannot possible come up to my figures in the estimate. As I said before, a great deal of time must necessarily be taken in locating the line, as it will be no easy task to escape the mountains of rock unless more than ordinary care is bestowed upon the work. One thing in favour of the country is that the valleys as a rule run parallel with the proposed track.

The above is the report given in the pamphlet as proof that the new holders of the charter are earnest in their determination to construct the road. A point is made in the pamplet out of the circumstances that one of the directors of the new company applying for a charter was one of those who sold out the old charter to Messrs. Gooderham & Co. The editorials in the Globe respecting the Gooderham's alleged connection with the Grand Trunk Railway Company, and his replies thereto, are reproduced.

The Arctic authorities have been considering for the last few weeks the question of representing in the proper quarter the necessity of actively resuming Polar explorations.

It is not always the man that knows the most who has the most nose. One frosty day in winter a gentleman accosted another, saying: "Hello! myf riend, you have frozen your nose, I fear." "Well may-be I have," replied the other, "but I have rubbed it as far as I could reach." If he had rubbed with Hagyard's Yellow Oil he would have speedily cured the first bite. Yellow Oil is the great specific for Burns, Scalds, Frost bites, Chiblains, Wounds, and for internal use in all painful and inflammatory diseases, curing Colds, Bronchitis, Croup and Sore Throat speedily. 6-2t

THE TOWN COUNCIL.

Monday's Meeting—Fire Brigade—The License Question—A Railway Application Set on—Appointment of Officers—General Business.

The Council met on Monday evening, His Worship Mayor Smith in the chair. Present,—Councillors Cahill, Taylor, McNaughton, Kelly, Paterson, Chamberlain, Douglas, Yelland, Rutherford, Menzies, Hartley and Richardson.

The minutes of last meeting were read and confirmed.

A communication from D. A. McDonald, stated that he could not give security for contract for lumber, unless the Council would give him till his drive of logs arrived, which would be some time in May or early in June.

Referred to Street and Bridge Committee to report.

A communication was received on behalf of the Grand Trunk Railway Company, enclosing the petition of the Company against the proposed Charter of the Quebec and Ontario Railway.

Mr. Cahill thought they should pass a memorial in favor of the proposed charter.

Mr. Menzies thought they should let the matter alone.

Mr. Rutherford thought they should assist the company in getting a charter.

Mr. Chamberlain urged that they should not do anything that was calculated to prejudice the original Toronto and Ottawa scheme, particularly in view of the attitude of some of the members at Toronto, as explained by the Mayor.

Mr. Richardson thought it wouldn't cost the town anything, nor commit them in any way.

Mr. Douglas thought they should be satisfied with their past experience, and not get involved in any other projects.

The petition was received.

A communication from the Council of Kingston, in reference to the proposed legislation of the Ontario Government in regard to market fees, and asking that the Council join in urging opposition to the legislation, and united action by the towns for compensation.

Mr. Menzies moved in reference to the above that the Mayor be a deputation to go to Toronto to look after interests in the town.

Mr. Hartley thought the matter one of great importance and should be looked after.

Mr. Paterson thought the Mayor and Clerk should be sent as a deputation.

Mr. Menzies thought there should be no unnecessary expense.

Mr. Rutherford thought they could not get along with the absence of both Mayor and Clerk.

Mr. Chamberlain said if the Government had made up their minds to abolish tolls, the expense of a deputation would only be money thrown away.

Mr. Cahill agreed in that view.

Mr. McNaughton thought there was no use throwing good money after bad. The Mayor was enough.

The Mayor thought the Clerk should go also, as it was an important matter. Mr. Menzies' motion, with the Clerk added, carried.

The application of Mrs. Jas. Johnston for remission of taxes was referred to the Court of Revision to report; also the similar application of Miss E. Johnston.

An account of J. R. Stratton, printing and advertising, $17.50, was on motion of Mr. Cahill, seconded by Mr. McNaughton, ordered to be paid when certified.

An account of Dennistoun Bros. and Hall $10.31, costs in the Hatton suit, was referred to the Finance Committee.

Mr. Menzies moved the adoption of the report of the Printing Committee, recommending the division of the printing, at the same rate as last year; that only the abstract of accounts be printed; and that no account be paid without the certificate of the clerk that the work was ordered. Mr. Rutherford seconded the motion which was carried.

Mr. Paterson moved the adoption of the following report of the Finance Committee, which was adopted.

The Committee recommended payment of the following accounts; Gas Company $10; Geo. Benton, 50cts; T. F. Blackwood, $129.20.

In reference to account of E. Pearse, conveying lunatics to Asylum and Reformatory, they recommended payment of the town's share on the basis of the last arbitration, and that similar accounts in future be paid in the same way.

In regard to Mr. Edward's claim against the town, they recommended that the claim of $29.32 in dispute with Mr. Cummings be settled between the parties, without the interference of the Council; that his claim for $33.33 for salary for June 1880 be not entertained; that he be allowed a rebate of $2.80 on his income tax.

Mr. Douglas moved the reception of the License Committee's report, which recommended that the license for liquor, billiard etc. be retained at the same figures as last year.—Received.

Mr. Chamberlain moved the reception of the report of the Committee on Appointments to the following effect. The Committee after due deliberation beg to recommend the re-appointment of all the officers at the same salaries as last year, with the exception of the caretaker of Smith Street Bridge, to which office your Committee, failing to see its necessity, cannot recommend any appointment. Your Committee also recommends that it be the duty of both constables to act as bailiffs to the Collector and without fee or reward, to serve all warrants issued by him for the recovery of taxes. Your Committee further recommends that the salaries of all officers be paid monthly.

Mr. Chamberlain said that as he dissented from the report, he could not move its adoption and it was accordingly received.

On motion of Mr. Rutherford, seconded by Mr. Menzies, the Council went into committee of the whole on the second reading of the by-law respecting the fire brigade, Mr. Kelly in the chair.

The Council in committee passed the by-law clause by clause, and the committee rose, reported, and read the by-law a third time and passed the same.

On motion of Mr. Paterson seconded by Mr. Rutherford, the License by-law was read a first time, and the Council went into committee on the second reading, Mr. Menzies in the chair.

In committee Mr. Rutherford moved that the blank be filled up with $200.

Mr. Douglas moved, seconded by Mr. Taylor, that the figure be $150.

Mr. Rutherford said in 1879 the licenses were $200, and the Council of 1880 took it upon themselves to reduce them to $160, thereby causing a loss to the town of $500. He said that last year there were $360,000 worth of liquor sold in the town, of which amount $68,000 was consumed in the town by residents. He thought considering the large sum invested in the business and the profits accruing therefrom $200 was too little. He was informed that there were 150 drinks in a gallon of whiskey, which cost the tavern keeper $1.50, and out of which he got $5. He felt satisfied that if the matter were put before the ratepayers they would fix upon $200 at the least. Charities last year amounted to $1,200, and he would take it on himself to say that eight cases out of every ten were attributable to the use of liquor, and perhaps nine out of ten.

Mr. Richardson said Mr. Rutherford made a pretty good temperance speech. He did'nt go in for $200 but thought no respectable liquor dealer would object to $180. He understood the more license the more water, and in that view it was better to keep the license up.

Mr. Douglas thought that they should not put the license higher than $160, as it was a higher figure than in other towns about us.

Mr. Kelly did not see why they should keep the license above the ordinary rate. In Cobourg, license was only $100. The tavern keepers were as respectable a class as would be found anywhere. They had to provide first-class yards, and then, too, they had to consider that the tavern keepers paid about $6,000 in taxes, one-fifth of the whole taxation, double the taxes in the North Ward. He saw no reason why they should crush the tavern-keepers any more than any other class. If they raised it to $200 most of them would not take licenses, and the town would be the loser.

Mr. Hartley didn't believe in crushing any person, but if they were making 200 per cent. on their liquor they could afford to pay $200. He thought they could stand it well enough, and he would advocate that figure. If they paid high taxes it was because the profits on their business enabled them to occupy the best places in the town.

Mr. Yelland said when the Dunkin bill was in force the tavern keepers had offered to pay $500 if they would let them alone. They could well afford to pay $200. Last year they had used their influence to get certain men in in No. 3 Ward, and they had succeeded very well. As Chairman of the Charity Committee he knew that most of the applicants for charity were the result of liquor selling, and as the liquor dealers got the money these people earned, they had a right to pay some of it back. If they made it $200, it would only be getting back the $20 they had got out of last year.

Mr. Chamberlain seconded the motion of Mr. Richardson that it be fixed at $180.

Mr. Cahill said they should fix it either $200 or $160, and not be fighting over it every year. There was a good deal to be said on both sides. He thought himself that $160 was quite enough for the privilege of selling whiskey by the bottle or the glass or any other way. He contended that if you want to make the business respectable the licenses must be low. He considered that the dealers should not pay the license at all; those who drank the liquor ought to be the ones to pay the license.

Mr. Yelland—I guess they do.

Mr. Cahill said if the licenses were high people would resort to methods of evading the law. He saw no reason why the license should be higher in Peterborough than in Toronto or Port Hope. Raising the license would not prevent a single glass of liquor from being sold. If they could not carry $160 he would prefer to see $200.

Mr. Richardson was satisfied that the $180 would give general satisfaction. He never seen a time yet in Peterborough, in 22 years, but that the tavern keepers were always fighting to get licenses, no matter what the price was.

Mr. Rutherford said some years ago there were 45 or 50 licenses, as high as $100, and there was always competition. Two years ago when fourteen men got a license for $200, the fifteenth applicant offered to plank down $500 if they would give him his license. They paid this money for the privilege of getting the handsome profits which they wanted. He would not press for $200 and would, if the seconder would allow, withdraw his motion in favor of the $180.

Mayor Smith said they should not do injustice to the hotel keepers, and grocery keepers. Though they couldn't afford to accept the view of the tavern keepers who thought $100 quite enough, they should not resort to the other extreme. He had always favored a medium between $200 and $100 as the fair thing. The argument used that the hotel keepers made exorbitant profits he did not think a good one, Most of them were under very large expenses to maintain the standing of their places of business; and they were very large contributors to the taxation of the town, in addition to the simple cost of licenses. The town was to be congratulated upon the respectability and good standing of those who held licenses under the Council. They would compare favorably with any others engaged in the same business in the Province, and they should not be harshly treated. It must be remembered that the larger part of the hotel-keepers receipts went to keep up the circulation of money, and to benefit other classes of business. The butchers and grocers, and others shared a large part of the profits of their business. While he would not go to give them licenses at so low a rate as they asked, still he did not see why they could reasonably be asked to pay more than in Toronto and other larger places.

The amendment was lost.

YEAS.—Messrs. Chamberlain, Yelland, Rutherford, Hartley and Richardson.—5.

NAYS.—Messrs. Cahill, Taylor, McNaughton, Kelly, Paterson, Douglas and Smith.—7.

The blanks were filled in accordingly, and the number of licenses to be granted defined as provided in the law.

Mr. Rutherford said a great deal of harm was being done by the billiard-tables, as they led young men to their first drinks. He moved to put $5 additional on billiard tables.

After a short discussion the motion was lost.

Another amendment was offered on the sum to be charged for shop licenses.

Mr. Kelly thought that excessive prices for licenses only encouraged illicit drinking, and the result was that the town lost the revenue without any good being accomplished. If Mr. Rutherford would join in a petition to do away with the manufacture of liquor altogether, he would get him a thousand signatures before the end of the week.

Mr. Yelland intimated that the hotel-keepers put in men in No. 3 Ward to do their work for them and made tools of them. They could see whose interests he was advocating. The men from No. 1 Ward were always preaching economy, and yet they were now throwing away $5,000 kiting. He supposed they would have to sit down under it as they had done before, but he couldn't see how it was that a little whiskey could carry things so far as it did.

Mr. McNaughton thought $160 was a good fair license. He had promised no one anything, but he liked to use other men as he wanted to be used himself.

Mr. Hartley didn't see Mr. McNaughton's consistency in supporting $180 in Committee last year, and $160 now.

Mr. Rutherford's motion was lost.

YEAS.—Messrs. Yelland, Rutherford, Hartley and Menzies.

Mr. Cahill called attention to the fact that Mr. Chamberlain had not voted.

Mr. Chamberlain—You can take it which way you please. I don't see the use of keeping up the farce any longer.

Mr. Rutherford moved that the hour of closing billiard rooms be changed from 10 o'clock to 8 o'clock.

Mr. Douglas would second a motion for 9 o'clock.

Mayor Smith said that last year Mr. Huffman had come and explained that a great many commercial travellers came to Peterborough to spend Sunday, and asked the hour to be left at 10 o'clock, as their only time of recreation was after business hours on Saturday night.

Mr. Douglas' motion, seconded by Mr. Rutherford, making the hour for closing 9 o'clock, was carried.

On the motion for the third reading of the By-Law, Mr. Rutherford demanded the yeas and nays.

YEAS.—Cahill, Taylor, McNaughton, Kelly, Paterson, Chamberlain, Douglas and Menzies.—8.

NAYS.—Yelland, Rutherford, Hartley and Richardson.—4.

Mr. Huffman was heard, and said he would be very sorry to put in billard tables for the profit on them. They were simply maintained for the convenience of guests, principally commercial travellers, whose hours of recreation were after eight and nine o'clock.

In answer to Mr. Cahill, Mr. Huffman said, as far as his tables were concerned, his authority was given to expel all minors from the room. There was no liquor consumed in the billiard room, but travellers could order beer to their sample rooms. If it were not for the commercial men he would not keep any billiards about his place.

Mr. Beavis was called in and said he could give Mr. Huffman great credit for the manner in which his tables were kept.

Mr. Rutherford moved the first reading of a By-Law for amendment to the rules, ordering the yeas and nays in Committee.

The Mayor said that could be accomplished by moving to re-commit a By-Law on the third reading, with instructions to amend.

The motion was seconded by Mr. Cahill and carried.

On motion of Mr. Cahill the By-Law was referred to a special committee consisting of Messrs. Paterson, Rutherford, Douglas, Menzies and Hartley, to report.

The Appointments By-Law was then read a first time and the Council went into Committee on the second reading of the same. Mr. Chamberlain in the chair.

On the clause respecting the Tax Collector, Mr. Yelland moved, seconded by Mr. McNaughton, that Mr. Cummings should receive the same salary as formerly, $400.

Mr. Rutherford opposed this motion.

Mr. Richardson said Mr. Cummings had not asked for any increase to his salary.

The Mayor said he didn't believe in giving officials too much, but they must remember that Mr. Cumming's salary had been cut down several hundred dollars. He had a great deal of responsibility, and the security was very heavy. He would not have moved in the matter himself, but as the motion had been made he would support the increase of $50.

Mr. Douglas thought the town of Peterborough ought to be above grinding money out of the corporation officers. Mr. Cummings' salary was out of all proportion to his responsibility. A man could earn the salary with a pick and shovel, without any security.

The Mayor said, too, they had taken away from him the fees which he formerly received, except in case of sales, when the town got the benefit.

Mr. Cahill objected to the change, but in case the addition was given he should do the whole duty.

Mr. Cummings said he had never had more than $500, and his work had been more than doubled.

Mr. Menzies had no objection to give $50 additional to Mr. Cummings on account of his large security, but the constables should not be let off from the duty

The amendment for $400 was carried

Mr Cahill moved a resolution urging the members for Peterborough county to support the application before the Dominion Parliament for a charter for the Quebec and Ontario Railway Company.

Mr. Richardson supported the motion, and Messrs. Menzies, Hartley, Chamberlain and Douglas opposed it.

The motion was lost by a large majority.

The Mayor brought up the subject of Mrs. Larkin's taxes. It was only a small amount and she was in a destitute condition. He thought the Council should deal with the case.

The matter was referred to the Court of Revision.

Moved by Mr. Cahill, seconded by Mr. Taylor,—That Messrs. Paterson, Menzies and the Mayor be a committee to make the best arrangements they can with any of the banks in town for banking accommodation for the corporation.—Carried.

Moved by Mr. Rutherford, seconded by Mr. Douglas,—That the Mayor and Clerk be authorized to press on the Hon. Mr. Hardy the advisability of having the Government fix the amount of money to be paid for licenses.—Carried.

The Council then adjourned for four weeks.

PETERBOROUGH, FEBR'Y 24, 1881.

The Amended License Act.

Mr. Hardy's Bill introduced in the Ontario Assembly, to give increased efficiency to the laws for the suppression of illicit liquor selling is founded on the experience had of the working of the Crooks Act, and many of the changes to be introduced have been made to meet the suggestions of the Licensed Victuallers themselves, who, particularly in the cities, have been convinced that the Crook's Act properly enforced is better for them than the loose kind of laws which formerly prevailed on the subject. Experience had shown, too, that the effect of the Crooks Act had been to put a better class of licensed houses in the business than had been the rule previously. The most striking feature of the amended bill was the granting of a license to sell beer, ales, and native wines at half the price of a license for spirits, the object being in part to encourage the production of native wines, and in part to take advantage of the recognized fact that the consumption of ales and wines was less hurtful in its results than the use of ardent spirits. The sale of spirits upon such places is strictly forbidden, and severe penalties are to be applied, including withdrawal of license to cases where an infraction of the law takes place. The number of licenses to be granted in each community is not, however, to be increased, so that those who take out license at the reduced rate must abandon the sale of intoxicating spirits. Power is to be given to Magistrates, in cases where liquor was found in a place licensed only for the sale of beer and wines, to confiscate and destroy such liquors. In cases where liquor is improperly sold under a shop license, those convicted will have their license revoked. The penalties for selling liquor without license are made much more stringent: the second conviction being punishable by a fine of from $40 to $60 and costs, and the third offence by three months imprisonment at hard labor, without the option of a fine. Those who sell the liquor, whether proprietor of the house or an agent employed for the purpose, may be punished; but both may not be punished for the same offence. Provision is also made that an application to quash a conviction may be carried to the Court of Appeal.

Change of Base.

It would be a mistake to say that the Toronto U. E. Club is shaken to its foundations, because that has been the chronic condition of the institution for the past two years, and the mention of the fact would betoken no such novel sensation as is now being experienced in the Club circles. It appears that "Boss" Bunting, of the Mail, has decided to change the complexion of his newspaper,—not, be it understood, with a view to effect any reformation of its political views, or to make any change in the direction of improvement in its literary or journalistic management. The Mail has decided that Sir John Macdonald has had his day and that Sir Charles Tupper is the rising sun of the Conservative party, and consequently that journal has taken steps to become the organ of the Tupper party, instead of the organ of the present head of the Conservative party. Possibly the prospect of a share of the Pacific Railway loot, a pie in which Sir Charles is reported to have a finger, in some measure influences Mr. Bunting in arriving at a decision to give the old veteran the "bounce" and to cleave to the younger, more active, more unscrupulous, but less able and less patriotic politician, familiarly known as the "Great Stretcher." The first step towards this end is the removal of Mr. Farrar, the principal editor of the Mail, to make way for Dr. Tupper's special pet and journalistic toady, Mr. Martin J. Griffin. In losing Mr. Farrar, who, we learn, goes to take a place on the staff of a New York daily, the Mail loses its ablest contributor, and one of the best journalists in the country. Mr. Farrar is a vigorous, original and trenchant writer, and his articles had always an individuality about them which made them stand out prominently in the newspaper for which he was writing. Mr. Griffin, on the other hand belongs to the dilletante school. He is the author of those ridiculous "notes from Ottawa," which have appeared in the Mail during the session. He patronizes the Ministers, except Sir Charles Tupper, whom he idolizes, and with great difficulty tolerates Mr. Blake's existence. His style of writing will soon make itself known to the readers of the Mail, who have become familiar with Mr. Farrar's forcible and terse articles. It is worth while to note that Mr. Griffin is, like all renegades, even more bitter and rabid than the honest Conservative. Formerly he was editor of the Halifax Chronicle, the Nova Scotia "Grit" organ; now he has reached the other extreme. The Mail will most decidedly lose in influence and prestige by making this change.

Patent Candidates.

A number of Reform papers are circulating the statement that "Mr. James Dowdall of Almonte will be the Liberal candidate in Prescott county," a vacancy in which was created by the death of the late Dr. Harkin, the details of which event were furnished in last week's EXAMINER. Having some knowledge of the county, we venture first to express a doubt as to such being the case, and secondly to prophesy that if in virtue of these "feelers" in the press, he should be the recognized candidate of the Government party, almost any man in the county of Prescott would be able to defeat him. Mr. Do[illegible] very estimable and a very you[illegible], with a talking capacity by no means to be despised, but he is a stranger to the county of Prescott, and his record as a public man is not yet so brilliant nor so extended as to warrant the belief that he can command the suffrages of a strange constituency, upon which he had no kind of personal or political claim, and to which he comes apparently on no other invitation than these peripatetic paragraphs, which are being circulated among newspapers which know nothing of the circumstances. This is a kind of candidature which we must very strongly deprecate. People in the county constituencies should be left to select their own candidates, and where the wires are brought into requisition to do that for them which they are capable of doing for themselves, they are apt to resent it. South Ontario was won by the Conservatives in the election previous to the general elections, from the fact that wire-pullers secured the party nomination of the Liberals for an outsider over local applicants with fair claims, and it is not given to every county to do, as has been done by both the ridings of Oxford, reject the machine candidate, and still be able to send Liberal representatives to Parliament. Prescott was only carried by Dr. Harkin on account of his extensive practice and personal popularity. There are several Liberals in the county who can carry it at the present juncture against all comers. Mr. Albert Hagar is probably the strongest man in county, but either Mr. Butterfield or Mr. Boyd could carry a majority of votes in an election.

Syndicate Splinters.

HON. WM. MCDOUGALL, it is stated, will go to London as European agent of the Syndicate company, at a comfortable salary of $10,000 per year. So early has he his reward!

IF IT BE TRUE, as stated, that the President of the Senate, Mr. McPherson, who is also a member of the Government, is interested in the Syndicate bargain through Col. Gzowski, the sooner he resigns his seat in the Senate and the Government the better.

ME. CHAS. DRINKWATER for several years private secretary to Mr. Hickson, and formerly secretary to Sir John Macdonald, has been appointed secretary to the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, which has been formally organized under the recently issued charter.

"MY DEAR ABBOTT" the reputed draughtsman of the Syndicate swindle, and the gentleman who shelled out Sir Hugh Allan's money so liberally in 1872, has been appointed Solicitor to the Syndicate at a salary of $12,000 per annum, and a retaining bonus of $25,000.

THE ST. PAUL AND MANITOBA Railway, owned by the Syndicate people, has raised freight from St. Paul to St. Vincent by $50 a mile over last year's tariff. A car load from Ottawa to St. Paul, 1,200 miles, costs $145. The same car from St. Paul to St. Vincent is charged $150, though the distance is only 390 miles. This gives us a fair idea of what may be expected when the Canada Pacific Railway and all its branches are running under the management of these St. Paul gentlemen.

A. H. TAYLOR, the Ottawa agent of the Grand Trunk railway, testified before the Committee on emigration and Colonization on Tuesday. He said his books showed that 4939 through tickets were issued to emigarnts by the Ottawa agency. Of these 886 were to Manitoba, 616 to Minnesota, 358 to Dakota, 286 to Wisconsin, 331 to Illinois, 1,779 to Michigan, 36 to Iowa, 43 to Nebraska, 87 to California, 28 to Montana, 12 to Colorado, 113 to Ohio, and to the Southern States, Missouri, Kansas, Texas and Arkansas, 64. Those for Manitoba, Minnesota and Dakota were chiefly for settlement. A large per centage of the others were workingmen in search of employment. The committee decided to drop the whole exodus question.

In connection with the Kingston Penitentiary there is a decrease of $13,000 on uniform maintenance and capital account, and an increase of $3,864 on working expenses. In Dorchester penitentiary there is a net decrease of about $8,000 effected on uniform and working expenses. In the Militia Department there is an increase of $75,000 for drill pay and other incidental expenses connected with the drill and training of the militia, and of $4,000 in connection with the pay, maintenance and equipment of "A" and "B" Batteries garrison artillery and schools of gunnery at Kingston and Quebec. On account of Intercolonial Railway there is an item of $130,000 for construction of wharf and elevator at Halifax, but there are such reductions in other directions that the total appropriation is less than a $1,000 over this year's. For the Canada Pacific Railway the following are the proposed votes:—Canada Central (subsidized) $230,000; railway between Prince Arthur's Landing and Red River, including Pembina branch, $3,885,000; British Columbia, $3,000,000; telegraph lines and roadway, $70,000; station and terminal accomodation, $50,000; subsidy to Canada Pacific Railway Company, $4,000,000. Total, 10,765,000. This shows a decrease of over $2,000,000 as compared with last year's appropriation. The total amount for Canals is $3,268,000, of which $1,065,000 is for the Welland Canal and $800,000 for the Lachine Canal. The following general items occur under the head of Public Works and Buildings, chargeable to income:—St. Catherine's post office, $15,000; Stratford public buildings, $15,000; Windsor post office, custom house etc., $6,000; Brantford post office and custom house etc, $1,230; dredging in Ontario, $12,000; St. Catherine's marine hospital, $500; Goderich Harbor, $8,000; Southampton, $5,500; Port Elgin, $10,000; Col. Girouard for railway ties lost in transit in 1872, $2,640; to pay T. B. Smith for fencing erected in 1872, $1,895.50; River du Loup branch—additional amount required for repairs and improvements, $140,000; Canadian Pacific Railway—amount required for purchase of Prince Arthur's Landing and Kaministiqua Railway, $14,000. THE NEW DEFIANCE WHEAT.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:

SIR,—In your paper of February 17th appears a statement about Defiance Wheat, the latter part of which may have a tendency to mislead. Now, although the American Agriculturist reports yields at the rate of 128 bushels to the acre, yet it cannot be expected in ordinary farm culture. The said yield appears to have been grown in drills and cultivated like corn. I consider 25 to 30 bushels a fair average with me the past year.

Yours truly,
F. H. BENT.

Cathartic Pills

Combine the choicest cathartic principles in medicine, in proportions accurately adjusted to secure activity, certainty, and uniformity of effect. They are the result of years of careful study and practical experiment, and are the most effectual remedy yet discovered for diseases caused by derangement of the stomach, liver, and bowels, which require prompt and effectual treatment. AYER'S PILLS are specially applicable to this class of diseases. They act directly on the digestive and assimilative processes, and restore regular healthy action. Their extensive use by physicians in their practice, and by all civilized nations, is one of the many proofs of their value as a safe, sure, and perfectly reliable purgative medicine. Being compounded of the concentrated virtues of purely vegetable substances, they are positively free from calomel or any injurious properties, and can be administered to children with perfect safety.

AYER'S PILLS are an effectual cure for Constipation or Costiveness, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Loss of Appetite, Foul Stomach and Breath, Dizziness, Headache, Loss of Memory, Numbness, Biliousness, Jaundice, Rheumatism, Eruptions and Skin Diseases, Dropsy, Tumors, Worms, Neuralgia, Colic, Gripes, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Gout, Piles, Disorders of the Liver, and all other diseases resulting from a disordered state of the digestive apparatus.

As a Dinner Pill they have no equal.

While gentle in their action, these PILLS are the most thorough and searching cathartic that can be employed, and never give pain unless the bowels are inflamed, and then their influence is healing. They stimulate the appetite and digestive organs; they operate to purify and enrich the blood, and impart renewed health and vigor to the whole system.

The country is just now infested with shoddy cloth pedlars. Parties anxious to get swindled should buy from them; those who are not should set the dog on the first shoddy pedlar who comes around the house, or a bucket of scalding water, vigorously administered, would do him no harm.

At the County Judge's Criminal Court, at Barrie, Samuel Donnelly, of Essa, was arraigned on a charge of stealing two buffalo robes. Mr. Peter Smith of Campbellford, had the second finger of one of his hands amputated one day last week. The finger was injured some time ago, and afterwards began to swell. The swelling continued until it entered the arm, and made the case appear one of a dangerous nature. To prevent serious consequences Dr. Byam cut off the troublesome member.

On Wednesday afternoon the roof of the Orillia Agricultural Society's building came crushing down. For several days past, as if apprehensive of something of this kind, Mr. Sandding has paid frequent visits to the grounds, and after consultation with the President, Mr. Edmondson, it was thought that there was not sufficient snow to endanger the building. The violent thaw of the last day or two, however, was to much for it and it had to succumb. The building is almost entirely demolished.

Mr. Robt. J. Mulligan, of Omemee, met with a very severe accident on Wednesday morning, while working in Mr. Richard Connolly's mill, Emily. He was in the act of throwing a slab from the button saw when his right foot coming in contact with the saw under the table, was severed from the inside across the instep to a little above the small toe. Presbytery of Peterborough.

This Presbytery met at Peterborough on the 11th January. Eleven ministers and nine elders were present. Mr. R. J. Beattie was chosen Moderator. Mr. Bennett gave notice of motion for next ordinary meeting: "That the temporary absence of a brother be not allowed to exclude him from the Moderator's chair when he would be appointed thereto if he were present." The station at Oakhills asked for reunion with Perrytown and Knoxville. Messrs. Cameron and Ewing, ministers, and J. Kerr, elder, were appointed a committee to confer with all parties interested and to report a next meeting. The congregation of Perrytown was authorized to sell the old church building and apply the proceeds to the liquidation of the debt on the new church. Mr. McFarlane tendered the resignation of his charge at Bobcaygeon and Dunsford, on the ground of ill health. The usual steps were taken in the case. The churches at Bethesda and Alnwick were reported as having been declared vacant. Upon motion of Mr. Bell, a list of questions was adopted to be used in Presbyterial visitation, the list to be printed for distribution among the congregations. The report of the Presbytery's Home Mission Committee was considered at great length. By order of Presbytery each of the members had been furnished with a printed copy of the report. Mr. Fleming, the missionary in the Harvey and Chandos fields, being present was invited to address the Court. The address showed great diligence on the part of the missionary, and great interest on the part of the people in the mission work. Mr. Renwick, from the Harvey field, was present to ask for aid in the erection of a church. The case was recommended to the consideration of the more wealthy congregations within the bounds. The following minute was adopted in reference to Mr. McWilliam, lately removed from the bounds: "In connection with the translation of Mr. McWilliam, the Presbytery desires to express its deep sense of the loss which it has sustained by the removal of a member who has proved himself so wise in counsel, so diligent in pastoral work, so able and eloquent in preaching, and so distinguished in scholarship. The Presbytery follows him with cordial regards and sincere prayers to his new field of labor, trusting that an abundant entrance will be given him to the homes and hearts of the people of his charge. The Presbytery would also record its sympathy with the congregation of Bethesda and Alnwick thus deprived of a minister who has endeared himself to them by seventeen years of faithful and loving service, and unites in asking the Chief Shepherd to send them speedily another pastor who shall comfort their hearts and establish the work of the hands of his servant among them." Mr. F. R. Beattie was authorized to Moderate in a call at Bethesda and Alnwick when requested. Mr. Beattie presented the overture, of which he had given notice at last meeting, anent the examination of students between the period of graduation and induction. The overture was adopted and ordered to be transmitted to the Assembly. Upon motion of Mr. R. J. Beattie it was agreed to hold the ordinary meetings of the Presbytery on the Monday evenings at half-past seven o'clock instead of Tuesday mornings as hitherto. Mr. White laid on the table the resignation of his charge of Warsaw and Dummer on the ground of the inability of the people to meet their pecuniary engagements. Delegates from the congregations were heard. The Presbytery, under the circumstances, agreed sustain Mr. White's conduct in citing the people, and to accept the resignation. Mr. Torrance was appointed Moderator of session. Presbytery adjourned to meet again in same place on 31st January. The meeting was held according to adjournment. There were seventeen ministers and eight elders present. The resignation of Mr. McFarlane was considered. Delegates were heard; Mr. McFarlane was also heard on his own behalf. Presbytery agreed that the resignation lie on the table until next meeting of the Presbytery; that Mr. McFarlane be granted leave of absence for a time, and that members of the Presbytery be requested to give partial supply to the stations at Bobcaygeon and Dunsford until the matter be finally disposed of. Presbytery agreed unanimously to approve of the general principle of a sustenation fund as sent down by the Assembly. Arrangement was made for the holding of a Conference on the State of Religion as requested by the General Assembly. A committee was appointed to draw up a report on the State of Religion within the bounds for presentation to next meeting. The remit on the subject of Temperance was deferred until next ordinary meeting. Mr. Stevenson, the ordained missionary at Minden, gave a report of his work and asked for help to pay off a debt on the Minden manse. A collection in the congregation was recommended for the purpose. Mr. F. R. Beattie gave notice of motion at next meeting to overture the Assembly on the question of evangelistic work. The Home Mission Committee were empowered to employ Mr. R. B. Arthur, a student, if they see fit.—W. BENNETT, Pres. Clerk.

FEES OF DOCTORS.—The fees of doctors is an item that very many persons are interested in just at present. We believe the schedule for visits is $3,00, which will tax a man confined to his bed for a year, and in need of a daily visit, over $1,000 a year for medical attendance alone! And one single bottle of Hop Bitters taken in time would save the $1,000 and all the year's sickness.—Post. 7-2t

Very disastrous floods are reported from New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Connecticut, and Virginia, the aggregate of the damage done being several millions. Numberless bridges have been swept away, vessels carried off, railroad tracks washed out, and as in most of the flooded districts the waters are still rising, the end of the disasters is not yet.

HASTINGS NEWS.

(From our own Correspondent.)

A public meeting was held here on the 11th instant to discuss the advisability of building a new Town Hall, and selection of the site. It was unanimously decided to take the necessary steps for its immediate erection, and no doubt tenders will shortly be invited. With but three dissenting voices, a very desirable site near the churches was chosen. In connection with the hall will be the Clerk's office, caretaker's room, large concert room, and lock-up, which, by the way, is occasionally needed here. The whole cost will be in the neighborhood of $3,000.

Owing to the rather sudden death of Mr. Geo. Brooks, Councillor of Percy, a new election is necessitated for that municipality.

"Trent Valley Canallers" is the name of a new political party forming here, and doubtless they will be heard from during the approaching contest for this riding.

SELWYN NEWS.

From our own Correspondent.

The brick is now being drawn for the new Methodist Church.

During the late thaw we lost a good deal of surplus snow but have still enough for excellent sleighing.

We have a great deal of sickness about here at present, many being afflicted with sore throat and cold.

We are sorry to learn that Mr. Edward Sanderson who has been unwell for some time is now very seriously ill.

The incognito editor of the Selwyn illustrated news has again been at work pasting up placards. The scene is made to represent the doing of statute labor, and would be considered humorous were it not that the fun has been carried so far that it now savors of persecution, and the sooner the practice of holding honest men up to ridicule is discontinued the better for all parties.

The pulpit of McKee's church was occupied on Sunday by Rev. Thomas McMurray who delivered an excellent sermon. The same gentleman also delivered a very interesting and instructive lecture in the Temperance Hall Tuesday evening on the legal suppression of the liquor traffic. The attendance was not so large as could have been desired, therefore many missed what was worth going a long distance to hear.

THE VICTIM OF MISPLACED CONFIDENCE:—An exchange very truly says: If an editor omits anything he is lazy. If he speaks of things as they are, people get angry. If he glosses over and smooths down the rough points he is bribed. If he calls things by their proper names he is unfit for the position of an editor. If he does not furnish readers with jokes he is an idiot. If he does he is a rattlehead and lacks stability. If he condemns the wrong he is a good fellow but lacks discretion. If he lets wrongs and injuries go unmentioned he is a coward. If he exposes public men he does it to gratify spite or is a tool of a clique. If he indulges in personalities he is a blackguard. If he does not his paper is pale and insipid.

J. J. BAGULEY.

One of the Most Important Discoveries of this Age.

We make the startling announcement that KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE will cure Bone Spavin and completely remove the enlargement, so that the best horseman cannot tell that the horse ever had a spavin. We make this statement, and give below testimonials from persons who have used it, to prove our statements. It is excellent for removing unnatural enlargements of any kind. It does not blister nor cause any sore. It has no equal, to our knowledge, for spavin, ring-bone, curb, callous, sprain, swellings, galls, lameness from whatever cause, and all enlargements of the joints, or any part of the body or limbs, and is also good for cuts, scratches, wounds, etc.

For man, it is a complete remedy, for Corns, Frost-Bites, or any bruise, Cut or Lameness.

Remember that we claim it will

The one bottle was worth to me one hundred dollars.

A Lecture to Young Men

ON THE LOSS OF

MANHOOD

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediment to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

Price in a sealed envelope, only 6c. or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicines or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

PETERBOROUGH, FEBR'Y 24, 1881.

Editorial Notes.

THERE ARE NOW FIVE vacancies in the House of Commons, viz.: Cariboo, East Northumberland, Bellechasse, Charlevoix and Carleton, N. B. So far we have heard of only one writ for a new election having been issued—that for Cariboo. Party exigencies doubtless prevent the issue of some at least of the others.

UNDER THE GUISE of "emigration literature," five thousand copies of a speech by Mr. Plumb were printed and paid for at the public expense, for circulation, to gratify that old gentleman's egregious vanity. Investigation in the Public Accounts Committee shows the speech to consist of one of the vilest, coarsest, and most unwarrantable personal attacks upon Mr. Mackenzie and the Opposition generally, that ever disgraced Mr. Plumb's career, which is saying a good deal. The printing of this speech at the expense of the people is a gross outrage.

THE HOUSE OF COMMONS is improving. Last year they passed Mr. Boultbee's bill respecting the Scott Act, requiring that all names on the voters lists, in an election upon the adoption of the Act, shall be registered as in opposition to the Act, if not actually cast in its favor. The effect would be, of course, to render the measure abortive. The Senate, however, wisely cast out the pernicious scheme. This year the House reversed their policy and rejected the measure by a vote of 82 to 54. Mr. Burnham voted for the bill, and Mr. Hilliard against.

MR. TILLEY IN HIS BUDGET speech claims a surplus from the past fiscal year of $2,011,000. Yet he actually proposes to add to the taxation by $215,600 more than was last year exacted from the public industry, and estimates a surplus for next year of $1,410,014. One might be led to wonder why a larger revenue should produce a smaller surplus; but this is explained in the fact that of this stated surplus of $2,011,000 for 1880, $1,300,000 was borrowed from the money collected and expended in 1879, "in anticipation of the duties."

IT WILL be remembered that the present Government assumed office with profuse profession of economy, and to exhibit their sincerity, they entered upon the work of firing out of the public employment unfortunate employees who had the misfortune to be suspected of Gritism. One hundred and eighty-three officials were so dismissed, we learn by a return recently brought down of dismissals and appointments between Feb. 13th 1879, and Feb. 23rd 1880. Between the same dates, however, no less than five hundred and fifty-four, good Conservatives were appointed in their places, on the general principle, we presume, that it takes five able-bodied Conservative office-seekers to do one capable man's work.

SOME VERY INTERESTING figures are published by the Victoria B. C. Colonist. The total number of registered voters in the province is 4,725, about the number of votes actually cast in the county of Peterborough in the last Dominion election. The income of the province for the past year was $390,907, the expenditure being $354,588 or a deficit of $63,681. Of the public receipts only $182,815 are derived from ordinary sources, the balance of $208,815 being contributed by the Dominion as a subsidy, or $44 to every voter in the Province. It is safe to say that the withdrawal of the Dominion subsidy and a stoppage of Dominion expenditure for public works would leave the province of British Columbia in a state of hopeless starvation.

WE CAN CORDIALLY coincide with the following remarks of the Ottawa Free Press, and we trust some steps may be taken to remedy the injustice to the regular trade of the towns, which must follow that decision:—"THE recent decision of the Supreme Court of Canada which deprives municipalities of the power to tax transient traders is a palpable injustice, whatever the law may be. Local merchants and tradesmen who have to pay municipal taxes, license, etc., are now placed at a very great disadvantage. Commercial agents from other places may come into the city, and undersell the resident business men, and slip out again without in any way benefitting the municipality, while inflicting a serious blow on its regular trade. This is not right. Municipalities should have power to at least compel these transient traders to do business on the same conditions, as far as possible, in regard to the local taxation, as resident merchants. If not, places like Montreal and Toronto will be enabled to crush the trade at smaller towns and inflict serious loss by concentrating business at one or two distant points."

WE HAVE NOT SPACE this week to discuss at length the very interesting expose made by the letters of "X," addressed to the Review, which we reprint in another column. We believe we are correct in saying that the letters are from the pen of one of the most prominent Conservatives in the County, a gentleman who speaks whereof he knows, whose word no one will dispute, and who in this case we have reason to know has paid dearly for his experience of the bogus and fraudulent character of the "protective" duty on grain. "X" completely demolishes the flimsy efforts of the Review to pull the wool over the eyes of the farmers and the millers, and to bamboozle them into the belief that they are being benefitted in some way by the duty on grain. The millers who have the directly opposite experience, are not likely to be so befooled, and we fancy the farmers will be able to see through it as well. It is not long since the Review said: "BUT TO US THE GREATEST ABSURDITY IN THE SCHEME OF THE PROTECTIONISTS IS THAT OF THE PROPOSED PROTECTION OF THE FARMER. * * * DOES ANY SANE MAN BELIEVE THAT THE IMPOSITION OF 25 OR 30 CENTS PER BARREL ON FLOUR WILL PUT A SINGLE PENNY INTO ANY FARMER'S POCKET?"

DAVITT'S EARLY DAYS.

London Truth, edited by Mr. Labouchere, has the following interesting paragraph in regard to Michael Davitt's arrest:—"When Mr. Davitt arrival in Ireland he protested publicly, and since he has often publicly protested, against all outrages. Probably no man in Ireland has saved more lives and more property than he. To have arrested him, therefore, is a piece of bungling stupidity. One of the leading counsels of England asked Mr. Davitt, after his condemnation, why he, who had lived so long out of Ireland, should be so eager to redress her grievances. He replied: 'When I was three years old the roof was tken off my mother's house. We were then placed in an open cart and taken through the snow to a port, where we took ship for America. I have never forgotten this, and have vowed to devote my life to putting an end to a system which subjects others to a like fate.' Curiously enough, one of the first speeches Mr. Davitt dvlivered on behalf of the laud league was from a platform erected on the exact spot where his mothers house used to stand. It is strange that the government refused to understand the position of the Fenians in regard to the land league. The land league stands between the Fenians and government, and if suppressed the danger is that the Fenians will again come to the front, for they will be able to say that events have proved that passive resistance is useless. The Fenian panic continues in military circles. Really, how people can be gulled by such transparent hoaxers is a perfect marvel to me."

Peterborough Markets.

[Supplied by W. H. Wrighton, Grain and Produce Dealer, and General Grocer, George Street.]

FEBRUARY 23rd, 1881.

Receipts of wheat have been on the increase—holding up in price here, although flat elsewhere. Spring has been selling at $1.11 to $1.14—in a few cases $1.15 was paid, closing with a slight decline at $1.11 to $1.13. Peas are rather lower, 63 cents being the top price. Oats are steady with less offering—selling at about 31c. to 32½c. In barley and rye very little doing; a few loads of barley sold during the week at 65c. to 80c. Saturday's market was one of the best there has been for some time. Butter was in good supply and demand—crocks and pails brought 20c.; rolls about 21c to 22c. A large supply of eggs were offered and disposed of, from 18c. to 19c. being paid. The supply of poultry is light and demand good—chickens, 40 to 50 cents; geese, 50 to 60 cents; turkeys, 65 to 90 cents. Beef in fair supply and in better demand—hind quarters, $5.00 to $5.50; fore quarters, $4.00 to $4.50. A good few hogs were offered on Saturday. They were light weights, and in demand at $7.00 to $7.25. It is evident that the advance in prices is causing farmers to kill hogs that were to be held for next season. Apples are still very plentiful for the season, bags being 60 to 75 cents, and barrels $1.50 to $2.00. Potatos almost a drug—selling at 35c. to 40c.—Hides, $7.50. Sheepskins, $1.00 to $1.50.

STOCK-TAKING, STOCK-TAKING.

My customers and the public generally are well aware at this season of the year I have made it a rule to mark all Winter Goods down, not only that they may have an opportunity of buying such goods as they may require for the balance of the season at a very low price, but that I may be benefitted also by clearing out all goods that might suffer by keeping in stock during the hot summer months. Another object I have in view by so doing is to always place new and fresh goods before my customers at the beginning of each season. Below is a list of the goods I have chosen for the sacrifice—Price, Quality or Texture will be of no avail—So they Must:—

Wool Hats, Wool Clouds,
Wool Cuffs, Wool Squares,
Wool Infantees, Wool Shawls,
Wool Booteens, Wool Hos'ry.

Lined Mitts, Dress Goods,
Lined Gloves, Mantle Cloths,
Taffeta Lined, Wool Suitings,
Lisle Lined, Wool Fringes.

THE POULTRY FAIR.

The Fifth Annual Exhibition of the Poultry Society, which closed on Thursday last, was one of the most successful in every respect yet held here, and the officers of the Society are to be congratulated upon the result, which was in a large measure due to their energy and enthusiasm. Mr. G. L. Jarvis, who acted as Judge, gave universal satisfaction, and it was acknowledged on all hands that his decisions were not only conscientiously given, but with skill and judgment. Some very fine birds had to be passed over on account of mis-mating, and Mr. Jarvis suggests that breeders should exercise greater care in this respect in future. He recommends every breeder to subscribe to some standard Poultry Review, where they will obtain the information that will enable them to avoid this very common error of exhibitors. Mr. Jarvis states that the exhibits in many classes here were far superior to those at the Provincial Association's Exhibition held at Brantford, where he also officiated as Judge, and pronounces the building, in point of light, convenience, and the arrangements made by the local Association, to be a long way ahead of those provided for the Provincial Exhibition. The display of Games was very superior, and those who did not receive prizes have no occasion to be ashamed of the stock on exhibition. Mr. John McClelland was the principal prize-winner in this class, showing some superb birds. Wm. Hall, of Newcastle, had also a large display of fine birds, as also Mr. E. Moyer, of Brockville. Mr. Clapp, of Belleville, was a very successful prize-taker, and had some fine Polands, Geese and Turkeys, Leghorns and Spanish. The display of Geese, Turkeys and Ducks showed a very marked improvement over that of last year. Mr. Jas. Saulter's Partridge Cochins were very much admired, and in Light Brahmas Messrs. R. Hall and Isaac Dormer made a fine display. A coop of Light Brahma chicks by Mr. Dormer attracted much attention. Mr. Cunnings, of Little Britain, had some fine Plymouth Rocks, White Leghorn Chicks, and Houdans. Mr. George Hope, of Yorkville, a veteran and successful breeder, had a very extensive and fine display, and was a prize-taker in almost every class. The attendance of visitors was much larger than last year, indicating an increased interest in poultry breeding, but still was not what it ought to have been. Messrs. Bell, McClelland, Saulter, R. Hall and G. Taylor, who were indefatigable in their exertions to make the Exhibition a success, have every reason to be pleased with the entire success which attended their efforts.

On Thursday evening a meeting of the Association was held, the President, Mr. T. E. Bell, in the chair. Several matters connected with the work of the Association were discussed, and interesting addresses made by Messrs. Bell, Saulter, and McClelland. The latter, who is Vice-President of the Provincial Association, spoke of the difficulty which had been experienced in getting the Provincial Exhibition held away from the Western District, owing to the fear that if once held in Toronto, Toronto would be apt to monopolize it. He hoped, however, to secure it at Toronto at the next annual meeting. He urged the promotion of Associations east of Toronto, both in the interest of poultry breeding and to give the east more influence in the Provincial Society. He thought the migratory system was the best for the Provincial meetings and if that could not be secured, thought an effort should be made to secure a portion of the Government grant for an Eastern Exhibition.

A vote of thanks was unanimously tendered to Mr. Jarvis, who, in acknowledging it, paid a warm tribute to the officers of the local Association, and spoke in the highest terms of the excellence of the stock exhibited at the show, which, he said, would compare favorably with any of those held at the west.

Mr. Saulter moved, seconded by Mr. McClelland, a vote of thanks to Mr. J. R. Stratton, for his liberal subscription of $20 towards the Exhibition, and for the assistance otherwise rendered by the EXAMINER and staff in making the Exhibition a success.

The motion was carried unanimously, and in Mr. Stratton's absence was acknowledged by Mr. Brock.

After a vote of thanks to the President the meeting adjourned.

MANUFACTURERS of Reapers, Mowers and Threshing Machines prefer "Castorine Machine Oil" to any other. It will outwear Lard, Seal or Elephant, and is warranted not to gum. 1-1y

An Indian's three greatest desires were thus expressed: first, he wished for all the tobacco in the world; secondly, for all the rum in the world, and when asked what his third wish would be, he replied that "he would take a little more rum." Now, if we wished to banish the most troublesome diseases in the quickest possible time our chief wish would be for Hagyard's Yellow Oil. It is a perfect panacea, curing by external and internal use all inflammation, pain, and soreness, Rheumatism, Stiff Joints, Deafness, Colds, Kindey Complaints, Burns, Frost Bites and Flesh Wounds of every variety. The Fraudulent Grain Duty

DISSECTED BY AN EXPERT.

What a Conservative who has Paid for his Experience Knows about It.

(The following letters have appeared in the Review.)

SIR,—In your article in yesterday's REVIEW under the heading of "Information Wanted," you say:—

"During the last year or so we have heard frequent complaints that the regulations adopted by the Customs Department for permitting the grinding of American wheat in bond were such as to practically nullify the duty on wheat."

In a few days when the returns asked for by a miller in the House of Commons are brought down to the House, you will, no doubt, obtain the "information wanted." In the meantime, I may be permitted to say that the complaints to which you have alluded were just, and the regulations do nullify the duty. The whole thing from the passing of the Act has been a delusion and a snare.

The working of the system has had the effect of throwing the milling business into the hands of half a dozen large mills on the Lachine and Welland Canals, and made the hundreds of other mills in the country almost valuless. If you doubt this statement, ask any miller in Peterborough what his mill cost and what it is worth now. I would not accept a present of the best mill in Peterborough and be bound to run it to its full capacity for one year.

You speak of the difference in the price of wheat in the States and Canada. I have a lot of Wheat lying in Millbrook and Bethany since last fall, and I have not succeeded in selling a single car load to a local miller, and this notwithstanding there is very little spring wheat in the country, owing to the partial failure of the crop last year. And why can it not be sold? Simply because the large mills referred to are running on hard Minnesota wheat, which makes a strong flour, and upon this wheat no duty is paid. If you will try and sell 10,000 bushels of wheat which I can supply, and when you have obtained a bid for it add the freight and charges for an equal quantity of the same quality wheat delivered from Chicago, you will probably see where the duty is. Since the Order-in-Council passed last month, American wheat has been brought into Peterborough and ground for consumption. Has this wheat paid duty, and if not, why not? Last winter I sold large quantities of wheat for exportation, but at that time, notwithstanding the new policy, no one pretended to say that American wheat paid duty. Last spring after a hard battle, and after we succeeded in getting an Order-in-Council rectifying, as we supposed, the defect in the Act, I was simple enough to suppose that the duty on wheat ground for consumption would be collected, and I purchased largely and went to Montreal to sell; but I soon found that "I was barking up the wrong tree," and failing to effect sales there, I had to ship to England and compete with American wheat in that market, and I paid dearly for my faith in the sincerity of Orders-in-Council.

In conclusion, for the present, I have no hesitation in saying that the alleged duty on wheat imported into the country has been throughout misleading, and has done more harm than good to the trade.

X.

Letter of Tuesday 22nd.

SIR,—In yesterday's issue you say:—"Those who have read our article, 'Information Wanted,' and X's reply thereto, will doubtless have observed that strictly speaking the latter is no reply to the former, inasmuch as the writer does not venture to dispute the statement that Canadian spring wheat has ruled relatively higher than American during the season of 1880."

My object in replying to your article, "Information Wanted," was not to discuss the price of wheat, but to show that the duty on wheat was nominal and not real. If the duty is not collected it follows that the price is not enhanced. But in this letter I will endeavor to reply to your article, "The Price of Wheat." I "dispute the statement that Canadian "spring wheat has ruled relatively higher "than American during the season of "1880."

In the winter of 1879 and '80 No 2 spring wheat touched $1.33 in Chicago; that was higher than the price ruled in Ontario. The price then declined to about $1.24, and hung about $1.20 during the latter part of the winter. If freight and charges were added these prices it would make the American wheat cost more laid down than the Canadian.

The American wheat imported by a Peterboro' miller was brought into town in July last (not last month) and it cost $1.15 laid down at the mill. Mr. Denne bought three cars of Millbrook wheat from Mr. Howden delivered in cars here during the same month, one at $1.14 and two at 1.10, and the price at that time was $1.07 in Port Hope.

Although the gentleman who imported the American wheat does not say so, another miller said it was brought in to test the question of duty. I asked the Customs officer here about it, and he replied that he did not know what the order in Council required, and he had send the papers to Ottawa for instructions. At all events the wheat was ground and the flour consumed here, and it has not paid any duty. With regard to the wheat sold at Campbellford, I think you are in error when you say the flour was shipped. There is no wheat in the vicinity of Hastings, Campbellford and Belleville, and the millers are buying wheat for local consumption, as the Peterborough millers are doing here. There is no demand for flour in the Canadian markets, as they are all fully supplied with strong flour made from Minnesota hard spring wheat which pays no duty.

The Hon. Mr. Tilley, in his budget on Friday last, said: "I know it is a vexed question, and members on both sides of the House argue from different standpoints, but it is clear that the effect of the tariff has been to increase the price of flour. * * * I have arrived at the estimate that flour is increased to the consumer in Canada but ten cents per barrel." If their estimate is correct it would make a fraction under two cents per barrel increase on the price of wheat.

"Tis sweet to court, but oh! how bitter,
To court a girl and then not get her."

And speaking of bitterness reminds us that Burdock Blood Bitters is the most deservedly popular of any medicine in the market. It sweetens the stomach, and it sweetens the disposition by tranquilizing the nerves, it makes pure blood and cleans all the secretions, jogging every organ to a healthy action, acting at once upon the Stomach, Liver, Bowels, Skin and Kidneys, and is the purest tonic in the world. Sample Bottles, 10c. Regular size, $1.00. 8-2t

USE "CASTORINE MACHINE OIL" for all kinds of machinery. It is also excellent for Harness and Leather, making it water and weather proof. For sale by dealers. 1-1y

Russia has proposed to the Powers that Crete shall be ceded to Greece, instead of the territory in the Epirus allotted by the conference.

There is no evaporation or deterioration in strength about Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil. The ingredients of this incomparable anti-rheumatism and throat and lung remedy are not volatile, but fixed, pure and imperishable. Pain lameness and stiffness are relieved by it, and it may be used with equal benefit externally and internally.

Fenian Head Centre Stephens is reported as saying that the Irish question will yet have to be settled "by a stand-up fight," and once Ireland has gained independence she will be happy to ally herself with England.

As a general rule most advertised cough cures are merely palliative, and smother up a cough by the opiates they contain; not so with Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam; it is composed of soothing, loosening, and healing expectorants, prepared from harmless demulcents, roots, gums, and barks, that are not only safe but thorough and certain in their action upon the diseased mucous surfaces of the throat and lungs. 8-2t

LONDON, Feb. 12.—The News states that Parnell's departure for Paris has led to the opinion that Parnell has retreated at the first prospect of retrospective coercion. The statement of circumstances which occasioned Parnell's departure has been submitted to a member of the Commons, who expresses the opinion that Parnell's procedure is justifiable and in no way attributable to personal considerations.

HOW TO GET RICH.—The great secret of obtaining riches, is first to practice economy, and as old "Deacon Snyder" says. "It used to worry the life out of me to pay enormous doctor's bills, but now I have 'struck it rich.' Health and happiness reign supreme in our little household, and all simply because we use no other medicine but Electric Bitters and only costs fifty cents a bottle." Sold by all druggists.

TORONTO, Feb. 12.—James Atkinson, an employee in Oliver's flouring mill, on the Esplanade, met with a most violent death at noon to-day. He was arranging some belting, when his clothing caught in the shafting and he was whirled around at the rate of 300 revolutions per minute. When the engine was stopped Atkinson's body fell to the floor, horribly cut and mangled. Deceased, who was married and had a large family, lived at 181 Ontario street.

Jos. Beaudin, M. D., Hull, P. Q., writes:—Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil commands a large and increasing sale, which it richly merits. I have always found it exceedingly helpful; I use it in all cases of Rheumatism, as well as fractures and dislocations. I made use of it myself to calm the pains of a broken leg with dislocation of the foot, and in two days I was entirely relieved from pain.

As a nation of individuals we stimulate too much alike in the matter of food, drink and medicine; we burn up our bodies with the use of too much fuel in the way of strong stimulants. Burdock Blood Bitters differs from other advertised tonics, inasmuch that it is not a fancy drink, but a pure medical tonic, alternative, laxative and nervine, whose effects is to purify, restore, and build up the impoverished blood and enfeebled body. Trial bottles, 10 cents; regular size, one dollar. For sale by all dealers. 8-2t

ASTONISHING THE WORLD.—For a perfect renovation of exhausted and enfeebled constitutions, female weakness and general decline, nothing so surely and speedily produces a permanent cure as Electric Bitters. Their wonderful cures are astonishing the world. For Kidney and Urinary Complaints they are a perfect specific. Do not give up in despair, for Electric Bitters will positively cure, and that where everything else fails. Sold by all druggists at fifty cents a bottle.

It is cough, wheeze, wheeze, hack, hack, away,
And there is no comfort to be had either night or day.

Do you think so? then you have never tried that most pleasant and effectual cure, Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam; a few doses relieves the most distressing cough, and a twenty-five cent bottle has cured many a sufferer from Asthma, Bronchitis, Croup, Influenza, Hoarseness and Soreness of the Chest. It is the grand specific for all throat and lung complaints leading to Consumption. 8-2t

Of all the remedies on earth that well deserve attention,
Hagyard's Yellow Oil commands especial mention;
For wondrous power to cure disease, its fame there's none can throttle,
Its merits are not in the puff, but they are in the bottle.

All manner of painful and inflammatory diseases are promptly relieved by the external use of this valuable medicine. Rheumatism, Sore Throat, Asthma, Kidney Complaints, Croup, Burns, Scalds, Frost Bites, Deafness, Neuralgia, Stiff Joints and wounds of every description yield like magic to its power. For sale by all dealers. 8-2t

THE SOUTH AFRICAN WAR.

Despatches from Durban admit a great British defeat recently. The Standard gives the following description of the fight:—"The enemy were on horseback when first seen, but upon a shell taking effect among them, at about 1,500 yards distance, they rode off, and having dismounted, under cover behind the hills, opened fire. From 12 o'clock until dusk, it was a rifle duel under cover. Our guns from time to time took part in it, but the enemy's fire was so severe that it was impossible to work the guns constantly, the men falling almost as soon as they stood up. With the sole exception of Lieut. Parsons, who was wounded late in the day, every officer, driver, gunner and horse in the battery was shot. Shortly after the action began the guns were completely silenced for an hour. Some of the infantry then assisted. One piece was thus kept in action throughout the day, but it was a dangerous duty, and those serving it had continually to be replaced. The guns were actually whitened all over with the marks of bullets, and for anybody to stand up beside them was certain death. The enemy occasionally crept up to within 200 yards of the position, but never attempted a rush. The greater portion of the fighting was at a distance of 600 or 700 yards. The tactics of the Boers are described as admirable. They moved from flank to flank, opening fire time after time from unexpected positions. For our men to advance and charge at the point of the bayonet was quite impossible, for they would all have been shot down before reaching the enemy. The fight was one of rifles, where the Boers were vastly superior to our troops."

Co-Operative.

NOT AFRAID!

We are not afraid of competition from any source, from co-operative stores or dry goods stores, or any other kind of stores.

The people of Peterborough, as a whole are quite wide awake to their interests, and will buy their goods where they are best served. A co-operative store has as much right to sell dry goods, and pins and needles, as a dry goods store has to go into boots and shoes.

The real secret of business success is to be thorough in whatever branch is taken up, as a general rule a jack-of-all-trades is master of none, whether he has on his sign that he is a co-operative, dry goods or grocery Store, or whatever it may be. We keep strictly to the branch of business we have adapted, Tailoring and Gents' Furnishings, and as a result do a good trade.

We therefore can smile at the frantic efforts of any, whose foundation is so insecure that they view with alarm the establishment of any new business.

Said Lilla, and she pondered how she an entrance there Might gain, and cried with rapture, "if I could find the way
That leads to Zion's City, I'd never from it stray."
But long in vain she wandered with downcast, earnest gaze,
If haply she might find it among life's many ways;
But, suddenly uplifting her eyes: oh, joyous sight,
She saw a gate before her that fill'd her with delight.
Bright flowers in rich profusion were blooming all around,
And climbing vines their tendrils fantastically wound
About the arch'd entrance, and clust'ring roses grew
Luxuriantly, yea, almost concealing from her view
The path that led through arbors and pleasant groves, and green,
Flowery enamell'd meadows, where sparkling streams were seen,
Like bands of silver glist'ning beneath the sunny rays;
And, as she rapidly listen'd, she heard sweet dulcet lays
Of many feather'd songsters; she also seem'd to hear
The shouts of happy children who wander'd without fear
Along the smiling roadway, to call the tempting flowers,
While on the breeze came floating from cool and fragrant bowers
The murmuring of voices, of persons resting there;
And Lilla cried, "How happy! how free they are from care:
When weary with their journey, in leafy-screen'd retreat
They find refreshful shelter from noon-day's scorching heat.
How very, very charming, but ere this gate so wide
I ope', I'll see what's written above," so to one side
The vines she drew, but, stricken with sudden awe she reads,
"Broad is this road and downward it to destruction leads."
"My Father! oh, my Father! I thank thee," and she rais'd
Her eyes in solemn, rev'rent, adoring words of praise;
"I thank Thee for the mercy that saved me from the fate
Of everlasting ruin by ent'ring through this gate.
Ah, can this road, so very enchanting to the sight,
End in the deep unfathom'd abyss of endless night.

Then treading softly forward as if on dangerous ground,
Perceived the distant pathway—she thought at first sight wound,
Aye, upward—sloping gently, but surely downward; so
In bitter disappointment she turn'd about, when, lo!
Unseen before, a gateway close by her she espies
Narrow and bare, but filling her soul with glad surprise,
Ah, true it was not lovely—no vines or roses threw
Fair wreaths and garlands o'er it, so hiding from the view
Th' inscription written over in lustrous letters bright;
And Lilla said, "If only these words I read aright
And understand their meaning, this way indeed may prove
To be the one that leadeth to Paradise above."
While hopefully she gazeth, she hears a well-known voice
Break o'er the hushful stillness, "Dear Lilla is your choice
About to be that gloomy and unattractive gate?
I wonder you should even about it hesitate,
When such a charming portal invites both you and me
To scenes replete with beauty and sweetest harmony.

Then Lilla said, "Dear Edna, of such false charms beware, Look up and read the warning, I almost enter'd there."
"Well there is nothing dreadful, Dear Lilla, I can see
Some gloomy person wrote that, to hinder such as we
From having any pleasure. Then come with me, my friend;
Now let us have enjoyment, and trust a happy end."
"It is not dismal, Edna, see what a glory beams
Above, till every letter in light effulgence gleams.
You say you're eyes are dazzled, so at the first were mine.
For in the glowing halo, behold the Hand Divine.
'Straight is the way that leads to the eternal life, and few
Are they who really find it'—yes, Edna, this is true,
'Tis life we seek, then, Edna, come travel by my side;"
But, in a reckless spirit her trifling friend replied,
"You talk of life, more likely you'll find it, Lilla, where Each prospect seen allures us, and I am going there.
And if you are not coming, I go alone, good-bye."
And through th' embower'd entrance she pass'd, but with a sigh
Of woes that in the future must certainly await
Her friend so thoughtless. Lilla press'd through the narrow gate,
But with a thankful spirit and deep humility;
For grace to choose so wisely then meekly, trustfully
To God her heart uplifted, that she had found the way
That certainly would lead her to realms of endless day.
From Heaven the True Light streaming, such radiance had shed,
She saw with brighter vision that now her pathway led Upward for ever upward, while strains of music were Through pearly gates wide open'd now wafted on the air
From angels harps, far higher than sacred heights God's own
Dear chosen people traverse, e'en from the great white Throne,
Came gentle whispers downward, "There's joy in Heaven high
For thee, oh lonely pilgrim, look up with hope-lit eye."
Then Lilla almost fancied herself among the blest
"But first," she said, "the journey and afterward the Rest."
Then tenderly she answer'd, "There's joy for me even here
Joy in the blessed presence of Him who's ever near.
Who'll cheer me in the darkest and saddest hours, and lead
Me gently o'er rough places; in pastures green will lead
My soul, and now he tells me, 'These shining footprints seen
Are mine, so fear not, lov'd one, to walk where I have been;'
And with a holy gladness and calm upon her face,
Bespeaking peace-abiding, she patiently the race
That Jesus sets before her, strives through His strength to run,
Oft thinking of the dear ones who have the victory won,
Who in Elysian arbors serenely now repose,
While brilliant faith-crowned glimpses the the life to come disclose;
And as she journeys nearer the pure Celestial Heights,
Immortal joys unfoldeth etherial delights.
So higher, daily higher, her upward steps ascend,
Soon on the Hills of Glory her pilgrimage shall end,
And then with undim'd brightness, her longing eye shall see
The King in His great beauty, and satisfied shall be.

FARM, GARDEN AND HOUSEHOLD.

Farm Hints.

Hogs and Manure.—One hog, kept to the age of one year, if furnished with suitable material, will convert a cart load per month into a fertilizer, which will produce a good crop of corn. Twelve loads per year, multiplied by the number of hogs usually kept by our farmers, would make sufficient fertilizing substance; in other words, the hog would pay in manure the cost of his keeping. In this way we can offer to make pork at the present low prices, but in no other way can it be done without loss.

Utilizing the Leaves.—The leaves that fall from the trees in autumn may be turned a good account if they are gathered and used for a little in the stable. They furnish an excellent absorbent for liquid manure, and are of themselves a valuable fertilizer, as they contain a large per cent. of potash, phosphoric acid, and other essential elements of plant food. To gather the leaves rapidly a long-headed rake provided with stout teeth should be used, and the leaves loaded into a cart or waggon, and taken to a place where they may be kept dry and handy for use. Besides the direct value of the leaves, the raking of them from the door-yard, for example, gives it a neat appearance, when it would otherwise look ill kept.

Mixing Feed.—In feeding some very nutritive food, a certain quantity of some bulky, coarse kind should be added, in order to expand the stomach as well as the intestines. Unless this is attended to, digestion will always be incomplete, no matter how healthy the animal may be, and for this reason we believe that all ground or cooked food should be given along with cut hay and straw. The concentrated portion will furnish the requisite nutrition, and the other gives the needed expansion to the stomach. Animals should always be fed at regular intervals, and the old maxim of "good food and a little at a time" is applicable in feeding all domesticated stock. It is also well to change the food occasionally as an appetizer, as well as to stimulate the digestive, organs. As a rule, farmers neglect to supply their animals with a variety of food, and if they become unhealthy in consequence their owners seldom attribute it to neglect in furnishing proper food.

Household Hints.

Anniversary Cake.—Three and a half cups sifted graham flour, one cup of sweet-milk, four eggs, two cups of sugar, one-half cup butter, two cups chopped raisins, three tablespoonfuls standard baking powder. Bake in deep pans and frost.

Gravy.—To make nice meet gravy first skin off all the grease. This can best be done when it is cold. Strain the liquid through a sieve. Stir a little corn starch in water, enough to thicken, add with this a little cream and boil for a few minutes.

To prove Yeast.—If you are uncertain about your yeast being good, put it into a teacup of batter—flour and water mixed—and let it stand in a warm place fifteen or twenty minutes; if it is good the mixture will be foaming, otherwise it will remain an unchanged batter.

Watering House Plants.—House Plants in pots should be thoroughly soaked once a week. The best way is to plunge the pots into a pail or tub of water until no more bubbles arise, and then return the pots to their saucers. It will help the plants greatly if a tablespoonful of ammonia is put into the water.

Blanc-mange for Invalids.—One ounce of gelatine, one quart of milk, and sweeten with white sugar: put on fire and stir it until the gelatine is dissolved; then pour into a bowl and stir until it is cold: flavor with vanilla; put into a cold place.

Boston Baked Beans.—This can be baked in a range oven very well if the beans are not parboiled much. I have baked them without parboiling, only soaking them over night. Bake in a cool oven all day long, and have a large square of thick fat pork on top.

Excellent white cake.—Two cups of granulated sugar beaten to a cream with a scant cup of butter, then add a third of a cup of sweet milk, the whites of eight eggs beaten to a stiff froth, and three and a half teacupsful of sifted flour, with two teaspoonsful of yeast powder mixed with it. Flavor and bake it in a moderate oven.

Baked Apple Dumpling.—Make a crust as for soda biscuit, peel and core your apples, cut the dough in square pieces, and put one apple for each dumpling; put them in a dripping pan, and place in the oven for five minutes, then make a syrup with water and sugar (one cupful of sugar to a pint of water) and pour into the dripping pan; baste with the syrup while they are cooking; when done eat with sweet cream.

Fish Soup.—Fish soup can be made of a delicate taste, but there is no space to to enter much about them. Take a half pound of beef or lean ham, chop it fine, add flavoring, simmer for half an hour, add to it one pound of fresh fish and a little vegetable, half a finely-chopped onion or parsley; simmer another half hour; have either steamed rice prepared or toast cut in very small squares; pour the soup through the sieve, either on rice or toast of two eggs beaten up, and this soup will invigorate you.

Health Hints.

Freckle Lotion.—Muriate ammonia, one dram; cologne water, two drams; distilled water, seven ounces; mix and use as a wash. It contains nothing injurious.

Diet.—Milk and blood are nearer alike than any other two fluids; a large proportion of each is water. After milk, breadstuffs and vegetables are the best diet, and in warm climates, fruit. Then meats. Sugar and fat go into the body, not so much to nourish it as to be a fuel to give it warmth.

The Secret of Long Life.—Some years ago the French ministry addressed a circular to all the prefects, desiring as the conditions which appeared peculiarly to favor longevity in their several districts, and the replies are said to have almost unanimously indicated as to the leading elements or influences, great sobriety, regular labor, and usually in the open air, daily exercise short of fatigue, early hours, a comparatively well-to-do life, calmness of mind in meeting troubles, moderate intellectual powers, and a family life. The beneficial influence of marriage on the duration of life is universally admitted, and remarriage does not seem to be unfavorable.

"Ma," said a little boy, looking up from an illustrated paper, "I wish I was a little South African boy." "Why George?" asked his mother. "Why, because their mothers don't wear slippers," he feelingly replied.

"So you enjoyed your visit to the menagerie, did you?" inquired young Sillabub of his adored one's little sister, "Oh yes: and do you know, we saw a hyena there that screwed its mouth and eyes awfully, and sister said is looked exactly as you do when you are reciting poetry at the church sociables."

It was getting well along into the night. She yawned, and then asked him if he ever saw a snapping turtle. "One," he replied, "in a show." Said she "It's very funny, but, do you know, you sort of remind me of that bird." "Why?" he asked. "O, you hang on so." He looked out of the window into the darkness, said it looked like rain, and he better be going.

NOTE—Eclectric—Selected and Electrised.

NOT THE SLIGHTEST AFFINITY exists between the numberless cough mixtures with which the market is flooded and that successful preparation—Northrop and Lyman's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda. It stands alone, distinct, itself, and nothing else. It embodies the best results of pharmaceutical science. It accomplishes positive, decisive results, effectually relieving coughs when the lungs are not tuberculous or hopelessly affected) colds, larnygitis and diseases of a scrofulous origin. While it does not cure Consumption it is the most reliable means of defence against that dreaded scourge. The invigorating properties of the hypophosphites reimburse the system debilitated by the constant tear and wear of a cough, while the paroxysms rapidly diminish in violence, in consequence of the soothing emollient action of the cod liver oil upon the inflamed lung mebrane. The phosphorus, lime and soda, in combination with it are all natural components in the construction of the bodily edifice, which, in a state of decay, lacks a sufficiency of those elements. These the hypophosphites supply, increasing the nutritive properties of the blood, and building up and rehabilitating the tottering human structure with a degree of promptitude as astonishing as it is gratifying to the invalid. A perceptible gain in flesh as well as strength is one of the consequences of using this standard preparation, which both time and experience have demonstrated to be fully worthy of the confidence reposed in it. Prepared by NORTHROP & LYMAN, Toronto and sold by all druggists.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED

IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable specifics, in a form perfectly palatable, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach, and we make the unqualified statement that Scott's Emulsion is being used with better results, and endorsed and prescribed by more physicians for Consumption and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Anæmia, General Debility and the Wasting disorders of children than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food medicine diet, is truly marvellous.

SEE WHAT PHYSICIANS AND THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT IT.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE; 66 West Thirty-sixth Street, New York, Sept. 2, 1876.
GENTS—I have frequently prescribed SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation, in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficacious. C. C. LOCKWOOD, M. D.

MESSRS SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used my own family, and in my private practice very extensively SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach; which renders it a very reliable agent as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases.
Oct. 12, 1879. Yours respectfully, A. H. SAXTON, M.D., Baltimore.

MESSRS SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last two months I have fairly tried SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES, and I can cordially declare that it is the finest preparation of the kind that has ever been brought to my notice; in affections of the lungs and other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly elegant and agreeable form.
December 14th, 1878. Very truly, J. SIMONAUD, M.D., New Orleans, La.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—In September, 1877, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health did not improve, and early in the winter, I began to raise blood and rapidly grew worse. In May last I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to my bed and my life was despaired of for many weeks; violent symptoms appeared, night and morning coughs, night sweats, short breath, and a return of the spinal trouble. My physician stopped the bleeding and then ordered Cod Liver Oil and Lime; and I used various preparations, but they did me no good. I lost all hope of life, and was an object of pity to all my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of your EMULSION and before it was all taken I was better. I then bought a dozen bottles and have taken all with the following results: Cough subsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pains in spine disappeared, strength returning, and my weight increased from 118 to 140 pounds in sixteen weeks. I have taken no other medicine since commencing with your EMULSION and shall continue its use until I am perfectly well. I frequently meet some friend on the street who asks, what cured you and I answer, SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL, &c. I have a friend who has not spoke aloud for 15 months and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle, and he bought two more, then got a dozen and says it is food and medicine for him. He was given up to die a year ago; but he is improving now wonderfully. My recovery is exciting the surprise of many people, and I shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine.
Jan. 20, 1879. Very truly yours, H. F. SLOCUM, Lowell, Mass.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE: LYNN, Randolph Co., Ind., July 2nd, 1878.
About the 25th of last April I got a bottle of your EMULSION and at that time I was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live but a few days at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the EMULSION in small doses; it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that hour I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and some two or three have already tried it. I am sure I shall entirely recover. I am gratefully yours,

Vivienne's Crime;

OR,

FOR LOVE OF HIM.

By the Author of "CLEVEDON MANOR," "MRS. SHELDON'S AMBITION," &c., &c.

"She knows just this, that Gilbert Thornton, her dear old friend and playmate that used to be, is not getting strong as fast as he should."

Gilbert Thornton turned his face to the wall. His ivory-white fingers, lying on the coverlid, clutched at the flossy knots upon it, and restlessly tore them out. Doctor West who was mixing a powder with evident care and nicety, did not speak. He was thinking—a trifle bitterly—of the change in his darling, which other eyes besides his own had noticed—of the pale face, the dreamy eyes, the languid air, which not even the heat of July and August could account for.

As yet he knew nothing definite of the cause; but dimly there arose in his mind at times an an idea that Jocelyn Thornton, now losing head and heart to Vivienne Stuart, had been more than a friend to Ethel. He knew no more. When Gilbert told him that morning that his brother was her accepted lover, his face flushed. He even looked as if he doubted the statement.

"Accepted!" exclaimed the Doctor, running his hand through his hair in a way peculiar to him when excited. "How can that be? I have never heard a word of it—not a word."

"No;", said Gilbert. "And it has been my fault that you have not. I asked Jocelyn not to name the matter to you for a month or so. I had a reason for doing so—a good reason, as you would own could I tell you it. It was not his fault nor hers."

Doctor West sat buried in thought, his head resting in his hands, his elbows resting on his knees. He was not pleased with this news. Gilbert read his displeasure in his set lips, his down-dropped eyes, that studied the carpet so intently.

"Do you not like Jocelyn?" he asked, abruptly.

"I like your brother very well; from a boy I have liked him—but I do not understand him at present."

He spoke gravely, pausing a little between each of the last words, and keeping his eyes fixed upon Gilbert. Those eyes, in their own dumb way asked very earnestly, "Can you make his conduct clear to me?"

Gilbert could not, without telling more than he felt free to tell; so he turned from their scrutiny.

"You cannot understand him either, Gilbert, and you are his brother!"

There came no answer to that. Watching the pale face leaning back among the pillows, the Doctor needed none. A great pity for Gilbert surged in his heart. Not to him would he speak out his thoughts of fickle Jocelyn, at that very moment, within sight of where he was sitting, pacing out on the lawn with Vivienne Stuart.

"He is worthy of Ethel. A nobler man in many ways there does not live; a tenderer heart than his there is not in the world." So said Gibert, regardless of the unanswered charge. But then he did not see those two out on the lawn, with the sunlight showing the love in their faces. Doctor West did. Not much wonder therefore that his brows lifted and his lips parted as though he would say, "I doubt it!"

"You will put no obstacle in his way—for my sake, you will not say 'No'—when he asks for Ethel?"

"Time enough to do that when he asks me, Gilbert; it is my belief he never will."

"But he will, and shortly. I will answer for it that he does. But you have not promised me, Doctor, not to say 'No' to them," added Gilbert, a crimson spot beginning to flame in his cheeks.

"I dare not promise you that, Gilbert," answered Doctor West, taking one of the thin hands in his with a tender pressure. He spoke gravely, like a man who would abide by his word. "I know you mean well. But time must prove whether 'Yes' or 'No' would be the kindest answer—kindest to him and to Ethel. You may trust her with her father. What is best for my girl's happiness, that I will do."

"You don't understand, Doctor. You have been blind all this time. I tell you Ethel loves him."

Doctor West's face suddenly clouded. Ominous shadows rose, as it were, before his keen eyes.

"I begin to fear she does, Gilbert. But that is not enough. Does he love her—her best and only?"

Gilbert would have given a great deal to be able to say "Yes" to this inquiry, but he felt he could not. He sighed a troubled sigh, that told how pain and weariness and weakness were battling with him. Doctor West, looking out on those two still conversing and lingering among the last roses of the season, answered his own question for himself. That answer was not favourable to Jocelyn's hopes, if ever he should care to win Ethel West for his wife.

Mrs. Thornton, waiting in the next room, thought Gilbert and the Doctor's chat would never come to an end. In the mother's heart the chill of a great fear was stirring. Something seemed to whisper to her day and night that her boy was drawing near to the end of his life journey. Often in the past, before her pride had learned subjection, she had trembled that the head of the old house, the heir of the bonny lands of Thornton, should be a crippled man. Now, in the presence of this greater care, those frettings died out—were stilled before the fear, growing into a grim certainty, that she should soon lose him altogether. Noticing how he was slipping away from her, those past murmurings seemed as the causeless crying of a child. "He doeth all things well," her husband had said on his death-bed, thinking of the lad he was leaving in his stead. Could she resignedly say as much now?

Doctor West, coming out of the sick room, looked, she thought, more anxious than usual. An old woman now, her strength not as it had been, and her lips refused to ask his tidings.

"Not any better," he said, in answer to her mute appeal. Drawing his gloves on slowly, he turned his eyes from her face; the agony on it pained him. "I am afraid he never will be better in this world, Mrs. Thornton."

He had expected tears, but none came. She sat calm and dry-eyed, her face directed towards him, her delicate hands folded on her lap.

"He thinks the same himself. He has no malady medicine can touch. He is freeting with an inward fever no skill in the world can abate. It is eating his life away, and I have no power to stay it. That is my opinion. If you would like to have the advice of another, I can bring Doctor Bates to-morrow; in fact, I should be glad to do so."

She shook her head. When she would have spoke her lips worked pitifully, and a rush of tears filled her eyes.

Doctor West went away as soon as possible. Old friends as they were, he could not bear to stay; and if he had stayed, what comfort had he to offer the mother's heart, crying out in its bitterness for her eldest born?

A day or two after that, Doctor Bates of Grantham, a man noted in his profession, came with Doctor West to see Gilbert. The Doctors, gravely and deliberately discussed the case, agreed in their opinion of it. Without being able exactly to specify the cause, they both considered that Gilbert Thornton was dying, slowly it might be, but none the less surely for the slowness.

The news spread. Through all Thornton ran an expression of surprise. Rough men and toil-stained women felt the tears rise to their eyes as they heard the sad intelligence.

"Poor fellow! he have suffered." "Poor Master Gilbert! all his money did little for him." "A sad life he have had, and a short one!" So the homely phrase ran—kindly ones, though, showing how this shadowed life, lived of its necessity apart from theirs, had won pity from these hearts not used overmuch to feeling pity stir within them—not having time for it, perhaps, in the hurry and bustle, the struggle and peril of their calling.

Hearing the news, Jocelyn flung himself down and cried bitterly. Ethel, too, wept bitter tears, as though she were losing a brother. Only Vivienne, still anxious and haunted, hearing the tidings without a touch of pity. An ugly, terrible, intense longing had grown up in her heart day by day. Springing from her love, it showed that in hearts, as in flowers, the sweetest blossoms sometimes distil poison as well as perfume. Day and night the cry rang in her ears—passed her lips almost at times—"If this Gilbert were dead and buried, Jocelyn would be mine." No wonder the girl's eyes grew fixed and stern, her dainty lips rigid. No wonder the whole beautiful face grew dark with the shadow of so cruel a dream.

* * * * * *

"I shall be off to-morrow, Mr. Grant," said Paul knox, resting his arms lazily on the low stone wall of the Doctor's garden.

The three, Ethel, Paul Knox and the Rector, were out looking at the sunset. The night was very warm—not a breath to lift the water, not a stir among the leaves. The intense purple of the sky, flecked here and there with orange, stained in places with crimson, and darkening slowly as the daylight died, had something of a sorrowful grandeur. It preached eloquently, that tinted sky, to those three as they looked up at it. And the power of that preaching lay in its special message to each of those three hearts, which none but it might read.

"We shall be very sorry to lose you, Paul," answered the Rector, turning away from that upward view of his, and looking out seaward where water and sky appeared to mingle together. "I regret to hear you must go."

"There is no 'must' in the matter," said Ethel. "He is tired of us—tired of this quiet place; that is all. He might stay if he cared to do so."

"Now that is very cruel of you, Ethel, and just like the unreasoning judgment of a woman. You know I must start to my work some time."

"Then work here with us," she said, scattering a handful of leaves and flowers over his outspread hands.

"That would be out of the question. You are too great a plague!"

Ethel smiled at his comic earnestness. Herbert Grant, noting the sadness of her smile, grew graver than usual.

"Yet more: I think I have stayed long enough. I came in July, and now we are in the month of September. Any man but the Doctor would be for turning me out."

Doctor West, smoking in the porch, called out to know what evil they were saying about him.

"A great deal," replied Ethel, promptly—"and all deserved."

"Then come indoors and let me hear it, or I shall have three fresh patients on my books to-morrow."

"I have stayed later than I intended," said Herbert Grant, as he followed Ethel into the house.

Let no one assert that without hope love dies. That is not the case. Hope is a blessed comforter; it falls on our hearts like the dew on flowers—they are all the fresher and fairer for it. But love is stronger than hope, than fear, than death. Love is immortal; it cannot die. Herbert Grant, knowing that Ethel did not love him, feeling almost certain that in all the years of her life she never would love him, yet never once gave up his love for her. It was strong in his heart that night. To look at her was to him an exquisite pleasure in itself, and so he lingered and lingered, loth to go. When he did rise to say good night, Paul went to the door with him. Large drops of warm rain were falling, and the two stayed in the shelter of the porch till the shower should be over.

Doctor West, as usual before retiring to rest, went into his study; and Ethel, feeling lonely and nervous—she did not know why—accompanied him. Seeing her pass through the hall with her slow step and grave face, Paul Knox stroked his long beard like a man not pleased with his own thoughts.

"She does not seem bright to-night," he said, talking as much to himself as to Herberet Grant. "I can't say that I like the looks of her at all. She is not, in my opinion, what a girl of her years ought to be."

Herbert Grant answered nothing. He was holding out his hand to see if the rain had ceased. He seemed to have no thought but for the weather.

Paul knox was a keen observer. He had seen more than he cared to repeat during those weeks he had been Doctor West's guest and patient, and the favoured companion of his daughter. As he spoke, his eyes were directed to the Rector's face, and the busy brain soon drew its own conclusion. Always a dreamer, always a builder of air-castles was Paul Knox—a man fond of peering into the future of himself and others.

"I will walk a bit with you, Rector; I don't sleep unless I am pretty tired; and the rain is over now."

He turned back for his hat and stick, and the two went slowly through the garden and under the tall old trees by the gate, great drops of rain falling on them as they passed under the branches.

"What do you think can be the matter with Miss West? asked Herbert Grant, as they walked on.

The measured voice, the formal words, brought a smile to Paul's lips which his heavy beard shaded.

"Her mother, the Doctor tells me, was delicate; so the ailment may be hereditary. Or it may be owing to the great heat of the Summer that she has grown languid and pale. I never felt a hotter season in England in my life."

So Paul answered, evasively, making light of his words.

The Rector was not to be thus easily satisfied. After they had parted he gave himself to though, brooding over this fancy of his—which must surely be more than a fancy, since others had seen the same thing—that Ethel was changing—slowly, it might be, but surely—from the happy, bright-faced girl she had used to be, into a grave and thoughtful woman—a woman, too, with a sadness on her face at times not common at such an age.

Paul Knox went for a long walk after leaving his companion at the stone pillars of the Rectory gate. He walked up and down, into all sorts of queer places, round and about, till he got out at last on the bare level of the Monk's Head. Standing there, he could look down on the great heaving sea, and down on the scattered homes of Thornton, lying here and there like waifs on the shore. As he looked, his eyes grew misty; he trembled at sight of these things, as only a man could tremble whose life story had been part played out in their midst. These old landmarks rose up like warning signals, telling him where a joy had died down, where a fear or a sorrow had gathered about him, in the past. Seeing them, that past lived again.

"If it could come back to me, I would make it all so different—all so different!" he cried.

The boom of the sea rose up through the quiet. The incoming waves lifted white heads, breaking into foam, at the foot of the crags above which he stood. And every echo and stir seemed to say to that listening heart of his, "It cannot be! It cannot be!"

Walking home, those old ghosts that used to hunt this man gathered again about him.

"The ebb tide of my life is upon me," he thought; "and I can but drift aside. I am of no use to any one in the world! If I could do something for Dick, or for anybody, it would be different. But I can't. I can't even die, it seems; and that, I take it, would be about the best thing for me now."

The simple fisher-folk would surely have wondered had they peeped out at this tall dark figure striding past their doors in the misty moonlight, swinging his heavy stick, and muttering softly to himself as a man might who was used to his own company.

CHAPTER XII

Gilbert Thornton looking better than he had looked for weeks past, lay propped up among his cushions, watching the red sunset that Ethel had found such rare beauties in. Its last rays touched his hollow cheeks and his white hands, and brought out faint answering sparkles from among his brown curls. Vivienne, in the drawing-room, was playing softly. Her heart was heavy, and a chill gloom had quenched the life and brightness of her face, Jocelyn Thornton sat by his brother; their mother, very pale, and aged strongly these few days past, sat at the bed head. Quiet they were, those three; yet it seemed almost as if, in that deep hush, their hearts talked together. When the sun had disappeared, swallowed up, with all its orange and crimson streamers, in the glittering water, Gilbert's eyes filled with tears.

"Not many times more," he said, "may I see that sun go down."

His mother answered with a sob, and laying her cheek against his.

"My boy! my boy!" she cried, her pale face wrung with pain, her eyes dim with it, even more than with years of weeping.

"Yes, mother, your boy—but not your only one. Jocelyn will be left to you. Jocelyn will be a fitter master of all these lands than ever I have been, than ever I could be."

Very empty and dark those aimless years of his manhood stretched behind him. Dying, he knew their worth—knew it so well that he dare not regret them. On the threshold of the fuller life, what were they to him? Only the dim antechamber to the royal throne-room of his Father's house.

Something of this touched his mother looking on him; something of this made the wordly heart within her thrill as with fear.

The music in the room below ceased. The house was so quiet that one might have thought it empty, save for those three sitting there in the early gray of the twilight.

"When I am gone," said Gilbert, after a little, "you will guess, some of you, I think, at the one sore pain that has lain heavy at my heart all these years. And you, Jocelyn, will understand then, that when I left these lands to you, the husband of Ethel West, I gave you no hampered inheritance. I am doing what I think is best for you—you two, whom I love so well."

Hearing him, Jocelyn shivered; and a blank shade of disappointment she could not well repress, crossed Mrs Thornton's face. The hard lines came into it again: the mother-look faded.

The sick man, looking away from them into the deepening shadows without, felt the mute protest, the dumb annoyance his words had raised. His eyes began to kindle, his thin, nervous hands to burn.

"You must not blame me, you two," he cried. "I will not be crossed in this. Jocelyn, you will keep your word? Ethel will be here after me?"

His voice trembled, faltered, and a silence that seemed hours long came after that. Jocelyn, felt his heart stirred. The mother not daring to say a word to either, quietly began to cry again, hiding her face in the eider cushions of the bed. In her heart she wished Gilbert would let this matter rest, and not trouble his last days with care for this girl, whom she felt herself beginning to hate with a curious intenseness.

How quiet everything was!—not a stir, not a breath, not a footfall. The blood rushed to Jocelyn's heart, leaving his face cold and pale. His broad shoulders, white throat, and shapely head might have been carved in marble for all the signs of life in them. His brain throbbed and ached in that stillness. His silence was answer enough for Gilbert; he understood it, and a flash of anger crossed his face, which had turned so wistfully to watch that of his brother.

"You will not do so much for me, Jocelyn?"

The low voice, repressed, yet ringing strong with pain and pleading, made Jocelyn start as at a blow.

"It is too much, Gilbert; she would not have it thus herself."

"Did she say that to you?"—"No."

"Then how do you know it?" asked Gilbert, sharply, passing his hand across his eyes, as though the dim light of the room was trying them.

Jocelyn answered him humbly, his head bent, his fingers twisting in long beard restlessly as they always did in anger or perplexity.

"Because I am sure she knows that I do not love her—as I used to love her," he added, hastily.

BOWLING.—At the bowling match on Thursday last the best scores were as as follows: A. Sawers 191; W. Rudkins 172; John Lynch 167.

SKATING BOOTS—chamois lined—and Russian felt boots—another lot just received at the wholesale boot and shoe store of R. Stinson & Son. 51-tf.

POSTPONED.—The auction sale of the Lithgow Farm Otonabee advertised for Wednesday, 16th has been postponed till Saturday 26th at same hour and place. See advertisement in another column. 7-2t

WASTING HIS WAGES.—Daniel Ross, who had invested some of his hard earnings in a black eye, spent last Wednesday night in the cells, came before the P. M. on Thursday sober and sorry for it, and got off with an admonishment.

SKIDMORE GUARDS.—Some local amateur comedians exulting in the above title gave a performance in the Opera House last week. The attendance was not large, and was hardly worthy of the performance, which for amateurs was very fair.

NEW BUSINESS.—Mr. Geo. Tanner, formerly in business in town, and well and favourably known in the vicinity, has opened a general grocery and provision store in Lakefield, where we have no doubt he will do a prosperous business.

COMPLIMENTARY.—Mr. P. J. McNamee, late of the firm of Pope & McNamee, being about to leave for the "old sod" was entertained by a number of his friends at supper at D'Arcy's Hotel on Saturday evening. The supper was served up in first class style, and a pleasant evening enjoyed.

THE NEW RAILWAY SCHEME.—The promoters of the new scheme for a railway from Toronto to Ottawa in opposition to the Toronto and Ottawa Railway, were refused a charter by the Ontario Legislature. The Town Council on Monday evening refused to recommend the scheme for charter by the Dominion Government.

SCHOOL BOARD.—Last Tuesday evening a special meeting of the School Board was held—present, the Chairman, and Messrs. Dennistoun, Stratton, Rutherford, Wrighton, Burnham, Denne, Robinson and Dumble. The only business was the declaration of the election of Mr. T. W. Robinson, who subscribed the usual declaration and took his seat.

MECHANICS INSTITUTE.—The quarterly meeting of this institution was held on Monday evening, the President, Mr. Lewis, occupying the chair. The proposal of the Teachers Association to affiliate with the Institute was considered and referred a committee to consult with a committee of the association. The annual sale of periodicals took place, the proceeds being very satisfactory.

ALWAYS AHEAD.—We note that Mr. W. Lech, at both stores, is daily receiving consignments of hats and caps for the spring trade. Mr. Lech has been exceedingly fortunate in his purchases this year, the new goods comprising a very elegant and choice selection of the very latest styles, being of superior finish, and remarkably moderate in price. Those who want a stylish article should not fail to examine the stock.

WORKS OF ART.—We have received from Mr. T. Esterbrook copies of cabinet portraits of Mr. and Mrs. Hammond. The workmanship is of the best ever turned out from this gentleman's studio which is saying a good deal, as the merits of his productions are universally recognized. Doubtless many of our readers will be glad of the opportunity of securing these interesting souvenirs of the visit of this worthy evangelist and his lady, and Mr. Esterbrook is prepared to furnish copies at a low rate.

THE PRESBYTERIAN RECORD has the following acknowledgements:—Assembly Fund—St. Paul's, Peterborough, $24. Home Missions—Campbellford, $26.00; Keene (additional), $28; Keene Sunday School, $17; St. Paul's, Peterborough, $400. Foreign Missions—Friends, Peterborough, $22.40; Percy, $26; Campbellford, $14.50; Keene, $15; St. Paul's, Peterborough, $250; Anonymous, Peterborough (interest), 75c. Colleges, ordinary—Percy, $12; Campbellford, $9.75. French Evangelization—Keene Sabbath School, $17.

A NEW TEAM.—Mr. Sullivan of Percy last week sold a very handsome team of colts to Mr. Cavanagh, who holds them for a large figure.

I ROBINSON & Co.—Are offering a lot of men's and boys felt hats (not quite fashionable) at 25 cts each, originally worth from $1.00 to $2.00.

THE FORESTERS.—Peterborough Court of this order hold an entertainment in their hall, to-morrow evening, for which an excellent programme has been provided.

LICENSE COMMISSIONERS.—Messrs. Jas. Drummond, Wm. Mober, sr. and William Darling have been gazetted as re-appointed License Commissioners for East Peterborough.

AUBURN WOOLEN MILLS have received the first order for fall goods, and we understand, have every prospect of an exceptionally busy season. Mr. Kendry intends to take all the work out of the mills there is in them to meet the demand.

WEST RIDING LICENSE COMMISSIONERS.—The following gentlemen have been re-appointed License Commissioners for the West Riding of Peterborough: Messrs. John Hall, James Elliott and John McClelland.

NEPOTISM.—West Peterborough's representative in the Commons is not the only member in this district who believes in looking after his relations. Senator Reid and Mr. McCuaig M. P., are both represented among the new Census Commissioners.

SNOW SHOEING.—The first race for the Stevenson medal was run on Friday last on Little Lake, Capt. Edwards presiding. Eight started, the following coming in ahead, J. C. Robertson, 1st; McBain, 2nd; Orde, 3rd. The next contest is on Monday evening.

HORSE THEFT.—A valuable colt was stolen from the stable of Dr. Higginbotham at Omemee on Sunday night. An officer arrived here on Monday morning, but found no trace of the thief or stolen property. Port Hope would be a more likely place to look for a stolen horse.

THE PUMP PATENT SUIT.—The suit, which had occupied some time, between Messrs. Owens and Taylor as to the right to use a patent, was decided in favor of Mr. Taylor, on the ground taken by V. C. Proudfoot that the patent originally granted to one Powell was defective.

EVANGELISTIC SERVICES.—The ministers engaged in these services, established by the Rev. Mr. Hammond, have every reason to be satisfied that their decision to continue them after Mr. Hammond's departure was a wise one. Messrs. Torrance, Stobo, Starr, Dr. Harper, and others, have continued the work with great diligence and earnestness, and with results with which they have every reason to be gratified. There can be no doubt but that a vast amount of good has been, and continues with increasing force to be, effected by their instrumentality.

WINTER RACES.—It having been concluded that if Bewdley and Bobcaygeon could afford to have winter races, Peterborough ought not to be behindhand, a club has been formed, chiefly through the exertions of Mr. Wm. Croft, and the necessary funds were yesterday subscribed by the hotel-keepers and others interested. The races are expected to come off on the 3rd and 4th of March on the Little Lake. Announcement of the races and purses will be made immediately and a very successful meeting is anticipated.

SUPPER IN MONAGHAN.—The members of Eathon Grange, North Monaghan, celebrated the recent entry to the matrimonial state of four members Messrs. R. Dunlop, A. Young, C. Davidson and J. McIntosh, by a supper at the Grange Hall, presided over by Jos. Tully, Chairman, and Mr. Ayres, Vice-Chairman, and attended by some sixty of the Grangers. Speeches were made by Messrs. H. Collins, Reeve, Ayres, Brealy, Johnston and Stothart, and a very pleasant evening put in.

SOUTH WARD ELECTION.—There is some talk of protesting the election of Mr. Robinson to the School Board, on the ground of an informality in the election. We are of opinion that the ground is not well taken; but at all events, considering the very decided character of the election, such a step would be very ill-advised, and would be certainly resented by the electors of the ward. There is no occasion whatever to put the public to the expense of another election, even if it were possible to take advantage of a frivolous technicality.

CHANGE OF BUSINESS.—We learn that the old established drug business, at the Medical Hall, George Street, has been sold out by Mrs. A. W. Kempt, to Mr. John McKee, who has been long well and favourably known to the public as manager for Mrs. Kempt. Mr. McKee has established a reputation for himself for high character, integrity and skill and ability in his business, which makes it tolerably certain that the popularity of the business will not be decreased by the change of proprietors. We wish him a prosperous business career.

CRUELTY TO ANIMALS.—Quite an excitement was created in town on Saturday morning by the report that three horses had left Port Hope in the morning on a "go as you please" race from St Lawerence Hall, Port Hope, to the Huffman House here, and return, for a sweep-stakes of $150. The horses were Mr. Mackie's "Dolly Varden," D. Scotts "Tom," and Jas. Eakins "Cattle Hunter;" they left Port Hope at 9:02 and reached Peterboro' 10:10. After sponging, the horses left immediately. At Bewdley, Mackie's horse played out through exhaustion, and Mr. Mackie threw up the sponge. The other horses arrived in Port Hope, "Tom" at 1:56, or 4 hours and 53 minutes, "Cattle Hunter" a quarter of an hour later. There was an opinion among a good many that it would have served the owners of the horses right if the race had been stopped here, and a charge of "cruelty to animals laid against them, as it certainly seems little short of inhuman to drive an animal from Port Hope to Peterborough and return, over a winter road, in five hours, for "sport."

A MATRIMONIAL EVENT.—The Belleville Ontario, under the head of Ameliasburg, has the following:—"It affords us a great deal of pleasure to announce the marriage of Mrs. H. F. Bates, daughter of Philip Roblin, Esq., of this place, to R. E. Wood, Esq., barrister of Peterborough, Ont. This very happy event took place yesterday, p.m., at the residence of the bride's brother, Mr. Geo. Roblin, in the presence of a few near relatives, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. Dr. Jeffers, of Belleville. Mrs. Bates will be greatly missed from the social circle in many ways. Since her return from Denver, Col., she has been an earnest worker in the Sabbath School, and being a musician of fine taste, she has taken particular pains in teaching music, both instrumental and vocal, to the young. She carries with her to her new home the best wishes of a host of friends. The happy couple leave for the west by this evening train." Mr. Wood's many friends in Peterborough will congratulate him upon his accession to the ranks of the Benedicts, and will extend the bride a welcome to her new home.

ACCIDENT TO A FORMER RESIDENT.—The Rochester Herald gives particulars of an accident which unfortunately befel Mr. G. H. Harris of Rochester, (formerly Superintendent of the Little Lake Cemetery) last week, by which his right knee was dislocated, and he sustained other injuries.

ENTERTAINMENT.—The last of the present series of popular entertainments held under the auspices of St. Luke's Parochial Association will take place in the Town Hall, Ashburnham, on Monday evening next at 7 30 p.m. Admission fifteen cents. An excellent performance consisting of Duets, Solos, Readings etc. will be rendered by the best local talent in the town and vicinity. 8-1ins

SPRING ASSIZES, 1881.—The Courts of Oyer and Terminer and General Gaol Delivery and of Assize and Nisi Prius, will be held as follows, Hon. Mr. Justice Galt presiding:—

Brampton—Monday, 14th March.
Whitby—Tuesday, March 22nd.
Peterborough—Tuesday, March 29th
Lindsay—Monday, April 4th.
Cobourg—Monday, April 11th.

CHANGED HANDS.—"The Blakely House, at Lakefield has been sold out by Mrs. Blakely to Mr. R. Purser, recently of the Commercial Hotel here, who will in future conduct the business. Mr. Purser for several years formerly conducted the Blakely House successfully, and will be glad to meet his old patrons and customers in the old place.

DAIRYMEN'S CONVENTION.—On Tuesday afternoon and evening next, a convention of dairymen and others interested, will be held in the Town Hall here, and will be addressed by two eminent experts, Messrs. J. B. Harris, of Antwerp, N.Y., and Harris Lewis, of Frankfort, N. Y. The information afforded by these gentlemen will no doubt be of great advantage to farmers who are turning their attention to the manufacture of butter and cheese and the care of stock, and we hope to see a large attendance.

MIDLAND RAILWAY.—The following is the traffic receipts of the Midland Railway for the week ending Feb. 14, 1881, and the corresponding week of 1880:—Passengers and mails, $1,353.06; freight, $2,036.35; total for week, $3,389.41; aggregate from 1st January, $21,,518.19. 1880—Passengers and mails, $1,396.87; freight, $1,871.64; total for week, $3,-288.51; aggregate from 1st January, $20,-371.72. Increase for week, $120.90; increase from 1st January, $1,146.47.

THE CENSUS COMMISSIONERS.—The following are the Census Commissioners appointed for the divisions in this district:—Prince Edward, P. T. McCuaig, Picton; Hastings East, Jas. Reid, Tweed; Hastings West, W. Shepard, Belleville; Hastings North, Thos. Ems, Ivanhoe; Northumberland East, W. Kelly, Campbellford; Northumberland West, G. M. Goodeve, Cobourg; Peterborough, East and North, J. B. Pearce, Norwood; Peterborough West, J. Carnegie, Peterborough; Durham East, R. Vance, Cavan; Durham West, T. Cubbitt, Bowmanville; Victoria South, T. Stephenson, Omemee; Victoria North, J. McTaggart, Kirkfield.

THE SUNDAY MAGAZINE FOR MARCH.—This number is one of remarkable excellence, and the new editor, Rev. Mr. Taylor, has catered most successfully for the edification and entertainment of his readers. There is, as he remarks, "something for everybody, of whatsoever class, or of whatever age. . . Bible students, and sermon readers, and temperance reformers and lovers of stories will find in this issue something to suit them and to help them pass the time pleasantly and profitably." Among the distinguished contributors are the Revs. J. M. Whiton, R. C. Houghton, W. T. Wylie, T. H. Vail, Bishop of Kansas; C. F. Deems, David Swing, H. Bonar, Bishop Peck, etc. Alfred H. Guernsey, Hattie W. Arnold, Mrs. J. G. Burnett, Josephine Pollard, Frank H. Converse, Louise C. Moulton, etc. The opening article by the editor, "Our Home Heathen," is highly interesting, and equally so is "Scenes on the Danube," by A. Guernsey; both are finely illustrated. The serial story, "Out of the World" is continued, and the several short stories, sketches, etc., are replete with interest and well written. The numerous poems are of singular merit. Dr. Deems explains "Hard Places in the Bible"; the sermon is by Rev. C. N. Sims, on the "Supernatural Success of Christianity." But it is impossible to convey in a brief notice any idea of the rich literary and artistic feast prepared by the editor. There are 128 quarto pages and over 100 engravings. A single copy is only 25 cents; a year's subscription, $3; postpaid. Address, FRANK LESLIE'S PUBLISHING HOUSE, 53, 55 and 57 Park Place, New York.

CURLING MATCHES.

As announced last week, the Curling Match between eight rinks, for furniture for the Club Room, came off on Wednesday and Thursday evenings last, with the following result:

W. H. Cluxton.	J. I. Davidson.
H. LeBrun.	W. Chrow.
A. McNeil.	A. Hall.
J. F. Dennistoun, s'p..10	A. H. McDougall, s'p 34

G. Dunsford, skip....12	P. Connal skip.....15
G. Munro.	A. H. McDougall.
F. J. Jameson.	M. Dennistoun.
John Bertram.	John McClelland.
A. Bertram skip 9	Geo. Brown skip.... 9

The four losing rinks are, according to the agreement under which the game was played, responsible for the provision of the furniture, and they will either subscribe the necessary amount or play off among themselves for the responsibility; which way is not yet decided.

On Monday afternoon a match was played with the Port Hope club, who sent up two of the strongest rinks in the Province. The play between Brown's and Philp's rinks was remarkably close, being a tie up to the last few shots, when luck went in favor of the Port Hopers, who won by only two shots. McDougall's rink for Peterborough appeared to have got paralyzed, and were beaten by 13 to 35. The following are the scores:

Peterborough.	Port Hope.
W. H. Budden,	C. Nixon.
T. P. Attrill.	W. W. Renwick.
Geo. Dunsford.	G. F. Hall.
A. Macdougall, skip...13	J. Gamble, skip....	35

Geo. Brown, skip ...19	E. Philp, skip....	21
Total..... 32	Total.....	56

Majority for Port Hope.....		24

This (Thursday) evening the following rinks play the Belleville club, on the latter's rink:

J. McClelland.	G. Hilliard.
T. P. Attrill.	A. Hall.
G. Dunsford.	R. S. Davidson.
A. H. McDougall, skip	W. G. Ferguson, skip

There is no reason to believe that the late fight of General Colley with the Boers resulted in the defeat of the latter.

OBITUARY.

The following extract from the Grand Forks (Dakota) Herald, Feb. 3rd, will possess a melancholy but not unpleasing interests to the many friends of the young man to whom it refers, and who appears to have won the same esteem in his western home, which he had acquired while a resident in this town:

"Our community again mourns the demise of a young, bright and estimable fellow citizen, who had but fairly commenced the battle of life ere the Master on High checked his earthly career and called him to another and a better world. Mr. James W. DeLaney, the accomplished and talented young gentleman, who took up his residence among us only a few months since, is no more. After an illness of twenty-six days he expired last Monday afternoon peacefully and resignedly. His disease was the type of typhoid fever peculiar to this country, and from the outset was of such a serious character as to baffle the best medical skill of our town, and it is probably that the tender and affectionate care given him by his devoted family did more than anything else to prolong his life.

"The obsequies were held yesterday in the Presbyterian church, Rev. W. P. Law of the Episcopal church officiating, the sermon, however, being preached by Rev. M. S. Kaufman, of the Methodist church, and was an able and beautiful discourse on things temporal and spiritual. Both the reverend gentlemen paid touching tributes to the manly character and intrinsic worth of the deceased, and expressed their belief that he died a true Christian and sincere believer in the gospel of Christ.

"Mr. DeLaney was born in Lunenburg, Stormont county, Ontario, and was 22 years of age. He entered from the public school to the heigh school in Ontario in 1874, and subsequently took a college course in the town of Peterboro. In 1876 he was admitted as a pupil in the Toronto university. After matriculation in this university he was tendered the headmastership of the Collingwood Collegiate Institute, but declined and accepted a similar position in the public school of Midland, where he continued to teach successfully until joining his family here last August. Since becoming a resident in Grand Forks, Mr. DeLaney won the esteem and friendship of every one with whom he became acquainted, and all predicted for him a prosperous and useful career, for all appreciated his talents and attainments, his genial and kindly nature, and his moral uprightness and manly worth."

York County Council has condemned the Syndicate bargain by a vote of 25 to 12. The honest yeoman of York had no Sir John whom they loved better than they loved their native land, so they treated the Syndicate bargain as a question of dollars and cents, and unhesitatingly condemned it.

TEAS! TEAS!
CHINA and JAPAN.

As an article of Domestic use, there is none perhaps for which there is at the present day a greater demand in the aggregate than TEA.

Notwithstanding the increased demand, yet the price of TEAS is lower to-day than it has ever yet been.

The causes which have procured so desirable a result to the TEA-DRINKER are practical.

FIRST:—A more extended and scientific system of cultivation in the Tea producing countries,

SECOND:—Cheaper and better carrying facilities, and

THIRD:—Increased and closer competition amongst traders and dealers.

TEAS are popularly known as Green, Black and Japan, and of each of these there are a number of grades and varieties. Thousands of pounds are annually adulterated and sold in this country.

For description of grade, modes of adulteration, and tests for detection, see "ads" to follow.

Meantime we offer JAPAN TEA at 40c. per pound. NONE BETTER. TRY IT!

DAIRYMEN'S CONVENTION.

Instruction for Butter and Cheese Makers.

Addresses by Messrs. J. B. Harris and Hon. Harris Lewis, of New York.

The convention of Dairymen, announced in the EXAMINER last week, was held on Tuesday afternoon and evening in Bradburn's Hall. The attendance was not as large as it ought to have been, considering the importance of the interests concerned, and the practical value of the information afforded, the result of the practical experience of these veteran and successful Dairymen.

The President of the Local Dairymen's Association, Jas. Elliott, Esq., one of our most successful and progressive farmers, occupied the chair, and in opening the meeting said he regretted that the attendance was not larger, though he was glad the ice was broken. If the farmers were to manifest the interest which they ought for their own sake, we should have had the hall filled; but everything had to have a beginning, and future Conventions would be hoped be more liberally attended. He then introduced Mr. J. B. Harris, of Antwerp, N.Y., who he said was a Dairyman of great experience, and who had been employed during the last year by the Eastern Dairymen's Association in instructing the cheese-makers of that district.

Mr. Harris said he had not come among them as a dictator, assuming to know everything, but to give them a few ideas upon Dairy farming gathered from practical experience, and if he could contribute any mite of knowledge to the store already possessed by the audience he should be fully rewarded. He proposed to refer to the tenacity of milk, as to its peculiar retention of bad odors, fetid air, and poisonous gases. There was no food supplied to man that could take the place of pure milk. It was designed by nature and was perfect, healthful and agreeable to the taste. It contains every element required in food to sustain life, to supply every waste of the system, and to contribute to every portion of the human frame. He explained the constituent elements of milk—water, casine, sugar of milk, butter, syrup of milk, and saline, and the chemical elements entering into each. The butter globules were not united with the milk, and their specific gravity being lighter than other elements, they made their way to the surface and formed cream. He explained the chemical changes in the condition of milk, and the manner in which it was affected by changes of temperature. Milk was peculiarly susceptible to any sort of taint in the atmosphere which was offensive to the human nostril, and neither good butter, nor good cheese could be made from impure or poisoned milk. He mentioned several cases where milk from houses infected by typhoid fever, had carried the infection into every house supplied by the dealer. Milk was easily charged with poisonous atoms from any cause, either in the air with which it came into contact or from sickly or diseased cows. Farmers should be careful therefore both as a duty to the public and as a matter of economy, to weed out weak or sickly cows and not to draw milk with hands not first washed with soap and water, teats being washed with their own milk. It was impossible to advance further into the making of fine cheese, until there was an improvement in the raw material. The cheese manufacturers can't take out the impure substance and odor. The farmers should co-operate with the makers. To secure improvement they must strike at the fountain head, the care of the milk at the farm, for reform. Some are too niggardly to supply the cows with generous food. They beat and dog them to and from the fields, and allow them to slake their thirst from impure pools. The cows then get into a feverish condition, in one case, and poison germs are introduced in the other. These things should be overcome, and the danger and wastefulness of such conduct should be kept before the farmers till a reform was obtained. There was a law against the adulteration of food, but no law to reach the case of a man who allowed tainted milk to go to the factories. He would rather a farmer should add a quart of water to every canful than to allow a single one to be tainted. A single particle of foul matter would taint 600 gallons. He would suggest that factories require from patrons a statement as to whether their cows were watered in sweet wells or in swamps; whether they were milked with clean hands from clean teats; whether they allowed their hands to beat, kick or dog cows; if they used clean vessels, cleansed thoroughly with scalding water at each using; whether they fenced round stagnant pools, and buried carrion in the pastures. He quoted from medical investigations to show that the absorbent qualities of milk had not been exaggerated. The air even of the best regulated stables is to some extent impressed with the odors arising from the consumed air of the animals and the excrements. Ground plaster should be used in the stables to absorb these impurities, and the walls should be whitewashed with lime at least twice a year. The stables should also be disinfected at least twice a year, by burning sulphur. Last year the adjoining States and Canada had exported 170,000,000 lbs. of cheese and 150,000,000 of butter. Within the next ten years we should be shipping $150,000 a day, from the results of the dairies. It could no longer be said that Cotton or Corn was King. We now export annually one-seventh more dairy products than cotton, and one-third more than corn. They would thus see the importance of the proper care of milk, for accordingly as this was bestowed, the value in dollars and cents of the product was diminished or increased. To make fine, fancy cheese, or good butter, they must have pure milk well-cared for. They could not get pure milk unless care was taken in the respects he had pointed out. They must have good healthy cows, and they must be protected, as well as the milk after it is drawn, from contact with deleterious substances. If your cow has even a diseased udder, he would say, throw the milk of that cow into the swill-barrel, and don't poison your own and your neighbor's milk by sending it to the factory.

Mr. Ashley, Secretary of the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association, being cacllled upon, spoke of the great importance of the farming interest in this country, and deprecated the lack of interest which the farmers exhibited in asserting that importance. Referring to the labors of Mr. Harris as instructor, he said his factories, working under his instructions, received the highest price of any cheese made in that part of the country. He believed that if the farmers would work closer to the rules of the cheese factories, in regard to the care of their milk, they could easily raise the price of milk by a cent and a half a pound. The Ingersoll cheese makers last year got a cent higher than any other, and this was due to the instructions of Prof. Arnold, in inducing the farmers to adopt a higher standard. Another important thing was improving the kind of cattle kept for the dairy. 3,000 lbs. of milk per annum per cow was adopted as a standard, but by care in breeding and feeding two or three standards could be secured per cow. He would advise the selection of the best milkers for breeding, and then breeding up from thoroughbreds.

Hon. Harris Lewis, of Frankfort, N.Y., endorsed all that had been advanced by Mr. Harris, as to the great importance of insisting on pure milk, and the susceptibility of milk to impression by impure odors, illustrating this by enumerating experiments which he had made with milk cared for in various ways. Milk properly aerated and kept in a cool place was as sweet twelve hours after as when drawn from the cow; the same quantity in a can exposed to the sun had gone to the deuce in eight hours; while a third quantity exposed to the fumes of decaying matter had gone all wrong in thirty minutes. They could see by this how much was lost and how much gained by more or less care in the keeping of milk. Some farmers, he said, retained the strippings and some took the cream off the can before going to the factory; and some committed the double robbery. It was the same thing to the factory whether the patron retained the strippings or used the skimmer. He described the lactometer and its use, an instrument by means of which the factory men could test the purity of milk with certainty, and urged its use.

Mr. Harris then gave some results of his inspections of various factories, showing the causes, of various natures, why their product was not successful in the market. He also gave the following directions to cheese makers, which will be found valuable to our farmers and dairymen: To soak rennet properly—Use water in stone or earthen jars; 1st soaking, use 1 lb. salt to each gallon of water; allow the rennet to remain in this two or three days, rubbing thoroughly two or three times a day. Strain this liquor into another jar to get out all the animal fibre, salt with all the salt it will dissolve and keep in a cool dark place. To get out all the strength put the same rennet into another brine. Thus you secure a uniform article, a quart of which will coagulate a whole vat of milk, and no trouble in keeping. Making cheese. If milk is perfectly sweet, heat to 90° Fahr. but if a little old and well-matured, 82° to 85° is high enough. When the temperature is reached, shut off steam and stir five minutes, so that the heat is evenly applied and the whole mass one temperature. Then add the rennet. If in spring months, and cheese required to cure in 15 to 20 days or less, use sufficient rennet to coagulate in 8 to 12 minutes. Milk well matured will coagulate with less rennet than when sweet, but this should make no difference with the quantity used, as the curing of the cheese is the object. Alway time the process of setting and stir five minutes so as to thoroughly incorporate the rennet with the milk. In curing the curd, twice and one half the time occupied in coagulation is a good rule. If 20 minutes is consumed in coagulation then 50 minutes from the adding of the rennet is the time to cut the curd. If later in the season and you expect to hold your cheese longer, reduce the amount of rennet so that 20 or 30 minutes will be occupied in coagulation. This is important, as rennet and salt control the keeping of the cheese. In cutting the curd care should be taken not to bruise it. Cut lengthwise, then across with perpendicular knife, then, with horizontal knife, cutting carefully into cubes; avoid slashing. After cutting allow the mass to stand a few minutes that the whey may separate, then with the hands gently raise from the bottom, taking care as you raise to cut with the perpendicular knife such masses as have escaped the former cutting. If good milk do not cut too fine—a small bean is a good guide. Now turn on the steam, gradually at first, as the curd is soft and will not endure harsh usage by too much stirring. As the curd hardens increase the steam, but on no account heat faster than you can keep the mass from matting by ordinary agitation. Scald to 96° or 98° and then shut off the steam, and stir two minutes to allow the steam to cool off and obtain uniform temperature. As soon as the curd is cooked draw off the whey—it is of no further use and often contains some disturbing element, and the texture and flavor of the curd is improved by exposure to the atmosphere. Now dump the vat and divide the curd on each side to drain; then break up by hand as fine as possible to allow the whey to escape. If curd is gassy, the more it is exposed, keeping temperature at about 85°, the better. It is now ready for grinding preparatory for salting. The grinding should be thorough, no large pieces to be left in the curd to stop the work of the salt in checking acidification. Do not bruise the curd, but cut, using a knife, as bruising starts the white whey and robs the cheese. The curd is now ready for the salt, but if gassy must be stirred till the gas leaves it, and if a floater, should have a second cutting. Salt thoroughly, as this gives cheese its meaty character—2½ to 3lbs, are not too much. Stir thoroughly and let it stand 10 or 15 minutes before hooping. By haste the salt is pressed out before it has accomplished its purpose, and the cheese is "slack," lacks meat, flavour, etc. In hooping, hoop as rapidly as possible, never allowing a full hoop to stand exposed, as it occasions defective rind. In pressing proceed gradually till the whey is nearly all out, and then put on all the power you have, that there may be little or no whey after bandaging. Bandaging. If the curd is cold when put to press, remove the hoop when adjusting the bandage and rinse the whey out of the cap cloths in cool water; then dip them in scalding water, and place again on the cheese as soon as possible to secure a tough hard rind. This done put on all the pressure possible. The cheese should be turned the next morning after going to to press, to see that the bandage is properly adjusted, and to remedy defects in form. If the gang press is used this is not necessary. Never put a cheese in the curing room till it is perfect in form. The curing room should be perfectly free from bad odors, well ventilated, clean, not too dry, and maintained at a temperature of from 70° to 75° Fahr. Every thing about the factory should be scrupulously clean, vats in hot weather scoured with salt two or three times a week and than scalded. Every utensil when used should be scalded before being laid away. The floor should be frequently washed with soap, and rinsed and scalded. By diligent attention to these rules success is attained, and general success in a county or district, will be speedily followed by the highest prices.

A second session was held in the evening. The able address of Hon. Harris Lewis, on "The Cow," will appear in next week's issue, also "the Ten Commandments," given by Mr. J. B. Harris, as well as instructions for curing rennet.

At the close, on motion of Mr. Dumble, a vote of thanks was extended to the lecturers, and suitably acknowledged.

A vote of thanks was also given to Mr. Thos. Bradburn for his kindness in affording the use of his hall to the Association, free of charge, and the meeting adjourned.

Great Fire at Cobourg.

Extensive Destruction of Property—Narrow Escape from a Horrible Death.

COBOURG Feb. 27.—The most destructive fire that has occured here for a number of years broke out in F. Graham's boot and shoe store in Smith's block this morning about three o'clock, and totally destroyed the large four-story building. Thence the fire spread to Hetchin's block, which was also burnt to the ground. Smith's building was occupied by the following parties:—W. R. Whitelaw, tinsmith; Alex. Pratt, flour and feed store; E. Sailsbury & Co., groceries, etc.; the Canadian express office; S. S. Howell, insurance agent; T. Graham, boot and shoe store. There were two vacant stores. A portion of the upper flats was occupied by Hon. S. Smith as an office, and G. Alexander as a dwelling. Hitchin's buildings was occupied by Grieve and Jamieson, tinsmiths, and the post-office. The heat was so great, fanned by the easterly wind, that the buildings on the west side of Division street, owned by P. McCallum, soon caught fire, and it was only by the most strenuous efforts of the firemen that it was saved after being badly damaged.

A SECOND ALARM.

After three hours' hard work the firemen returned home, only to be called out again to battle with the flames. This time the alarm was sounded for a fire which was discovered in the cellar of L. Woodcock's grocery store, and it was with great difficulty got under control, but not before the store was completely gutted, and damage done to the stocks of York's barber shop, Sailsbury & Humphries' book and stationery store, Graham & Bro.'s dry goods store, and the Sentinel-Star Printing and Publishing Company's office. The building was damaged to the extent of about $1,000. The fire in Woodcock's store is supposed to have originated from a spark being blown in through an open window.

AN ACCIDENT.

Mr. C. C. Field had a most miraculous escape from a horrible death. He fell through a half-burnt staircase into the cellar in Woodcock's premises, a portion of the staircase falling with him, placing him in a position in which escape without assistance was impossible. Those who saw him falling immediately proceeded to the cellar, and in order to rescue him had to cut their way through a partition, and found he was insensible, his left arm broken near the shoulder, and severely cut about the head. At present he is not considered in a critical condition.

PETERBOROUGH, MARCH 3, 1881.

The Grain Duty Swindle.

Last week we published two letters, which had been addressed to the Review by a prominent Conservative, showing the utterly bogus and fraudulent character of the so-called "protection" to grain. Our esteemed contemporary, after a feeble attempt to mislead the public from the swindle being exposed by "X," gave up the struggle completely, being entirely unable to cope with the stern logic of facts; and yet we shall not at all be surprised to find it a week hence repeating with all imaginable assurance, the old, exploded fable about the benefits derived by the farmer from the grain duty. Had the interesting little controversy in question been between the Review and the Examiner or a political opponent, we would have our highly esteemed and truly good neighbor retiring from the scene of his confusion covering his retreat with a cloud of vituperation and abuse; but as "X" appears to be a gentleman with whom it does not deem it either prudent or advisable to quarrel, the Review simply "drops it." In a letter in another column "X," while avowing his fidelity to the principle that a duty on grain honestly carried out would be a great benefit to the farmer by enhancing the price of grain, repeats with even more distinctness his charges of fraudulent conduct on the part of the Government. The merits of the question of protection to Ontario grain, we will not enter upon here—it is foreign to the topic under discussion—further than to again confront the Review with its opinion on the subject a few years ago when it said: "*But to us the greatest absurdity in the scheme of the Protectionists is that of the proposed protection of the Farmer. * * * Does any sane man believe that the imposition of 25 or 30 cents per barrel on flour will put a single penny into any Farmer's pocket?*" Reverting the letter of our mutual correspondent, it will be observed that distinct charges of fraudulent administration are made against the Government by its friend and victim. "X" challenges contradiction to the statement that "notwithstanding the late Order-in-Council "American spring wheat is imported "largely into this country, ground, and "the flour sold and consumed in this country, without paying the duty." This is a serious charge against the Government. Will the Review, knowing the gentleman who makes it, venture to dispute that it is true? We know as a fact that owing to these "frauds in connection with grinding in bond" our millers are unable to manufacture, their operations being almost entirely confined to the local demand. Our cooperages have, as a consequence, been closed up and a profitable industry, one of the most important in the town, has been destroyed. Why? Because of frauds on the part of the Government, alleged and proved, not by us, but by its own friends. We are informed on the best authority that such a case as this has occurred: That a Montreal merchant imported a large quantity of grain from the States in bond. This grain was ground into flour and sold in the country. The merchant learning that a friend was shipping a cargo of grain to England asked and received permission to ship it in his (the merchant's) name, the shipment, of course, being consigned to the owner, and never actually changing ownership. By this strategy the merchant raised his bond, and the grain imported to enter into competition with the grain of our own farmers', never paid a cent of duty. This is the kind of "protection" the farmers have received from the precious patent tariff policy. "X" alleges, and we have no doubt believes, that "a duty on wheat, if honestly and fairly enforced, would enhance the price of these commodities and would be of great benefit to the Province of Ontario." The Government are thus convicted of a two-fold wrong. First they rob the farmers of the benefits they promised them from a duty on wheat; and secondly they are guilty of dishonestly administering their own laws. The Review claims that the duty on grain has actually benefitted the farmers. We allege the contrary, and in addition to the testimony of a friendly witness as to the robbery of the farmer by fraud winked at by the Government, we will put Sir Samuel Tilley on the stand. In his budget speech, that ornament to his sex said:—"I have arrived at "the estimate that flour is increased to "the consumer in Canada but ten cents per barrel." Now, as probably Sir Samuel does not know, a barrel of flour represents four and a half bushels of wheat, so that the whole of the boasted increase, which the Finance Minister's local organ-grinder boasts so loudly as a great boon to the farmers, is, according to Sir Samuel Tilley, at the outside, only the barest fraction over two cents a bushel. The Trade and Navigation returns show beyond all dispute the utterly bogus character of the spurious "duty" on wheat. The total imports of wheat in Ontario in the fiscal year 1879-80 was 447,266 bushels, valued at $456,769 or nearly half a million dollars. But of these 447,266 bushels of grain imported, the quantity "entered for home consumption" was only 4,552, entered at and paying duty on a value of $2,914, or only some 62 cents a bushel. "Does any sane man believe," to borrow a pet phrase from our highly esteemed and truly good contemporary, that the importation of $2,914 worth of wheat into this Province, paying a duty of only $682, had any appreciable effect, or any effect whatever, upon the ruling price of grain among us? As a matter of fact there was, shown by the report, a balance of 442,714 bushels of wheat, which, being entered in bond, and thrown on the market in competion with Canadian grain, evaded the duty, and kept down the price of our own products. Foreigners can compete with our farmer in his own market, by the connivance of the Government, under a system which makes the duty a farce. The Government secured their point when they gained the Treasury benches. They are obliged in order to maintain the revenue required by their extravagance to rigidly enforce the tariff for the benefit of the monopolists, on all goods consumed by the farmer; but when it comes to the farmer's case he may take his chances. The farmer cannot evade the taxes upon his clothes, his light, his implements or his books; but a Government with an easy conscience can easily allow a duty which was never intended to be real, remain practically a dead letter. We would like to be favored with the opinion of the Review whether or not it really believes, with the information which we know has been placed in its possession, that the duty on grain is honestly and firmly carried out. If it has been honestly administered, then the figures given by the Trade and Navigation reports, show it to have been an utter failure both as a contributor to the revenue, and as a protection to the farmer. If it has not been honestly and firmly, but fradulently and dishonestly, applied, then what is our highly esteemed and truly good friend's opinion of the men who first befooled the farmers with loud promises, and now won't even take the trouble to carry out the laws to benefit them? Our contem. can sit on which-ever horn of the dilemma it may consider the most comfortable.

Market Fees and Tolls.

The Bill respecting Market Fees and Tolls has been introduced in the Ontario Assembly by Hon. Mr. Wood, and will be referred to a special committee representing both the urban and rural constituencies, when doubtless it will undergo some slight modification. The Bill provides as follows:

1. No municipal Council shall have power to compel persons selling farm produce of any description, or other articles within the municipality, to offer their produce for sale at any market established within the municipality, or to otherwise restrict the place or places at which sales may be made, so long as market fees are charged for the use of the established market or markets, but market fees may be imposed as heretofore on all persons actually using any such market for the purpose of selling farm produce and other articles thereat.
2. The Council of any municipality having an established market which does not impose market fees on persons resorting to and using the market may as heretofore regulate the place and manner of selling farm produce of any description, and all other articles, and may prohibit the sale before —— o'clock in the forenoon of such produce and other articles elsewhere than at the established market.
3. Nothing herein contained shall prevent any municipal Council imposing fees or regulating, as heretofore, the sale within the municipality of farm produce of every description and other articles if and so long as tolls are levied and collected by or under the authority of any county or township council on the roads of any county or counties adjacent to such municipality for a distance of —— miles therefrom.

Hon. Mr. Wood, in introducing the measure, gave the following explanation:

"He desired to give a few reasons why the the Government had decided to bring in such a measure. The cities, towns, and villages claimed that, while they erected market buildings, and maintained markets in the interest of citizens the seller derived an equal benefit with the buyer, and that, taking into consideration the expense of maintenance, it was but fair that the seller should pay a small fee. He submitted and he thought the House and country would admit that it could not be acknowledged for one moment that the right should be given of taxing the produce of the farm for merely the right to sell (hear, hear)—and the right of charging fees would have to be placed upon some other ground. He would instance the case of the city of Guelph, because it represented in size, and more than represented in market accommodation, many towns and cities. The receipts there for market fees last year had been $3,830, and the salaries paid on account of market fees $570. In Guelph's petition for abolishing market fees it was stated that they had expended for market buildings and purposes $150,000. He did not charge Guelph with wilfully misleading the House, but he thought that he was within the mark in saying that a very small proportion of that amount was expended for the benefit of the farmer or seller. Coming to the metropolitan city of Toronto, where of all places they might expect the best accommodation, the Toronto corporation states that they have expended for market buildings the sum of $230,000. When that expenditure was put in as a plea it was natural to think that ample accommodation would be furnished. What was the fact, however? The St. Lawrence Market afford accommodation for public halls and for butchers, and merely gave the farmers the right to back up their waggons in the neighbourhood of that building. In that state of affairs it was no wonder that the farmers have applied for some provision in that respect. The wonder was that they had remained quiet so long. His remarks applied also to many other cities, in each of which it would be found that provision has been made for the comfort of the citizen, while the farmer and his children were exposed to the summer sun and the winter storm. An amount varying from $70,000 to $100,000 has been paid for the right to back up a waggon in the neighborhood of some buildings. No wonder the farmers had arisen in their might and demanded what might be called justice and fair play. On behalf of the farmer and seller it was claimed that if corporations had the right to establish markets that the farmer should be allowed to judge whether he would have sufficient accommodation afforded to justify him in going to the market place. That matter should be optional with the seller. It was an arbitrary action on the part of cities and towns to erect buildings without consulting the farmer as to the proper amount of accommodation, and then say to the farmer, "You shall sell your hay here, your cord wood there, and your commodities some other where, and you shall stay on the market for a certain time, and before dealing with us at all you shall pay a tax to us for doing so." The Government's proposition was that the cities and towns may establish markets and market fees; that if they establish those fees it shall be optional with the farmer or seller whether they shall attend those markets or not; that if free then to compel the farmer to attend the market for a reasonable time before offering his goods elsewhere."

It will be seen by the second clause of the proposed Act, that towns will be able to maintain all the advantages of a central market system, providing they grant exemption from tolls, and this, we believe, will be found to be quite as much in the interests of towns as of farmers, for reasons which we have before urged. There does not appear to be anything in the bill which would prevent the towns passing regulations for control of the market in an orderly and systematic manner, or from charging fees for weighing, which the farmers would not certainly object to. It would be well, however, that the powers of towns in this respect should be defined in the Act. As for the the question of compensation which has been raised, we do not see that any claim has been established upon the Government. Markets are established as much for the benefit and convenience of buyers as of sellers, and we fancy most cases will be similar to our own. Our market building is entirely occupied by butchers, who pay rents for the use of the same, and is of no avail to the farmers. There are no other improvements for which the town could ask to be compensated. They own the market square, a property of great value, of which they are free to dispose at any moment. Farmers have no vested or legal right in any of this property, and if the town chose to commit an act of such supreme folly as to close it up to-morrow, they would have nothing to say about it. It seems to us, therefore, that there can be no question of compensation at all. One point, however, remains to be settled in the Committee, and that is the date at which the Act shall be given effect. The existing contracts under towns ought not to be interfered with, and if they are, by the limitation of time concerning the date at which the Act goes into force, then there would be a fair question of compensation for the loss which would be sustained by a town under any existing contract or lease of tolls.

The Murray Canal.

We reprint from the Belleville Intelligencer a rather broadly suggestive article upon the Murray Canal. It is of course understood that an election will be held in East Northumberland, so soon as the Government muster the courage to issue the writ for holding the same. With rather suspicious celerity after the death of Mr. Keeler, which opened the constituency in which the canal is situated, the Government granted, what they had persistently refused to Mr. Keeler, an appropriation for construction of the Murray Canal amounting to $25,000. But it subsequently appeared that this bait for the unophisticated electorate of the riding; was not swallowed with the alacrity to afford the Government assurance that it would have the desired effect. So we see now a Government organ, occupying peculiarly close and personal relations with the Government, gravely suggesting that the local interests surrounding the canal should petition the Government to have the grant of $25,000 increased to $100,000, and intimating, with an assurance that is intended to leave no doubt on the minds of its readers, that such a request would probably be met by the necessary amount being placed in the estimates. It is a clear case of a bribe offered to the electors of the East Riding of Northumberland, whom we advise by all means to get the $100,000 if they can and to show their appreciation of and their contempt for the insult offered to their intelligence, by placing on record at the polls their condemnation of the general policy of the Government, and their detestation, especially, of the infamous bargain which has just been forced through Parliament, by means of which substantially the whole North-West, and to a large extent the future of the country, have been sacrificed to a gigantic foreign monopoly.

THE EFFECT of the legislation of the present Government in regard to the oil trade is demonstrated to the people in the Ottawa district, at all events. There the price of average oil is 40c. per gallon; at Ogdensburg, fifty miles from the Dominion capital, the cost is only 15c. a gallon!

On Thursday last while Mr. W. In turning from the middle of the road to the side where the sleighing was better the cutter upset throwing them both out and injuring them, Mr. Mutton severely, he striking his head on a stone, cutting it badly. He was taken into the toll-gate, and Dr. Waters passing at the time, was summoned to attend to his injuries. He is now progressing favorably.

At the Rylatone Presbyterian tea meeting, last Wednesday night, Mrs. Beattie, wife of the Rev. D. Beattie, who resides near this village, lost a pocket-book containing $50 and some papers. As the crowd were passing out of the church, some one stepped upon Mrs. Beattie's dress and tore it, and her pocket-book, which was fastened to her dress, either fell out or was picked from her pocket. Search was made immediately for the missing money, but in vain. The day following a boy picked up the pocket-book from the road, near Mr. J. C. Clough's, about two miles distant, and took it to that gentleman's residence, but it was emptied of its contents. Rev. Mr. Beattie was summoned, and his claim to the lost article was fully proved by the papers contained in it. To escape detection it is supposed the thief took the money and carried the pocket-book away and threw it on the road where it was found. We hope the rev. gentleman may be successful yet in discovering the thief.—Campbellford Herald.

The Grand Lodge brought its deliberations to a close last night. Before closing several important resolutions were passed, amongst which was one of sympathy with their brethren in Ireland, who are being subject to persecution at the hands of the Land League, and expressing their admiration of the Ulster men who went to Loughmask to assist Captain Boycott in gathering in his crops. Another resolution was passed reaffirming a resolution passed by the Grand Lodge some years ago, disapproving of the holding of balls or assemblies under the auspices of Orange lodges. RELIGIOUS OUTRAGE AT HULL.

Rev. Mr. Syvret wrote to the Citizen last week in re the Hull sensation, that Miss Guerrett is not a little Sunday school child, and she is in her right mind. She is over 21 years of age She was confined in Mr. Souch's house for ten days against her will. She was struck by him repeatedly for protesting against her former faith. She was deprived of her New Testament by Rev. Mr. Gladu, who deliberately burned it in her presence. Her own brother made her leave Mr. Souch's house because she was ill-treated there. She came to Rev. Mr. Syvret's place from her brother's, because plans were being made to put her in a convent against her will. Miss Guerrett publicly abjured Romanism on the 19th inst., and was baptised in the faith of the Gospel of the Lord Jesus at a public meeting. On Sunday efforts were made by Mr. and Mrs. Souch to have her go back to their home. She persistently refused, because she did not believe in their assumed air of kindness and sorrow, even when they told her that a telegram announced her mother's death. On Sunday evening, when, in company with our Sunday school teachers and scholars on the way to the Dominion Church she was forcibly, roughly, violently and publicly dragged through the streets of Hull towards her brother-in-law's house. The leading parties who so brutally handled that young woman are well-known to us. They struck some of our men and women who tried to defend Miss Guerett. She was liberated on Sunday evening only after they had begun to realize the critical position in which they placed themselves in obstructing the highway and committing an assault on those who protected a defenceless and homeless young woman. Mr. Souch consented to let her go free only after making her promise she would not have him prosecuted for what he had been doing that afternoon.

Gilbert Laird, St. Margaret's Hope, Orkney, Scotland, writes:—"I am requested by several friends to order another parcel of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. The last lot I got from you having been tested in several cases of Rheumatism, has given relief when doctor's medicines have failed to have any effect. The excellent qualities of this medicine should be made known, that the millions of sufferers throughout the world may benefit by its providential discovery."

THE MURRAY CANAL.

(From the Belleville Intelligencer.)

It is a question worthy of consideration, not only by those interested in the iron mines, but by the municipalities interested in the construction of this Canal, whether it would not be good policy to send a strong deputation to Ottawa, and urge upon the Government to increase the appropriation for the Murray Canal to $100,000 or $150,000. If the Bethlehem iron men who are said to have purchased large interests in Madoc intend to have an output of from 200,000 to 400,000 tons of ore during the coming season, it is important that increased facilities should be afforded for getting this ore to market. Let these facts be known to the Government, and let it be shown to the Government that the mining interests as well as the public interest require a larger appropriation so that the canal may be completed within a couple of years, and we believe the Government would add a sufficient sum in the Supplementary Estimates to secure this desired object. The suggestion is well worthy the attention of our city authorities and of all others interested in the construction of this canal.

MR. BLEZARD ON THE ORANGE BILLS.

The Globe reports the member for East Peterboro as follows:

Mr. Blezard said that as an Orangeman of twenty years' standing, he could not give a silent vote on this question. If he had been a member of this Legislature when the Orange Bills were first brought forward, he would certainly have given them a hearty support, but since that time he had looked carefully into the question and watched the course pursued by the Conservative Orangemen, and had come to the conclusion that these Orangemen were not consistent in their advocacy of the Bills. He believed that if there was a change of Government and the Conservative party in power, they would hear no more of Orange incorporation. He believed the Orange Bills were used by the Conservative party for political purposes, and that the majority of them preferred the advancement of their party to that of the Orange Association. During the general elections of 1875 in the riding he represented the contest was between Mr. Stratton, an Orangeman, and Dr. O'Sullivan, a Roman Catholic. Mr. Stratton refused to give any pledge as to the course he would pursue on the Orange Bills, and Dr. O'Sullivan pledged himself to the Grand Secretary to support the Bills, and upon the strength of that promise secured the support of a large portion of the Orangemen; but when the Bills were brought forward the doctor opposed them. The Orangemen were strong in denouncing him for deceiving them, but when the time came round for another election they forgot all their loud talk, and at a couvention, composed of half or two-thirds Orangemen, at which the County Master, District Master, and several other prominent Orangemen were present, Dr. O'Sullivan received the unanimous nomination. When the member for West Peterboro first came here and the Orange bills came up, his friends saw he was in close quarters, and the Secretary of the Liberal Conservative Association, who was also a prominent Orangeman, telegraphed to him that the Orangemen were unanimous against the bills. At the last meeting of the Grand Lodge held in this city a committee reported in favor of asking the Dominion Government for an act of incorporation, but that clause was struck out on a motion by the County Master of the riding he represented. These points were sufficient to convince him that the Conservative Orangemen of Peterborough only wished to embarrass the Reform Government. In the report of the Grand Lodge of Ontario East of 1868-69 resolutions were passed instructing the Grand officers to draft a bill and apply for incorporation, but at that time, and for too or three years after, the Conservative Government was in power, and no action was taken. But as soon as a Liberal Government came into power the Orange Association could not exist without an Act of Incorporation, and resolutions had been passed at nearly every meeting since condemning the Reform Government for not passing the bills, and accusing the Government of being dictated to by the Church of Rome. But not a word had been said against the Conservative Government for not passing the Bill after having been nearly twenty years in office. But had the officers of Ontario East been consistent in their advocacy of the Bills for the past few years? He thought not, or they would have carried out the instruction given by the Grand Lodge. In 1879 the Grand Lodge instructed them to ask for incorporation at the last session of the Legislature, but they failed to carry out the instructions; and now, without receiving any instructions from the Lodge, the officers had brought forward the Bills although every reason given in the apology of the Grand Master exists to-day the same as a year ago. So high-handed had the Conservative Orangemen acted in the Grand Lodge that he had ceased attending the Grand Lodge meetings, and he believed that the Reform Orangemen were not doing their duty in aiding in such scheming. Besides, he did not believe in class legislation, and if the general Act was sufficient for other associations, he could not see why it would not answer the Orange Association. For these reasons he would vote against the Bills.

All beds seem hard to the rheumatic. Then hearken ye peevish sufferers! Apply Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil to your aching joints and muscles. Rely on it that you will experience speedy relief. Such, at least, is the testimony of those who have used it. The remedy is likewise successfully resorted to for throat and lung diseases, sprains, bruises, etc.

THE refusal of the Dominion Government to encourage the construction of the Sault Ste. Marie railway has led to a proposal to change the route of the Ontario Pacific Junction. Instead of taking it to Nipissing to meet the Canada Pacific and Canada Central, the new scheme is to run from Gravenhurst to Sault Ste. Marie by a short cut across French River, not far from Georgian Bay. Mr. Lyon, of Algoma, has the matter in hand.

PETERBOROUGH, MARCH 3, 1881.

"In Accordance with their Request."

The Globe last week treated its readers to an editorial on the Trent Valley Canal, referring to the meagreness of the vote for the survey placed in the estimates and intimating that the Minister of Railways was simply "amusing the Trent Valley District." The article in question went on to say that the existing works on the Trent "consist partly of dams "which flood nearly 40,000 acres of land, "part of which was never patented by "the Crown, while part of it was re-"purchased by the Government at a val-"uation from individual owners. The "land now lies useless, and for all prac-"tical purposes valueless. By removing "the dams and dredging the stream the "present degree of navigability can easily "be preserved, while the land can be re-"claimed for agricultural purposes. We cannot but suspect that there must have been a new hand at the bellows of our Toronto contemporary, as but a short time previously the Globe had editorially treated the Trent Canal with very favourable consideration, while this excerpt exhibits a lamentable ignorance of the facts of the case. If the writer will take the trouble to refer back to the report in the Globe of an examination of the route last summer by a deputation from Montreal he will there find that the works on the Trent open up one of the finest inland water ways in America, and a means of communication, when supplemented by the additional works proposed, between the Georgian Bay and Bay Quinte, or more properly speaking between Chicago, Duluth and Fort William, and Montreal, that must become a formidable competitor of the Erie Canal, inasmuch as it will undoubtedly afford the shortest, cheapest, safest, and most expeditious channel of commerce from the great West to the seaboard. The statement that the dams drown 40,000 acres of land is ridiculous. The total acreage of land drowned or injured by those works is, by accurate survey, a trifle over 4,000 acres, including the patented lands acquired by the Government from the owners, clergy reserves, and crown lands, and much of this was reported by the engineers as never having been fit for cultivation. The idea of "dredging" the solid rock bottom of the Trent makes one smile. We refer to the matter, however, not to repeat what every one knows, except apparently the writer of the above extract, but to point out the unwisdom of the course pursued by the advocates of the Trent Valley enterprise at their last meeting here, in memorializing the government. We advised them at the time, to make a demand on the government for procedure with the actual construction of the works, but the resolution passed and forwarded to the government was carefully framed so as not to bring pressure on the government, but to make the way easy for them to temporize with the matter. Now when the Globe taunts the promoters of the scheme with the smallness of the grant for "surveys" of the oft-surveyed field, the organ of the Government most interested, the Belleville Intelligencer takes up this very resolution as the defence of the government. The Intelligencer says:—"What are facts? Those most in-"terested in this canal met and passed "resolutions asking the Government to make "additional survey, in order, with the aid "of surveys and plans now in the depart-"ment, to enable them to estimate more cor-"rectly the cost of the work. This the "Government proposed to do: and their "action will, we are confident, satisfy "those who are more interested in the "work than the Globe. * * * The "estimates for the year show appropria-"tions of $25,000 towards the construc-"tion of the Murray Canal; $6,000 to-"wards surveys of the Trent canal route, "in accordance with the request of the pro-"moters of the scheme." Thus we are informed by the Government that the promoters, having asked little, received little, while the Murray Canal people, wiser in their generation, acting in earnest and showing the Government that they insisted on their scheme being taken up, received a grant of $25,000 for the less important work, against $6,000 for a project properly considered as of national importance. The fact is that the Trent district has the misfortune to be represented by Conservatives who think more of their party than of their country, and who, to confer the greatest benefits on their constituents, refused to take a firm and independent stand, for fear of embarrassing the Government. Had Messrs. McCarthy, Little, Cookburn, Strange, Cameron, Hilliard, Burnham, Keeler and McCuaig made it a question of their position in the House, that the Government must pledge themselves to the early construction of this important enterprise, they would beyond doubt have succeeded. But acting as mere political automatons, they are content with a "sop to Cerberus" in the shape of a trifling appropriation, which is simply, so far as we can see, to relieve the Government from importunity for another year. Not long since, Mr. Hector Cameron, whose position in the matter throughout has been one of "masterly inactivity," goaded into an expression of his views by a very vigorous evidence of dissatisfaction on the part of his constituents, published a letter in which he stated that the Minister of Railways had promised him, in answer to a question which he proposed to put in the House, to make a formal declaration, on behalf of the Government, that the appropriation for surveys would be with a view to the early commencement of construction. Mr. Cameron has not yet put that question, and the pledge has not yet been given. We trust the member for North Victoria will not forget to secure that pledge during the present session of Parliament, and if he does overlook his duty in that respect, it will be in order for Messrs. Burnham or Hilliard to put the question for him, to which, he says, so favorable an answer was promised on behalf of the Government. It is a curious fact, that though the district locally interested in the project is represented in Parliament by ten members supporting the Government, all that has so far been accomplished has been the result of the activity and zeal of private individuals, such as Mayor Smith, Warden Sanderson, Messrs. Carnegie, Dumble, Logan, and others promoting the scheme.

The Grain Duty.

In connection with the wheat duty, so called, to which we refer at length in another column, we understand that the modus operandi of the monopolizing millers, is this:—They import American spring wheat in bond, grind the same, and sell the flour in this country. Fall wheat, bought at low prices in Western Ontario, is ground, and the flour exported, and they are allowed on the strength of this to recover their bonds. The flour exported as representing the American importations, is not the actual product of those importations, as it is expected to be, and would be if the duty and the Order-in-Council were honestly and rigidly carried out. Owing to this unfair discrimination, and the improper advantages given to the large millers on the Welland and at Montreal, our milling interests in Peterborough, and in the interior generally, are paralyzed, the capital invested lies idle, yielding no return, and a vast amount of employment, in milling, coopering, moving and forwarding, withdrawn from the market, manifestly to the public loss and injury. These interests demand from the Government that when American grain is brought into Canada to be ground, in bond, that is free of duty, the actual product of that grain in flour should be compelled to be exported. These gentlemen urge that if this fraud, by means of which Yankee wheat is brought into this country free of duty, and the flour sold in the country in competition with Canadian produce, were suspended by an honest and rigid enforcement of the law, it would remove all ground for complaint, revive the milling business, and other business dependent upon it, and enable dealers to pay higher prices to Canadian farmers for their produce. The Government should either remove the duty altogether, which as we have shown only contributed last year $682 to the Treasury, and as admitted, does not prohibit the importation of American grain, or else carry out their pledges to the farmers and give them the benefits which they promised as the result of protection, and by means of which they secured the farmers' votes. When the tariff was first brought down Sir John Macdonald, in answer to a question as to whether American wheat would be allowed into Ontario free of duty in times of scarcity, stated that it would; but not till the last bushel of Ontario wheat was sold in the market. Yet last year, with a most bountiful harvest, there were 447,266 bushels of wheat imported from the United States, and placed in unfair competition with Ontario grain, by the evasion of the law for which a remedy is now asked at the hands of the Government.

The Earl of Fife succeeds the Earl of Seafield to the Order of the Thistle.

THIS IS A SPECIMEN brick of the manner in which the Review manipulates other men's language to suit its own purpose. It quotes from a recent statement of Jay Gould as follows:—"The "Canadian Pacific Railway is useless. "It will be a good excursion line for "English tourists and for Canada." What the report said was:—"It will be a good excursion line for English tourists, and Canada statesmen when Parliament adjourns." This is a fair illustration of the force of habit on the part of our contemporary.

THE Review of Tuesday evening contains an impertinent, mendacious, insulting and characteristic letter, from Dr. O'Sullivan, reflecting upon Mr. Blezard, M.P.P. We had thought the doctor had learned sense enough to hide his humiliation as a public man, in the "seclusion which his profession grants;" but it seems otherwise. We shall refer at length to this precious letter next week, and we venture to predict that Dr. O'Sullivan will find reason to regret disgorging his venom upon an honest man, such as the member for East Peterborough.

LA PATRIE SAYS of a recent speech of Hon. Mr. Huntington, his first in this session of Parliament, as he had been compelled to be absent for some weeks through business engagements in California: "Hon. Mr. Huntington eloquently claimed for the Liberal party the place in our history which is its due. He demonstrated that since the epoch of Baldwin and Lafontaine, when they established responsible Government on a stable basis, the Liberal party have achieved all the reforms we have received that have been compatible with our social and political condition. The subject was a grand one, and worthy of a man like the member for Shefford. What an Orator is Mr. Huntington! Since the disappearance of Mr. McGee and Mr. Howe there is no one who has afforded a voice so sympathetic, a delivery so pleasing, or a faculty of expression combining so much ease, with such redundant wealth."

THE TRANSVAAL RISING.

Details of Gen. Colley's Defeat.

London, Feb. 28.—Just when the belligerent Britons were daily expecting news of the wiping out of the Boers, and just when the peace-loving section of Englishmen were hoping that conciliatory negotations would lead to a cessation of hostilities, news comes that the Boers are again victorious, that the British were defeated with great slaughter, and that Gen. Colley has been killed. This intelligence caused great excitement this morning, which is not easily described. It painfully recalls the defeat at Isandula. General Colley was condemned generally, and the utmost horror at the number of lives sacrificed is expressed amid condemnatory ejaculations, expressions of confidence of a future victory, a demand for reinforcements, and editorial screams vindication of the British arms. There is not one sympathizing word, not one just acknowledgment of the bravery of the handful of Dutchmen who have thus vindicated their honour and bravely fought their right to independence and liberty.

All the newspapers say that the credit of the army must be vindicated at any cost. This, too, is the feeling in military circles. All demand that the Boers shall be sacrificed on the altar of British

The cause of the defeat is attributed to General Colley's own imprudence, or to his endeavour to imitate Lord Chelmsford by securing victory to wipe away the disgrace of past mistakes. All agree that the moral effect of the Boer victory will be the chief result, as the Dutch throughout South Africa need but little encouragement to join the forces with the Boers, The Boers themselves are now committed to war to the end.

A despatch in the second edition of the Telegraph says Gen. Colley was shot through the head. The loss of the 16th Foot is supposed to be light, as all the officers escaped. The other regiments suffered heavily. Commander Romilly, of the naval brigade, is said to be dead.

The Times says Gen. Colley's defeat cannot seriously affect the military situation, as the British main body was not involved.

Another account of the fight at Spitzkop says when the ammunition failed the slaughter was fearful. Finally the British made a desperate but unsuccessful rush. The 60th Foot fought their way back to the camp. It is stated that only seven men of the 58th survive. The camp is being fortified at every point.

A consultation regarding the situation in Natal is now being held at War Office. The officials express fears of the general rising of the Boers in South Africa. The situation is considered most alarming. The latest reports from the scene of the trouble says it is believed the correspondent of the London Standard was killed at Laing's Neck. Gen. Roberts will succeed Gen. Colley.

A Mount Prospect despatch says:—The Boers carried the British position at Spitzkop by a rush. A correspondent was taken prisoner, but afterwards released. He says General Colley's body is on the hill. It is clear the loss of the hill was not due to the failure of the ammunition. General Colley over-estimated the strength of his position, and left its most vital part, which the Boers attacked in force, but poorly defended.

CORRESPONDENCE.

[All communications must be accompanied by a bona-fide signature, not necessarily for publication, but as a guarantee of good faith. THOSE LICENSES.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:

SIR,—Allow me through your columns to make a few remarks. At the last meeting of the Town Council misstatements were made by some of those Councilmen who advocated the $160 license. One particularly glaring misstatement was made by Councillor Kelly, who in speaking of licenses charged by our sister towns, said that Port Hope only paid $100. This statement I had my doubts about at the time. I have since taken the trouble to ascertain the correct charge, and find it is $150. Mr. Kelly has the right to advocate his views, whatever they may be; but he has no right to make a bold and incorrect statement, given evidently for the purpose of strengthening a weak argument. The loss of one thousand dollars to our revenue is soup enough to the ratepayers, without any extra refreshments thrown in.

Yours truly,
A WATCHMAN.

Peterborough, Feb. 28th, 1881.

THE GRAIN DUTY.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:

SIR,—With regard to my letters to the Peterborough Review which you were good enough to think worthy of a place in your paper, kindly permit me to say that I am in favor of a duty on wheat imported into this country, so long as the American Government imposes a duty on our agricultural products imported into the United States.

A duty on wheat, and flow if honestly and firmly enforced, would enhance the price of this commodities and be of great benefit to these Province of Ontario, especially in seasons when we have a short crop. If the duty is not enforced it is simply a deception, and it would be better to take it off than countenance fraud. In connection with grinding in bond, the Government should either cancel the duty or cancel the privilege of grinding in bond if millers cannot be compelled to export the flour the actual product of the wheat imported.

A miller wishing to engage in the business of grinding American wheat in bond should be compelled to confine himself to that alone, under the supervision of a government Inspector, in the same way that the malting and brewing houses are conducted.

I will close this communication with the statement, and I challenge contradiction, that notwithstanding the late order in Council American spring wheat is imported largely into this country, ground, and the flour sold and consumed in this country, without paying duty.

"X."

OUR MEMBER'S INFLUENCE.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:

SIR,—Although our local members met with a very partial degree of success, in the matter of the Trent Valley Canal, and have reason to be jealous of the grant of $100,000 for the Murray project, it is gratifying to find that the gentleman who represents the West Riding is not without influence at the seat of Government. It would be strange, indeed, that one who so courageously swallowed the Syndicate dose, with full knowledge that the act was one of political suicide, should not have consideration at the hands of those for whom he betrayed the interests of his country and sacrificed himself. I am glad to know that his claims in this regard are fully recognised, and to have proof of it in a singular act of clemency on the part of the Crown, which is likely to shed lustre upon the Government, upon whose advice so meritorious an action was performed, and upon the member upon whose intercession the Minister of Justice was induced to exercise the quality of mercy. It appears that some days ago a person in town was sentenced by the Police Magistrate to a term of imprisonment of thirty days in the Common Gaol for refusing and neglecting to support his family. Perhaps the Magistrate did wrong in disregarding the prisoner's claims as a privileged person and a consistent Conservative voter, and was unduly influenced by the fact that that made the seventh commitment of the same culprit five times on remands for drunkenness, and once before imprisonment for family neglect. But the vile incarceration of a member of the "party of gentlemen," was duly and properly resented by his brethren of that patriotic political fraternity. The machinery of the party was set in motion in behalf of the injured innocent languishing in durance vile. An angry protest was forwarded through the medium of the party representative at Ottawa, and prompt reparation demanded. With commendable celerity the Minister of Justice laid the matter before his colleagues, and in the shortest possible time, the Gaoler who had the distinguished guest in charge received an order from the Governor-General to release him forthwith, at the end of two weeks of the date of his commitment. It is not meet that so commendable an exploit should go unrecorded. Fiat justitia ruit coelum! Great is the Minister of Justice, and Mr. Hilliard is his prophet! Parties of similar cannibal habits and disposition, in good standing with the party, will understand that the Police Magistrate is not omnipotent, and that their practices are tolerated, approved and protected by the Government at Ottawa.

Yours truly,
OBSERVER.

Peterborough, Feb. 28th, 1881.

We call attention to the advertisement of the Detroit, Machinac and Marquette R. R. Co., relating to lands in Northern Michigan. The company are offering lands at low prices to attract settlements. In this connection we cannot do better than quote the following from the Toronto Weekly Globe of February 18th: Our advice to Canadians is to stay at home, but if they will go to the United States they had better go to Northern Michigan, where they will find flourishing Canadian settlements, good markets, good soil, abundance of wood, well paid work and a climate to which they are accustomed. They will not run the risk of freezing in winter for want of fuel, nor of having their crops destroyed in summer by drouth or insects, as is likely to be the case in Kansas and Dakota. And then it does not cost much to go to Michigan, and if they do not like it they can return home. The Detroit, Mackinac and Marquette R. R. is a link of the great Northern Pacific and on its completion, which is promised this year, the lands will be rapidly settled and their value greatly enhanced.

KEENE.

(From our own Correspondent.)

On the morning of Saturday last while Mr. and Mrs. David Kerr, sen., were driving from Roach's Point to Keene, when near the village the horse shyed at some wood near the road side, and upset the cutter, Mrs. Kerr receiving two or three broken ribs and other injuries of a very serious nature. Up to the present time of writing she lies in a very low condition, but under the care of Dr. Miller, there is a slight improvement as to her recovery. Mr. Kerr escaped with but a slight scratch on one arm. We hope that people may take warning and not leave obstructions of any kind lying upon road sides that will cause accidents which are of frequent occurrence.

Our enterprising blacksmith, Mr. John Baker, is about to remove into his new premises, that he has erected upon the corner of King and Queen streets, nearly opposite Gall's Hotel. There is no doubt but that he will succeed, as he has always by strict attention to business merited a share of public patronage.

The revival meetings which were begun in this place a short time ago by Rev. Mr. Hammond, are still being carried on. The church is filled to its utmost capacity every evening, by a quiet and attentive congregation. May many be brought from darkness to light, and to a knowledge of the Saviour.

MAINE NEWS.—Hop Bitters, which are advertised in our columns, are a sure cure for ague, biliousness and kidney complaints. Those who use them say they cannot be too highly recommended. Those afflicted should give them a fair trial, and will become thereby enthusiastic in the praise of their curative qualities.—Portland Argus. 9-2t

As a general rule most advertised cough cures are merely palliative, and smother up a cough by the opiates they contain; not so with Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam; it is composed of soothing, loosening, and healing expectorants, prepared from harmless demulcents, roots, gums, and barks, that are not only safe but thorough and certain in their action upon the diseased mucous surfaces of the throat and lungs. 8-2t

As a nation of individuals we stimulate too much alike in the matter of food, drink and medicine; we burn up our bodies with the use of too much fuel in the way of strong stimulants. Burdock Blood Bitters differs from other advertised tonics, inasmuch that it is not a fancy drink, but a pure medical tonic, alternative, laxative and nervine, whose effects is to purify, restore, and build up the impoverished blood and enfeebled body. Trial bottles, 10 cents; regular size, one dollar. For sale by all dealers. 8-2t

It is cough, wheeze, wheeze, hack, hack, away,
And there is no comfort to be had either night or day.

Do you think so? then you have never tried that most pleasant and effectual cure, Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam; a few doses relieves the most distressing cough, and a twenty-five cent bottle has cured many a sufferer from Asthma, Bronchitis, Croup, Influenza, Hoarseness and Soreness of the Chest. It is the grand specific for all throat and lung complaints leading to Consumption. 8-2t

An Indian's three greatest desires were thus expressed: first, he wished for all the tobacco in the world; secondly, for all the rum in the world, and when asked what his third wish would be, he replied that "he would take a little more rum." Now, if we wished to banish the most troublesome diseases in the quickest possible time our chief wish would be for Hagyard's Yellow Oil. It is a perfect panacea, curing by external and internal use all inflammation, pain, and soreness, Rheumatism, Stiff Joints, Deafness, Colds, Kindey Complaints, Burns, Frost Bites and Flesh Wounds of every variety. For sale by all dealers. 8-2t

Of all the remedies on earth that well deserve attention,
Hagyard's Yellow Oil commands especial mention;
For wondrous power to cure disease, its fame there's none can throttle,
Its merits are not in the puff, but they are in the bottle.

All manner of painful and inflammatory diseases are promptly relieved by the external use of this valuable medicine. Rheumatism, Sore Throat, Asthma, Kidney Complaints, Croup, Burns, Scalds, Frost Bites, Deafness, Neuralgia, Stiff Joints and wounds of every description yield like magic to its power. For sale by all dealers. 8-2t

'Tis sweet to court, but oh! how bitter,
"To court a girl and then not get her."

And speaking of bitterness reminds us that Burdock Blood Bitters is the most deservedly popular of any medicine in the market. It sweetens the stomach, and it sweetens the disposition by tranquilising the nerves, it makes pure blood and cleans all the secretions, jogging every organ to a healthy action, acting at once upon the Stomach, Liver, Bowels, Skin and Kidneys, and is the purest tonic in the world. Sample Bottles, 10c. Regular size, $1.00. 8-2t

General Foreign News.

Two Natal Boers have been arrested in their houses as rebels, and brought into camp.

A strong force of Boers have been shelled by General Vibart at 5,000 yards, and compelled to retreat.

The authorities of Dunkirk have prohibited the shipment of five hundred tons of rifles and ammunition for the Piraeus.

In the case of Archdeacon Dunbar, whose wife sued for a divorce on the ground of infidelity, the jury find the accused innocent.

The failure of the peace negotiations with the Basutos is announced, owing to the severity of the terms offered by the Colonial Government.

A great fire in Tokio, Japan, on January 26th destroyed eleven thousand houses, and thirty thousand people were rendered homeless.

Mr. Carlyle bequeathed his Dumfriesshier estate to the University of Edinburgh for the purpose of an endownment in aid of indigent students in arts.

The Greek Premier again stated in the House yesterday that the nation and Government consider the decision of the Berlin Conference as final.

The Orange Free State Folksraad, by 36 to 3, expressed sympathy with the Boers, and the hope that Great Britain will grant their reasonable request, and and that President Brand's efforts for a peaceful solution may be successful.

The Agence Russe of St Petersburg says the statement that the Russian Government had decided to maintain Geok-Tepe, Askabad, Bami, Tchikislar, and Krasnovodsk as a line of fortified posts is premature. The Government has considered the subject, but has not finally decided on that course.

Francis and Andrew Swanzy, the largest firm of London merchants trading to West Africa, write that advices from all their agents enable them to assure the public that the importance of the Ashantee King would have to encounter powerful native enemies before he could reach the Gold Cost Colony.

The tragic death of General Ney is still unexplained. The most absurd stories are floating about. According to one the General was shot in a duel by De Woestyne, whom it is well known was never forgiven for dragging him into the Jung affair. There is only one objection to this tale, viz., that Woestyne for some time past has been in Ireland. The probability is that the General committed suicide.

Shaw's manifesto had a remarkable effect in Ireland. Shaw wields a commanding influence among commercial classes, and from no quarter is the manifesto hostilely criticized. This would not have been the case six months ago. Authorities in Dublin await the passage of the Coercion Bill. The names of those to be imprisoned have already been prepared, and proclamations by the Lord-Lieutenant printed. The ordinary law is beginning to assert itself throughout the country with a vigor it was not supposed to possess. The authorities are more concerned about the north of England than about Ireland. The Fenian movement there is more formidable than in Ireland. The Socialistic movement there causes great uneasiness. Men leaving Ireland find congenial companionship and welcome among the colliers and operatives of Lancashire and the iron workers on the side.

Summary of Canadian News.

On Thursday night John Purtell, one of the late prisoners in the Biddulph affair left for Nebraska.

Hans Jansen, a Dane, died from the excessive use of intoxicating liquors, in Montreal.

There are two hundred and fifty men employed on the Carillon canal works at Greece's Point.

A still containing 180 barrels of oil has been burnt at the Imperial Oil Company's Works, London.

It is expected that the new Union railway station at Ottawa will be completed and ready for occupation early in March.

The New Brunswick Legislative Council is doomed, both the Local Government and the Opposition being committed to its abolition.

The prospective of the new Canadian-Brazilian Steamship Co., with a capital of $280,000 was issued in London, Eng., last week.

The wife of the Montreal Deputy-Chief of Police, Mr. Naegle, while dancing at a social party, fell and broke her leg.

A coloured lad named George Stewart was arrested at Fredericton, N, B, by Marshal Woodward, for committing a rape last night upon an aged woman named Vauhan. The marshal had quite a tussle with Stewart before the prisoner was overpowered.

A fire broke out in the office of Messers. Geo. Stephen & Co., Montreal, of the Pacific Syndicate. The prompt arrival of the fire brigade confined the damage to two rooms, where the fire originated among the sweepings of the office. Some apparently important papers are burned.

A criminal information was laid on Monday, against John Ross Robertson, proprietor of the Telegram, for publishing the advertisements of fortune tellers. The layer of the information was the husband of one of the parties recently summoned. It is not likely to amount to anything as there is nothing it the statutes to cover the alleged offence.

Mrs. Snider, widow of the late Sergeant Snider, of Belleville, stated to a reporter on Thursday that in her belief her husband committed suicide because of temporary mental aberration, produced by an overdose of medicine which he had taken a few minutes previously. The reports that debts or domestic difficulty had been the cause she positively denied, as her husband could have been clear of debt in two months, and they had lived happily together.

Recently an attractive girl belonging to a respectable Montreal French family disappeared from her home, and after several days her whereabouts was discovered in the house of a Mr. Louis Richelieu. She returned home, but a few days ago again left. Her mother, in great distress, asked the assistance of Detective Gladu, who last night found the girl again at Richelieu's house. This morning the detective arrested Richelieu. He was remanded for trial on the charge of abducting the girl, who is but 17 years old.

An Ottawa ministerial paper says that in the event of Sir John Macdonald's retirement there will be but one voice as to his successor—"the so-called war-horse of Cumberland." It further says that the contemplated retirement of Sir Leonard Tilley means of course the succession of Sir Alexander Galt or Mr. Thomas White. Another of the changes determined on is the retirement of Mr. O'Connor, concerning which the Ottawa organ says that the genial and kind-hearted Chieftain has probably found it hard to act in the premises, but public opinion demands urgency in the matter. It is intimated that Mr. O'Connor will be succeeded by Costigan.

TEAS! TEAS!

CHINA and JAPAN.

As an article of Domestic use, there is none perhaps for which there is at the present day a greater demand in the aggregate than TEA.

Notwithstanding the increased demand, yet the price of TEAS is lower to-day than it has ever yet been.

The causes which have procured so desirable a result to the TEA-DRINKER are practical.

FIRST:—A more extended and scientific system of cultivation in the Tea producing countries.

SECOND:—Cheaper and better carrying facilities, and

THIRD:—Increased and closer competition amongst traders and dealers.

TEAS are popularly known as Green, Black and Japan, and of each of these there are a number of grades and varieties. Thousands of pounds are annually adulterated and sold in this country.

For description of grade, modes of adulteration, and tests for detection, see "ads" to follow.

Meantime we offer JAPAN TEA at 40c. per pound. NONE BETTER. TRY IT!

Co-Operative.

NOT AFRAID!

We are not afraid of competition from any source, from co-operative stores or dry goods stores, or any other kind of stores.

The people of Peterborough, as a whole are quite wide awake to their interests, and will buy their goods where they are best served. A co-operative store has as much right to sell dry goods, and pins and needles, as a dry goods store has to go into boots and shoes.

The real secret of business success is to be thorough in whatever branch is taken up. as a general rule a jack-of-all-trades is master of none, whether he has on his sign that he is a co-operative, dry goods or grocery Store, or whatever it may be. We keep strictly to the branch of business we have adapted, Tailoring and Gents' Furnishings, and as a result do a good trade.

We therefore can smile at the frantic efforts of any, whose foundation is so insecure that they view with alarm the establishment of any new business.

Farm, Garden and Household.

Farmers' Gardens.

Very few farmers have really good gardens. Yet they should have one if any one should. They have plenty of land. They have time to attend to it. If they arrange their garden so that they can use their horses in cultivating it, it will be found to be a great saving of time as well as having the work more thoroughly done. The cultivation and attention which the garden will require will cost little or nothing, while the value of the garden and the pleasure to be derived from it will be an ample recompense for all the trouble and outlay expended upon it.

Every farmer should have both a flower garden and a vegetable garden. Of the latter we will speak first. No one can deny the value to a family of plenty of fresh vegetables during the summer months. Good fresh vegetables, however, are one of the most healthful foods for summer use and are also "pleasant to take" as quack-doctors say of their wares. Properly managed, a half acre, according to the size of the family, will afford an abundant supply of good vegetables during the season, and will be found to give more actual pecuniary profit than any other piece of land on the farm three or four times the size. There is no reason whatever why every farmer should not have a constant supply of vegetables from early spring till late in the fall. There should be rhubarb, lettuce, beans, corn, peas, tomatoes, parsnips, beets, melons, cabbage, onions, at least in every garden. All these can easily be raised by anyone who will take the trouble to bestow a little time, a little thought and a little money on the subject. The time required to keep a small farmer's garden in good order does not amount to much and no farmer can say that he cannot afford it. It is very strange to us how so many farmers can afford to get on without a good garden. But we do not advise any one to go into gardening who does not intend to manure heavily and cultivate frequently. Success cannot be obtained in any other way.

But besides a vegetable garden farmers should also have a flower garden. A flower garden has its uses as well as the vegetable garden. It is no use to say that a flower garden does not pay. It does pay. There is something in the nature of man that will not rest satisfied in merely acquiring money. There must be certain pleasure to fill in his spare moments. No pleasure in the world can be compared to the contemplation of the beautiful in nature. Flowers by every one are recognized to be the queens of nature's beauties. "Who loves not flowers must have heart of uncongenial soil." The best position for a flower garden is where it can be seen. It must be near the house and arranged in such a way as to beautify it. To accomplish this the flower garden need not be very large but it should be well kept and judiciously arranged. It looks very bad to see flowers and weeds growing together.

Perhaps some of our readers may think that we are a little ahead of time in speaking of gardening now, but it is time now to think and procure the seeds. What a beautiful land this would be if every one would do what he could to beautify his home. Let each one try to do what he can this year and we are sure that those who will try will never regret having done so.—Ex.

Farm Notes.

A correspondent hands the following method for preparing sugar for feeding bees:—To four quarts of white sugar add one quart of boiling water, heat over a brisk fire, stirring all the time until it boils about five minutes. Remove from the fire and set the dish in a basin of cold water, and stir briskly until it begins to get white and creamy. Now pour on plates and let the sugar cool in large cakes. If it does not crystalize by stirring, there is too much in it, and you will have to put it back on the stove and boil for a few minutes again. When you have got your cakes of cool, hard candy, put them on the frames over the bees.—American Cultivator.

The chief value of salt applied to land as a manure is its action as a solvent, thus rendering other plant food available, though it supplies plants with soda and chlorine, both of which are constituents of plants. All plants that require soda or alkali are benefitted by it, if applied with judgment. Wheat contains both soda and potash as chlorine (the latter and sodium are constituents of salt). Salt that has been used for brine possesses value for fertilizing purposes. It should be applied to wheat sufficiently early in the spring to get the benefit of wet weather, and at the rate of three to six bushels per acre. Ten bushels are sometimes sown.

Squashes are of tropical origin, and therefore when spring opens it is useless to plant them until the soil is quite warm and all danger of frost or cold nights is over. Again, as they make a very rapid growth there is no necessity for haste in getting the seed into the ground. Squashes are good feeders, liking the rich soil. It is best to manure in the hill. In sowing place a dozen seeds in each hill, and when danger from the bugs is over pull up all but three or four. A mellow warm soil is the best. For bush sorts make hills three or four feet apart, and for running kinds twice that distance. All winter squashes should be ripened thoroughly or they are watery, lacking sweetness and richness, also lacking keeping properties.

Feeding Cows before Calving.

M. H. C. asks the safest way to treat cows during the mouth or six weeks before they calve. Our friend has been told that they should be fed upon hay only; but the man in charge of the cows says he always feeds grain up to the last day before calving; yet as one cow has already been lost, owing to what the neighbors insist as his management of the matter, our opinion is asked.

Answer.—As a cow approaches the period of calving the system becomes much disturbed and the circulation is considerably increased. The cow is taxed to the utmost to keep up the extra quantity of blood which supplies the calf, and is in such a condition that a very slight cause, as cold, indigestion, or overfeeding may do much mischief. It is therefore very dangerous to feed any grain to a cow in this state for several weeks before she comes in. Good hay is all that is required; a few roots would be advisable, but even a bran slop is to be given with caution and only when required as a laxative. To feed grain stimulates the milk organs unduly and is almost always productive of garget, or congested udder. After calving, too, for at least a week, grain food should be given with extreme caution.—Rural.

Breeding of Poultry.

Mr. Tegetmeier, the well-known poultry fancier, of England, is endeavoring to create a breed of fowl to rank among our feathered friends as the shorthorn does among cattle. The breeds whose best points he is seeking to combine happen to be those which, it is well-known, furnish in this country the best "all round fowl" for all purposes, namely, the Dorking and Light Brahma. The first cross between these two produces excellent table fowls and prolific producers of large eggs. But these good qualities are not stable in the second and subsequent generations, so farmers who raise the cross-breeds have to be continually going back to the original stock. What Mr. Tegetmeier seeks to do is, by persistent and intelligent selection and mating through several generations, to combine all the paying qualities in one breed of fowl, just as the shorthorns were made up into a breed by seizing upon and fixing the good points of several breeds. There is no reason why Canadian poultry breeders should not also start on an independent tack and originate a breed to suit the country.

Dropping the Cud.

C. T. C. has a 20-months old steer which was lately taken sick, vomiting all he had eaten. His horns are warm, and eyes a little dull. On vomiting he acts as if about to raise the cud and chew it; but instead of chewing it, he lets it run out of his mouth, drooling most of the time. During the winter he has been fed corn stalks twice a day, with some corn and hay once a day, and our friend asks what ails him and how to treat him.

ANSWER.—This is known as dropping the cud, described in the Rural of January 22, and is not vomiting. It may also occur in young animals from soreness of the gums incident to the shedding of the teeth and the growth of the permanent ones. This should be learned by examination. If the teeth are all right the cause will be dyspepsia. There is generally no appearance of ill-health in mild cases, except, perhaps, a roughness of the coat. It occurs with sheep as well as cattle, and should be treated as follows: Give one pint of linseed oil and repeat it the third day. Then give each day for ten days half a tablespoonful of carbonate of soda, with one teaspoonful of ground ginger in a mess of scalded bran or linseed meal.—Rural.

Horse Shoes kept on too Tight.

There seems to be no doubt that this cause more does injure to the feet of a horse than anything else; for as soon as the shoe is fastened on the double action begins, as his hoof grows down and presses against the shoe, and the shoe is hammered forcible up against the hoof every time the hoof is set back on the ground after being raised. This makes the double action which is so injurious. To obviate this, is becomes necessary to have the shoe fit nicely and easily at all times to the horse's foot. To insure this, it should be taken off the rest about once a fortnight; and in doing so care should be taken to first file off the clinching part of the nails outside of the hoof as they are withdrawn. Some let shoes remain on the horse for two or three months. Nothing can be more injurious to keeping up a sound, good foot than this. The change twice a month or so, allows the foot to expand, and keeps it in healthy, natural form.

Chaff.

—Mrs. Partington was recently induced to make a trip from Chelsea to Boston, and her nerves were so agitated by the excitement of the trip that when she jumped ashore she exclaimed: 'Thank heaven I'm again on vice versa.'

—Medical advice: 'My son is troubled with a weakness in one of his legs; what shall I do with it?' inquires an anxious parent in Berea, O. Perhaps the shortest way would be to see the girl and ask her to sit on the other knee for a while.

—The room getting chilly during a long piece of chamber music, a gentleman asked his neighbor in a whisper how he should stir the fire without interrupting the performance. 'Between the bars,' was the reply.

—A young lady was caressing a pretty spaniel and murmuring: 'I do love a nice dog!' 'Ah!' sighed a dandy standing near, 'I would I were a dog.' 'Never mind,' retorted the young lady sharply, you'll grow.'

—Of a miserly man who died of softening of the brain a local paper said: 'His head gave way, but his hand never did. His brain softened but his heart couldn't.

TAVERN AND SHOP LICENSES ACTS.

Hon. Mr. Hardy's report on the working of the tavern and shop licenses acts is very satisfactory. The schedules give full information on all aspects of the license system, and it only requires a careful study of these to be convinced that the system is attaining its purpose. The volume of illicit traffic is diminishing; the quality of tavern accomodation is improving; there is a better observance of law and order by hotel and shop-keepers; the business standing and personal fitness of tavern-keepers are much in advance of former years, and there has been a favorable change in the drinking customs of the people. These results are apparent from the full and interesting reports of the license inspectors on the working of the old and new laws, made at the request of the provincial secretary. The total number of licenses issued for 1879-80—the last complete year—was 4,068. This is slightly in excess of the three preceding years under the new law, owing to two causes, (1) the repeal of the Dunkin act in several county municipalities, and (2) the increase of population. The net income of the province from these licenses was $84,998, and $271,846 was paid over to the municipalities. The charge of political favoritism in the granting of licenses is effectually disposed of, the figures showing that Conservatives have no ground of complaint what ever. The report, we may add, is a model of good arrangement.

We have to announce this week, that in the estimates for public works, just brought down, a grant of ten thousand dollars is made for Cobourg Harbor of Refuge. This is not quite so much as we anticipated, but we must not complain, for it shows that the government is convinced of the importance of completing the Harbor of Refuge at Cobourg, already considerably advanced, according to the plans drawn up by their own engineer, and will push it to completion as fast as circumstances will permit. There can be no doubt that we are in a large measure indebted for this grant, to the late visit of our popular Finance Minister, who had an opportunity of seeing the harbour while a storm was raging, and noting the excellent retreat for vessels caught in a gale, that could be made at a comparatively small expense, now that so much of the work has already been done. Active preparations are going on for the work contracted for last year, and as the Spring opens up, the crib work will be put down.—Sentinel Star.

RESTORATION OF THE HEALTH.

During the past ten years the Great Shoshonees Remedy has faithfully redeemed every promise and guarantee made to the public. Alarming and apparently hopeless cases of Lung Diseases, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaints, Afflictions of the Kidney and Chronic Complaints of every description, including Scrofula and Skin Diseases of lifelong duration, have been permanently removed and eradicated. Those who volunteered their testimony to the efficacy of the Remedy, are not bogus people in unheard-of localities of foreign countries, but respectable citizens of this country, easy of access and open to question, upon whose verbal recommendations we are willing to rest the reputation of the Great Shoshonees Remedy If you are afflicted, do not delay until medicine may be powerless to aid you. No injurious effects can possibly follow the use of these Indian Remedies, as they contain no minerals, by which the fate of the invalid is so often sealed under the form of some temporary sedative or stimulant. These Indian Remedies are widely known and still possess the public confidence, after the lapse of sufficient time to test their efficacy.

The Shoshonees Vegetable Sugar Coated Pills have won for themselves the most favorable reputation of any pill before the public. Their efficacy has been fully proved as a remedy for billiousness, Sick Headache and inactivities of the stomach. Price of the Remedy in pint bottles, $1; Pills, 25 cents a box. Sold by all medicine dealers.

PEOPLE TORMENTED by the many disagreeable sensations produced by dyspepsia, or are thin, nervous and weak, should use the standard tonic—Northrop & Lyman's Quinine Wine. They will find it agreeable and beneficial. It enriches the blood by aiding digestion and assimilation; soothes and invigorates the nervous system, and imparts a healthful appetite. When used as a remedy for billious and intermittent fever, it produces the happiest results, if taken between the attacks. Convalescence is hastened, and untimely decay of the physique and constitution is arrested by it. The spirituous constituent, sherry wine, is of the best quality, and the aromatics combined with it renders its flavor additionally pleasant. They who use it gain flesh as well as strength and it exerts a cheering influence upon the mind. It promotes a healthy secretion and flow of bile, sound repose and regularity in the action of the bowels. If judiciously used it may be taken without apprehension of any ill result by persons of the most delicate constitution. A fair trial is all that is needed to prove the genuineness of its claims to public confidence, and to the truth of the general verdict in its behalf. No article of its class commends itself so strongly to nervous invalids who require building up—none is so well adapted to fortify the system against the dangers which threaten the debilitated. It should not be mistaken for a mere stimulant of appetite, which so many so-called tonics simply are. It so regulates the stomach that it is enabled to perform its various functions with regularity and vigor, and its action is not only thorough but prompt. Ask for the 'Quinine Wine of Northrop & Lyman." Sold by all druggists.

Vivienne's Crime;

OR,

FOR LOVE OF HIM.

By the Author of "CLEVTON MANOR," "MRS. SHELDON'S AMBITION," &c., &c.

CHAPTER XII.—(Continued.)

"And you have let her see this. You have had no pity in your selfish cruelty. You have not even troubled to hide your falseness from her. Only a few months back you told me you loved her best in the world."

Jocelyn listened, mute and humble still—if his mood might be guessed from his looks as he sat there, his head bent, as though brooding or shame-struck.

Mrs. Thornton, dreading what this outbreak might cause, rose, trembling, and held wine to Gilbert's lips, which were dry and burning.

"Oh, pray be quiet," she cried; "you will make yourself worse, as you did before. Only be quiet, and Jocelyn will do anything you wish."

Gilbert pushed the glass away. A strength that frightened his watchers seemed within him. His voice, clear, resonant, firm as his father's had used to ring in past days, stayed the words on her tongue.

"Jocelyn," he said, "you are mad. Vivienne Stuart, if she were your wife to-morrow, would bring you neither joy nor peace. She tempted you first to love her, because she knew you were in honour bound to love Ethel only. She may love you now, but in with a cruel love, which cannot live, but will die, and break your heart in its death. Have you no eyes to see this for yourself?"

He paused a moment, not finished, only breathless. His mother, watching him, wrung her hands, but dared not speak.

Then Jocelyn raised his head. "I love her," he said, slowly, deliberately, all the dogged nature of the man showing out in those three words.

"You think so now; after a while your mind will change again."

"It never will, Gilbert."

"Then listen to me and think well of what I say. Vivienne shall never come here as mistress of Thornton. If this love of her is so strong that honour and truth go down like stubble before it, then hold it fast all your life, but give up Thornton and the Thornton lands forever. Crawley shall come over to-morrow. If you tell me before him that you will make Ethel West your wife, the old place is yours. If you tell me 'No, you never will,' then Clare Dixon, of Holt, shall get it."

His mother cried out at the words. Jocelyn heard him like one dazed. Not at first did his real meaning strike him. When it did, he rose up, taking care even then not to set aside his chair too roughly, mindful in his angry dismay that this brother of his was dying, and said:

"No need to wait till to-morrow to settle that. I will marry Vivienne Stuart. Thornton is yours; do with it what you will."

How proud he looked, how stately, going away through the dim room, his head held high, his lips set—a man sure of his own heart!

"Oh, Gilbert, what have you done!—what have you done!" wailed Mrs. Thornton, clasping her hands in her dismay till the rings on her fingers cut and bruised the delicate skin.

Gilbert, looked at her through a rain of tears, gasped as for breath before he could answer—"I have done my duty as I see it."

The sadness in his voice, keener than tears or cries, touched her. When she lit the lamp, and looked at him, the pain in his eyes and on his lips pierced her heart. Seeing it, she had no power to reproach him; for a terrible fear fell on her that the end was very near.

"What can I do for you, Gilbert? Is there anything you would like?" "Sleep—quiet," he answered—"the chance to rest."

For an hour or two after that she sat by him, with the lamp shaded on a stand beside her. Jocelyn had gone, dreading he knew not what, to bring Docter West. But she did not know that: her watch by the sick man might have been less anxious if she did. Suddenly, with a shrill cry, he wakened, gasping for his breath like one drowning.

She started up, ringing the bell so madly in her terror, that it started all in the house. Doctor West, waiting in the room below, ran up stairs as he heard it. Jocelyn, coming quickly after him, found his brother laid back among his pillows like one dead, speechless, motionless, with drawn lips and ghastly pale. Vivienne heard the passing steps, and came out of her room to follow them. Doctor West, seeing her, paused.

"This is no place for you," he said to her, kindly. "You can do no good here. Go back to your own room."

She turned as if to retire, but took up her stand by the closed door, as she had done once before. She was very pale, and trembling in every limb, as though the sudden fright had turned her cold.

In a short time Jocelyn came out in haste. Seeing her, he stopped, startled.

"You will be ill next, if you excite yourself in this way. Go away to your own room and rest. He is a little better now, and conscious. I am going to the Doctor's for a bottle he forgot to bring with him."

He was down in the hall in a moment more, she was by him.

"Don't you go," she said, touching him on the arm with her cold little hand, and speaking low, as though her voice might disturb a sick man upstairs. "If he gets worse he will want you. Let me go instead of you."

"It is past eleven," he replied, looking at his watch. Then he took his hat from the table, as though that was answer enough for her. But she was quicker even than he. Before he noticed what she was doing, she had a long dark cloak around her, the hood drawn close about her face.

"I don't care if it was past twelve. I shall go mad if I stay here, doing nothing. I can take John with me if you like; but you must not leave the house to night. If, whil you were away, he should die, you would never forgive yourself. You will let me do this much for you, for him?"

She spoke fast, almost breathlessly; and she put her little hands out to him, pleadingly, as though she was asking a favour of him.

The delicate face, upturned to his own in the light hall, quivering lips, the large, bright eyes, lived long in his memory: he never forgot her as he saw her then. Stooping, he kissed her very tenderly, and a wild joy thrilled him, that, though she did not know it, he had proved himself worthy love of this love of hers. She took his kiss for answer, and turned away from him as though in sudden pain. He stayed a moment longer, to shut the great on her and the old man-servant, who went out into the quiet night together, passing across the lawn like ghosts in the dimness. Then he went up to his brother's room again. Doctor West turned questioning look on him as he entered.

"Vivienne has gone for it with John. She wished to go very much,' he added, seeing the Doctor look suprised.

Gilbert, lying with closed eyes, shivered slightly, and moaned, and Doctor West bent once more over him, anxious and sorrowful, knowing well that the draught he had sent for might come too late to rouse the sinking pulse and quicken the slow blood that was chilling ominously already.

Vivienne Stuart hurried through the still night, looking neither to the right nor the left, passing on with swift steps, as though she too knew how precious time was. In the hall of the Doctor's house she met Ethel.

"I have come for a mixture your father forgot to bring with him. He could not return for it himself, but he said it was on his desk. Gilbert is no better—is worse, perhaps, by this time."

She spoke fast, and turned at once into the little square room she knew so well, eager to get her errand done. Ethel went in with her. Together they looked for the bottle, and found it, not on the desk, as the Doctor had said, but on the low shelf beside it. A very small phial, it was labelled carefully. There was no mistaking it. As she took it up in her hand, Vivienne's eyes rested on another bottle, standing on the same shelf, labelled also, but differently. She knew it at once. She had seen it before. It was the one the contents of which Doctor West had some time back explained to her.

"Poison." The ugly word stood out very clearly as Ethel turned the light on to it. Vivenne looked at it, and her eyes opened wide, her lips parted, and all the colour died out of them and out of her face. She laid the bottle she had been holding down on the table. Her hands trembled so she could hold it no longer. Then she turned her pale face to Ethel, but she could not speak.

"You are ill, Vivienne. You have been hurried. John shall shall take the mixture back, and you shall stay here to-night winh me."

As she spoke, Ethel drew the Doctor's big chair round, and put Vivienne in it, loosing the heavy cloak from about her, and smoothing back her hair with gentle hands. Looking at her, Vivienne grew calmer; the red came slowly back to her lips; her eyes lost some of their terror.

"I am only a little tired. Let me have a glass of water, please. I shall be quite able to go home."

Without staying to ring for it, Ethel went out quickly, intending to get it herself; and Vivienne, sitting very still, with her head rested against the leather cushion of the big chair, watched her go. She sat so, with her hands folded lightly about a great piece of her cloak, till Ethel's step was no longer heard, till the sharp click of the kitchen door, which she had heard so often, told her where she was. Then she got up, slowly and cautiously, with a curious set look on her face, and took down the little bottle labelled "Poison." She looked at its contents as it showed under and above the label, holding the bottle up between her and the lamp the better to do so. She took the glass stopper out, shivering a little, but never faltering, and still with that hard look on her beautiful face.

"He cannot live at the best, and it would not be painful—he would sleep into death," she whispered very softly, repeating, without, knowing it, almost the very words the Doctor himself had used.

Holding the bottle in one hand, the stopper in the other, she stood and listened for any stir that would tell her Ethel was coming, but Ethel was in the kitchen still. She glanced suspiciously round the room. The blind was half-drawn, but all was quiet. She opened the bottle she had come for, and poured into it, drop by drop, some of the contents of the other—the harmless-looking colourless drops that held death in them. The lamplight made the rings on her white fingers gleam, and threw a warm mellow glow on to her face, bent close above the phial—a strong glow, that showed the cruel curve of the dainty lips, the leaping fire in the dusty eyes.

Then, when it was done—when the bottle was laid back in its place, and the other in the spot where Ethel had seen her put it—a sickly fear shook her. The room heaved; the lamp flickered; the lettering of that ugly label seemed to burn itself with living fire into her brain. Poison! Poison! The room was written all over with the word; the lap of the waves coming in over the rocks, seemed to hiss it out to every ear in Thornton.

Ethel, entering a moment or so afterwards, found Vivienne lying back in her father's chair, still very pale and nervous—not fit by any means to walk back to the Manor that night it would seem.

She had brought her some wine and cake in place of water she had asked for; and when she had seen her swallow a little of both, she told her again that she was not fit to go back home.

"Let John go off at once with it. He can tell them how it was. Besides, if papa stays all night with Gilbert, I shall be very lonely here myself. Do stay, Vivienne."

"No thank you, dear; I must go back. I am quite able now. I feel stronger than when I came."

She rose up, drawing the cloak closely about her. There was quite a flush in her cheeks; her eyes were bright and clear. She did, indeed, seem better—Ethel could not but see that.

Looking at Ethel, Vivienne paused a moment on her way to the door. Such a strange feeling had grown up between them—such a gulf had opened up that night which angels might not bridge between this innocent soul and this guilty one. The thought made her heart thrill, and for that moment her eyes, fixed on Ethel, were wet with tears, that burned under the delicate veined lids like drops of molten lead. Then she hurried out, saying something, she scarce knew what, and began her hurried walk back to Thornton Manor.

On the road, coming to meet her, vexed with himself that he had let her go, was Jocelyn. She knew his step before she could see him clearly, and her own quickened to a run. Sober John, pacing behind, put her down in his own mind as the strangest young lady in her ways he had ever met, and the hardest to keep up with.

"Oh, I am so glad you are here, Jocelyn," she cried, as she met him, clinging fast to his hand like a frightened child.

"And I am glad too, darling! I was mad to let you out at such a time of night."

Together they walked on quickly, talking little, both eager to reach home.

In the sick room Doctor West counted the moments with an anxious face. He had been calculating how long it would take Vivienne to go to and come from his house. The time he had allowed her was little more than up, when a tap came to the room-door; he opened it, and Vivienne stood outside, presenting the bottle to him.

"Am I in time?" she whispered. "Is he any better?"

"No better; but you have been very quick."

They spoke low, holding the door closed behind them, for the Doctor had stepped out into the passage.

"Ethel understood that I should stay to-night, I hope?"

She nodded to him for answer, and then he noticed for the first time how ill she looked as she leaned against the wall beside him, with her hand to her heart as though to still its beating. She had no strength for words.

"You must retire and rest," he said, putting his hand on her shoulder. "There will be little or no change before morning; you may rest content."

Gilbert, stirring in his sleep, moaned, and the Doctor turned back into the room again.

"No change," she whispered, gasped almost, as she watched the door close after him with wide, wild eyes, where the light seemed dead—"no change till morning. And then!"

CHAPTER XIII.

Standing by Gilbert's bedside, Doctor West held the bottle in his hand and looked down on the sick man thoughtfully. A great change showed in that wan face. There were lines round the nostrils, the eyes, the lips, which had not been there an hour before. But he was breathing evenly, though faintly. Perhaps the draught might not be needed after all. The Doctor placed the bottle on the table beside him, and sat down quietly to his watch again.

In an hour's time, the mother, whom he had sent away to rest, came in; and a while after her, Jocelyn. The three sat and waited. No one spoke; no one stirred. The quiet of the house was awesome.

Towards morning Gilbert began to flush redly and to mutter brokenly in his sleep. Doctor West, with his finger on the sick man's pulse, watched on. All through the night, as he lay in a deep sleep, they had wetted his lips at intervals with wine. Now he opened his eyes and asked for water. At a look from the Doctor his mother gave him some to drink.

"Jocelyn," he whispered.

Jocelyn bent above him, raining hot tears upon the restless hands, spread out so helplessly; but the gleam had passed, and he did not know him.

Doctor West, seeing this, looked grave; the mother, watching him, trembled. There was no need she should be told how near the end was now. For a little while, Gilbert slept again, but uneasily. Then he began to moan, as one in pain, turning his eyes, wide and wild, from one to another, but knowing none.

Pouring out the draught, which he hoped might soothe him, the Doctor held it to his lips himself. Gilbert drank it off eagerly. Shortly afterwards, while the Doctor still held his head upon his arm, the flush died out of his face and his eyes closed.

"It is taking effect nicely," he whispered to Jocelyn, standing beside him. "If he sleeps like this for a time, we may even venture to hope again."

And so they watched and waited for an hour or so more. But, before the sun rose fairly out of the sea, they knew that they need watch and wait by the bedside no longer.

Gilbert Thornton was dead. Without one quiver of the lips, without one glance of love or anger from the sad eyes, he had gone from them.

With a wild burst of passionate sorrow, long repressed, the mother fell forward on the pillow; but Jocelyn, standing by her, had no tears to shed. A great pain wrung him as he looked down on the still pale face of the dead. He was feeling then, as others have felt before him, how utterly the past is beyond recall—how far away, how hopelessly far, Death wrenches the loved one from us, from our sorrow, our regrets, our repentance may be.

Vivienne Stuart, passing through the corridor, heard the news from one of the women called in to attend on Mrs. Thornton.

"Dead!" she exclaimed, looking in the woman's face and putting up her hand to her throat, as though something hurt her there on the instant.

"Yes—dead, miss. He went just a second or so ago—quite peaceful, I should say, by the look of him. The mistress is taking-on fearful. Doctor West is with her now."

Vivienne appeared like one in a dream. The woman hurried away with some essence the Doctor had asked for, and Vivienne, left alone, stood still an instant. Then she turned and moved slowly towards the room where the dead man lay, not yet cold, and so like himself that it might have been thought that sleep held him in such perfect repose. On the threshold she paused, leaning against the door-post wearily, hot tears in her eyes, pale-faced, and quivering in every muscle. At last, with a slight gasp of fear, she turned the handle and went in.

Jocelyn, seated in a chair by the bed-head, with his strong warm hands folded over the cold dead ones, saw her as she entered, but neither spoke or moved. Love of her was far from him at that moment. The mystery of life, the greater mystery of death, were pressing on him. An hour ago he had a brother, now only this chill body was left him. The change had stunned him, as it were, and Vivienne, creeping forward with slow heavy steps, failed to rouse him.

She stood for a time at the foot of the bed, her hands holding by the foot-rail, her eyes turned on that rigid face. The sweetness of the fast-shut lips, the strange shadows under the eyes, the perfect calm stamped upon the features generally, seemed to fascinate her.

"He slept into his death," she said, speaking in a whisper, still with her eyes fixed on the sealed lids before her. Jocelyn, thinking the Doctor had told her this, did not answer. Suddenly, with a strong shiver, she turned and went out of the room, and, though his gaze followed her movements, he scarcely knew that she had gone.

Doctor West, on returning home from the Manor that morning, found Paul Knox ready for starting. The Doctor was tired—worn out he looked; and Ethel was alert to wait upon him. When he had sat down, and was drinking his coffee, made strong, as he best liked it, she asked about Gilbert, but not before.

"Did the draught Vivienne came for last night do Gilbert any good? Was he easier when you left? I have been very troubled about him all night, and about Vivienne, too. She was tired and ill when she arrived here."

"Gilbert is dead," her father answered breaking in upon her questioning, and turning his head aside that she might not see, that Paul Knox might not see, the tears that brimmed his eyes.

"Poor fellow!" said Paul, kindly. Ethel could not speak for crying. The sudden news had turned her faint and told. She had loved Gilbert all her life, and to lose him was like losing a brother.

SENATOR HOWLAN'S WEDDING.—Senator Howlan, of Prince Edward Island, was married last week to Miss M. Doran of Kingston, sister of Mr. P. D. Doran of this town, who, with Mrs. Doran were present at the ceremony.

ST. LUKE'S PAROCHIAL ASSOCIATION.—At a meeting of St. Luke's Parochial Association, on Thursday last, it was decided to continue the meetings regularly (open to members alone) through Lent, commencing on Monday, March 14th, and continuing fortnightly unless notice is given to the contrary.

RUNAWAY.—A horse belonging to Mr. T. Fitzgerald, driven by a young lad, ran away at a furious pace down George street on Saturday night. The boy held on to the reins like a hero, and kept the runaway in the centre of the street, as far as the old distillery, where he was thrown out, and fortunately escaped without injury. Had he been less plucky the consequences might have been serious, perhaps fatal. The horse was finally captured, neither it nor the cutter being much injured.

TEMPERANCE.—The following officers of Friendship Lodge were installed by Lodge Deputy Geo. Chamberlain, on the 22nd ult: Wm. A. Kelsey, P. W. C. T.; Thomas G. Gillespie, W. C. T.; Isabella M. A. Heather, W. Chap.; W. Sec.; Elma Evans, W. A. Sec.; Alice Lumsden W. Fin. Sec.; Joseph Buller, W. Treas.; John Owens, W. Mar.; Jennie Walbrook, W. Dep. M.; Jennie Buller, W. I. G.; Cole Barrett, W. O. G.; Lizzie Fanning, W.R.H.S.; Aggie Prescott, W.L.H.S.; Lizzie Heather, Organist.

A FACT.—Business men who object to support a newspaper because it does not express editorial opinions to suit them, display great ignorance of the first principles of business. A properly conducted newspaper—no matter what its editorial opinions may be—adds value to every property in the town where it is published. Advertising in a newspaper is a matter of business, and it is in the interest of business men to patronize the paper that does most to advertise and build up the town, and place his advertisment where it can be seen by the greatest number of readers.

BRUTAL FIGHT.—On Tuesday evening a man named Wilson from Cavan and one Cushing who lives in the west end of the town, having been carousing together quarrelled, and going into A. P. Morgan's yard commenced to fight. Mr. Morgan put a stop to it and put them out, when it appears they went to Phalen's hotel and renewed the quarrel in the bar room Mr Phalen being at tea, and only a boy in the bar. Wilson got Cushing down behind the bar and beat him brutally over the head, smashing five decanters on Cushing's head before they could be separated. Cushing had to be placed under medical attendance and is badly injured. Wilson fled before the arrival of the police. Warrants are out for both parties. It is to be hoped the Magistrate will make an example of them, and also that the Governor-General will not be called on to interfere.

ASHBURNHAM COUNCIL.—At the meeting of the Ashburnham Council last week, there were present the Reeve, John Burnham, M.—P.; and Councilors Calcutt, Wand and Mowry. The accounts of J. Z. Rogers $7.00; Toker & Co, $4.09; A. B. Downer, 50cts.; were ordered to be paid. The Auditors' Statement was received and the abstract ordered to be printed. A. Ingram was appointed to collect the balance of taxes on last year's roll. The license by-law was passed fixing hotel and shop licenses at $60. The By-law granting exemption from taxation for ten years, to the storehouse and elevator, previously referred to, was passed, the building to be completed by January 1, 1882. On motion of Mr. Mowry, seconded by Mr. Calcutt, a committee was appointed consisting of the Reeve and Messrs. Rogers and Calcutt, to meet the Peterborough Board of Education, to see on what terms pupils from Ashburnham will be admitted to the Collegiate Institute, by grant from the village council, in view of the action of the Board in raising non-resident pupils' fees, in consequence of the action of the County Council.

MY CUSTOMERS and the general public will please observe, that we have received large shipments of plain and fancy Dress Goods, Derrys, Shirtings, Gray and White Cottons, Prints, &c. Something remarkably cheap in Tea. Please call and examine these goods. W. J. WALLACE, Lakefield. 9-4t.

IMPERTINENCE.—The Review under the heading of "a correction," goes out of its way to insult Councillor Rutherford. Mr. Rutherford will doubtless take the same philosophical view of the matter as did the man who was kicked by a jackass—consider where it comes from.

SHIPMENT OF CATTLE.—Messrs. Howden, Winch and Webber, shipped a car load of cattle, each, to Montreal a few days ago. The Review repeated its old "smartness" of saying that Messrs. Webber and Winch made the shipment. Mr. Howden going along "to look after the cattle." This has been repeated too often to admit of being regarded as an unintentional error.

SCHOOL EXAMINATION.—S. S. No. 9 Douro and Otonabee—Subject Geography. Weekly Examination. Max. number of marks, 100. Maggie Beavis, 75; Oliver McDonnell, 74; Willis Porter, 69; John Rahally, 52; Mary Porter, 49; Eliza Beavis, 48; Archy Young, 46; John O'Connor, 30; James Fitzgerald, 22; M. Fitzgerald, 19; James Hall, 17. Fred. H. Brennan, Teacher.

THE TORONTO DEPUTATION.—The deputation from the Town Council, consisting of Mayor Smith, and the Town Clerk, visited Toronto on Thursday last, and after a preliminary meeting, had an interview with the Premier. Our chief Magistrate was the principal spokesman of the deputation of Mayors, and exhibited a knowledge of municipal law that created a very favorable impression upon his colleagues.

A GREAT CHICAGO ENTERPRISE.—The Laboratory for the manufacture of Electric Bitters is one of Chicago's greatest enterprises, giving employment to a large number of hands. The extensive sale already attained for this wonderful remedy is astonishing. Wherever once introduced and become known, it is almost impossible to supply the demand, because of their true merit—curing where all others fail—and at a reasonable price (fifty cents).—Exch.

GIVEN UP BY THE DOCTORS.—Where doctors have failed to cure, and have given their patients up to die, Electric Bitters have often been used, and a cure effected, greatly to the astonishment of all. Diseases of the Stomach, Liver, Kidneys and Urinary Organs are positively cured by Electric Bitters. They invariably cure Constipation, Headache and all Bilious Attacks. Try them, and be convinced that they are the best medicine ever used. Sold by all druggists, at fifty cents a bottle.

STRAYED, NOT STOLEN.—The Omemee Herald of last week thus explains the case of horse theft reported last week:—"On Monday morning last no little excitement was created by the report that some time during Sunday night Dr. Higinbotham's stable had been broken open and his valuable blood colt, eight months old, stolen. As soon it became known the telegraph wires were brought into use and messengers dispatched in different directions in search of it, but no trace could be found until about 6 o'clock when it was discovered on the farm of Mr. W. R. Cottingham, on to which it had strayed, about half a mile south of the village."

STOP THAT COUGH.—If you are suffering with a Cough, Cold, Asthma, Bronchitis, Hay Fever, Consumption, Loss of Voice, Tickling in the Throat, or any affection of the Throat or Lungs, use Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. This is the great remedy that is causing so much excitement by its wonderful cures, curing thousands of hopeless cases. Over one million bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery have been used within the last year, and have given perfect satisfaction in every instance. We can unhesitatingly say that this is really the only sure cure for throat and lung affections, and can cheerfully recommend it to all. Call and get a trial bottle for ten cents, or a regular size for $1.00.

THE FIRE BRIGADE.—The Fire Brigade as reorganized now contains the following officers and men:—Hose Co'y, Capt. T. Billington, Lieut. S. Clegg and 20 men. Hook and Ladder Company, Capt. F. Weir, Lieut. D. Jameson and 10 men. Brigade officers: Secretary, J. C. Robertson; Treasurer, Thomas McBain; Finance Committee—Messrs. Joseph Pentland, A. N. Shaw, and C. Rutherford. Property Committee.—Messrs. J. W. Flavelle, J. W. Jenkins and T. Goldie. By-Law Committee.—Messrs. Samuel Green, J. W. Flavelle, Joseph Pentland, D. Jameson and C. Rutherford. Most of the men are experienced firemen, and under Chief Rutherford will give a good account of themselves. The Brigade is to be run strictly on temperance principles.

ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH.—St. Andrew's congregation held a meeting last week, at which the Minister, Rev. Mr. Bell, presided. Mr. Bell made a statement of the progress of the church, showing a net increase of eleven members over 137 at last report. The Sunday school was improved in work and numbers, and the children had undertaken to contribute one half ($25) the cost of maintaining a pupil at Point aux Tremble school. Collections for missions were more than double last year. Mr. Bell returned them special thanks for their continued kindness and sympathy. The financial report showed that the congregation would have been self-sustaining and would have had a surplus, but for the payment of interest upon debt. It was decided to wipe out the entire debt by means of a subscription. Messrs. J. J. Lundy and R. McKee were elected managers, vice the retiring managers.

CLOSE OF THE POPULAR ENTERTAINMENTS.—The entertainments which have been held at intervals during the winter under the auspices of the St. Luke's Parochial Association came to a close on Monday evening last, when a most interesting and attractive programme was carried out in the Town Hall, Ashburnham. The hall was well filled and everybody appeared to appreciate the excellent character of the evening's entertainment. The piano duets by Misses Wrighton and Fairbairn and by Misses Revell and Orde, were exceptionally meritorious. Miss Martin in her solos, was well received, and exhibits a voice that with culture would be capable of attaining rare excellence. The vocal duets by Mr. and Miss Johnston, and Misses Ellsworth and Huston, captured the applause of the audience. Solos by Mr. Galletly were given in his usual good style, and songs were also given by Mr. Hallet, Miss Stevenson, Miss Errett and Miss Johnston. The solo "Not a Sparrow Falleth," by the latter, was given with admirable sweetness and purity. The readings by Mr. Clegg and Rev. Mr. Bradshaw were well received, the latter eliciting deserved applause. The programme was concluded by an acting charade, and despite the apology with which, by their request, it was preceded by Mr. Bradshaw, the actors met with high favor, and the charade was very creditably carried out.

NEW CHURCHES.

We have seen in Mr. John R. Belcher's office the plans of the new Methodist Church about to be erected in Millbrook. It is designed in the Gothic style, and will be a handsome structure when completed. It is to have a stone basement, 12 feet in clear height, under the entire superstructure, which is to be of white brick, having bold buttresses with handsome Geometric windows between, filled in with lead quarry lights. At one corner of the front there is a bold tower and spire, in which it is intended, we believe, to have a peal of bells. The interior is well arranged for accommodation, and particular regard has been observed in the design with a view to heating and ventilation. The galleries continue all round, and with the body of the auditorium, is capable of seating over 800 persons. The ceiling is divided into panels by the intersection of the roof timbers, which are boldly moulded and Gothic in shape. The seating will be of varnished pine, having cast iron bench ends of neat pattern. The contract for the masonry and plastering has been let to Messrs. Wilcox Bros., and that of the carpentering, etc., to Messrs. Raby & Richardson, all being local contractors. The entire cost of the edifice when completed will be about $10,000. The design reflects credit on the Architect, Mr. Belcher, and the undertaking on the Christian zeal, liberality and spirit of the Wesleyans in that section, aided by the energy of their pastors, the Rev. Newton Hill and Rev. Mr. Howard

The Presbyterian Church destroyed by fire in Springville is about to be replaced by a neatly designed church by the same architect, Mr. Belcher. It is in the Gothic style and is to have a tower and spire. Portions of the roof timbers are moulded and will be visible in the ceiling, adding much to its appearance. The seatings are to be of pine, varnished, and will seat about 300 persons. The contract has been awarded by the Building Committee, of which Mr. A. Goodfellow is the Chairman, to Mr. John Robson, of this town. The cost will be about $2,000, and it is to be completed in September next.

Mr. Belcher is also preparing plans for the rebuilding of St. John's Episcopal Church in this town, a description of which we will give in a future issue.

LOCAL NOTES IN BRIEF.

The Litta Company are expected here about the end of the month.

Mr. Geo. Walton, of the firm of Walton & Bird, of Emerson, Ma., is visiting friends in town.

Messrs. Jas. Delaney and Geo. Ostrom, have left town to take up their residence in Chicago.

Some cars got off the track above Lindsay on Saturday morning last, but no delay was occasioned.

A wood train off the Grand Junction track on Monday, delayed the Belleville train an hour.

The collecting committee of the Trotting Association made a very successful canvassing tour yesterday.

Mr. Jas. Walsh yesterday shipped seventeen horses for Montreal by the Grand Junction.

Helmer & York, American horse dealers, who have been buying at the Stewart House, have left for Troy with their purchases. They expect to return.

The Collector has issued notice of warning that arrears of taxes for 1880 will be enforced by distress if not paid forthwith.

At the meeting of the School Board on Tuesday evening only Messrs. Stevenson, Denne and Sawers were present, and the Board adjourned for want of a quorum.

Messrs. Lewis, Poussette, and Macdougall have been appointed a committee of the Mechanic's Institute Directors, to arrange with the Teacher's Association as to affiliation.

Mr. F. J. Lewis, President of the Mechanic's Institute, has received an intimation that owing to a railway accident in Missouri, Prof. Proctor's lecture will have to be postponed. New dates will be announced.

The Foresters had a pleasant re-union on the occasion of their second anniversary on Friday night last. The court room was appropriately decorated and the Forester's appeared in full regalia. Some two hundred partook of tea, after which speeches were made by Chief Ranger Larmour and D. D. H. C. R. Bithray. Misses Buller and Stevenson contributed vocal music, and Mr. Miller's band an instrumental quintette. Messrs. Earle, Ash, Wright and Strain contributed readings and the affair wound up with the National Anthem.

The Trotting Association has been organized with the following officers:—President, H. Calcutt; Treasurer, John Beatty, V. S.; Secretary, T. G. Choate. Judges:—Chas. Stapleton; Dr. Willoughby, Colborne; John Gleudenning, Newcastle. Committee of Management:—Messrs. T. Cavanagh, James English, W. H. Chamberlain, A. P. Morgan, R. White, W. Hopkins, D. G. Henthorn, Wm. Kennealy, Wm. Croft, A. Sawers, M. Halpin, John Sullivan, E. Phelan, A. Elliott, John Wilson, Thomas Darcy and James F. Daly.

PETERBOROUGH ABROAD.—At the Port Hope skating carnival last week, the following from Peterborough were present: Alfred Tate, Claude Melnotte; Alex. B. Craig, Bro. Jonathan; Wm. Gilbert, "Tuque Bleue" Snow Shoe Club.

ANDREW'S BAZAR for March is a decided improvement over any previous number. Always in front rank of ladies' publications, it is now surely deserving of any term of praise. The front-page illustration is strikingly handsome, and Mr. Andrews announces that it is from the pen of an artist (Mr. Gray-Parker) who is justly celebrated for his very superior work. The contents of this number are of a high order; and the ladies, always on the qui vive to know the latest fashions, will find ANDREWS' BAZAR invaluable. The proprietor, disapproving the scheme of giving chromos as premiums, has made an arrangement with one of the largest and best seed-growers in the country, whereby he offers to every subscriber a choice of One Dollar's worth of Flower or Vegetable Seeds. When we remember that the subscription price to ANDREWS' BAZAR is but One Dollar, and know the paper itself is worth twice the money, we must pronounce this offer unprecedented. We would advise those of our lady readers unacquainted with BAZAR to send 10 cts. for a sample copy to W. R. ANDREWS, Publisher, Tribune Building, New York.

Referring to the letters of 'X', the Globe says. "These allegations carry with them an accusation of such gross fraud that the Government can only ignore them under the penalty of laying its self open to the suspicion that it has no defence to make."

OBITUARY.

We regret exceedingly to learn of the death of Mrs. H. Calcutt, which melancholy event occurred on Tuesday night. The deceased lady had been for some time ill, and sinking slowly and surely, so that the fatal result was not unanticipated, though the shock to the bereaved family will be none the less. Mrs. Calcutt was a lady of warm charitable impulses, and her death will be mourned by a large circle of friends. Mr. Calcutt and family will have the sympathy of the community in their affliction. The funeral will take place on Thursday.

We regret to learn that Dr. A. Clegg while sitting at tea in McIlmoyle's Hotel at Apsley, about seven o'clock, on the evening of Feb. 26 th, was taken suddenly ill. On leaving the table and while trying to reach the door he seemed to falter and almost fell, and was assisted there by parties who stood near, but he scarcely reached the door when he fell lifeless in their hands. All means within reach were immediately used to restore him but in vain. He passed away without a struggle. D. Anderson and James Golborne, J. P's. who but a short before had gone home from attending a Council meeting, were brought back to the place of his death and after consultation together, came to the conclusion that an inquest was unnecessary, death evidently having resulted from natural causes. The Rev. P. Harding performed the painful duty of conveying the sad news to his wife, who is at present in very poor health He leaves a wife and three small children to mourn his loss, who have sympathy of the community.

THE HARVEST OF HYMEN.

Cupid and Hymen have been making sad inroads among our young men of late, and the ranks of bachelors are becoming painfully thin and attenuated. Within the last few weeks we have had four weedings celebrated under most auspicious circumstances. Mr. T. Munro, of the firm of Munro & Alexander, led the van, the bride being Miss Moreton, the ceremony taking place at Galt, the happy couple making their wedding tour to Montreal. Then followed the marriage of Mr. R. B. Rogers, by the Rev. Mr. Bradshaw, to Miss Clara Mina eldest daughter of Mr. H. Calcutt. Next on the roll was Mr. T. Rush, to Miss Bella Uin, Rev. J. W. R. Beck officiating, on Monday last. Mr. Rush and his bride left immediately for Port Perry, where Mr. R., has purchased an extensive grocery business. The bride was the recipent of numerous and costly presents from the many friends of both parties, and they will doubtless become as popular in their new home as they were in Peterborough. On Tuesday Mr. Merrick, late of Toronto, led to the altar at the R. C. Church, Annie, daughter of Dr. Harvey, and were unfited in marriage by Rev. Father Lynch. The church was crowded with friends and visitors, and the affair passed off with much eclat. We wish them one and all a pleasant voyage upon the matrimonial sea.

SPORTING NOTES.

The Port Hope Times says:—"The following which appears in the Peterborough Review should put our "horsemen" on their mettle:—"I observe by your last weekly edition that there has been considerable commotion in Port Hope over staying horses—or horses travelling a long distance in a short time, viz: between Port Hope and Peterborough and return. I cannot say from the record given that Port Hope has any great reason to clap its wings in ecstacy. I have an old horse, "the Propeller," formerly known as "Wild Irishman," which I will drive, or cause to be driven, against any horse owned in Port Hope, Cobourg or Lindsay, from the Huffman House, Peterborough, to the St. Lawrence Hall door, Port Hope, and back to the Huffman House, for any sum ranging from two hundred to five hundred dollars, not less. My money is ready at a moment's notice; the race to be in two weeks after the money being put up—in your hands, if you will kindly consent to hold it. J. O'SULLIVAN, M. D."

Bobcaygeon races took place on Wednesday and Thursday. The attendance was not large on Wednesday but on Thursday it was better. The good feature of the races was that the Committee refused to allow the sale of liquor on the ice. Green Purse.—Won by Maggie S., who took the 1st, 3rd and 4th heats. Long Girl won the 2nd heat and took second money in the race, and Butcher Billy took third place. The first three heats were very closely contested between first and second horses. The Three Minute Race was won by Minnie Hogan, in three straight heats, Peterborough Maid second, and Omemee Maid third. Thursday's Races.—The Colt Race was won by Simpson's Laperdis Chief, with Lady Nell second. Open Race—Peterborough Maid, driven by W. Simpson, took two heats, first and second; Minnie Hogan took last three and won the race; Omemee Maid, third.

A man had committed murder, was tried, found guilty, and condemned to be hanged. A few days before his execution he drew upon the walls of his prison a gallows with five steps leading to it.

On the first step he wrote, Disobedience to Parents.

On the second step, Sabbath-Breaking.

On the third step, Gambling and Drunkenness.

On the fourth step, Murder.

The fifth step was the platform on which the gallows stood.

This poor fellow doubtless wrote the history of many a wasted and lost life.

The Detroit, Mackinac, and Marquette Railroad Company

Now offer for Sale over 1,350,000 Acres of the Choicest FARMING and TIMBERED LANDS in the Northern Peninsula of Michigan.

Destined to be the best wheat-producing region in the world. These lands are situated in the counties of Chippewa, Mackinac, Schoolcraft, and Marquette, and embrace many thousands of acres of the best agricultural lands in the State of Michigan.

Among those in the counties of Chippewa and Mackinac are tracts of what are known as the "burnt or cleared" lands. These lands offer many advantages over the prairie lands of the West, as the timber lands adjoining insure a supply of fuel at little cost. The soil being a rich clay loam of great depth. The timber remaining upon the land being generally sufficient for the settlers' use in building and fencing.

These partially cleared lands are now offered at the low price of from $4 to $4.50 per acre, one-fourth cash, and the remainder at purchaser's option, at any time within nine years, with interest payable annually at seven per cent.

Roads are being opened through these lands, and no better opportunity has ever been offered to men of small means to secure a good farm, and intending purchasers will be wise by availing themselves of this chance before prices advance, as the lands are being rapidly taken and settled upon.

The lands more immediately on the line of the Detroit, Mackinac, and Marquette Railroad, from Straits of Mackinac to Marquette, are more heavily timbered, and are almost universally good agricultural lands, leaving splendid farms when the timber is removed.

The iron and lumber interests of the upper peninsula are of such magnitude as to call for all the charcoal and lumber that the timber and wood upon the lands will produce—this will enable the settler to make good wages while clearing the land.

Lumber Mills and Charcoal Kilns will be built at various points along the line, and Furnaces are now being erected along the line of the road at Point St. Ignace.

The great demand and good prices for labor, both in winter and summer, make these lands particularly desirable as homes for the poor man. The lands adjacent the Railroad are offered at prices from $5 upwards, according to location, value of timber, etc. The lands are at your very door, and are being rapidly settled by Canadians.

For pamphlets, maps, and other information, address, W. O. STRONG, Land Commissioner, 39 Newberry and McMillan Building, Detroit, Michigan. 9-1y.

COMPLIMENTARY SEND-OFF.

The Napanee Beaver of the 1st inst., has the following. Mr. Molloy has been engaged as Manager of the Dry Goods Department of the extensive business of T. Dolan & Co. As will be seen, Mr. Molloy is likely to prove an acquisition to the community:

"It was an unpleasant surprise to most of the business men of the town when it was announced on Tuesday morning that Mr. Thos. Molloy was about to leave town for Peterborough, where he had accepted a situation. A number of his friends immediately resolved not to allow him leave town without a suitable testimonial of the high esteem in which he is held; a committee was nominated, and in a few hours a sufficient amount was spontaneously subscribed to bear the necessary expense, and on Wednesday evening a party of about fifty of his most intimate friends assembled at the Campbell House to take part in the ceremony of tendering him the regards and well-wishes of his fellow townsmen. A splendid spread was prepared by Messrs Dorland & Pembery, which was discussed with zest and enjoyment after which the more important business of the evening was proceeded with.

"The chair was occupied by Mr. James Sweeney, and Mr. T. G. Davis read the following ADDRESS.

"To Thomas Molloy, Esq.,

"DEAR FRIEND—It is with sincere regret that we learn of your intended departure from our midst. To many of us who have long enjoyed the pleasure of a close intimacy with you the severance is all the more keenly felt, not only because of the many genial and manly virtues so conspicuous in all your friendly relations amongst us, and which we beg to assure you will long remain with us embalmed in happy memories, but also by that endearing and ennobling quality of heart more widely felt and better known by your fellow townsmen and so often exemplified in a hearty response to all the claims of the poor, and notwithstanding the natural warmth of your character, your friendly and willing aid was always rendered with a quiet purpose better felt than known. In your removal we feel that we are losing a genial companion and a hearty coadjutor in every local work of moral and social progress, and Napanee—a sincere friend and well-wisher. Accept, dear friend, this simple token of our esteem, not because of its intrinsic value, but as an earnest that you carry away with you our heartfelt sympathy and best wishes that in all your future undertakings success may ever attend you.

JAMES SWEENEY,
R. THOMPSON,
T. G. DAVIS,
A. FULLERTON,
R. FORD,
L. MCGOUN,
Committee.

"Attached to the address were the signatures of seventy-two names, including all the leading business men of the town.

"The memento consisted of a handsome gold chain and locket, the latter bearing the following inscription: "Presented to T. Molloy by his Napanee friends, March 2nd, 1881." Accompanying this gift was a well-filled purse as a substantial token of the high regard of the promoters of the entertainment.

"To the address Mr. Molloy replied impromptu, thanking his friends for their generous expression of regard, which was all the more acceptable for being entirely unexpected and as he thought undeserved. He referred in feeling terms to his pleasant associations in Napanee for the past twelve years, which were the pleasantest of his life, and said that neither time nor distance would ever sever the ties of friendship which he had formed while a resident of the town. The usual toasts were then proposed, and during the evening Messrs. Sweeney, Dr. Reid, D. Allison, G. Bogert, E. Utley, C. W. Smith, G. Gravely, F. Bristowe, J. English, J. A. Wheeler, T. G. Davis, and a number of others were given an opportunity of expressing their appreciation of Mr. Molloy's high social qualities and their regret at his departure from the town."

LAKE SIMCOE AND THE TRENT NAVIGATION ROUTE.

The Review has the following in its issue on Monday:—

"We republish elsewhere a letter to the Globe from Mr. I. H. Brock, on the subject of lowering the level of Lake Simcoe. As will be seen the writer repeats and supports the principal contentions in our article of Frbruary 23rd, that the construction of the Trent Valley Canal can with a little care be made to give the desired relief, and that the Dominion Government, not that of the Province, is the proper authority to which an appeal should be made in this matter. He tacitly repudiates the wild idea of the Globe that the average level of Lake Simcoe should be lowered, with all the damage that would result. We are glad to find Mr. Brock, who, from former acquaintance with that portion of the country is familiar with this aspect of the question, and therefore is able to deal with it intelligently, thus contributing to make known another great advantage to be derived from the Trent Valley Canal, besides its use as a navigable route."

The letter referred to points out that the proposal to lower Lake Simcoe by blasting obstructions in the Severn River is impracticable, as it is exceedingly doubtful if any enlargement of the Severn could be made giving a sufficient volume of discharge to relieve the Lake from the annual spring freshets which occasion the damage to property which has given rise to the proposal referred to. It points out that the true way to overcome the difficulty, is by the construction of the Trent Valley Canal, which would retain the spring waters on the east side of the Lake, and give an additional channel of discharge to the natural outlet of the Severn, by the constant requirements for supply for lockages, and by waste-weirs, and in this manner the main level of the Lake would be preserved from abnormal disturbances, and the existing difficulty solved without recourse to the Ontario Treasury. It further points out that in this way Messrs. Strange, Little and McCarthy, representing the Counties affected by these inundations, are on this account as much interested in promoting the construction of the Trent Valley, as members more nearly on the line of navigation which it contemplates opening up. The member for North Ontario, too, is equally interested, and ought to join hands with the Trent Valley advocates in the House, since some very fine lands in the township of Mara are rendered useless by these inundations, which would be prevented by the construction of the Trent Valley navigation route.

KEENE.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The Annual Missionary Meeting of the Presbyterian Church took place on Tuesday evening last. The Rev. Messrs. Torrance, of Peterborough, and Harper, of Keene, addressed the meeting. Rev. Mr. Torrance took up the different schemes of the Church, and in discussing the subject, dwelt strongly upon the College Fund and Foreign Missions, such as the Island of Formosa, giving a great description of the work of Dr. McKay in that field of labor.

The tender for the re-building of the bridge over the Indian River at Keene has been given to Mr. James Shearer, of Allandale.

The evangelistic meetings commenced in this place a few weeks ago still continue. Rev. Mr. Stobo preached to a large and attentive audience on Thursday evening of last week. On Sabbath afternoon of this week Mr. Fairbairn, of Peterborough, gave a splendid discourse to a full congregation. No doubt some good has been accomplished, but still there is room for better results. May there be a great awakening among young and old in Keene. The invitation is to all, "Come."

MRS. David Kerr, whom we mentioned in our last issue, is recovering slowly from the injuries which she received by the upsetting of a cutter, while coming from Keene to Roach's Point.

ENNISMORE.

(From our own Correspondent.)

WEATHER NOTES FOR FEBRUARY.—During the month now closed the following has been the result of a correctly-kept record:—Snow fell on 7 days, in each case lightly, only making in all 7¼ inches, or 1¼ inch of water. Rain fell on 3 days, making in all 1⅛ inch of water. The total amount of water falling during the past month amounted to 2¾ inches. We had two extremes of weather during February, when on the 2nd the thermometer marked 25, and on the 24th, 26 degrees below zero; but from the 8th to the 14th it ranged high, on the 12th being 4° above zero, leaving the total of the month at 23° above zero. Although the thaw considerably reduced our amount of snow and on some roads made sleighing tough, still, on the whole, we may congratulate ourselves on having had another month of good sleighing.

THE FRAUD ON THE FARMERS.

From the Ottawa Free Press.

Refering to the recently published letters of "X," the above journal says:—"Here we have statements which bear internal evidence of their correctness, and which agree entirely with reports received from other quarters as to the way the Government has connived with the large milling establishments to defeat the ostensible object of their own policy of protection to farmers. A more dishonest sham could hardly be perpetrated. First, we have the imposition of a duty on American wheat, to cajole the Ontario farmers; next, we have a series of customs regulations by which the millers are enabled to import all the wheat they want for making flour for export and home consumption; then we have the people of the Maritime Provinces paying a premium on this flour made by our large millers from American wheat on the false pretence of helping the Ontario farmers; while as a quid pro quo a duty of sixty cents per ton on coal is exacted from the people of the Upper Provinces on the equally false pretence of helping the miners of Nova Scotia. It is simply a case of stealing all round to benefit a few concerns endowed either through the dishonesty or stupidity of the Government with a monopoly. In every way the Ontario farmer is victimized, but the hypocritical manner with which the Government renders the tariff not only nugatory, but positively injurious to the farmers, is well exposed in the foregoing quotation. Here we see how Canadian wheat is made unsaleable through the competition of the Minnesota grain, the local market destroyed and the products of Ontario farms thrown upon the hands of those who cannot but be losers, and as a natural result reflect their misfortune on the cultivators of the soil. This is certainly a lovely illustration of the wisdom and patriotism of the framers of the tariff for the protection of farmers."

TRACT SOCIETY MEETING.

The meeting of the Tract Society was held on Monday evening in the lecture room of the George-street Methodist Church, Rev. Mr. Fletcher occupying the chair.

Rev. Mr. Bone, of the Welland Canal Mission, gave an exceedingly interesting address, in which he described the work which was being carried on among the sailors and others in that district. He referred to the arguments advanced by apostles of infidelity, and pointed to the fact that all the events of the world for 1880 years dated from the birth of Christ, as one of the grandest monuments to prove his existence among men. He likened the sins of a man who was not troubled by them to a basket of eggs. They might be very quiet just now, but when they were hatched there would be lots of cackling. Sins travels in a circle, sometimes larger and sometimes smaller, but they always come back. If you do not find out your sins and seek forgiveness through the blood of Christ, they will be sure to find you out, and it is better for the sinner to seek forgiveness than to wait till his sins come into the Court. He gave instances of individual conversion among sailors and sea-captains, and read some affecting letters from men who had been brought from death to life as the result of his ministrations. He urged Christian workers to have more faith in their work—to think less of self and place more reliance in the strength of Him whose work they were doing. He urged resort to constant and earnest prayer, and thought that if work were carried on in the spirit of faith and in the name of God, its power would be more effective. He gave details of the extent of the work being done in the circulation of tracts, and gave proofs of the results which had been accomplished.

Rev. Mr. Fletcher said he didn't know when they had witnessed such a Tract Society meeting as the present. He couldn't help thinking how much better the world was getting since he was a child, and thought it an encouraging thing to see the young taking part in Christian work and receiving early the blessings of religion.

Rev. Mr. Stobo testified from personal observation to the good work which Mr. Bone's mission on the Welland was accomplishing. He was doing a useful and much-needed work and God had honored it.

Rev. Mr. Starr had also had personal observation of Mr. Bone's work. He spoke highly of his address, and moved a vote of thanks to that gentleman, which was carried by acclamation.

Rev. Mr. Bone, in returning thanks, said of all the places he had visited he had found none which had taken a warmer place in his heart than Peterborough. They had here large congregations, large contributions and warm sympathy of Christian friends. He would remember his visit to Peterborough as one of the bright spots in his life.

Mr. Stratton in a few remarks, moved a vote of thanks to the Chairman, seconded by Mr. Rutherford, which was carried heartily, and briefly responded to by Rev. Mr. Fletcher. After singing, the meeting was dismissed with the benediction by Rev. Mr. Stobo.

The collection taken up during the evening was $8.75, and the subscriptions received amounted to over $52.

SNOW SHOE RACES.

These races postponed from Monday of last week took place on the following Wednesday. In the walking race in which all members had to compete, McBain came in ahead, Lech second, Burney third, Tate securing the leather medal as last in. In the half mile race there were nine starters, Orde coming in first, Robertson second, Shaw third. There were eleven starters in the 100 yards race, Hilton coming in first after a close tussle with Carnegie, who lost first place by a fall and came in second, Orde being third. Quarter mile race, Orde first, McBain second, Burney third. Hopping race, Berney first, Carnegie second. The second competition for the Stevenson medal followed, supplemented by prizes for second and third. Robertson took first for the second time, McBain second, and A. Lech third. F. Sherwood won the race for boys under 14, H. Rogers second. The "Hurry Scurry" was a very amusing affair and caused no end of sport. Tate was the winner, Orde second, and Burney third, the latter having lost second place by dropping a shoe.

On Tuesday the third contest for the Stevenson medal was run, and after an excellent race, in which McBain laid himself out in amazing style, coming in first, Robertson took second place. As according to the conditions of the race if the winner of two races were not distanced by 50 yards in the third contest he was to take the medal, the trophy was won by Robertson.

PERRYTOWN NEWS.

Early on Saturday night last the residence of Mr. Samuel Sleep, blacksmith at Perrytown, took fire and burned to the grown. The fire originated in the chimney, and Mr. Sleep and his little boy who were the only occupants did not become aware of their being anything wrong until too late to save the contents of the building, as with the exception of a few paltry things, everything, furniture, bedding, clothes, etc, was consumed. Mr. Sleep himself had all his clothes burned; he did not even save a cap.

PETERBOROUGH, MARCH 10, 1881.

Dr. O'Sullivan's Letter.

We last week referred to a letter which appeared in the Review, over the signature of "J. O'Sullivan," a gentleman who seems of late to be troubled with an itch for notoriety. The following is a transcript of the document:

DEAR SIR,—I observe in your local Parliamentary report on Saturday that Mr. Blezard, of East Peterborough, is represented as saying:

"During the general election of 1875, in the riding he represented, the contest was between Mr. Stratton, an Orangeman, and Dr. O'Sullivan, a Roman Catholic. Mr. Stratton refused to give any pledge as to the course he would pursue on the Orange Bill, and Dr. O'Sullivan pledged himself to the Grand Secretary to support the bills; and upon the strength of that promise secured the support of a large portion of the Orangemen, but when the bills were brought forward the doctor opposed them. The Orangemen were strong in denouncing him for deceiving them, but when the time came round for another election, they forgot all their loud talk, and at a convention composed of half or two-thirds Orangemen, at which the County Master, District Master, and several other prominent Orangemen were present, Dr O'Sullivan received the unanimous nomination."

Now, I must say the foregoing paragraph, with two exceptions, is a tissue of falsehood. 'Tis true Mr. Stratton and I were the candidates at the first contest during the general election. It is also true that I was the unanimous nominee of the convention referred to, and to the honour and liberality of the Orangemen be it made known.

But that the Orangemen ever exacted any promise or pledge from me at any time is false. That I spoke to or had any communication with Mr. Van Ingen directly or indirectly for years previous to, during, or for years after that election, is equally false. If the Orangemen were strong in their denunciation it must have been in private lodge, from false representations made by Mr. Blezard and kindred spirits, and even then he betrays confidence and his Orange oath in making it public.

It is true that some parties, perhaps Mr. Blezard and his friends, started a report to the effect of the paragraph quoted. But no one had a better and more ample opportunity of knowing that I, at Norwood, Keene and Westwood, at my public meetings, repudiated the misrepresentation. Therefore, with regret must I infer that the foregoing falsehoods are reckless, wilful and deliberate.

The Orangemen of East Peterborough treated me liberally whatever may have been the object. I cannot therefore see them silently maligned.

I hope my memory in the Local House is not so dead that some hon. member will not call the attention of the Speaker to this breach of privilege.

Yours, &c.,
J. O'SULLIVAN.

Peterborough, Feb. 28th, 1881.

It is said that "fools rush in where angels fear to tread," and this precious epistle affords but another evidence of the correctness of the aphorism. We shall not refer particularly to the literary merits (?) of the letter. The vulgarity and impertinence which characterize it throughout are the outcome of a "horsey" disposition and an unhappy temper, which neither reproof nor good advice would affect; but, when Dr. O'Sullivan charges Mr. Blezard with "reckless, wilful, and deliberate falsehood," and with "betraying his Orange oath," he makes it necessary that his letter receive an attention, which, on his own account simply, we should never dream of devoting to him. Mr. O'Sullivan gives a direct challenge to the statement that he had pledged himself to vote for the Orange bills, and he makes the assertion that he held no communication with and did not speak to Mr. Van Ingen "for years" previous to, during, or after his election. It would be impolite to dispute the Doctor's word, though those who know the active and prominent part which Mr. Van Ingen took in promoting the Doctor's election, cannot but regard the statement as a somewhat peculiar one, to say the least of it. But we may be allowed to remind the Doctor that, at the meetings to which he refers, he made no such repudiation whatever, as he claims to have done. The files of the Review will show that at Norwood on the nomination, he made a statement which led the public to believe that he would vote for the Orange bills, and that he made that statement with a view to satisfy the Orangemen of the fact. He may recall the fact that at his Blairton meeting he made a similar pledge, and that the result was that the Township of Belmont, where parties were pretty evenly divided, and where there is but one Catholic vote, he polled a majority composed of the Orange votes. He must be aware that Mr. Haggart, one of his touters, canvassed the Orangemen in his favor on the ground that he was pledged to vote for the Orange bills. Mr. Van Ingen did the same thing, and the Doctor knows as well as he knows how to handle an abusive pen, that if he had, as he says, "repudiated" the existence of such a pledge, he would not have had the ghost of a chance in that contest. It may be that the Doctor entered into no written compact; but the evidence that there was an understanding, which was carried out and resulted in his election, is too conclusive to admit of the slightest doubt. People are not likely to accept the quibble he advances as any justification for his insulting and abusive attack upon Mr. Blezard. The Doctor maintains that he did not treacherously betray his friends the Orangemen, by voting against the Bills, for which, through his agents, he had pledged himself to vote. We would advise the Doctor to tell that to the marines. He intimates, too, that he was never made aware of any dissatisfaction with his course, on the part of the Orangemen who supported him. If he had ventured into Belmont shortly after he astonished his supporters there by his vote on the Orange Bills, we fancy he might have had personal demonstration, of a very lively character, of the indignation of his dupes at his treachery. The Doctor boasts of the liberality of his Orange friends in renominating him for the second time. All the world knows that it was thoroughly understood before the Convention met that Dr. O'Sullivan would not contest the election. His nomination was part of a previously arranged farce, intended partly as a plaster for his vanity, and partly to influence the Catholic vote in the other riding. Had the Doctor been really desirous of getting the nomination, he would have found his "Orange friends" in quite another humor. The question of veracity raised by the Doctor lies between himself and Mr. Van Ingen, and others of his Orange friends. Mr. Blezard was perfectly correct in his statements, and there was neither room nor occasion for the explosion of ridiculous rage which the Doctor's egregious vanity has led him into. He may rave till doomsday about the non-existence of any pledge to support the Orange Bills. If there was not, then his agents got him his election by false pretences, and he did not scruple to profit by what he must have known to be going on in his behalf. In either case his conduct was equally unworthy, and he ought to be the last man in the world to throw a stone at Thomas Blezard. When he hears of Mr. Blezard getting into the Legislature on false pretences, or promises which he never intends to carry out, or being guilty of bad faith with his constituents, then these two gentlemen may meet upon a common platform. In the meantime, Mr. Blezard stands upon a higher plane, as a man and a politician, than this frothy shallow-pate, who has been so foolish as to expose his own ignorance and envy over the signature of "J. O'Sullivan." One would imagine from the glib impudence with which Dr. O'Sullivan charges Mr. Blezard with "violating his Orange oath," that the Doctor had taken one himself, at some period of his history—we don't know what nauseous medicine his Orange friends administered to him about the month of January, 1875. We cannot refrain from a passing allusion to the concluding paragraph of this remarkable literary production—Dr. O'Sullivan writes:

"I hope my memory in the Local House is not so dead that some hon. member will not call the attention of the Speaker to this breach of privilege."

Dr. O'Sullivan is a great man; though it is true that his unappreciative political friends in the Legislature of 1875-'79 did rate him as the last rag in the tail of Mr. Meredith's kite. However, so long as he entertains a correct idea of his own importance, he regards not opinion of the oi polloi. Now, if he will only concentrate his gigantic intellect upon the following conundrum, and give the world the result in another contribution to the Review, he will confer untold relief to many anxious admirers: Will the Doctor explain in what way Mr. Blezard committed a "breach of privilege" in the speech which has so vigorously aroused the ire of Mr. J. O'Sullivan, or will he explain what "privilege" a defunct politician carries with him from a dead Parliament, that has to be respected in a new House, of which he is not a member? For a satisfactory explanation on the part of the Doctor, we shall be prepared to award him a chromo of cost proportionate to the value of his explanation.

THE CENSUS.

DESCRIPTION OF THE WORK OF THE ENUMERATORS.

In view of the approaching taking of the census throughout the Dominion, a glance at the extent and nature of the work, with the mode of carrying it out, will be found interesting. The particulars as they are given have been gleaned from the list of instructions and schedule of subjects, which are made out for the guidance of the Commissioners and Enumerators, respectively. The instructions are minute, and relate to every subject in such a manner, that it is next to impossible that mistakes can be made.

All persons will be registered in the Province and locality in which their home and family reside, whether they may be absent, such as fishermen, or lumbermen, or those who are travelling abroad. The names of such persons, temporarily absent, will be taken as being present. Therefore names of seamen at sea, college students, and children at schools, sick in hospitals, those temporarily absent at educational, charitable, or penal institutions, are to be taken as if they were at home. And an enumerator finding any person whose home or dwelling is in any other Province will not make any entry of that name, as it will be taken in the Province where his home is.

Servants come under the three categories following:—

1. Those having, or belonging to, families or homes of their own in the Dominion are to be taken with their own families.

2. Those not having homes as above are to be taken with the families with whom they are living.

3. Those in settled employment and resident with any family are to be taken as not having a home of their own.

Persons having a family abode, and no fixed domicile, will be taken wherever they are found, whether on board ships, in schools, in shanties, private houses, or elsewhere. Orphans in public insitutions, and persons in asylums, and persons without family abode, or sentenced for life, will be taken where they happen to be.

A family, is understood for the purpose of census, may consist of one person living alone or of any number living together under one roof, and having their food provided together.

The census returns of Population and Property are to consist of facts as they exist on the 4th day of April 1881. Returns, which are to embrace a yearly period, such as the number of births and deaths, the enumeration of products, &c., are to be counted for the twelve months immediately preceding the 4th of April. Therefore, any person who was alive on the 4th of April, 1881, although he may have died between that date and the date of the enumerator's visit, is to be recorded as if living; and for the same reason infants who have been born after the 4th of April, 1881, are not to be recorded, whether dead or alive.

The enumerator will himself write the answer given to the question arising out of the headings in the most scrupulous manner. The information must be the definite answer of the person to whom the question is to be put; and the enumerator is never to take upon himself to insert anything which is not stated or distinctly acknowledged by the person giving the information. But an enumerator may assist the person giving the information so far as to point out any apparent error, or indicate a fact omitted. In every case he must read over the facts he has taken to the person from whom he has obtained them, for checking the correctness of his entries.

In case of refusal of any person to answer questions put, which are necessary to obtain information required for filling the schedules, or of the enumerator receiving any information which is apparently untrue, it is his duty to warn the person against the consequences of such criminal course; and if it is persisted in, it is his duty then to bring the offender to justice, as provided by the Act.

The enumerator must endeavour, taking for his guide the spirit of the law:—

1. Not to omit anything of importance.
2. Not to record the same thing twice.
3. Not to exaggerate anything.
4. Not to underrate anything.

The intercourse of the enumerator with the public is required to be marked with discretion and forbearance. Persons are to be assured that nothing taken down can by possibility injure or affect their standing or business; as the enumerator is sworn not to make known any circumstances whatever to any person, except to sworn officers of the Department, who are also sworn to secrecy. The commissioners and enumerators are forbidden to give any synopsis of the result of the census, or any part thereof, to any one. The result will be given by the Department at the earliest possible period.

The enumerator must himself, in every case, go to every dwelling or industrial establishment in such district or division at which enquiry is to be made.

The information sought in this census relates solely (with the exception of the returns of population and deaths) to the amount of property held at the time for taking the census, and to the total amount of products of the last twelve months before such taking. For example, a farmer reports having grown 500 bushels of wheat, of which he has consumed 100 bushels, sold 200 bushels, and has still on hand 200 bushels. The whole 500 bushels must be set down in the census, because the farmer appears simply as a producer. On the other hand, the storekeeper or merchant who has nothing to enter in the census for this. So with a manufacturer who has manufactured 10,000 yards of cloth during the last twelve months. He is to enter the whole 10,000 yards, no matter what portion he has sold, or what he has still in stock.

The instructions to the enumerators are very explicit throughout the part of the work which is to be performed by them, to be careful in every matter that is to be entered to avoid mistakes, to be respectful in their bearing, and to secure correct information on the points they have under enquiry.

SUBJECTS.

There are eight schedules, which are as follows:—

1. Nominal return of the living.
2. Return of deaths.
3. Real estate, public institutions, and industrial establishments.
4. Occupied lands, field products, plants, fruits, and other products.
5. Live stock, animal products, home-made fabrics and furs.
6. Products of the forest.
7. Shipping and fisheries.
8. Mineral products.

Every person will be registered by name, family by family, taken from house to house. There is a column for vessels, with persons on board; one for temporary buildings, one for houses in construction or uninhabited. In entering the religion the enumerated must be careful to enter the information given by the person questioned. The origin is to be scrupulously entered, as given by the person questioned. The profession, trade, or occupation must be entered in full, as given.

The registry of deaths is required to be made with extreme care and attention. The causes of death are to be ascertained as nearly as possible without losing time.

Real estate, public institutions, and industrial establishments will include the total number of acres of land in the Dominion; and all institutions of a religious, scholastic, charitable, or penal character: and an industrial establishment is to be known as any place where manufacturing, altering, making up, or changing from one shape into another material for sale, use, or consumption, is carried on.

The schedule for occupied lands, field products, etc., will refer to lands in actual occupation.

Schedule No. 5, relates to live stock, animal products, etc., does not require to be further mentioned.

One of the Most Important Discoveries of this Age.

We make the startling announcement that KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE will cure Bone Spavin and completely remove the enlargement, so that the best horseman cannot tell that the horse ever had a spavin. We make this statement, and give below testimonials from persons who have used it, to prove our statements. It is excellent for removing unnatural enlargements of any kind. It does not blister nor cause any sore. It has no equal, to our knowledge, for spavin, ring-bone, curb, callous, sprain, swellings, galls, lameness from whatever cause, and all enlargements of the joints, or any part of the body or limbs, and is also good for cuts, scratches, wounds, etc.

For man, it is a complete remedy, for Corns, Frost-Bites, or any bruise, Cut or Lameness.

THE BEST REMEDY

FOR

Diseases of the Throat and Lungs.

In diseases of the pulmonary organs a safe and reliable remedy is invaluable. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL is such a remedy. It is a scientific combination of the medicinal principles and curative virtues of the finest drugs, chemically united, of such power as to insure the greatest possible efficiency, and uniformity of results. It strikes at the foundation of all pulmonary diseases, affording prompt relief and rapid cures, and is adapted to patients of any age or either sex. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it readily. In ordinary Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Influenza, Clergyman's Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup, and Catarrh, the effects of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL are magical, and multitudes are annually preserved from serious illness by its timely and faithful use. It should be kept at hand in every household for the protection it affords in sudden attacks. In Whooping-cough and Consumption there is no other remedy so efficacious, soothing, and helpful.

Low prices are inducements to try some of the many mixtures or syrups, made of cheap and ineffective ingredients, now offered, which, as they contain no curative qualities, can afford only temporary relief, and are sure to disappoint the patient. Diseases of the throat and lungs demand active and effective treatment; and it is dangerous experimenting with unknown and cheap medicines, from the great liability that these diseases may, while so trifled with, become deeply seated or incurable. Use AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, and you may confidently expect the best results. It is of acknowledged curative power, and is as cheap as its careful preparation and fine ingredients will allow. Eminent physicians, knowing its composition, prescribe it. The test of half a century has proven its certainty to cure all pulmonary complaints not already beyond the reach of human aid.

The Detroit, Mackinac, and Marquette Railroad Company

Now offer for Sale over 1,350,000 Acres of the Choicest FARMING and TIMBERED LANDS in the Northern Peninsula of Michigan.

Destined to be the best wheat-producing region in the world. These lands are situated in the counties of Chippewa, Mackinac, Schoolcraft, and Marquette, and embrace many thousands of acres of the best agricultural lands in the State of Michigan.

Among those in the counties of Chippewa and Mackinac are tracts of what are known as the "burnt or cleared" lands. These lands offer many advantages over the prairie lands of the West, as the timber lands adjoining insure a supply of fuel at little cost. The soil being a rich clay loam of great depth. The timber remaining upon the land being generally sufficient for the settlers' use in building and fencing.

These partially cleared lands are now offered at the low price of from $4 to $4.50 per acre, one-fourth cash, and the remainder at purchaser's option, at any time within nine years, with interest payable annually at seven per cent.

Roads are being opened through these lands, and no better opportunity has ever been offered to men of small means to secure a good farm, and intending purchasers will be wise by availing themselves of this chance before prices advance, as the lands are being rapidly taken and settled upon.

The lands more immediately on the line of the Detroit, Mackinac, and Marquette Railroad, from Straits of Mackinac to Marquette, are more heavily timbered, and are almost universally good agricultural lands, leaving splendid farms when the timber is removed.

The iron and lumber interests of the upper peninsula are of such magnitude as to call for all the charcoal and lumber that the timber and wood upon the lands will produce—this will enable the settler to make good wages while clearing the land.

Lumber Mills and Charcoal Kilns will be built at various points along the line, and Furnaces are now being erected along the line of the road at Point St. Ignace.

The great demand and good prices for labor, both in winter and summer, make these lands particularly desirable as homes for the poor man. The lands adjacent the Railroad are offered at prices from $5 upwards, according to location, value of timber, etc. The lands are at your very door, and are being rapidly settled by Canadians.

Mr. Thomas Bradley, not noticing the break, was in the act of stepping on to the track, when he was struck by the incoming cars, which forcibly knocked him into the ditch. He was carried home, insensible, and on being examined, it was found that he had been severely bruised on the right temple and on the right side of the chest, and his right arm broken below the elbow.

RAILWAY MEETING.—A very lively and energetic railway meeting was held in this place on the 28th of February, for the purpose of discussing the proposed railway which is to be built from Peterborough to Omemee. Mr. John Best was appointed Chairman, and Mr. Wm. Hickson Secretary. The Chairman called on James McLean, Esq., to address the meeting. He responded to the call and gave a very interesting account of the Toronto and Ottawa Railway, and the Ontario and Pacific Junction line from Gravenhurst to Sault St. Marie, showing the necessity of the latter line being built immediately to secure to the Province of Ontario her just share of the trade of the North-West. He showed what the Midland Railway Company purposed doing in reference to the building of the branch from Peterborough to Omemee, and also that this portion of the road will be a connecting link to form a through line from the North-West to the sea board; also that the road by Mount Pleasant will cost less and is the most direct line from Peterborough to Omemee. Messrs. Henry and Wm. H. Best following, and confirmed the statements made by Mr. McLean in reference to the line from Peterborough to Omemee. Mr. Isaiah Best spoke of the probability of establishing a good grain market here should the line be built through or near Mount Pleasant. Messrs. Metherall, Smith, Carroll and several others addressed the meeting on the purposed branch, after which the following resolutions were passed unanimously by the meeting:—

1st. It is resolved by this meeting, that as it would be a great benefit to this village and vicinity, as well as to the Midland Railway Company, to have the branch that is to be built from Peterborough to Omemee to pass through or near Mount Pleasant, they will assist the Company in examining the route for the proposed road, and promote the welfare of the Company in the future as far as lies in their power.

2nd. This meeting resolve that they have confidence in Mr. Cox, the President of the Midland Railway Company, judging from the former management of the road, they are satisfied that he will work for the interest of this locality, as it will be to the advantage of the Company to build their proposed branch through this village.

After the matter had been fully discussed, James McLean, Esq., Messrs. Isaiah Best and S. A. Best, were appointed as a committee to wait upon the President and assist the engineer in examining the route.

DIALOGUE BETWEEN CANADA AND SIR JOHN.

In the clever brochure, recently published, entitled Flaptoodle, by the author of "H. M. S. Parliament," there occurs the following dialogue—after the manner of Mrs. Hemans—between young Canada and her guardian:

CANADA—I hear them speak of a Policy
That "National" is said to be;
Which will drive away from our suffering shore
Want and depression for ever more.
The nature of this policy,
Sir John, I would now enquire of thee

SIR JOHN—Inquire—inquire, my child!

CANADA—Will it duties place upon everything
Which foreign countries to us bring?
If this be so, it seems to me
The cost of living increased will be!
Shall I pay more for my sugar or tea
Under the National Policy?

SIR JOHN—I think you will, my child.

CANADA—To the working man do you mean to give Sufficient wages whereon to live;
Or do you think that his extra pay
Will on increased prices be frittered away?
If this be so, I fail to see
The benefit of this Policy?

SIR JOHN—And so do, I, my child.

CANADA—If the farmer gets more for his corn and oats—
Will it cost him more for his hats and coats,
Will his mowers and reapers dearer be
Under the National Policy?
If this be so, I pray explain?
What by this "policy" he will gain!

SIR JOHN—Not much, not much, my child.

SIR JOHN—My child, I will now explain to thee
The motive of this our Policy:
The N. P. cry was just the thing
Our party back into power to bring;
This policy, my vedant elf,
Was to turn out the Grits
and get in myself;
That's all, that's all, my child.

THE ALLAN LINE

The Allan line keeps on to the front as one of the most progressive and fastest lines afloat. Goods have been delivered to Toronto this winter in twelve days from Liverpool, and passengers leaving Derry on Friday afternoon have reached Toronto on the Sunday night and Monday morning, making the journey in nine to nine and a half days from Derry to Toronto. The new magnificent steamship Parisian of 5500 tons, built of steel, with saloon amidships, and with all the latest improvements that practical experience can suggest, will in a few weeks take her place in the line. She will have carrying capacity for about 200 cabin passengers and will have very superior accommodation for the transport of intermediate and steerage passengers. Arrangements are now being made to run a line, from Galway to Boston and to Quebec, so as to meet the requirements of the emigrant passengers, which, it is expected, will be very large. The fares charged by the Allan line are reasonable, and in fact lower than those charged by New York lines, while the accommodation given to cabin, intermediate and steerage, not surpassed by any line afloat.

PETERBOROUGH, MARCH 10, 1881.

The Ontario Legislature.

The business of the session at Toronto was brought to a close on Friday last, the House being prorogued by the Lieut.-Governor at 3 o'clock, with the usual formalities. The session has been a busy one, and a large amount of legislation of a useful character has been placed upon the statute books. The most important measures introduced by the Government have been those consolidating the Superior Courts of law and establishing a uniform system of pleading and practice; the amendments giving greater efficiency to the Act respecting sale of intoxicating liquors; the Act to make better provision for the safety of railway employees; Acts protecting the public interests in rivers and streams, and the provision for protecting the railway interests of the Province by ensuring connection with the Canada Pacific Railway and the Western trade for all the railways of Ontario. The Legislature by a vote including only one "nay," again protested against the injustice imposed upon this Province by the continued neglect of the Dominion Government to recognize the Provincial Boundary Award, as settled by the Arbitrators. In all eighty-nine measures have been passed by the House and sanctioned by the Lt.-Governor. The interests of the town of Peterborough, against the dangerous legislation proposed by the Toronto and Ottawa Railway, have been duly protected by the Government, and the town relieved from being intrigued into a debt of $150,000. A liberal appropriation has been made for the continuance of the public improvements in roads, etc., for the benefit of the settlers in the north of the county and for the further extension of settlement, and we have every reason, both from a local and public point, to be fully satisfied with the results of the session, and with the liberality of the Government. The member for the East Riding has been assiduous in his attendance in his duties, and has been zealous and active in looking after the interests of the county. The West Riding, owing to the continued illness of Mr. Scott, which all deplore, has not been represented in the House this session.

Editorial Notes.

IT IS EXPECTED that the Dominion Parliament will conclude its present protracted session about the 18th inst.

SIR CHAS. TUPPER, who has been seriously ill for some time past, has been ordered to England by advice of his physicians, and leaves immediately.

AMONG OTHER MATTER which we are compelled to hold over till next issue, is a copy of a letter addressed to Mayor Smith by Mr. George Hilliard M. P. We propose to give it extended notice next week.

THE WRITS for the vacant seats in Carleton N. B. and East Northumberland have been issued. The nominations will take place on the 18th inst., and polling on the 25th.

THE withdrawal of the bill respecting market fees, this session of the Legislature, will not alter the position of the question. All towns have leased their fees for the present year, and a clause has been added to the Municipal Act restraining them from leasing next year, when the bill will be made law.

IT IS EVIDENT that the Dominion Government is determined to defraud the Province of Ontario out of the extensive and valuable territory awarded to it by the North-West Boundary Arbitrators, as no movement has been made or is likely to be made this session to ratify that award. Quebec influence with the Syndicate agents on the Treasury benches is paramount.

AFTER a severe struggle in the Railway Committee and the House of Commons, the bill of the rival Company of the Toronto and Ottawa enterprise, to secure incorporation, has passed the House. An amendment compelling them to re-imburse the T. and O. Company for their outlay was defeated, although supported both by Sir John Macdonald and Mr. Blake. This appears to us to be an injustice to Mr. Gooderham's Company.

WE QUITE AGREE with the Kingston Whig that the evidence already taken in the investigation at the Brantford Blind Asylum shows conclusively that Dr. Hunter's "usefulness is gone" as Principal of that institution. A man who could act the ruffian with ladies, is not fit to have charge of blind children, and his ill usage of them is not surprising. The Government should dismiss him at once, and replace him by a gentleman.

A CONTEMPORARY, who hasn't the fear of dignitaries before his eyes, hints that the reason why Senator Macpherson does not publish a pamphlet defending his action in relation to the extravagant policy of the Government, is because the person who wrote his former pamphlets (Mr. Farrar of the Mail) has left the country, and he has been unable to get another man, with a like capacity for twisting figures, to fill the vacancy.

THE Review intimates that it is our duty to make public the names of parties who have been allowed by the Government to envade the grain duties in connection with importations in bond. We have done our duty in bringing these matters under the attention of the Government, and if they choose to act they can easily obtain the information. That they will interefere is not likely, since it is only by their connivance that these irregularities can be carried on. We believe, however, Mr. Hilliard is in a position to give the Government, or the Review, the information which our contemporary affects to be solicitous to obtain, and we understand some of the facts, if not all, have already been placed within the knowledge of our contemporary. A letter from one of the most extensive exporters of grain in the Dominion, which has been, we believe, placed in Mr. Hilliard's hands, asserts the belief that the Government has lost at least half a million of dollars in revenue, since the passing of the act, by allowing grain to be imported and sold in the country in competition with Canadian grain, without paying any duty whatever, although the duty is on the statute book. Why does not the Review itself, knowing of this fraudulent evasion of the law, the loss of the revenue, and the injury to the farmers, come out with patriotic independence, and insist upon the honest enforcement of that "National Policy" which is its political "joss."

The Ottawa correspondent of the New York World, referring to the late great state ball at Government House, says:—"The charm of the evening was the dance of the 'Tempete.' To describe this delightfully ingenious method of getting warm would require the pen of a lightning operator. The music is of a sportive, flippant, devil-may-care style, which quickly imbues you with the desire for rapid motion, the 'you' being represented by two or three rows of pairs, the first pair facing the rest, and thus making an immediate quartette. When the music strikes up the two first pairs, each holding hands, advance and retreat twice, keeping strict time to the music. They turn, perform in contrary directions sideways excursions which take them half way across the room at full speed and back again. This is followed by a grasping of hands across on the part of the four, first the right and then the left, as they move in a circle for a few bars in each direction; one more advance, and the second pair raise their joined hands, making an arch under which the first pair pass, to repeat without a moment's pause the whole operation, until the third pair becomes the second and form a quartette with the first, and the fourth and the fifth and the sixth succeed rapidly to each other's places, and the whole row is one rushing, bending, swaying and laughing crowd, looking like the very merry, animated kaleidoscope it is. People were so much delighted last night that when the music stopped there was a general clapping of hands and ooo of satisfaction."

MAINE NEWS.—Hop Bitters, which are advertised in our columns, are a sure cure for ague, biliousness and kidney complaints. Those who use them say they cannot be too highly recommended. THE GREAT CONE PUMP CASE.

OWENS v. TAYLOR.

PROUDFOOT, V.C.

The patent issued 17th July, 1872, for "The Cone Pump and its connections" for a period of five years, and on the 16th July, 1877, it was extended for another period of five years. Powell, the patentee, in the specification attached to the patent, claimed as his inventor:—

1st. The Cone-shaped Pump, head or stock.

2nd. The oscillating or rocking support for the fulcrum pivotted, or secured at or near the surface of the ground.

3rd. The combination of the oscillating support with a wooden pump.

4th. The arrangement of two cylinders and connecting chamber with the lever connecting with the plunger rods in the cylinder.

And these were the improvements in pumps covered by the patent.

There was abundant evidence that the cone shape was not new, pumps tapering in a similar way for a similar purpose, to enable them to be banded and thus give additional strength, have been long in use. It had been used, according to different witnesses, from fifty years ago downwards.

The rocking support or fulcrum also was shown by several witnesses not to be new. Powell himself says:—"The oscillating fulcum is an old thing; fastening it to the side of the pump is an old thing; the advantage of mine is fastening it nearer to the ground." Similar rocking supports are figured in the Scientific American for 1856 and 1857, and Reports of Patent Office of Washington, for 1855, 1857, 1859, 1860, 1862 and 1868, which involve the same principle, but different mode of attachment to the pump, some being nearer the top of the stock.

One witness saw 40 years ago a pump with a rocking support used for pumping water in York, in England, and the fulcrum rested on the ground and fastened about 8 inches from base of pump. Another witness said that thirty-two years ago he worked at the tin mines in Cornwall, where pumps with with oscillating fulcrum were to be seen on every ledge. The patent is for a fulcrum attached at or near the ground. In the diagram attached to the specification, it is not attached to the pump stock, but to a stand upon which the pump rests. Powell says that before he got his patent, he saw an oscillating support set up on the top of the spout, (that would be about half way up the stock). He attaches his to the stock. The nearer to the ground the better. It would need experiments to determine how far from the ground it could be with advantage. Without having made such experiments, it seems to me impossible to say that attaching the support 6 inches, 12 inches, or 18 inches lower, could be the subject of a patent.

The combination of the oscillating support with a wooden pump, does not seem to have been new any more than the parts of which it was composed. But I apprehend that changing the material of the stock would not render that patentable which was not so before.

The fourth claim set out above has never been used and is therefore void. (35 Vic., C. 26, S. 28.)

It would be of little use to give a lengthened analysis of the cases. I have referred to all those that were cited to me and others.

They appear to establish that the element of invention is wanting in this case.

In my opinion the patent is void for want of novelty.

HUMBUG STOPPED!

G. Owens and his agents have systematically canvassed the surrounding Counties, distributing Circulars, and also threatening all those having Taylor's Pumps, or any person who they thought were about to purchase the same, asserting that they would be compelled to pay him (Owens) for said pumps, and that they would have to destroy the same, thus intimidating the public, for the purpose of damaging my business as a manufacturer of pumps.

All this humbug I have now succeeded in stopping.

Feeling satisfied that the public will now appreciate my endeavors to obtain free competition as the best mode of regulating trade for all, I would inform them that I am still prepared to supply everything in the pump line on the best possible terms.

BICKLES' BREAK.

WHY A MAN WOULD HAVE GIVEN A THOUSAND DOLLARS TO SEE MRS. BICKLES.

Mrs. Bickles talked a great deal of her early opportunities. 'To think, Mr. Bickles,' she would say, 'that I could have married rich.'

'I suppose you could have married Rich,' was Bickles' stereotyped rejoinder. 'Bill Rich would have married anyone.'

'I don't mean that. I mean that I could have married well enough——'

'But I suppose you chose to follow the kind admonition to let well enough alone.'

'You never could understand anything. I can count twenty men who would have given the best part of their lives to have married me.'

'And they would have given the best part of their lives to have married you.'

Then the conversation would cease, Mrs. Bickles, reflecting of course, that she was not appreciated, and to say the least was imposed upon by her husband.

The other night when Bickles went home, he found his wife particularly retrospective. She talked of the past with a tear, and talked of the future with a sigh.

'Oh, by the way,' said Bickles, as he sat on the side of the bed, pulling off his boots, 'I saw a gentleman down town to day who would give a thousand dollars to see you.

'Who was he? Does he live here?'

'I don't know his name.'

'I'll warrant it was Oliver Gregg.'

'No.'

'Then he must be George Weatherton.'

'Guess again. I might know his name if I was to hear it.'

'Oh, I do wish I knew.' said the lady, exhibiting excitement. 'Was it Oscar Peoples?'

'Guess once more, I remember his name now.'

'Harvey Glinkins.'

'No, his name is Lacy Wentwing.'

'I don't know a man by that name. Why would he give a thousand dollars to see me?'

'Because he's blind.'

It was well that Bickles had removed his boots, for thus divested, he was enabled to move around with more alacrity.

HOW TO PREPARE CALCIMINE

Soak one pound of white glue over night, then dissolve it in boiling water, and add twenty pound of Paris white, diluting with water until the mixture is of the consistency of rich milk. To this any tint can be given that is desired.

LILAC.—Add to the calcimine two parts of Prussian blue and one of vermillion, stirring thoroughly, and taking care to avoid too high a color.

BROWN.—Burnt umber.

GREY.—Raw umber, with a trifling amount of lampblack.

ROSE.—Three parts of vermilion and one of red lead, added in very small quantities until a delicate shade is produced.

LAVENDER.—Make a light blue and tint it slightly with vermilion.

STRAW.—Chromo yellow, with a touch of Spanish brown.

BUFF.—Two parts of spruce of Indian yellow and one part burnt sienna.

BLUE.—A small quantity of Prussian blue will give a soft azure tint. Dark blue is never desirable.

Delicate tints in the foregoing varieties of colors are always agreeable and tasteful, and so great care must be taken that they are not too vivid. The tints will always appear brighter than in the calcimine pot, and the workmen or workwomen, must keep the fact in mind when adding the coloring powders.

It is a good idea to give the ceiling a calcimine two or three shades lighter than that of the walls, so it may appear merely a delicate reflection of their deeper tones. The ceiling may be calcimined with the lighter tint, and then more coloring added for the walls.

For other walls than hard finish an excellent whitewash is made by slacking lime with boiling skim milk and adding (for half a bushel of lime) three quarters of salt, half a pound of whitening, and a pound of white glue, previously dissolved in water. This is a hard and durable whitewash, does not easily rub off, and when tinted with any of the foregoing shades has about as good an effect as calcimine.

Vienna physicians have beenexamining with much interest a three year old pair of twins, who are no less of a natural curiosity that the Siamese twins were. From the breast bone down they had but one body; above that they are two wholly separate and complete organisms. They have only two legs and feet, but four arms. The sense of feeling in the two upper parts is entirely distinct and individual. At the moment of medical inspection, one of the heads looked peevish and occasionally cried on account of a painful tooth, while the other looked fresh and lively, and shouted "mamma!" The inner arms come in conflict, and cause fights between the twins. Though the pair have one body below the breast, they do not get hungry at the same time. The left foot seems to be connected only with the left head, and the right foot with the right head. One of the feet was pinched, and only the head that side cried out.

TEAS! TEAS!

CHINA and JAPAN.

As an article of Domestic use, there is none perhaps for which there is at the present day a greater demand in the aggregate than TEA.

Notwithstanding the increased demand, yet the price of TEAS is lower to-day than it has ever yet been.

The causes which have procured so desirable a result to the TEA-DRINKER are practical.

FIRST:—A more extended and scientific system of cultivation in the Tea producing countries.

SECOND:—Cheaper and better carrying facilities, and

THIRD:—Increased and closer competition amongst traders and dealers.

TEAS are popularly known as Green, Black and Japan, and of each of these there are a number of grades and varieties. Thousands of pounds are annually adulterated and sold in this country.

For description of grade, modes of adulteration, and tests for detection, see "ads" to follow.

Meantime we offer JAPAN TEA at 40c. per pound. NONE BETTER. TRY IT!

Co-Operative.

NOT AFRAID!

We are not afraid of competition from any source, from co-operative stores or dry goods stores, or any other kind of stores.

The people of Peterborough, as a whole are quite wide awake to their interests, and will buy their goods where they are best served. A co-operative store has as much right to sell dry goods, and pins and needles, as a dry goods store has to go into boots and shoes.

The real secret of business success is to be thorough in whatever branch is taken up. as a general rule a jack-of-all-trades is master of none, whether he has on his sign that he is a co-operative, dry goods or grocery Store, or whatever it may be. We keep strictly to the branch of business we have adapted, Tailoring and Gents' Furnishings, and as a result do a good trade.

We therefore can smile at the frantic efforts of any, whose foundation is so insecure that they view with alarm the establishment of any new business.

Vivienne's Crime;

OR,

FOR LOVE OF HIM.

By the Author of "CLEVTON MANOR," "MRS. SHELDON'S AMBITION," &c., &c.

No one spoke much after that, except the Doctor, and that only to tell them how he had died and when. Ethel went about the house with quiet steps, and Paul waited, a little moodily, for the hour of his departure.

Doctor West was forced to lie down for an hour before starting on his daily round, and it was Ethel who walked up the lane with Paul Knox to the station, when the time came that he must go. People had heard by then that the master of Thornton was dead, and grave faces met them here and there on the way; for the Thorntons were ever a kindly race, besides being native to the soil, and they were well liked.

Passing the Rectory gates, Herbert Grant, dreaming among the prim flower-beds, saw Paul and Ethel, and as a matter of course came down the walk to speak to them.

"Then you are really going, Paul?"

"Yes; I am off at last."

"I'm afraid we shall all miss you much," said the Rector, stepping round to Ethel's side and turning his face towards the station also.

Paul saw the movement with a smile, though his eyes, turned on the Rector, were grave enough. "Will you come and see me off, Mr. Grant?

"Yes; I will walk as far as the station with you, though in a sense I am sorry to have to do so," he answered.

"Nay, I must have gone some time; as well to-day as any other."

The three walked on together up the hilly, roughly-paved street, sunny and pleasant enough just then, with glimpses of the sea breaking into view at chance corners and echoes of the sea stirring in the warm hush.

Naturally they spoke of the death of Gilbert Thornton, and of the grief of his mother.

"Jocelyn will be the master, now," said Herbert Grant; "and I don't doubt but he will make a good one."

Ethel's face burned at the words, and as the trio turned into the station the Rector saw the tinge. At the sight of those hot cheeks and down-dropped eyes a new light broke upon him, a new pain also; and after that he talked no more of the Thorntons.

Paul Knox seemed in high spirits at the prospects of starting. He had not been in such a mood since he came, Ethel said, reproachfully; it showed he was glad to leave them.

"And should I not be glad?" he asked. "I am going back to my work; and when my fortune is made, I shall come here to spend it. I am glad to go, that I may make haste to get back, and for that reason only. You will own that it is a good one."

Ethel smiled somewhat doubtingly. Herbert Grant, full of a new jealously not natural to the man, bit his lip as he listened.

"Every one loves her," he thought; "how could I hope to win her above them all? Even this Paul, with his many odd ways, has grow to love her, it would seem; and girls take strange fancies. She may love him—who knows?"

Paul, nodding good-bye out of the carriage window as the train moved past, little guessed the Rector's thoughts, or he surely would have laughed outright; for, notwithstanding his odd ways and his half-cynical gravity, no man had a keener sense of the ludicrous than this same Paul Knox.

* * * * * * *

Gilbert Thornton was buried. With much pomp and much genuine sorrow he was laid to rest in the family vault, where the dead Thorntons of long years back were duly collected.

Then it was that Jocelyn began to feel what it was to be the head of the house. True, he had been proxy for years, but now it was different. He had had poor Gilbert to fall back upon always; now he must stand alone.

On the day of the funeral, as the small party sat together in the drawingroom, he learned what he had not before dreamed of, that his brother had left a will.

As the family lawyer unrolled his papers, and settled his gold eyeglass to his satisfaction, Vivienne Stuart, sitting in her deep mourning dress by Mrs. Thornton's side, felt a shiver run through her, while her hands turned icy cold and her cheeks flamed crimson.

"Had the dead struck at her from the grave? Must she lose Jocelyn, after all?" Thoughts like these whirled through her brain as her eyes watched the methodical little man of law. Not that this girl cared one straw for Thornton or its broad acres. Had she been penniless, they would still have been nothing to her. As it was, they were less than nothing, save as they concerned Jocelyn. He cared for them, she knew: his mother cared for them far more than for their value—for the sake of the race that had lived and died on them, whose memories still clung about the old house, whose name still lived, handed down from generation to generation. The place was an inheritance prized by all who had lived there—by none more than this stately gray-haired lady and her handsome son. "A Thornton of Thornton"—the name had a deep meaning for those who knew the house. To have ceased to be that would have been keen pain to Jocelyn, Vivienne knew—pain that not her wealth, her beauty, nor her love, might ever wholly cure.

She understood this so well, that those few minutes before the lawyer began the reading of Gilbert Thornton's will were as hours of torture to her, never quite forgotten while she lived.

The first few words had no meaning for her; but, as the old man read on, her brain got clearer, and she began to realise that her fears had been groundless after all. Her exquisite lips trembled in the fulness of her joy, which almost took the form of thanksgiving in the strange heart of this girl, where the tares crushed out the good seed so wilfully.

The whole of the property was left to Jocelyn. The mother had her own jointure, independent of her sons; so her husband, dying, had willed it.

To Ethel West, "of the village of Thornton, only child of Doctor Philip West, the sum of ten thousand pounds" was left, as "slight token of the great love he, Gilbert Thornton, had ever borne her."

The Doctor, present at the request of Mrs. Thornton, changed colour as he listened. For almost the first time in his life he felt embarrassed and shy. Jocelyn's face flushed hotly; he was not thinking of the gift itself itself so much as of the wording concerning it. It told him what he had not guessed before—his brother had loved Ethel West. Then he began to understand the meaning of many things that had puzzled him hitherto.

Mrs. Thornton was simply angry: she was a woman fond of money, and not over-generous under any circumstances. Nor was she even delicate about her present displeasure, for she allowed it to be seen by all, the Doctor among the rest. This legacy seemed to her rank folly. If she had dared, she would have contested the point to the last; but she knew Jocelyn's temper too well to risk that.

Doctor West, going home after a very formal leave-taking, wished in his heart that Gilbert had not left Ethel this money. True, it lifted a fear off his mind that had always pressed heavily upon it—the dread of one day leaving Ethel alone in the world with poverty; still, he could not help thinking that this whim, generous as it was, of poor Gilbert might prove more of a bane than a blessing.

"It has turned Mrs. Thornton against her already; and who can tell how it may effect Jocelyn?"

So the good Doctor brooded, walking slowly over the shining sands, little dreaming of all the pain, and bitterness, and sore distress this new-found wealth would bring into his life, and the life of the golden haired-girl who was his treasure, his little ewe lamb.

CHAPTER XIV.

Gilbert Thornton dead and in his grave, Jocelyn, his brother, was free to marry the woman he loved best—free to cast off all the frail ties which bound him to the woman he had loved first.

The haunting wish of Vivienne Stuart was fulfilled at last. There was no one in the wide world to come between her and her love now—not even Ethel.

Ethel was not in Thornton. Her father had sent her away on a visit to a friend of theirs, residing in a quaint, old-fashioned town among the Lincolnshire fens.

"She is far from strong," he said to Mrs. Thornton, speaking of her, "and I wished her to get a little better before telling her of your son's legacy to her."

"Then she does not know of it?"

"Not at all. I judged it best not to disturb her in her present weak state."

The old lady, fond of the Doctor, grateful to him after a fashion of her own, fidgeted with her rings, a trifle restless. There was one thing he wanted much to say, but he did not well know how to begin. Doctor West was a proud man. No one knew that better than she. He came of a family as good as her own, and that did not mend the matter.

Looking out on the flaming dahlias in the garden, the Doctor seemed utterly unconscious of her hesitancy. He talked on much as usual, and presently rose to go. Then, for the first time that morning, Mrs. Thornton looked at him boldly.

"If you can afford the time to listen, Doctor, there are a few words I should like very much to say to you. It is early, perhaps, for me to speak, and you may think so; but, while Ethel is away, I feel that the occasion is opportune."

He sat down instantly at this—a man very calm and grave, patient and attentive. But this very attention troubled Mrs Thornton, and she did not get on quite so smoothly as at starting.

"If I am not mistaken, Doctor, you are aware that Jocelyn at one time asked Ethel to marry him. We are old friends you know, and so can afford to be plain and candid with each other."

"I have heard that such has been the case, Mrs. Thornton."

Her delicate hands were more restless than ever; a faint pink blush came and went in her cheeks.

"May I ask who it was that told you? I know it was not Jocelyn."

A pucker gathered round the Doctor's set lips.

"Not Jocelyn, as you say, but his brother."

"I thought so. I felt sure in my own mind that it was he who had told you about it."

There was a ring of annoyance in her voice; the shadow of vexation showed plainly in her face.

Doctor West made no reply, but sat and waited for her to continue, looking at her with intent eyes, that read her face as they might have read a printed page. She was feeling not only annoyed but puzzled; she had been brought to a standstill just when she thought she had started the subject nicely.

"Poor Jocelyn is very impulsive," she said, at last, flushing hotily all over her face as she uttered the words. "He spoke to dear Ethel—whom, believe me, Doctor, I love as my own child—far too rashly and hastily; since that time circumstances have arisen to—to——" she stammered, and then stopped, still flushed and nervous.

"To cause him to regret it, Mrs. Thornton—I presume you would add."

"Just so—exactly. You always put things so nicely; and I am so glad you understand me, Doctor. You will now be able to help me to make things pleasant for the young people when the right moment arrives. I have felt quite uneasy about the matter at times—quite uneasy."

She was so thankful at having the ungracious task—self-imposed as it had been—well over that she was prepared to be confidential. She might even have gone on there and then to tell her companion how Jocelyn loved Vivienne Stuart, and how Vivienne Stuart loved Jocelyn, but that the Doctor, rising suddenly, stayed her tongue.

"Am I to understand that your son requested you to tell me this, Mrs. Thornton?"

"Oh, no not at all, not at all. Jocelyn knows nothing whatever about it. Indeed, I feel sure he would not like to have had it named to you even by me so soon after our trouble."

Her eyes grew misty; her voice quivered a little. She had loved eldest born as well as she could have loved him, understanding his real nature not at all.

Perhaps the sight of her sorrow, so easily awakened, touched the Doctor, for he paused at something he was about to say, and looked away for a second, thinking.

"Then I shall consider this as having been spoken in confidence between us," he said, after a little.—"Strictly in confidence, Doctor West."

"Very good. Then, when your son knows his own mind in this matter, and finds it necessary to consult me, I shall be happy to hear from him. Until then, I can take no cognisance whatever of this affair."

Very proud and stately this country Doctor looked, standing there in the golden sunlight—a man not to be lightly patronised or set aside by any one—a man who plainly that very little of that moment of the new master of Thornton—very little of his mother even.

That lady, somewhat surprised, and inclined in her heart to be angry, had no answer ready for this independent speech of his. Without appearing to expect any the Doctor soon bade her "Good morning" and went off on his daily round.

This interview was about three weeks after Gilbert was buried. And Ethel did not come back for three months and more.

During that interval Jocelyn Thornton was learning how little he had ever loved her, how much he loved Vivienne Stuart this wayward Vivienne, over whom a change had crept, a change for which he could find no reason. It seemed as if the fear of losing him through which she had had passed those late Autum days, when Gilbert lay dying, had left its impress upon her. Since then she had not been the same girl. The pain those weeks of suspense had called into her eyes had never quite left them. Sad eyes they were, even though full of love for him; and often, looking into them, Jocelyn felt his own grow dim.

He would have written to Ethel, telling her now what he had not cared to tell her while his brother lived—that his love was gone from her; but with a strange perverseness Vivienne would not let him.

"No" she said; "wait till she comes back, and then tell her yourself. She will like that best, I know."

Was she growing careful of this girl whose treasure she had stolen, now, when care of hers was little better than an insult? It would seem that she was. And easy, reckless Jocelyn gave her her way in this as in all things else. The present was so pleasant, he did not care to bring one discord into it. What Ethel's answer to him would be, he knew well—as well as if she had already given it.

In December Ethel came back. The lane, the garden, the grim crags, were white the day she passed through the clumsy little gate, and looked round with glad eyes on the old well-known places.

Ethel had been home-sick. She had so longed and pined for home during those months she was away, that at last her father had to go himself and bring her back. But for all that, her journey had done her good. She was looking fairer and fresher for it; and something of the old brilliance was in her eyes that first night of her return, as she sat by the fire chatting with her father. She had much to tell him. He had much to tell her, and of the strong, deep love that had prompted it.

He thought it better that she should know this. He judged it only fair to the dead that this deep, true love should be laid, in its sorrowful strength, its painful simpleness, before the girl who would profit by it. Listening to him, she cried softly. Her heart ached for patient Gilbert, who had loved her all these long years.

NOTE—Eclectric—Selected and Electrised.

NOT THE SLIGHTEST AFFINITY exists between the nameless cough mixtures with which the market is flooded and that successful preparation, Northrop and Lyman's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil and Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda. It stands alone, distinct, itself, and nothing else. It embodies the best results of pharmaceutical science. It accomplishes positive, decisive results, effectually relieving coughs when the lungs are not tuberculous or hopelessly affected) colds, laryngitis and diseases of a scrofulous origin. While it does not cure Consumption it is the most reliable means of defence against that dreaded scourge. The invigorating properties of the hypophosphites reimburse the system debilitated by the constant tear and wear of a cough, while the paroxysms rapidly diminish in violence, in consequence of the soothing emollient action of the cod liver oil upon the inflamed lung mebrane. The phosphorus, lime and soda, in combination with it are all natural components in the construction of the bodily edifice, which, in a state of decay, lacks a sufficiency of these elements. These the hypophosphites supply, increasing the nutritive properties of the blood, and building up and rehabilitating the tottering human structure with a degree of promptitude as astonishing as it is gratifying to the invalid. A perceptible gain in flesh as well as strength is one of the consequences of using this standard preparation, which both time and experience have demonstrated to be fully worthy of the confidence reposed in it. Prepared by NORTHROP & LYMAN, Toronto and sold by all druggists.

CONSUMPTION CAN BE CURED

IS A FACT ATTESTED BY THE HIGHEST MEDICAL AUTHORITIES IN THE WORLD.

A careful observance of the laws of health, and the systematic and persistent use of Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil with Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda will accomplish this result. This preparation has all the virtues of these two most valuable specifics, in a form perfectly palatable, and acceptable to the most delicate stomach, and we make the unqualified statement that Scott's Emulsion is being used with better results, and endorsed and prescribed by more physicians for Consumption—and the diseases leading to it, such as Chronic Coughs, Bronchitis, Scrofula, Anæmia, General Debility and the Wasting disorders of children than any other remedy known to medical science. The rapidity with which patients improve on this food medicine diet, is truly marvellous.

SEE WHAT PHYSICIANS AND THE PEOPLE SAY ABOUT IT.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE: 66 West Thirty-sixth Street, New York, Sept. 2, 1876.

GENTS—I have frequently prescribed SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES during the past year, and regard it as a valuable preparation, in scrofulous and consumptive cases, palatable and efficacious. C. C. LOCKWOOD, M. D.

MESSRS SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last year I have used my own family, and in my private practice very extensively SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES and found it a most valuable preparation, especially in diseases of children. It is agreeable to the most delicate stomach; which renders it a very reliable agent, as a nutritive remedy in consumptive and scrofulous cases. Yours respectfully, A. H. SAXTON, M.D., Baltimore: Oct. 12, 1879.

MESSRS SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—Within the last two months I have fairly tried SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL with HYPOPHOSPHITES, and I candidly declare that it is the finest preparation of the kind that has ever been brought to my notice; in affections of the lungs and other wasting diseases, we can consider it our most reliable agent, in a perfectly elegant and agreeable form. Very truly, J. SIMONAUD, M.D., New Orleans, La. December 10th, 1878.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE:—Gentlemen—In September, 1877, my health began to fail and my physician pronounced it spinal trouble; under his care I got some relief from pain, but my general health did not improve, and early in the winter I began to raise blood and rapidly grew worse. In May last I was taken with a violent bleeding which brought me to my bed and my life was despaired of for many weeks; the most symptoms appeared, night and morning coughs, night sweats, short breath, and a return of the spinal trouble. My physician stopped the bleeding and then ordered Cod Liver Oil and Lime; and I used various preparations, but they did me no good. I lost all hope of life, and was an object of pity to all my friends. Last September I purchased a bottle of your EMULSION and before it was all taken I was better. I then bought a dozen bottles and have taken all with the following results: Cough subsiding, night sweats stopped, appetite returned, pains in spine disappeared, strength returning, and my weight increased from 118 to 140 pounds in sixteen weeks. I have taken no other medicine since commencing with your EMULSION and shall continue its use until I am perfectly well. I frequently meet some friend on the street who asks, what saved you and I answer, SCOTT'S EMULSION OF COD LIVER OIL, &c. I have a friend who has not spoke aloud for 18 months and he is getting better. I gave him a bottle, and he bought two more, think get a dozen and says it is food and medicine for him. He was given up to die a year ago and he is improving now wonderfully. My recovery is exciting the surprise of many people, and I shall do all I can to make known your valuable medicine. Jan. 20, 1879. Very truly yours, H. F. BLOQUM, Lowell, Mass.

MESSRS. SCOTT & BOWNE: LYNN, Randolph Co., Ind., July 2nd, 1878.

About the 15th of last April I got a bottle of your EMULSION and at that time I was so prostrated that no one who saw me thought I could live but a few days at most. I could retain nothing on my stomach and was literally starving. I commenced the use of the EMULSION in small doses; it was the first thing that would stay on my stomach; I continued its use, gradually increasing the dose; and from that time I commenced mending, and now am able to ride and walk, and am gaining flesh and strength rapidly. I have advised other parties to try it, and three or four have already used my EMULSION and I am sure I shall entirely recover. I am truthfully yours.

DAIRYMEN'S CONVENTION.

Instruction for Butter and Cheese Makers.

Addresses by Messrs. J. B. Harris and Hon. Harris Lewis, of New York.

(Concluded from last week.)

The Convention re-assembled on Tuesday evening of last week, James Elliott, Esq., in the chair.

Mr. Harris Lewis addressed the convention on the subject of "The Cow." Mr. Harris had said that neither Cotton nor Corn was King, and he presumed the Cow was Queen. From the beginning to the end of life the cow was the closest of all domestic animals to our lives, and the most beneficial. She was constantly engaged in supplying us with food or in propagating her species. He would refer to the cow first as to selection then as to food, and after as to the best method of caring for her. As to selection, there was not a single cow that was best adapted to all the functions which they performed. In selecting a cow for a specialty, he would select a cow first with regard to the specialty contemplated, and then adapt her to the soil. If you look to butter, you should select a butter cow without regard to the quantity of the milk. There were three breeds that he would select from for this purpose. The Channel Island Cow, the Holderness and the Dairy are among the best for this purpose. The Holderness was a large cow, but for lands like this district he would prefer a smaller cow. If he wanted to adapt a cow to a locality where food was scarce and where the country was broken, he would take a small cow. The Devons possess strength and activity, and were a good butter cow. The characteristics of the Devon were so firmly fixed that they were impressed upon the third and fourth generation. The Ayrshires also possess many merits for pasturing where the land is rough and hilly. For making cheese in this district he would prefer the Ayrshire, but he would select one that had good teats. Care should be taken in the Ayrshire line to breed from cows that had large teats. If he were engaged in butter making on level and productive lands he would select a larger cow. For this purpose he would prefer the English Holderness. The Princess cow was a good butter cow for low lands. The Ayershires were very good, but not so good as the Shorthorns. In the Channel Island and Devon breeds, there were 24,000 butter globules in a single drop of milk. In the Ayershires there were 30,000, and in the Holstein, 35,000. The smaller the butter globules the slower they rise to the surface, and the richer the skim milk. The larger they were the sooner they would rise and the poorer they left the milk. In he would begin with the common cow, and then adapt, through the sire, the breed to the requirements of your business. Breeding from a thoroughbred sire with a common cow, the first cross would be a half-breed; the second ¾; the third 15-16; and the 4th, 31-37 blood; and as the generations of a cow were not long, it may be seen how rapidly you approach the ideal animal for which you are breeding. To establish a Canadian or American thoroughbred was impossible. We must take the English thoroughbreds, and adapt our own cows to them by breeding up. He knew of no way by which the best results can be attained so cheaply or so thoroughly as by breeding up from our common cow. The calf that was raised with the herd was easier to raise and adapted itself more rapidly to the surrounding circumstances, and at the same time inherited the finer blood of the sire. The common cow was a good engineer. It will ascend a hill by the easiest gradients, and will return in the same way, or will go down sideways, feeding as it goes. He had watched thoroughbreds transferred from level lands, and at first they would ascend a hill straight up, exhausting themselves while they should be feeding, and it took a long time for them to acquire the adeptness of the common cow. Having selected the cow that you consider best adapted to the lands, and to the business you design to follow, the next important thing was

BREEDING FOR SPECIALTIES

HER FOOD.

It was a foolish thing to keep a cow and feed her just enough to keep her alive. If you have a cow weighing 1,000 pounds, she requires every day two per cent. of that weight in good hay to keep her alive. That is the food of support. If you feed her 21 pounds of hay you get a profit from her only on the one pound beyond the food of support. If you feed her 30 lbs. you get a profit on ten pounds, and if 40 on 20 lbs. of the food, in the milk. If you keep a cow it pays to feed her well. As a rule the dairy cow should not be overfed. He would not feed grain. He would prefer the kind of food most natural for the cow. Grass cut green and dried was the best food. In the coldest weather the temperature of the stable should not depart much from 45°, and he would have stables so constructed that the temperature never got above the temperature outside. Above the stable he would have a tight floor, and there should be stored the winter food, taking care always at the bottom to place grass cut very early and dried for use in spring feeding. He would give only two feedings per day. If you feed softer food you may give oftener, but for dry food the cow wants ample time to digest what she has swallowed. The time required was from morning till evening. Care should be taken to

FEED REGULARLY.

There was a great difference between the tender succulent food of summer and the cured food of winter. When the head of grass first protrudes from its shield it will produce more milk than when fully headed, and when fully headed it will produce more than when in blossom. Grass should be cut early and dried for feeding the cow in the spring, so as to make the transition from dry winter food to the summer food easier and gradual. When feeding dry food, a peck of roots per day benefitted the cow. He had succeeded best with yellow mangles. When feeding roots the cow should not have any the less hay. The roots enabled the cow to digest more readily. They tone the stomach, make the hair straight, and the cow feels well when she is eating them; hence he would use them for food. When the spring approaches the cow is sensible that the time is at hand for her to return to her natural food, and she gets impatient to be freed from the long tedious confinement of the winter. As soon, therefore, as the ground was dry enough to bear the weight of the cow without cutting through, he would open the gate and let the cow go to grass; but he would still continue to feed her hay morning and night. There were advantages in turning the cow to pasture early. She will crop the spots where the ground is richest, as it grows more rapidly, and will keep cropping it as it comes up, keeping the pasture evenly cropped. He would by no means divide a pasture. There should be but for a cow. When shifted from pasture to pasture it tended to derange her whole system. Being a creature of methodical habits she gets unsettled and nervous, and the effect is a falling off of milk. In one pasture the food is kept uniform, from day to day, and the supply even. Having got the cow to grass she has all that nature requires for her. Perfect milk comes from healthy, grass-fed cows, and perfect milk is perfect food. For cases of drought he provided by sowing a piece of ground with 1½ bushels of peas and a bushel of oats to the acre, sowing very early. When the third joint of the oat begins to turn yellow he cut it and put it up in barn, and when the grass was short he fed it night and morning. In pinching time of drought, he would feed it liberally. If you wanted anything better than this, he would seed down a piece, about one acre to five cows, and seed it down with fine grasses and clover. He cut it in the first week in June, cured it nicely and laid it by for the feed of the cows in the early spring. You would be sure of a second crop in the last of July or the first of August, and you always had natural and proper food to feed liberally, no matter how severe the draught. He preferred orchard grasses, Kentucky blue grass, the short clover, red top, etc. All long-fibred grasses were better, as they stay in the ground better. Timothy was not a long liver, and was easily trampled out of the ground. He had a piece of meadow seeded with these grasses, of which he had cut

EIGHTY CROPS IN FORTY YEARS.

One secret of this success was that the ground had never borne a crop of grain. Grain is very exhaustive to the land, whereas grasses were very reproductive. Did any one ever know a well-kept lawn to run out, no matter how often you clipped it? The same principle would hold good with meadows. He had found with good management, providing thus a store of natural food for emergencies, he could rely upon as much milk and butter in July and August as in any other month. A very important part of keeping cows successfully was the supply of water. The cow should not be compelled to act as a filter, as she will invariably retain some of the impurities of what she drinks, and it produces an unfavorable effect on the milk. If you have not running water, you should dig a well and put up a windmill. Have the water where the cow can get at it handily. He had seen some people chop holes in the ice for cattle, and the poor cow had to stand on her head and get the water up like a suction pump. Consult in this respect—it will pay you. Whenever the weather in the fall becomes uncomfortable for the cow put her in the stable, letting her out in the day time. In winter quarters feed twice a day; give water but once a day. Always have salt where the cow can get it when she wants it; it is good for the cow and aids in the assimilation of her food. A spoonful of sulphur with every quart of salt is a good thing—it keeps the cow healthy and wards off diseases. In regard to feeding milking and watering, do everything by the clock. The cow is a creature of habit as much as any of us, though a good deal freer from bad habits. She is a regular time-keeper, and when the time comes for feeding she frets about it if she is not punctually attended to. In milking his cows each man milked the same cows day after day, and milked them in the same

ROTATION.

If you have a cow with a very large yield milk three times a day. A cow giving 50 pounds of milk will give 25 per cent. more milk if milked three times a day. Of all animals in the world to ill-use, and of all places, the cow in the stable should be the last. The man who would kick thump, or beat a cow is not fit to be the husband of any woman or the father of any children. In the spring of the year, when the coat is coming out, the cow should be carded and brushed. The cow is certainly entitled to more consideration than a trotting horse. The rule with the cow, as with all domestic relations, should be kindness. He closed by a humorous sketch of the first cow in the garden, who became Adam's companion and best friend when he was bounced from the garden, and had been so to man ever since.

In answer to an inquiry as to the Little Falls cheese market, he said his butter was sent in gallon jars and always commanded the best prices. Butter at 30 cents a pound would pay rather better than cheese. One pound of butter represented 2½ pounds of cheese. He had used stone stables, but didn't know that they were any better than wood, except as to durability. He thought wood stables lined with cement would be preferable. A cow should average 250 pounds of butter a year without grain. Bran was very good food when pastures were short.

After some conversational remarks the Chairman called on Mr. Harris, who gave the following

DAIRYMAN'S TEN COMMANDMENTS:

I have been repeatedly urged to draw up a set of rules for the observance of the patrons of cheese factories. I have preferred, like Moses, to give my inspiration in the form of a decalogue, without the observance of which no patron need hope to make the land flow with milk and money:

1. Thou shalt not abuse or worry thy cow—thou nor thy maid-servant, nor thy man-servant, nor thy dog, nor the boy whose business it is to "drive up" the cows; and thou shalt at all times treat thy cow gently and kindly, securing her confidence and allowing no one to molest her or make her afraid.

2. Thou shalt not starve nor stint thy cow for food, nor give her poor, innutritious or unwholesome food of any kind whatsoever, but an abundance of that which is palatable and good for her system, that she may keep in good flesh, have a smooth coat, and a clear eye; and thou shalt give her salt to lick whenever she liketh.

3. Thou shalt in no way deprive nor allow thy cow to be deprived of plenty of clean water to drink, nor compel her to wallow in mud or to go long distances to get water, nor to drink out of mud holes, stagnant ponds or pools, nor to sip water from holes in the earth made by her own feet, or the feet of other animals; but thou shalt give her an abundance of spring, brook or well water, kept clean enough for thine own use.

4. Thou shalt give thy cow ample shade in summer and a warm shelter in winter; and the latter shall be kept clean and sweet, and be withal well ventilated; and thy cow shall have room for freedom of motion, a clean bed to lie on, and opportunity for such out-door exercise as she may desire, to the end that her blood shall freely circulate, that her muscle shall not deteriorate and become weak or stiffened, and that her digestion and appetite shall remain good.

5. Thou shalt milk thy cow in a cool place in summer, and when she is not heated or fretted, but standeth quiet and cheweth her cud, and in a clean place at all times; thou shalt clean thine cow's bag, milk her gently, and avoid getting froth into the milk pail; and thou shalt not save for thine own or thine neighbor's use, nor carry to the factory, any milk drawn from a cow with a calf less than four days old, nor milk drawn from a cow suffering from horn and hoof disease, or horn distemper, or fever, or garget, or any other disease, nor from any cow which thou hast reason to believe is suffering from ill health.

6. Thou shalt keep everything about thy stable and dairy house scrupulously clean; thou shalt thoroughly cleanse and scald—not merely rinse in hot water—all the pails, cans, strainers, pans and other utensils used in milking, carrying milk, setting milk, or manufacturing it into any of the products of the dairy; and thou shalt carefully keep thine milk from exposure to a foul, tainted or diseased atmosphere; so shalt thou prevent the oily particles in thy milk from absorbing bad odors, and fever malaria, and the virus of contagious diseases; and thou shalt spare thyself the shame and sin of devouring milk that tasteth of the barnyard, and of introducing diseases into the families of those who eat of the products of the dairy.

7. Thou shalt cool and air thy milk as soon as drawn from the cow, by using the best appliances at thy command—not by putting cold water or ice in it, for that would be violation of both the law and commandments, but by bringing the milk in contact with a cool surface above the freezing point, and exposing thy milk in thin sheets to a clear atmosphere, that it may become charged with oxygen, which hath a wonderful virtue to prevent souring and tainting. It is shrewdly suspected by some of the prophets that airing milk is of more value than of cooling it, and experience sheweth that stirring with a dipper hath a preservative effect that should commend it to every patron of a cheese factory. Thou shalt confine thy milk in a covered can as short a time as possible, and protect it from the rays of the sun and the hot atmosphere. A woollen blanket thrown over the can and a canvas stretched over the milk-waggon would be found quite efficacious—the blanket not to be used unless the milk is cooled.

8. Thou shalt not water thy milk by mixing with it the contents of the spring, the well, the cistern, the brook, the watering-trough or other source of water supply, nor by feeding the cow villainous slops, whey, or extremely succulent food, whereby the contents of the milk can shall be increased in quantity at the expense of quality, with a view of cheating thy neighbor, for thou wilt thereby be cheating thine own soul and stand in constant danger of the penalty of the law.

9. Thou shalt not skim thy milk by taking off the cream that riseth in the can over night, that thou mayest have a little cream for coffee; nor by setting it in pans or other utensils over night; nor by saving strippings, nor by any other process—for if thine own sense of honesty doth not restrain thee thou shouldst constantly have the fear of the law and of the watchful eyes of thy neighbours before thee. It is better to save out a small mess of milk for thine own use.

10. Thou shalt not commit adultery by adulterating the milk with burnt sugar, chalk, salt, soda, or any ingredient or compound whatsoever; nor by giving vile stuffs to the cow; nor by any means, trick, device, or process, known or unknown to the naturally depraved. The laws of the country, the health of the people, especially of the hosts of little ones, who are likened unto the Kingdom of Heaven, cry out against this unpardonable sin.

Under the new dispensation I add the eleventh commandment,—

Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself and keep thy Sunday's milk at home for the purpose of making sweet butter for the use of thy family, and that the cheese maker and all who labor with him in the factory may rest and worship according to the dictates of conscience, on every Sunday. Thereby shalt thou meet the requirements of the Scriptures and of the laws of the country, and prolong the lives and improve the morals of a large and constantly increasing class of useful citizens. By faithfully observing these commandments, the dairyman shall keep a clear conscience, avoid annoying and expensive prosecutions, retain the respect of his neighbors, secure a competency of this world's goods, live a peaceful life, and in his old days "approach the bed of death "like one who wraps the drapery of his "couch about him and lies down to pleas-"ant dreams."

Mr. Harris then gave the following instructions:

HOW TO CURE RENNET.

First—A rennet that is taken from a calf that has never sucked or been fed is rank poison and should never be saved. The calf should be at least three days old before killing. They are usually in their best condition when the calves are from five to ten days old, but they do not vary much in strength so long as the calves live entirely on milk. As soon as they begin to live on solid food, the strength of their stomachs as rennets begins to abate. The stomachs of calves five days old are generally preferred by cheese-makers to those of older or younger calves.

To obtain the best rennets the calf should be allowed to suck or be fed a moderate meal 12 hours before killing. It is a good thing to give the last meal at night, and kill the next morning. 15 hours is not too long, but in going too long without being fed the stomach becomes inflamed and congested with blood giving it a dark reddish appearance, and the disturbed condition thus occasioned is carried with the steepings of the rennet into the cheese and affects it very unfavourably. The calves should live till the curd from their last meal is nearly dissolved, but no longer. As the curd disappears, the congulating agent accumulates, not in the juices of the stomach, as would be supposed, but is deposited in the inside of the stomach forming a delicate coating of faintly flesh color, and very tender, which breaks off in fine flacculent scales upon slight friction. As this coating contains the concentrated strength of the rennet, it is desirable to preserve as much of it as possible. To this end the sac when taken from the calf should be handled with great care. The contents should be emptied out carefully, sac turned inside out, and any specks of dirt or hairs that may appear on it picked off. If further cleaning be necessary it may be carefully wiped with a moist cloth. Water should never be used in cleaning. When sufficiently dried and lightly salted, it is ready for drying which may be done in any convenient way so that it does not waste by drying nor injure by tainting. It may be stretched on a crotched limb, or its ends may be tied and inflated, or it may be cut open and laid on a dry board, which will aid in drying by absorbing its moistures. These modes of preserving are very much better than salting in pickle or filling with salt. If exposed to too much heat rennets lose strength quickly. 120° Fahr. will kill the strength entirely. Therefore they should never be dried on plates, or on tins around the stove.

Mr. Elliott said his experience fully bore out these suggestions in every respect.

After passing resolutions referred to last week, the Convention adjourned.

Down from the dome.
Angels are chanting
The sweet welcome home.
Come, stricken weeper,
Come to the bed.
Gaze on the sleeper;
Our idol is dead.

Smooth out the ringlets,
Close the dark eyes.
No wonder such beauty
Was claimed in the skies.
Cross the hands gently
O'er the white breast;
So like a wild spirit
Strayed from the blest;
Bear her out softly,
This idol of ours.
Let her grave slumbers
Be mid the wild flowers.

IN MEMORIAM.

Against expenditure in honor of the dead Heaven has uttered no prohibition, and Earth is not injured but benefited by them. All those beautiful emblems which adorn the many tombs around which we love to linger, assure us we are in a world of warm and loving hearts; the adorning of the sepulchres of the "loved ones" alleviates our grief and soothes the wounded heart. It also cheers the bereaved to know that an additional embellishment of the grave presents stronger atractions to arrest the attention of the stranger, and causes him to pause and learn the name of one who has shared so largely in the love of others.

I take this method to inform you that I can fill orders for decorating the graves of departed friends, at low figures, executed in the best style of workmanship.

SHIRTS.

THE NEWEST and BEST

Acting on the suggestions made by enquiring customers desirous of buying Substantial, Well-fitting SHIRTS, we purpose paying increased attention to this department.

THE RE-INFORCED!

We offer this make of Shirt and can recommend it as a satisfactory article in every respect. It will be seen upon inspection, that a portion of the bosom and the parts most liable to wear are RE-INFORCED WITH SUBSTANTIAL COTTON, but not to such an extent as to prevent the garment fitting perfectly. It comprises the advantages of all other makes with the disadvantages of none. Customers will notice how well sewed the shirts are and the careful workmanship throughout. We give a good article at whatever price we sell at, and one which will not come to pieces as soon as worn. This we claim for the "Re-inforced," and can always recommend it as the perfect shirt.

A full line of UNDRESSED SHIRTS, all sizes, and equally perfect fitting.

EXTENSIVE AUCTION SALE. A sale will be opened to-morrow, by Mr. Chas. Stapleton, in the store lately occupied by Mr. Thos. Menzies, of an extensive stock of Plated Ware, Fancy Goods, etc., by auction and private sale. See advertisement in another column, and look out for price list next week.

DROPPED DEAD.—We regret to learn that Mr. D. Ratcliffe of Apsley, who had been visiting a couple of miles from town on his way here, met with a serious loss on Thursday morning. He had started to drive to town, when one of the horses dropped dead on the road, it is supposed from heart disease or congestion of the lungs.

A SUGGESTIVE QUERY.—Will some of our young friends, who have just commenced the habit of smoking, give us, for next's week's issue, an answer to the following query? If a youth commences to smoke at the age of 16 years, and indulges the habit till he is 65 years of age, smoking at the rate of $12 per annum, what will his expenditure have been at the age of 65, compounding the interest at 10 per cent? The answer will give a good idea of the economic aspect of the habit, aside from its merits or demerits.

OLD RESIDENT ILL.—We regret to learn that Mr. Daniel Hopkins is lying seriously ill, having been attacked a couple of days ago with vomiting blood. It is supposed that he had ruptured a small blood vessel of the stomach, resulting from a fall some time ago. Though still very weak and in a critical condition, hopes are entertained of his recovery.

THE FISHER INSOLVENCY.—The case of Mr. D. H. Moore, to set aside a judgement against Mr. Luke Fisher, in favor of Mr. Thos. Bradburn, has been decided adversely to Mr Bradburn, Mr. Dalton holding that Fisher at the time the judgement was recovered was in insolvent circumstances, and that the judgement in Mr. Bradburn's favor had been obtained by confession of judgement on the part of Fisher, with intention to defeat and delay his creditors. The judgement was set aside with costs.

PETERBOROUGH RANGERS.—Lt.-Col. Von. Straubenzie, D. A. G., in his report of inspection of the 57th Batt. gives the men credit for soldierly appearance and states that the field movements, manual and firing exercises, were all fairly performed, that the arms and accoutrements were clean, especially those of Nos. 1 and 3 Coy's., that the camp was clean, with hardly any sickness, and that the rations were excellent. He compliments the Band, and concludes as follows: "Prizes were given by Captain Edwards to the three cleanest men of his company, and I experienced some difficulty in making the selection, as all were very clean. Lieut. Col. Rogers and the officers deserve great credit for bringing the corps to such a state of efficiency in so short a time."

THE CUSHING-WILSON AFFRAY.—Last week we gave an account of a disgraceful and brutal fight between the two men Wilson and Cushing, at Phelan's hotel. On Saturday Cushing was brought into the Police Court, Mayor Smith presiding, charged with a breach of the peace. He pleaded not guilty. He also pleaded not guilty to the charge of malicious injury to property. Wilson not having been served, and not appearing, a warrant was issued for his arrest, on charges of assault upon Cushing and with malicious injury to property. By request of Chief Johnston and Mr. Phelan the cases were enlarged till Monday next, Cushing being released in the meantime on his own recognizance. Cushing, upon whose head Wilson had smashed five decanters, presented a terrible appearance when brought into court.

CENSUS ORGANIZATION.—Dr. Canniff of Toronto, Census Staff Officer for the Newcastle District was in town last week giving the necessary instructions and administering the oath to the various Commissioners, who comprised the following: Col. F. Cubitt, Bowmanville, West Durham: Robert Vance, Cavan, East Durham; Thomas Stephenson, Omemee, South Victoria; J. B. Pearce, Norwood, East Peterborough; John Carnegie, Peterboro', West Peterborough; G. M. Goodeve, Cobourg, West Northumberland; W. McPhee, Uptergrove, North Victoria; and Wm. Kelly, Campbellford, East Northumberland. Dr. Canniff found very little trouble with his Commissioners, as they are, almost without exception, men of superior intelligence and will make good officers. The doctor, who is a distinguished literateur, is an old and able contributor to the press, and author of the best and most authentic history of the early settlement of Canada we have, and the Government could hardly have made a better selection.

The Lenten season is now on, and is being strictly observed in the R. C. and Episcopal Churches. There is a very decided boom in fishes, and judging by some recent correspondence a consequent invigoration of brain-power in some quarters.

Owing to the unfavorable interposition of the weather, the races which were decided upon, have had to be postponed, and the money subscribed has been returned to the donors. It will, however, probably be called for for a Spring meeting.

Last week Mr. James Brown, of North Monaghan, was quite seriously injured by being thrown from his cutter, while his horses were running away as he was driving through Englishtown. His face was badly cut up, but he is recovering under care of a physician.

The nuisance of street-corner loafers, which had been somewhat abated, has been revived and is now as bad as ever. Our constables, when they are really wanted on duty do not seem to be on hand, and we suppose the difficulty will never be overcome till the Council order one for day and one for night duty.

Is it not about time the Brock-street entrance of the Post Office was opened for the convenience of the public? It was closed for their comfort by the Postmaster, but the occasion has gone, and the single door no longer affords sufficient means of ingress and egress.

A man named Sullivan, who lives on the Douro and Otonabee boundary, last week complained to the police here that during his absence from home, where he luxuriates in bachelor's quarters, a party burgled the house of all superfluous clothing. The missing "duds" have not yet turned up.

Many a man has been crippled for life by an accident met with in toil, who might have been spared from the surgical knife had he promptly applied Yellow Oil. This valuable remedy should ever be kept at hand in case of accident or emergencies; it is for internal and external use; a specific for all painful inflammatory diseases and flesh wounds. Price 25 cts.

A free-will thank-offerings of the members of St. Paul's, donated last week to the mission work of their church in India, amounted to $180. Already those who profess to be recipients of Gospel blessing are giving tangible manifestations of their new responsibilities in their aid to send the Gospel to those who are not so favored.

We are requested to call the attention of parents and guardians, Public School instructors and Sunday School teachers, to an intolerable nuisance, in the thronging of the Post Office by juveniles from the schools, mostly young girls, during the assorting and delivery of the noon mail. It is almost the work of one clerk to attend to these precocious correspondents' enquiries, and they should get a hint to make their visits with less frequence, and at some more seasonable hour.

DELICATE WOMEN.—Cases of female weakness, delicate and enfeebled constitutions, and those suffering with Stomach, Liver and Kidney complaints, will find Electric Bitters a speedy and certain cure. The sick and prostrated should rejoice that such a reliable remedy is placed within their reach. Health and happiness will surely follow where Electric Bitters are used. For sale by all druggists, price only fifty cents.

A CASE OF HARDSHIP.—On Saturday last, Dr. Harrison was charged before Mayor Smith in the police court with practicing medicine without being registered as a licensed practioneer, as required by law, the case being brought by "Detective" Smith, of London. Dr. Harrison admitted the non-registration, but produced his diploma and certificates from Victoria University, and other evidence of his being a duly qualified practitioner. He claimed to have forwarded the money with application to Dr. Strange, then Registrar, some years ago, and thought his name had been registered, till this action was brought. The Magistrate was compelled to impose a fine of $25 and costs. If Dr. Harrison's statements are correct, he is certainly the victim of a hardship.

THE SECRET OF HAPPINESS.—How often have we longed for perfect enjoyment and how seldom found it. Misfortune has come, or ill health overtaken us. Now to give you satisfactory proof that Dr. King's New Discovery will cure, if you will call at any of the Drug Stores you can get a trial bottle for ten cents or a regular size for $100. Sold by all Druggists.

The House of Commons will sit on Saturday next.

A beginner in the art of calcimine is apt to bestow half the material on the floor, which is a needless waste. By taking a small quantity on the brush at a time all waste avoided, and after a little practice barely a drop will fall on the floor.

BIENNIAL SESSIONS

As the question of biennial sessions is now up for discussion in Ontario, an expression of opinion from abroad, where the system has been tried, is worth considering. Senator Edmunds, of Vermont, has lately written a letter to the Massachusetts Inquirer, in which he says:

"I do not think the change from annual to biennial sessions of the Legislature in Vermount has done good, but the reverse. I am satisfied that it has resulted, in having a smaller proportion of the members of former experience, and, in respect of the re-elected members, has left them in a condition of less memory of, and acquaintance with, previous legislation, etc., than they had under the annual system. I believe, also, that, even in our little State, the general value of annual sessions, compared with biennial, is great in respect of keeping up personal acquaintanceship, communion, and interchange of ideas upon all topics, from the simplest agricultural and school district affairs to the broadest ones of finance and politics, among the citizens who thus assemble. Again, even in as simple a community as ours, the frequent critical observation and overhauling of every department of administration is, I think, of immense value as a preventive as well as a corrective of bad or negligent administration. In all these respects, and many others, that may be mentioned, I think the annual meetings of the representative men of a commonwealth are worth a hundred times what they cost."

A bright day should be selected for the work. The wash must be of the proper consistency (rich milk) or it cannot be applied evenly. The strokes should be straight and paralleled with each other. After the first coat is dry, and never before, apply the second one across the first. An expert workman leaves no touch of the brush visible. When applying the first coat a round paint-brush should be used for thoroughly covering all corners and small spaces with the wash.

The blood cannot properly perform its functions when loaded with impurities, because it is thick and sluggish; and every person needs at times something to cleanse and quicken the vital current. Dr. S. C. Ayer's Compound Extract of Sarsaparilla meets this want perfectly, and his discovery of this compound ranks as important in preserving the blood in a healthy condition as does that of Wm. Harvey in demonstrating its circulatory action. Nothing else so vitalizes, purifies and enriches the blood as Ayer's Sarsaparilla. It is a perfect blood and nerve food. It never disturbs the stomach, but greatly assists and promotes the digestion and assimilation of all nutriments and increases their power to sustain and nourish the body. In renovating the blood it clears and quickens the intellect, and thus gives to both mind and body the power of long sustained, arduous and successful effort.—Corning, N. Y., Journal.

THE CZAR ASSASSINATED.

Ferocious Nature of the Murder.

Nitro-Glycerine Employed in the Horrible Work.

BOTH THE ASSASSINS ARRESTED BY THE POLICE.

Proclamation of the new Emperor.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 13.—As the Emperor was returning from parade in the Michael Manege about two o'clock this afternoon a bomb was thrown which exploded under his carriage, which was considerably damaged. The Czar alighted unhurt, but a second bomb exploded at his feet,

SHATTERING BOTH LEGS BELOW THE KNEE, and inflicting other terrible injuries. The Czar was immediately conveyed unconscious to the Winter Palace,

WHERE HE DIED.

The Imperial carriage was attacked on the Ekaterinofsky Canal, opposite the Imperial stables, while the Emperor was returning with the Grand Duke Michael from the Michael Palace in a closed carriage, escorted by eight Cossacks. The first bomb fell near the carriage, destroying the back part of it. The Czar and his brother alighted uninjured. The assassin on being seized by a colonel of the police, but was prevented from firing. A second bomb was then thrown by another person, and fell close to the Czar's feet, its explosion shattering both his legs. The Czar fell, crying for help. Colonel Dorjibsky, though himself much hurt, raised the Emperor, who was conveyed to the Winter Palace in Dorjibsky's sleigh. Large crowds assembled before the palace, but were kept back by a troup of Cossacks. The Imperial family were all assembled at the death bed. The Council of State was immediately convened. All places of public resort are closed.

DREW A REVOLVER,

THE OFFICIAL ANNOUNCEMENT.

An official message makes the following announcement:—"God's will has been done. At 3:25 this afternoon the Almighty called the Emperor to Himself. A few minutes before his death the Emperor received the sacrament."

When Col. Dorjibsky asked the first assassin his name he replied, "Rossakoff." Service will be held in the Winter Palace on Monday. Afterwards the new Emperor will receive the homage of the officers of State. The doctor's bulletin in the afternoon states that the Czar's legs were broken below the knee, and the lower part of the body severly injured, and his left eye

TORN FROM ITS SOCKET.

The Grand Duke Michael was not hurt. The assassins were disguised as peasants. One report states that one of them was so roughly handled that he has since died. All the army officers have been ordered to remain in the barracks. The Council of the Empire, under the presidency of the Carewitch, is still sitting at midnight. A manifesto will be published on Monday.

MORE ABOUT THE MURDER.

LATER—A St. Petersburg correspondent telegraphs:—The Czar's right leg was nearly torn from the body, and his left leg was badly shattered. A Cossack and a passer-by were killed on the spot. The Grand Duke Michael was wounded. An officer of the escort and a Cossack have since died. The Czar lingerened an hour and a half. All efforts to rally him failed. The only word he uttered after being struck was the name of the Czarewitch. The latter on leaving the palace after the death of his father was hailed as Emperor by the crowds. He was surrounded contrary to his custom by a strong mounted escort. The people are intensely excited and indignant. The soldiery, who greatly loved the Czar, are furious. Telegrams announcing his death were sent to all foreign courts and to every part of the Empire. It is stated that the bombs were made of thick glass filled with nitro-glycerine.

THE ASSASSINS

stood on the opposite side of the road. The carriage was moving fast, and the first shell struck the ground behind it, and the back of the carriage was blown out. The coachman implored the Czar to enter the carriage again, but he moved a few paces from the carriage to see to the wounded of his escort. The assassin who threw the first bomb tried to point a revolver at the Czar, but the pistol was struck from his hand. The Czar seemed before his death, as he motioned away the doctors, who wished to amputate his legs. The Czarewitch and Czarevna drove to their palace after his death amid the sympathising cries of the people. A company of guards surrounded the palace.

THE DUKE AND DUCHESS OF EDINBURGH

and the Grand Duke Alexis have left London for St. Petersburg.

MORE ABOUT THE MURDER.

ST. PETERSBURGH, March 14:—The Czar was warned against attending the parade whence he was returning when killed. After alighting from the shattered carriage the Emperor approached Russakoff and ordered his removal. The police had difficulty in protecting the second assassin from the fury of the crowd. One of the Czar's legs were shattered to the top of the thigh, his abdomen was torn open, and his face injured. The surgeons declared amputation impossible.

THE LAST MOMENTS.

Dr. Voiriachine, who was among the physicans first summoned to the Czar, immediately fetched the necessary instruments for amputating his legs, which were held by flesh only, the bones being broken. Blood flowed copiously from the lacerated wounds. India rubber bandages were applied first to the right leg below the knee, and then to the left. The Czar's right hand, on which was a glove, was found greatly lacerated. His marriage ring was broken to pieces, and driven into the flesh. The surgeons tied up the several arteries. At length, under the influence of sulphate of oxygen and ice, the Emperor opened his eyes and respiration became more apparent. Chaplain Bjanor availed himself of an interval of apparent consciousness to administer the sacrament, and for a moment hopes were entertained of the Czar's life, but a minute or two afterwards his heart ceased to beat. During the final flicker of life the members of his family surrounded his bed. The Archpriest recited the prayer for those in extremis, all present kneeling. The spectacle was heartrending.

THE NEW EMPEROR.

All the officers of the Guards, civil officials, and Court dignitaries met to-day in the Winter Palace to take the oath of allegiance to the new Emperor. When all were assembled the Emperor and Empress and the Imperial family issued from the cabinet where the dead Czar lay. In passing through St. George's Hall, on the way to the Chapel, the Emperor stepped before the Guard of Honor and said, with emotion, "I should not like my son to ascend the throne under such circumstances as the present."

THE CEREMONIES.

This afternoon a salute fired by the cannon on the fortress announced the conclusion of the ceremonies connected with the ascension of Alexander III. to the throne. The space before the palace was covered with people. The Emperor and Empress passed through the crowd on their way to Kazan Cathedral amidst deafening acclamations. It is said that the civilian who declined to give his name died of poison which he took, and not from wounds.

PRECAUTIONS.

It is stated that the Czar handed over to Melikoff the entire direction of affairs, and summoned deputations from the country at large to consult as to the best means to adopt against anarchy and sedition.

THE EMPEROR OF GERMANY.

BERLIN, March 14.—The Czar's death caused great consternation. Emperor William was greatly grieved, and asked for the most minute details. Fears are expressed that attempts will now be made on Emperor William's life by the Socialists, who are believed to act with the Russian Nihilists. All the Berlin papers issue extra editions giving full particulars of the assassination. All festivals are stopped and all the theatres closed. Emperor William, when the news of the murder was broken to him, was profoundly affected, and it was some hours before he recovered his composure. He is reported to have said:—"I am an old man, and they will probably not seek to slay me, but what will be the fate of my son? Will they not hunt him to death?"

IMPORTANT DISCOVERIES.

The Minister of Interior states that one of the chief organizers of the attack upon the Czar arrested on March 11th, confessed complicity in planning the deed and denounced Russakoff in person. Russakoff on being shown the corpse of the individual who evidently threw the second bomb, and who was mortally wounded, recognized his accomplice. The house from which Russakoff obtained the bombs has been discovered. As soon as the police appeared the male occupant of the house shot himself, but a woman living with him was arrested. The police found there a number of grenades and a proclamation stating that the assassination had been accomplished by two persons. This morning a young man entered the house and was immediately arrested, but not until he had fired a revolver six times, wounding three policemen.

INTERESTING TO DAIRYMEN.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER;

I have examined an invention made by Mr. H. Calcutt, Peterborough, called the "cooler churn" and am quite convinced that if it was in general use in our cheese factories or their patrons it would improve their article of production and would benefit the manufacterers of the Dominion at least one million of dollars a year.

DR. O' SULLIVAN'S LETTER.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER.

DEAR SIR.—A neighbor has shown me your paper of last week in which I find you deal rather severely with Dr. O'Sullivan on the subject of the Orange Bills. Now, I cannot agree with you in all that you say of the doctor, but in one regard you are undoubtedly correct. That is as to an understanding that he was to vote for the Orange Bills. On the strength of that understanding I voted for him, and on no other ground would I have voted for him. Many of my neighbors did the same thing, and we felt that we had been betrayed when he cast his vote against those bills. If the doctor doubts this let him get his "Orange friends" to nominate him next election, and we will give him convincing proof of the feeling of the Orangemen on this subject.

Yours truly,
A CONSERVATIVE ORANGEMEN.

TRENT NAVIGATION.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:

DEAR SIR,—I suppose we may conclude from the promises of the Ministers, and their supporters in Parliament and the press, and from the vote of $6,000 for a location survey, that we may rely upon the construction of the Trent Valley Canal within a reasonable time. No doubt it will be a very great advantage to the town of Peterborough during the period of its construction, as this will be the natural headquarters for the management of the work, and the depot for the distribution of the necessary supplies. But it is worth while to consider what is the best means of securing for our own permanent benefit, the greatest share of the advantages arising from the working of the Canal after it is built. I trust those who are interested in promoting this enterprise will consider this subject, and give it their careful attention. What should be done, in my opinion, would be to take time by the forelook and secure the organization and incorporation of a company to own and operate on the Trent waters lines of passenger vessels, and tug and barge service, for the movement of freight and other traffic. For this object the Little Lake affords a splendid basin for laying up barges etc., and the location is admirably adapted for the headquarters of such a service. Private enterprise has already given us control of the navigation from this point to Hastings, and a company which would acquire the vessels now plying, and be prepared to extend the service so as to be ready for the opening of the extensive freight movement which will immediately follow the opening of the canal, will have laid the foundation of a certain fortune. If this opportunity be not availed of, we may rely upon it that other enterprise at Midland or Trenton, will not be slow to take advantage of it. The earlier action is taken in that direction the better for the interests of Peterborough.

Yours truly,
PROGRESS.
Peterboro', March 15th, 1881.

OBITUARY NOTES.

The late Thomas Eason was born in Perthshire, Scotland, in the year 1806 When fourteen years old he came to Otonabee, and after spending five years he became dissatisfied with the hard life of a backwoodsman, and resolved to seek some easier mode of obtaining a livelihood. Going to the front he soon found employment on a steamboat, and followed sailing for the greater part of three years. Duing this time he was wheelsman on and steered the first steamer into Burlington Bay, to what is now the City of Hamilton, but which then was made up of some two houses and a store.

In 1828 he returned to Otonabee, and two years later was married to Miss Isabella Carr, and finally set in life as a farmer. Since then, however, he has made frequent journeys to different parts of the country, and for several years (47 to 50) made trips on rafts to Quelec.

Deceased was a close observer of passing objects and places, and had a memory so retentive, that having once seen anything he seemed not to have forgotten even the smallest particular connected with it. Indeed, the writer has been amazed at the minuteness with which within the last year he described Toronto and Montreal as they were fifty and sixty years ago. For many years he kept a daily record of the state of the weather, and could tell the coldest or warmest day of the year without hesitation, and almost the exact state of the weather at any named period. His knowledge and memory much assisted the engineers in locating the Grand Junction Railway, whom he accompanied and advised, while they were passing through the township.

Deceased had been in about his usual health up to the time of his death, which came with awful suddenness—he passing away almost without warning, and without a struggle, in the seventy-fifth year of his age, beloved and mourned by his many friends.

He leaves a widow and four sorrowing children out of a family of ten.

On Saturday last, the Village of Ashburnham lost an old resident, in the person of Mr. John Maneice, who died on that day. Deceased was born in the County of Fermanagh, Ireland, and had resided in Ashburnham during the past thirty years.

The New Brunswick Legislature will be prorogued next week.

Peterborough Examiner.

PETERBOROUGH, MARCH 17, 1881.

The Policy of Protection.

We reprint below a letter which appears in the Review over the signature of the member for West Peterborough:

"H. H. Smith, Esq.,—

"As Mayor of the Town of Peterborough, I address you in a matter of the utmost importance to the inhabitants of the Town. I have reference to the manufacturing interests of the country. I think it must be conceded by all the N. P. is revolutionizing trade in general, and manufacturing in particular. Now that this is established beyond a doubt, is it not time that the people of Peterborough should consider what, if anything, can be done to secure a share of the advantage that are about to fall to the lot of people of the Dominon? No one will deny the fact that we have advantages in Peterborough for manufacturing that cannot be excelled in the Domtnion, if they can in the world. I allude to our magnificient water power, the water of which is running by our doors without availing us anything.

"Now, sir, it has been said that the owners of this magnificent water power are men lacking enterprise and business ab'lity, and are acting the dog in the manger, that they will neither occupy nor allow others to occupy these privileges. Speaking for myself, and I think I speak the sentiments of other property holders, such is not the case.

"I, for one, am willing to let privileges at a rate that should debar no one from embarking in manufacturing among us. If there is any doubt on this point, I am willing that the honorable body, of which you are the head, should appoint a committee to which any disagreement with parties wishing to obtain privileges could be referred and satisfactorily adjusted.

"Now, sir, I think it rests with the authorities and people of Peterborough to say whether we will have manufacturing among us or not.

"I find, sir, that there are municipalities (and not a few) that are offering inducements by way of bonuses, to manufacturers to locate among them. And while this is being done in other places, we could scarcely expect them to locate among us without some inducements.

"I think that one of the great objections hitherto made by manufacturers for not coming to our town is about to be removed, that is our want of direct communication with the principal markets of the country. We are now to have within three years the Toronto and Ottawa Railway, which will supply that want.

"I, for my part, will supply good and cheap water power, and hope that people of the town will do their part to bring about this most desirable state of things.

"The lumber trade which is a great benefit to the town, will within a very few years come to an end. If there is nothing to take its place, our town will not, as now, stand in the position of one of the best towns in the Province.

"I hope you will take this matter into consideration, and bring it before the Council and the people of the town, in view of having something done.

"I am, Dear Sir,
Yours cordially,
GEO. HILLIARD."

This is truly a remarkable letter. No one will dispute that the N. P. is "revolutionizing trade in general and manufacturing in particular;" but has it revolutionized it in the manner which Mr. Hilliard himself promised when soliciting votes to secure his election? People remember well how Mr. Hilliard predicted, with all the ardour of sincerity, that once let the Mackenzie Government out of power, and the N. P. party in, prosperity would once more dawn upon the town of Peterborough. He told us that the machine shops of Mr. Stevenson were idle because of the policy of Mr. Mackenzie, and that with the N. P. they would be opened up, giving employment to large numbers of people to the profit and advantage of the town. Other manufacturing enterprises would, Mr. Hilliard told us, spring up, and with the adoption of the N. P. we were to enter upon a new career of uninterrupted peace, plenty and prosperity. This was in the summer of 1878. Mr. Hilliard's plausible promises caught the ear of the people, and he was elected to take the place of a man who refused to stoop to fraudulent deception for the sake of a place in Parliament. We have had two years of the existence of that National Policy which was to do so much for us, and what is the result? Have the machine shops been reopened? No. Has the brick factory resumed work? No. Have any new enterprises in manufacture been undertaken? No. What is the practical result of the N. P. so far as Peterborough is concerned? Mr. Hilliard has had his brother-in-law appointed a Census Commissioner—whereat let us all rejoice and be exceeding glad, and join Mr. Hilliard in crying, Great is the N. P.! But this kind of thing is not likely to satisfy the dupes who helped to put Mr. Hilliard in Parliament on the strength of his promises. People get restless under persistent injury, and our member recognizes the fact—hence his letter. What is his proposition? Why, that we should consider what we must do to secure "a share of the advantages that are ABOUT TO FALL to the lot of the people of the Dominion!" He wisely recognizes the stern fact that none of those advantages have yet fallen to his constituents; but he professes to believe that they are now impending. And how does he propose that his constituents shall reap a share of the mirage of prosperity which he has in view? By the simple process of giving bonuses to manufacturers who will purchase his own water privileges, which he advertizes he is prepared to dispose of at reasonable rates! We are aware that there are certain water privileges on the Otonabee, of which Mr. Hilliard controls a very small share. The owners of the principal water privileges on the river, we know, have not only not stood in the way of putting them in the hands of manufacturers, but have been, and still are, ready to make very considerable sacrifices for the sake of the well-being of the town, if any legitimate enterprise could thereby be encouraged, and they are quite as anxious in this direction, though not so ostentatious, as the member for West Peterborough. We are well aware of the fact, and we quite agree with Mr. Hilliard's statement, that the great drawback to the promotion of manufactures in this town has been the absence of convenient lines of communication for distribution. Mr. Hilliard says that want is to be supplied "within three years" by the Toronto & Ottawa Railway. We apprehend that long before the T. & O. Company begin the work of construction, Mr. Geo. A. Cox will have supplied that want so far as railway communication is concerned; but our member forgets that freight in manufactures, to be moved to advantage, requires to be moved by water. Has he forgotten all about the Trent Valley Canal? Evidently he does not contemplate the opening up of that route "within three years," nor apparently at all. Mr. Hilliard desires the Mayor to bring this subject before the attention of the Council and the town, but he is a long ways behind time with what is all the return the people who voted for him get—his good advice. This matter has been repeatedly brought under the notice of the people by the press, and otherwise has been fully considered. We do not think it likely that the ratepayers are prepared to advance capital to any bonus-hunters who may be ready to engage in "manufacturing enterprise" if we pay them the money to go into business with; but we believe the town is prepared to grant aid, by exemption from taxation and otherwise, to any capitalist who proposes to invest his means in the laudable object in which Mr. Hilliard has taken such a sudden and violent interest, and we are further assured that any such capitalist will find that all the water privileges are not owned by Mr. Hilliard, and that others are equally ready to dispose of their rights at equally advantageous rates, and with an equally patriotic object.

Another Protest.

The House of Commons, by a majority of 78 votes, have rejected a motion of Hon. Mr. Blake, urging retrenchment and economy, and pointing out the reckless and criminal increases which the Government have placed upon the burdens of the people. The following is the motion of Hon. Mr. Blake:

"The leaders of the present Government during the general election of 1878, declared, that if restored to power, they would re-adjust, but not increase the tariff.

"That in 1879 they so increased the tariff, that the average rate of taxation has been raised, according to the Trade and Navigation Returns from 14.03 per cent. in 1877-78 to 19.70 per cent. in 1879-80, or by over 40 per cent.

"That the reason given for this departure from their election pledges, was that the increase was required, in order to balance the public revenue and expenditure.

"That the Government estimates the expenditure for the current fiscal year at $25,573,000, being $4,070,000 in excess of that for 1877-78, and the revenue for the current year at $27,586,000, being $2,013,000 in excess of the expenditure for the year, and $4,297,000 in excess of the expenditure for 1877-78.

"That the Government estimates the expenditure for 1881-82 at $26,389,000, being $816,000 in excess of that for the current year, and $2,886,000 in excess of that for 1877-78; and the revenue at $27,800,000, being $1,411,000 in excess of the expenditure for the year, and $4,297,000 in excess of the expenditure for 1877-78.

"That it is thus proposed to raise for the current and the next fiscal years a revenue of $55,386,000, being $3,424,000 in excess of the expenditure for those years, and $11,800,000 in excess of the expenditure, according to the scale of 1877-78.

That the rate of taxation is excessive and should be reduced; and in effecting such reduction regard should be had to those taxes, which press most severely on large masses of the population, which bear most unequally on different parts of the Dominion, and which, while most oppressive to the consumer, are least productive of revenue."

Let every taxpayer in the Dominion reflect upon these extraordinary facts, and consider what the position of the country might be, with another five years following the present Parliamentary term, under a regime in which the "brute force of a majority" is supreme, and that majority simply an organized faction registering with blind obedience the decrees of the Government. Taxation increased in two years by 40 per cent.! $4,297,000 more of expenditure contemplated for the current year, than was required by the Government of Mr. Mackenzie in 1877-78! The figures are astounding; but there is no question of their accuracy, and they convey a lesson which the most heedless ought to take seriously to heart. A continuance of such a rate of increase of expenditure and taxation means inevitable bankruptcy, with the only logical conclusion, annexation with the United States. To prevent this, and to save the country from an intolerable burden, we must adopt a genuine system of Protection the people must protect themselves from the rapacity of the monopolists and the needs of the political adventurers who now control the destinies of the country, by the votes of such gentlemen as the representatives of this county, who abnegate every function of usefulness which lies under their hands, and make themselves mere automatons in the hands of their party leaders. A gigantic system of monopolies has been organized, such as has been the curse of the United States for the past ten years, and which must be strangled before it acquires too great strength, or it will surely strangle the the energies, crush the industry, and paralize the progress of the country for years to come. The Government of the sugar monopoly and the railway monopoly, as the consumers are beginning to find to their cost, is a Government of grinding and oppressive exactions. Let them but be assured of another lease of power, and we tremble to think what the consequences might be to the future of Canada. The members who helped to vote down the above resolution should be marked by the people, and punished wherever they again make their appearance as candidates for re-election.

One of the Most Important Discoveries of this Age.

We make the startling announcement that KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE will cure Bone Spavin and completely remove the enlargement, so that the best horseman cannot tell that the horse ever had a spavin. We make this statement, and give below testimonials from persons who have used it, to prove our statements. It is excellent for removing unnatural enlargements of any kind. It does not blister nor cause any sore. It has no equal, to our knowledge, for spavin, ring-bone, curb, callous, sprain, swellings, galls, lameness from whatever cause, and all enlargements of the joints, or any part of the body or limbs, and is also good for cuts, scratches, wounds, etc.

For man, it is a complete remedy, for Corns, Frost-Bites, or any bruise, Cut or Lameness.

Remember that we claim it will

COMPLETELY REMOVE

a Bone Spavin, Splint, etc.,

WITHOUT BLISTERING

or causing any sore.

Washingtonville, Ohio, June 17, 1880.
Dr. B. J. Kendall & Co Gents.—Reading your advertisement in Turf, Field and Farm, of your "Kendall's Spavin Cure," and having a valuable and speedy horse which had been lame from spavin for eighteen months, I sent to you for a bottle by express, which in six weeks removed all lameness and enlargement and a large splint from another horse, and both horses are to-day as sound as colts. The one bottle was worth to me one hundred dollars.

Respectfully yours,

Is a compound of the virtues of sarsaparilla, stillingia, mandrake, yellow dock, with the iodide of potash and iron, all powerful blood-making, blood-cleansing, and life-sustaining elements. It is the purest, safest, and most effectual alterative available to the public. The sciences of medicine and chemistry have never produced a remedy so potent to cure all diseases resulting from impure blood. It cures Scrofula and all scrofulous diseases, Erysipelas, Rose, or St. Anthony's Fire, Pimples and Face-grubs, Pustules, Blotches, Boils, Tumors, Tetter, Humors, Salt Rheum, Scald-head, Ring-worm, Ulcers, Sores, Rheumatism, Mercurial Disease, Neuralgia, Female Weaknesses and Irregularities, Jaundice, Affections of the Liver, Dyspepsia, Emaciation, and General Debility.

By its searching and cleansing qualities it purges out the foul corruptions which contaminate the blood and cause derangement and decay. It stimulates the vital functions, restores and preserves health, and infuses new life and vigor throughout the whole system. No sufferer from any disease of the blood need despair who will give AYER'S SARSAPARILLA a fair trial.

It is folly to experiment with the numerous low-priced mixtures, without medicinal virtues, offered as blood-purifiers, while disease becomes more firmly seated. AYER'S SARSAPARILLA is a medicine of such concentrated curative power, that it is by far the best, cheapest, and most reliable blood-purifier known. Physicians know its composition, and prescribe it. It has been widely used for forty years, and has won the unqualified confidence of millions whom it has benefited.

Well, he could see nose scents in a nose that can't smell, he should think it was smellancholy if he heard of one that couldn't. What was the nose scent for? Why to smell of course, and nose scentsible person could deny it. And he was glad the Millbrook girls had got big noses, too."

Mr. Galletly is a superior vocalist; he possesses a sweet voice of great power, and few singers give evidence of such easy modulation. He gave much pleasure to the audience, and received round after round of applause."

THE GREAT CONE PUMP CASE.

OWENS v. TAYLOR.

PROUDFOOT, V.C.

The patent issued 17th July, 1873, for "The Cone Pump and its connections" for a period of five years, and on the 16th July, 1877, it was extended for another period of five years. Powell, the patentee, in the specification attached to the patent, claimed as his inventor:—

1st. The Cone-shaped Pump, head or stock.

2nd. The oscillating or rocking support for the fulcrum pivotted, or secured at or near the surface of the ground.

3rd. The combination of the oscillating support with a wooden pump.

4th. The arrangement of two cylinders and connecting chamber with the lever connecting with the plunger rods in the cylinder.

And these were the improvements in pumps covered by the patent.

There was abundant evidence that the cone shape was not new, pumps tapering in a similar way for a similar purpose, to enable them to be banded and thus give additional strength, have been long in use. It had been used, according to different witnesses, from fifty years ago downwards.

The rocking support or fulcrum also was shown by several witnesses not to be new. Powell himself says:—"The oscillating fulcum is an old thing; fastening it to the side of the pump is an old thing; the advantage of mine is fastening it nearer to the ground." Similar rocking supports are figured in the Scientific American for 1856 and 1857, and Reports of Patent Office of Washington, for 1855, 1857, 1859, 1860, 1862 and 1868, which involve the same principle, but different mode of attachment to the pump, some being nearer the top of the stock.

One witness saw 40 years ago a pump with a rocking support used for pumping water in York, in England, and the fulcrum rested on the ground and fastened about 8 inches from base of pump. Another witness said that thirty-two years ago he worked at the tin mines in Cornwall, where pumps with with oscillating fulcrum were to be seen on every ledge. The patent is for a fulcrum attached at or near the ground. In the diagram attached to the specification, it is not attached to the pump stock, but to a stand upon which the pump rests. Powell says that before he got his patent, he saw an oscillating support set up on the top of the spout, (that would be about half way up the stock). He attaches his to the stock. The nearer to the ground the better. It would need experiments to determine how far from the ground it could be with advantage. Without having made such experiments, it seems to me impossible to say that attaching the support 6 inches, 12 inches, or 18 inches lower, could be the subject of a patent.

The combination of the oscillating support with a wooden pump, does not seem to have been new any more than the parts of which it was composed. But I apprehend that changing the material of the stock would not render that patentable which was not so before.

The fourth claim set out above has never been used and is therefore void. (35 Vic., C. 26, S. 28.)

It would be of little use to give a lengthened analysis of the cases. I have referred to all those that were cited to me and others. They appear to establish that the element of invention is wanting in this case.

In my opinion the patent is void for want of novelty.

HUMBUG STOPPED!

H. Owens and his agents have systematically canvassed the surrounding Counties, distributing Circulars, and also threatening all those having Taylor's Pumps, or any person who they thought were about to purchase the same—asserting that they would be compelled to pay him (Owens) for said pumps, and that they would have to destroy the same, thus intimidating the public for the purpose of damaging my business as a manufacturer of pumps.

All this humbug I have now succeeded in stopping.

Feeling satisfied that the public will now appreciate my endeavors to obtain free competition as the best mode of regulating trade for all, I would inform them that I am still prepared to supply everything in the pump line on the best possible terms.

Peterborough Examiner

PETEBBOROUGH, MARCH 17, 1881.

What Has the N. P. Done?

Mr. Hilliard, M. P., who seems to have lent his signature to a writer with a style suspiciously similar to that of the editor of the Review, appears to be profoundly sensible of the blessings that are "about to fall" to the lot of the people of this town from the N. P. Let us remind our member of a few things which the N. P. has already done during the past few years, as an earnest of what may be expected for the balance of the present Parliamentary term:

Mr. Toole's factory, which used to employ forty-five men, has been closed.

Mr. R. Lundy, who used to employ from eighteen to twenty-five hands, now runs with two or three.

Mr. Lundy, who used to buy hides and skins from our own farmers, under the N. P. finds it more profitable to bring in his raw material from Chicago.

The wools made up at the Auburn Factory are brought in from Australia and the Cape of Good Hope.

Messrs. Douglas & Logan, who used to employ five to ten hands, now manage to meet the demands of the N. P. with an apprentice.

Helm's Foundry has been closed up, and though a bonus was granted to encourage the establishment of a sewing-machine factory at these works, no one has been found with sufficient confidence in the N. P. to take advantage of it.

Mr. A. Sawers' woollen factory is running with a greatly reduced staff of employees.

Mr. Hilliard's own mills are running for gristing purposes, and make no pretence of manufacturing.

Messrs. Denne & Sperry's fine flouring mills are practically debarred from manufacturing, by the peculiar method in which the N. P. is manipulated for the benefit of a few monopolists in their trade.

The brick factory rears its awful form aloft at the south end of the town, a forbidding reproach to journalistic humbugs, and a standing rebuke to the ante-election promises of Mr. Hilliard.

Even so humble a "struggling industry" as a pea-nut roasting enterprise, established on the most economic principles, blighted by the N.P., has ceased to hum, and has gone from our gaze.

To counterbalance this gratifying picture, we suppose Mr. H. is patiently awaiting the early re-appearance in the Review of the soul-inspiring annual announcement that the Point St. Charles Mills have again been re-opened, to the vindication of the N. P. and the incontrovertible demonstration of the "hum."

East Northumberland Election.

The nomination of candidates to fill the vacancy in this constituency, caused by the death of the late Jos. Keeler, will take place to-morrow, when the Conservatives will nominate Mr. Kennedy as their standard-bearer. The Liberal candidate selected for the contest is Mr. Darius Crouter, of Brighton, who has been for some years Reeve of that village, and is a man of considerable ability and undoubted integrity. The Liberal electors of the county, with all who desire to put an end to the grevious system of taxation under which the country is suffering, and to pronounce condemnation upon the outrageous Syndicate contract, by which the Government bartered away the North-west Territory and made the settlers there the virtual serfs of an imperial monopoly, have now a chance to begin the good work, which is to be completed in 1883, of purging the Treasury of its present unworthy occupants, and striking the first blow in the popular struggle to place our first Canadian statesman, Edward Blake, at the head of our national affairs. The farmers of East Northumberland, in particular, should turn out en masse to protest against a system which increases the cost of everything they buy, which unfairly compels them to pay the greater share of an enormously increased taxation, and which does not in return bestow upon them one single privilege. They should resent and punish the duplicity and treachery by which the Government secured their votes in 1878, on promise of a protective duty to preserve the home market for Canadian grain, which they have violated by fraudulently allowing unlimited importations of Yankee cereals to enter free into competition with the products of native industry. Let our friends in the north part of the riding remember that this is not so much a contest between Mr. Kennedy and Mr. Crouter, as between a system of fraud, monopoly, excessive taxation unequally applied, to their great loss, and corruption and dishonesty in administration upheld by the present Government, and a system of economy, lessened taxation, honest administration, and fair consideration for the great agricultural interests of Ontario, which Edward Blake, as representative of the people, seeks in their behalf and for their benefit to inaugurate. Every vote for Mr. Crouter will be a step towards emancipation from cotton monopoly, sugar monopoly, coal oil monopoly, manufacturing monopoly, and railroad monopoly, and from a grinding and excessive system of taxation, of which the Ontario farmer is the chief victim.

Bearing its First Fruits.

Apropos of the "exodus," we note that about fifty persons left Mount Pleasant, near here, on Wednesday, for Dakota, taking with them four car loads of freight. A son of Mr. McLean, of Mount Pleasant, writes from Dakota home, that the people of the North-West are very much dissatisfied with the Syndicate arrangement. He had settled in Manitoba, but owing to the nefarious government land regulations, was compelled to remove to Dakota. This is a single instance. Here is another: Mr. Peter Imrie, of Lanarkshire, Scotland, was one of the agricultural delegates brought to Canada by the Government last year. After a thorough examination he reported favorably of Canada and the North-West as a field for settlement by old-country farmers, and his report was published in a pamphlet by the Dominion Government. Since that report was published, however, the public domain of which he wrote has been enveloped in the coils of the Syndicate serpent, and here is what Mr. Imrie now writes, as published in the Scottish American Journal:

ALTERED VIEW OF MANITOBA.

HALIFAX, N.S., Feb. 22nd, 1881.

DEAR SIR,—In your issue of the 17th inst. I see a notice of the report I made on Manitoba, as delegate of the Lanarkshire farmers.

May I ask leave to say through your columns, that the report referred to would not have been so favorable if I had expected that there was to be a great railway monopoly set up in the country, and that with the extraordinary and avowed object of curtailing traffic with the United States! In my humble opinion the monopoly is a bad thing in itself, and discouragement of trade with the United States a still worse thing. The North-West may become Great Britain's wheat field, but it would be even more to its advantage if it were to become America's potato field, as it probably would be some day, if allowed anything like fair play, for its potato-growing capabilities are even superior to its wheat-growing. But all that hope is now shattered by the establishment of this monopoly, and so also is the prospect of low rates of freightage to the Eastern sea-board; for, in their own interests, the railway company will put on a rate sufficiently severe to force the settlers to work their hardest, and produce their utmost, and just not so severe as to dishearten them. The company may in short, be expected to permit the settlers to live and to toil, but never to grow rich. IT IS NOT NOW A PLACE WORTH GOING TO, whereat your correspondent is not a little disgusted.

Let us suppose sixpence a bushel (and it is likelier to be over than under that, if we may judge by the doings of some what the same set of monopolists on another railway of theirs), as the charge that will be made in excess of fair rates between Winnipeg and Montreal. Such an exaction will not stop production; it may probably rather stimulate it, but it will come to the same thing as a yearly rent of £1 sterling for every acre of land yielding forty bushels. Capitalize that at say twenty years' purchase, and you get £20 an acre as the real price of the land to the settler—or £3,200 sterling for the 160 acres promised "for nothing." Really the cry of "160 acres for nothing" is no better than a delusion and a snare, in presence of such a contingency.

Of course I cannot say to what extent the Monopolist Railway Company will at once put on "the screws." It would be bad policy to do so to the utmost until the country gets filled up a bit. But after that, they will of course just do exactly what will put most money into their own pockets. Railway companies similarly situated have always done so—and become oppressively extortionate. The whole prospects of the settlers in the Canadian North-West are thus, to say the least of it, thrown into a state of uncertainty—and even a worse state of things to bear than a heavy definite burden. THE SETTLERS UNDER THESE NEW CONDITIONS, WILL IN FACT HAVE SOMETHING WORSE THAN ANY OLD COUNTRY LANDLORD TO DEAL WITH—VIZ., A SUPREME RAILWAY LORD—A SORT OF CORPORATION WITHOUT ANY CONSCIENCE—AND WITH PECULIARLY PRACTICAL POWERS OF RACK-RENTING. I am, Sir, your obedient servant, PETER IMRIE, Lanarkshire Farmers' Delegate to Canada.

Grinding in Bond.

Mr. Hilliard writes: "I am no more "superhuman than the Editor of the "EXAMINER or his correspondent "X." "I cannot find by any means in my power that there has been any fraudulent "transactions practised in the way alleged. If either the EXAMINER or "X" "will furnish me with such information "as will lead to the conviction of the "offender or offenders, I will promise "them that I will do all in my power to "put a stop to the same. I do not say "that there have been no irregularities, "but I do say that I have been unable "to detect any." If Mr. Hilliard desires to carry out this promise, all he has to do is to induce the Government to order an investigation into the charges made, and they will have no difficulty in establishing the facts stated. Mr. Hilliard has no more to do with punishing the offenders than the editor of the Bobcaygeon Independent; but having been placed in possession of the prima facie evidence which he has, it is his duty to demand an investigation at the hands of the Government. This, he is too much of a party tool to do; besides having tied his own hands by accepting favors from the Government.

The Question of Veracity.

In reference to the charge of falsehood brought by Dr. O'Sullivan against Mr. Blezard, we submit the following letter which was published in the year of the election referred to, and we can leave the readers to judge "who told the lie:"

"PETERBOROUGH Sept. 21st 1875

"DEAR SIR:—In reply to your letter of to-day I would state that I supported Dr. O'Sullivan at the last election. My reason for doing so was that I was informed that he had promised to support the Orange Bill. I say distinctly that I heard A. J. Van Ingen say that Dr. O'Sullivan had promised to support the Orange Bill and gave that as his reason for voting for Dr. O'Sullivan in preference to Mr Stratton.

Yours truly,
RICE RECORD."

On Saturday, 19th of March,

At the STEWART HOUSE, T. Cavanagh's Hotel, in the Town of Peterborough, the following well known Farm Property, namely:—The East Half Lot No. 9, in the 1st Concession of the Township of Smith, containing one hundred acres. This Farm is only two miles from the Town of Peterborough, with good roads leading to either ends of it. Its situation is good, and the land lies well. The soil is splendid new land, none of it is worn out or exhausted, and a large proportion of it was only broken two years ago. It requires no draining, there being a small creek running across a corner of it. It has been well and carefully tilled and has good fences all around. No better grain or meadow farm could be wished. On the premises there is a good Frame Barn, double floored and well finished, with stone foundation underneath.

Title perfect. Possession given immediately. Terms reasonable, and will be made known at time of sale.

Sale to commence at half-past two o'clock p. m., sharp.

P. S.—As Mr. Walton has removed to Emerson, Manitoba, he is determined to sell if a reasonable figure is offered.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

THE PORT HOPE Times, a good orthodox Tory organ, has the following, doubtless in recognition of the fact that "open confession is good for the soul" :

"We have not heard much about Dr. Orton, M. P., and farmer's friend, of late. This session he has been late in flowering, but he has at length burst into full bloom. He has introduced a bill to prevent agents of foreign railways holding out inducements to persons to emgrate from Canada. The bill proposes to make the practice punishable by imprisonment or fine, except where persons acting as agents for freight companies are authorised to act in that capacity by the Governor-in-Council. Should this bill carry, Dr. Orton may do a thing for which his party will not thank him. He may kill the "Exodus," which his associates in politics could not but regard as a calamity."

We always had an idea that the Government were secretly encouraging the "exodus," and this is ample proof. Dr. Orton is one of the bluest Tories in Parliament, but we hope will pursue his patriotic purpose of killing the exodus, regardless of the ill-will of his party, with which he is threatened.

THE CORNWALL Freeholder gives another illustration of one of the fruits of highly taxed necessaries of life under a false system of Protection :

"The National Policy which was not only to keep our men in the country, but was to attract countless thousands from other countries is working to a charm hereabouts. Time and again we have chronicled the departure of squads of our young men—the flower of the land—for the United States, not to seek work only, but also a permanent home. Often did we hope that the exodus had ceased ; but the longer the N. P. is in force the greater is the stampede for the States. This week no less than thirteen fine young men from the Township of Charlottenburgh have gone to Dakota and New Mexico to find work and a new home. They say it is impossible to live in this country. Everything is subject to such a high tax under the National Policy and wages are so low that they cannot make ends meet, and and therefore they are obliged to seek a home in another country. That is one of the many evil fruits of the N. P. which was designed solely for the manufacturers and not in the interest of the consumer or of the farmer."

Such a system will in the end be sure to bring about its own remedy. People will weary of the yoke, and, thanks to our system of Government, they are free to throw it off by the exercise of their franchise.

WHEN MR. MACKENZIE in 1878 asked a vote of $10,000 for extra clerks, the Opposition denounced the proposition as an extravagance and insisted on a reduction. Mr. Mackenzie reduced the vote to $8,000, and by economy was enabled to get the work performed for that amount. When the present Government took office, the Clerk of the House required twelve extra clerks for the session, and the Government forced him to take about a hundred. $10,000 they considered riotous extravagance in 1878, but now they are spending on the same work $100,000. The Minister of Interior, Sir John Macdonald, wanted $10,000 worth of clothing for the N. W. Mounted Police, so he spent some $2,113 in advertising for tenders in the Orange Lily, Peterborough Review, and other papers, and finally bought the clothing from a Yankee firm in Montana. This is the peculiar kind of economy practised by the Tory Government.

WHEN THE LIBERAL Government was in power nothing exceeded the anxiety of the Opposition to force the introduction of a Total Abstinance Bill, and much abuse had Mr. Mackenzie to submit to because he did not chose to be driven out of his own course. Bibulists like Dr. Schultz were put up to move prohibition resolutions, and the Government assailed because they voted them down. Finally the late government passed the Scott Act, and since the change of Government twice the Tories led by Mr. Boultbee have sought the repeal of the Act. Last year Mr. Boultbee's Bill was carried in the House and defeated in the Senate, and this year the House rejected the Bill; but a Bill has passed the Senate to exempt ale, beer, lager beer, and light wines from the operation of the Act. If this carry in the House, the Scott Act may be considered practically defunct.

THE HOUSE OF COMMONS acted, we think, wisely in deciding to retain the Hansard publication. No doubt there is room to doubt the expediency of swelling the volumes with hundreds of pages of idiotic twaddle from a Plumb ; but that does not argue the inutility of the work. It might be wise to have some more strict supervision as to the merits of speeches selected for publication, and indeed such a decision was arrived at a couple of years ago, when it was concluded to reduce the bulk and expense of the work, by printing in full only the speeches of the leading members of both sides ; but the Committee seem to have declined to define the line where the leading members end, and the inferior members begin. But there can be no doubt that the Hansard is a valuable reference, and the value each year increases with the progress of time. Future generations of Canadians will hardly regret the expenditure which will have preserved for them the eloquent words of such men as Hilliard Cameron, Mr. Chas. Moss, Hon. Mr. Huntington, Sir Charles Tupper, or Mr. Laurier, or the valuable opinions upon constitutional questions, more particularly as regards the interpretation of the Constitution by those who helped to frame it, of such as Sir John Macdonald or Edward Blake.

PERSONAL INTELLIGENCE.

Mr. Hatton, P. M., has returned from his tour to the South.

Mr. Detlor, of the Grand Junction, who has been laid up, is recovering.

We are pleased to see our old friend, Mr. D. Hopkins, on the street again after his recent severe illness, and to learn that his health is progressing favorably.

Mr. D Jameson, of this town, has been appointed Grand Secretary of the O. Y. B.s, in the room of the late Grand Secretary, Mr. Froiland, who died last week at Kingston.

Mr. Wm. Houston, one of the leading editors of the Globe staff, who was in town last week on a visit to his brother-in-law, Mr. William Cameron, favored us with a call on Friday.

We regret to learn that on Saturday Dr. Harvey, of this town, was attacked by a serious stroke of paralysis. He had been in his usual health up to that time and had contemplated accompanying his daughter to her new home in the North-West on Monday. At last reports the Doctor was somewhat improved.

"Mrs. Thomas Beattie, formerly Miss Skitch, having resigned her position as organist of the Bible Christian Church of this town, and being about to remove to Peterborough, was made the recipient of a handsome China tea set on Tuesday evening last. A few of the young folks of the church were present on the occasion. Mr. J. Bennett read the address, and Miss Rebecca Cook made the presentation.—Port Hope News.

SPORTING EVENTS.

On Thursday afternoon a large crowd assembled on the Little Lake course, to see the trotting race which was arranged the previous evening, and of which news had got abroad, between "Brown Barber," owned by W. Hetherington, and "Lady Seymour," by W. Croft. The latter was driven by Ed. Donnelly, and the former by her owner. The three heats, of a mile each, were won by "Brown Barber," who had the advantage of having been trained to single driving, while "Lady Seymour" had never been hitched before a trotting cutter before. She gives promise of superiority as a trotter, if properly trained with that object.

The second racing event took place on the Little Lake on Saturday afternoon, pursuant to announcement by posters issued the day previous. There was a large attendance, even on that short notice, which gives an idea of what might be done were a regular meeting properly announced. The first race, for horses that had never won public money, brought out seven starters, who pretty well filled up the width of the course. The owners of the horses were J. Young's Railroader, W. Croft's Brown Dick W. Croft's Lady Seymour, J. Larone's Medico, R. White's Livery Boy, E. Brown's Wheeler & Wilson, and E. Tierney's Edward Blake. Railroader proved worthy of his name, and came in first in the first two heats, Brown-Dick taking second place in both events. In the third heat Brown-Dick got away with a good start and took first place, Medico second, Railroader third. In the next heat Railroader again took first place, deciding the race, Tierney's Edward Blake coming in second. Young's Railroader with first place in three heats, took first money, $15 ; Croft's Brown Dick second place in two heats, second money, $10 ; Larone's Medico, third money, $5.

The Farmer's Race was decidedly a big event on the ice, and was worth a whole stack of the Fakir of Oolu's shows. Two teams started, and the race was won by Patrick Hanlan, of Douro.

IN MEMORIAM.

THOS. ESSON, ESQ., OTONABEE, WHO DIED JAN. 15TH, 1881, AGED 74 YEARS.

From care and trouble here below
His soul hath took its flight.
The great reality to know
That's hid from mortal sight.
He throught the dark vale quickly passed.
Ere his exit was known :
None knew that he had breathed his last
Until that he had gone.
He came here to Otonabee
Some sixty years ago,
Like all the early settlers, he
Did may a hardship know.
Land was to clear ere they could get
Food to subsist upon ;
None needed then to idle sit
Or food they'd soon have none.
The many trials then passed through
Lie in oblivion hid ;
The young folks now they would not do
What then their fathers did.
He was a man of knowledge rare ;
Each day, great pains he took
To mark the air, if foul or fair.
Down in his weather book.
Quietly at home he did abide.
Content with all he'd got.
Till he who on the pale horse ride
The fatal summons brought.

DISTRICT NEWS.

Thos. Russel, who has the contract for building the woolen mill for Gault Brothers, at Campbelford, intends to commence the work immediately, having the mill-part ready for the machinery on the 1st of next August.

The Whig reports twelve persons—men, women and children—all from the township of Bedford, who left Kingston yesterday for Minnesota. The Tory organs profess to know nothing about the exodus now going on "all along the line." Col. Prince is kept busy issuing the necessary documents for a transfer of allegiance.

About 7 o'clock Monday evening the dwelling of Mr. John Stacey, on lot No. 11, 5th con. Hope, was discoverd to be on fire. By the exertions of the neighbors the fire was extinguished before the building was entirely consumed. The loss will be upwards of two hundred dollars. Covered by insurance.

The horse owned by Mr. T. G. Hawthorn, which was badly injured by falling on a post on King street, recently, died last week from the effect of the injury. Mr. Hawthorn valued the horse at $200 and has entered a suit against the Corporation to recover value.—Oshawa Reformer.

The Perth by-law, granting a bonus to the Toronto and Ottawa railway, has lapsed, work not having commenced in the county according to the terms of the agreement.

LAKEFIELD COUNCIL MEETING.

The regular monthly meeting of the village Council took place in the Council Chamber, Doman's Block, on Monday evening the 14th of March instant. The village fathers present were Messrs. John McWilliams, Thomas J. Nelson, James Horner and Isaac Garbutt, senior. The Reeve was absent. Mr. John H. McWilliams as senior Councillor was called to the chair, which he filled with dignity. The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed. A guarantee was presented to the Council from Mr. Jas. Z. Rodgers of Ashburnham in reference to some cedar logs on Water street which was received as satisfactory. A kind of a conversational discussion about the streets of the village, ended in smoke, as it was considered too early in the season to do anything with the streets, though just now badly in need of water ways. Moved by Councillor Horner, seconded by councillor Nelson—that the account of Mr. Geo. McIlmoyl for $2.50, for collecting butcher's license be paid ; and that that the Reeve's order do issue for the amount.—Car ed. A by-law appointing Mr. Isaac Watson sen., Roadmaster, Health Inspector and Collector of the poll tax for 1881, was put through its regular parliamentary course, signed, sealed, &c. There being no other business before our miniature parliament, it was moved by Councillor Horner, and carried, that this council do now adjourn to meet at the call of the Reeve.

LAND SALT!

TO FARMERS!

The experience of Canadian Farmers during the last few years corroborates almost without exception the benefits to all grain crops by an early and liberal application of LAND SALT. The immediate effects noticeable are the retention of moisture and a marked stiffening of the straw preventing its lodging ; thus enabling the kernel more fully to mature.

These effects were fully brought out at the last meeting of the N. and D. Association held in town on the 12th and 13th of January. Many of the most influential members of the Society testified that they had used Land Salt for several years, and always with good results.

In reply to the question as to which kind of Salt was the best, the testimony of all was emphatically in favor of LIVERPOOL SALT. In fact it was stated that one sack of Liverpool Salt was worth from one and a half to two barrels of Goderich Salt.

Liverpool Salt is stronger, it has more vitality, and hence is the most economical to apply. It has been proved to be better than bulk salt, which is the refuse left from refining the finer kinds of barrel salt, also ; it is acknowledged to go further and give better results.

WE OFFER TO THE FARMERS

Several Thousand Bags Liverpool Salt,

At 80c. per bag, of 196 lbs. LAND PLASTER in Barrels.

Diseased Stock.

The Chicago Drovers' Journal, of Feb. 10th, is rather annoyed at the article headed "Danger," in our last issue. It plainly admits that they have diseases, but say they are in unimportant districts. If our contemporary would look at his own admission and consider the results, he would at once say that our object in preventing the introduction of any of the diseases into Canada in any form would tend much to the welfare of the States. For if we are not successful in keeping our stock free from diseases, the Americans could have no country in the world from which they could depend in obtaining healthy stock to re-stock the locatities where disease had rendered stock raising unprofitable.

He also says that "hogs purchased in this market (Chicago) for Canadian packers are the finest the land affords, without any exception."

Renovating Lands.

The future indicates stock raising and the production of meat and milk as likely to be the most profitable branch of the farmer's business; hence instead of converting the poor, worn-out tillage land to grass, a more prudent and far more profitable course will be, first to drain where necessary, and then use them for the growth of forage crops. Here we have a great variety of plants suited to every variety of soil and climate, and a well-directed forethought will ensure a succession of crops throughout the greater part of the summer. Cut and feed on the land to stock, to which a daily allowance of linseed cake is given, a certain quantity of wool and mutton or beef is produced per acre, while the land is steadily improving in richness. It is sometimes held desirable to plow in a crop of rape, buckwheat or clover, in order to enrich the soil for the support of future crops. We know of no better or cheaper means of restoring the lost fertility of exhausted soils than the repetition of forage crops grown and fed on the land.

Transplanting.

For a tree or shrub—whatever evergreen or deciduous—remember the following items in transplanting:—

1. Dig the holes wider and deeper than is necessary to admit the roots, so that they may rest in a natural position.
2. Cut all the dead and injured roots.
3. Firm the soil as it is thrown in, either with the feet or a wooden pounder.
4. Do not set the tree deeper than it grew before transplanting.
5. Level the soil and keep it mellow during the summer.
6. Cut the branches and stems, if need be, back in proportion as the roots have been injured. Whether they have been injured or not, it is advisable to cut the branches back more or less according to the size of the plant.
7. Carefully avoid exposing the roots to the wind or sun during transplantation or at any other time. No other neglect is so prolific in causing failures as this.

Experiments in Fertilizing Orchards.

Prof. Beal has been experimenting with an orchard. The land on which this orchard was situated was slightly rolling, not a strong land, a considerable portion was of a black loamy nature suitable for grass or corn. The experiments have been carried on since 1873 up to the present previous the orchard was not well cared for.

Around some trees small circles were kept cultivated; but these trees do no better than those which grow in sods. A circle of grass extending nearly out to the ends of the overshadowing lines is of little or no damage to the tree after it has grown 15 or more years, and has become well established. Trees of this age left in grass without manure, in our orchards grow more slowly, produce less fruit, of a smaller size and poorer quality, than trees which have been well cultivated; the fruit is generally in our experiments of a brighter color when grown on trees left in grass. When spread broadcast about a tree, barnyard manure produces a good effect about two years sooner than when the manure is placed close to the tree. Some trees were kept heavily mulched, to others ashes were applied at the at the rate of one wagon load of leach, or two or three bushels of unleached per tree, others were given one wagon load of barnyard manure; these applications were made four years ago and perhaps it is too soon to arrive at conclusions, but as yet the trees appear about the same, no differences being visible in favour of either of the above modes of, manuring. Where clear cultivation has been practiced without fertilizers or mulch, the fruit seemed to be just as abundant and of as good quality as in three last cases enumerated. Thorough tilling of the land has been one of the best experiments, and has apparently produced the best results. I have experimented in thinning apples when they are small, and find it very profitable.

Spring Wheat.

Many are the enquiries sent to us from different parts of the Dominion, asking which is the best kind of spring wheat we can recommend to them. To the farmers in Ontario residing anywhere south of the G. W. R., we would say, do not sow any. Judging from the past 12 years' experience and observation, we should, at a rough estimate, consider that all the spring wheat raised south of that line could not have cost the farmers less than $1.50 per bushel. Of course, we have no statistics to show this; but to arrive at a correct estimate, one cannot judge from the very few reports of farmers that have had fair returns. We must add thousands of those farmers that have had miserable returns; also those whose crops were total failures. Corn, hay, grass, &c., in fact, any other kind of farm produce, has paid, and will pay better than spring wheat, in the part above mentioned. To those living north of the G. T. R. in Ontario, or in Quebec, Manitoba, the Maritime Provinces, or British Columbia, we say sow the variety that is doing best in your locality. We are careful to examine the best and most reliable reports from the best seedsmen, and receive accounts from the American Government; and they spare no expense in procuring and trying every kind, and from no source can we hear of any new kind to recommend to you. We hear that agents are out in some parts of Canada with some new varieties, but we advise our subscribers not to waste their time or money. If there is anything worth having, the seedsmen will supply you.

The $750,000 wheat, or the Ontario Government wheat, has not done any better than other varieties during the past year. The White Russian wheat cannot be distinguished by us or you from the Lost Nation. In the northern part of Ontario it has done well; the Red Fern has also done well; and Fife or Glasgow wheat has done about as well. In some localities one may have surpassed the orther, in other localities the some variety has been most condemned. It is our impression that the days of raising and depending on spring wheat, as a source of profit, in Ontario, are fast passing away, and those that abandon its cultivation first will be the best off. Manitoba and the Northwest Territory can raise spring wheat cheaper than we can. We can raise beef, mutton, wool, butter, cheese, poultry, fruit, &c., cheaper and better than they can. Devote your attention to these, and let the farmers that say they cannot learn anything from agricultural papers stick to their spring wheat. Leave your land in grass, or sow corn, barley or oats, and feed the produce to your sheep, cattle, horses or poultry, and you will find the profit in your favor.

A good farmer will conduct his farm on the same principle that a manufacturer will—that is, to make money. No successful manufacturer of reaping machines makes everything; he now purchases much of his goods in parts. Raise your parts—wool, butter and cheese—and buy your spring wheat from those who can raise it cheaper than you can.

Some are even yet enquiring if we know where they can procure the Eldorado or Egyptian wheat, despite the loss that all the farmers we have heard of had with it everywhere. It has been tried in various parts of Canada, and the only place where it has been partially successful is near Thornbury. It is the best looking spring wheat we have ever seen, but will not succeed; therefore we will not recommend it.—Farmer's Advocate.

True Words.—His cause is a righteous one, else we could hardly forgive the editor of the Bobcaygeon Independent for the following:—"Hi! Having just investigated our cash box and counted up its contents, —a three cent stamp, fourteen cents in coppers, and a five cent bit, it strikes us rather forcibly that some of our sweet cented, magnanimous and whole souled subscribers have kind of forgot those little memorandums we forwarded a week or two ago. No doubt it is unkind of us to remind them of the matter, but see here now, ain't you jolly well ashamed of yourselves to have to be dunned for a paltry dollar and a quarter. Fie, for shame. Pay unto Caesar that which is Caesar's, for by Caesar, if you don't, how do you expect us to keep our Caesars clipping?"

RESTORATION OF THE HEALTH.

During the past ten years the Great Shoshonees Remedy has faithfully redeemed every promise and guarantee made to the public. Alarming and apparently hopeless cases of Lung Diseases, Dyspepsia, Liver Complaints, Afflictions of the Kidney and Chronic Complaints of every description, including Scrofula and Skin Diseases of lifelong duration, have been permanently removed and eradicated. Those who volunteered their testimony to the efficacy of the Remedy, are not bogus people in unheard-of localities of foreign countries, but respectable citizens of this country, easy of access and open to question, upon whose verbal recommendations we are willing to rest the reputation of the Great Shoshonees Remedy If you are afflicted, do not delay until medicine may be powerless to aid you. No injurious effects can possibly follow the use of these Indian Remedies, as they contain no minerals, by which the fate of the invalid is so often sealed under the form of some temporary sedative or stimulant. These Indian Remedies are widely known and still possess the public confidence, after the lapse of sufficient time to test their efficacy. The Shoshonees Vegetable Sugar Coated Pills have won for themselves the most favorable reputation of any pill before the public. Their efficacy has been fully proved as a remedy for billiousness, Sick Headache and inactivities of the stomach. Price of the Remedy in pint bottles, $1; Pills, 25 cents a box. Sold by all medicine dealers.

People tormented by the many disagreeable sensations produced by dyspepsia, or are thin, nervous and weak, should use the standard tonic—Northrop & Lyman's Quinine Wine. They will find it agreeable and beneficial. It enriches the blood by aiding digestion and assimilation; soothes and invigorates the nervous system, and imparts a healthful appetite. When used as a remedy for bilious and intermittent fever, it produces the happiest results, if taken between the attacks. Convalescence is hastened, and untimely decay of the physique and constitution is arrested by it. The spirituous constituent, sherry wine, is of the best quality, and the aromatics combined with it renders its flavor additionally pleasant. They who use it gain flesh as well as strength and it exerts a cheering influence upon the mind. It promotes a healthy secretion and flow of bile, sound repose and regularity in the action of the bowels. If judiciously used it may be taken without apprehension of any ill result by persons of the most delicate constitution. A fair trial is all that is needed to prove the genuineness of its claims to public confidence, and to the truth of the general verdict in its behalf. No article of its class commends its self so strongly to nervous invalids who require building up—none is so well adapted to fortify the system against the dangers which threaten the debilitated. It should not be mistaken for a mere stimulant of appetite, which so many so-called tonics simply are. It so regulates the stomach that it is enabled to perform its various functions with regularity and vigor, and its action is not only thorough but prompt. The Detroit, Mackinac, and Marquette Railroad Company

Now offer for Sale over 1,350,000 Acres of the Choicest FARMING and TIMBERED LANDS in the Northern Peninsula of Michigan.

Destined to be the best wheat-producing region in the world. These lands are situated in the counties of Chippewa, Mackinac, Schoolcraft, and Marquette, and embrace many thousands of acres of the best agricultural lands in the State of Michigan.

Among those in the counties of Chippewa and Mackinac are tracts of what are known as the "burnt or cleared" lands. These lands offer many advantages over the prairie lands of the West, as the timber lands adjoining insure a supply of fuel at little cost. The soil being a rich clay loam of great depth. The timber remaining upon the land being generally sufficient for the settlers' use in building and fencing.

These partially cleared lands are now offered at the low price of from $4 to $4.50 per acre, one-fourth cash, and the remainder at purchaser's option, at any time within nine years, with interest payable annually at seven per cent.

Roads are being opened through these lands, and no better opportunity has ever been offered to men of small means to secure a good farm, and intending purchasers will be wise by availing themselves of this chance before prices advance, as the lands are being rapidly taken and settled upon.

The lands more immediately on the line of the Detroit, Mackinac, and Marquette Railroad, from Straits of Mackinac to Marquette, are more heavily timbered, and are almost universally good agricultural lands, leaving splendid farms when the timber is removed.

The iron and lumber interests of the upper peninsula are of such magnitude as to call for all the charcoal and lumber that the timber and wood upon the lands will produce—this will enable the settler to make good wages while clearing the land.

Lumber Mills and Charcoal Kilns will be built at various points along the line, and Furnaces are now being erected along the line of the road at Point St. Ignace.

The great demand and good prices for labor, both in winter and summer, make these lands particularly desirable as homes for the poor man. The lands adjacent the Railroad are offered at prices from $5 upwards, according to location, value of timber, etc. The lands are at your very door, and are being rapidly settled by Canadians.

For pamphlets, maps, and other information, address, W. O. STRONG, Land Commissioner, 39 Newberry and McMillan Building, Detroit, Michigan. 9-1y.

Vivienne's Crime;

OR,

FOR LOVE OF HIM.

By the Author of "Clifton Manor," "Mrs. Sheldon's Ambition," &c., &c.

"Poor Gilbert," she said, with a sob, thinking of the sad eyes whose secret she had failed to read, of the grave lips that had never been without a smile for her.

Long before Ethel came home, all in Thornton knew that Gilbert had left her this money. People looked on her with a new interest, seeing that she had grown rich in their midst. But to her brought no change; she was just the same Ethel that she had ever been, just the same frank, kindly, simple girl that she always was, and always would be, in her heart.

The day after her return, Mrs. Thornton and Vivienne Stuart came to see her—the elder lady a shade colder in her greeting, the younger very listless and quiet—nervous a little too, and not inclined to talk much, but very friendly withal.

When they had gone, Ethel felt glad; she could scarcely told why, but something in their faces or in their manner, she did not know which, had aroused a fear within her.

That same evening, waiting for her father to come in, she sat by the fire, thinking. Herbert Grant had been in, but he had not stayed long—he had other calls to make. The little low-ceiling room was dark, save for the red flashes the fire sent through it—fitful flashes, that came and went suddenly. Ethel, sitting by the hearth in her low chair, with her little hands clasped on her knee, made a very pretty picture. The dull gold of her hair grew ruddy as the light touched it; her eyes, watching the red coals, had a shine of tears in them.

She was thinking of Jocelyn Thornton, and what would surely come some day soon, if it had not come already—the loss of him. She had loved ever since she could first remember him—a fair-faced, fair-haired, handsome lad, eager to do her any little service in his boyish way. She would go on loving him all her life long, as she had promised to do, she told herself, sitting there. She could never love any one as she loved him; and yet she must live her life without him or his love, she knew. It would be hard. The coming year would be very empty, terribly empty, wanting him; nevertheless there was nothing for her to do but give him up. She was a proud girl—far prouder, in her way, than Vivienne Stuart could ever be; and Ethel knew that she had slipped out of her place in Jocelyn's heart. "Been pushed out of it," she thought, a little bitterly; and now all that remained for herwas to hear his own lips tell her this, and then to set him free.

"And this money, coming to me now, of all times! His mother looked at me to-day as if she grudged it. I wish Gilbert had not left it to me; I do wish he had not died."

Ah, if he had not, little Ethel, it would all have been different now.

She heard a man's step in the hall, but she did not stir. She thought her father had got back rather earlier than usual, that was all. When the door behind her opened, she turned her head, and saw, not her father, but Jocelyn Thornton.

There were white flakes on his coat and on his heavy whiskers; for it was snowing fast, and he had ridden slowly through the midst of it. She turned pale, and his face, looking at her through the shadows, was dim in her eyes. For a second the white snow-flakes and the sunny whiskers faded before her, like the things in a dream, and this tall figure coming darkly in the flashes of the firelight, had no more substance in her sight than the morning haze might have had.

"You are not glad to see me, Ethel?" Then she rose to meet him, forcing her lips to speak calmly.

"I am very glad to see you, only you startled me a little coming in like that. I had expected to see my father. He is at Bentham to-night."

She pushed a chair towards him as soon as he had left her hand go, and he sat down on the other side of the hearth, facing her. She saw then that he was almost as nervous as she was, and the stern reason she had learned to dread was on his face this first night of their meeting. She would have rung for lights, but he stayed her.

"We can talk very well in the firelight," he said, and she felt thankful he thought so.

She would have given worlds for something to say, however ailly, but the words would not come. She sat and played with the chain at her neck, and Jocelyn sat and looked in the fire, like a man who had forgotten her existence. This silence was more than she could endure. She felt that she should break down utterly if he did not soon speak, or if her own brain did not clear so that she might think of something to say to him, sitting brooding there.

She knew as well as he did the real meaning of this late visit, and she was tenacious of but one longing, intense and deep, and that was that he would tell her plainly what he had come all that way through the snow to tell, and then go away. The tender self-pity that had made her eyes wet an hour before had gone. Even her love seemed dead at the sight of that set face, so cruel in its calmness.

At last he lifted his eyes and looked at her, sitting in her beauty not a yard from him.

"I have come to say something to you Ethel, that perhaps you will never forgive me for saying."

She returned his gaze, but did not speak. He rose and stood a step nearer to her, leaning his elbow on the low mantel and looking away from her pale face with the pain on it, into the red hollows of the fire at his feet. His broad shoulders, as he stood thus, barred the light from her, much as his next words barred, as she listened, the last faint sparkle of hope from her heart.

"I want you to forgive me beforehand for saying what I am about to say. It would make me wretched all my life if I thought my words would really hurt me very much."

He meant all that he said; she knew that, and her little fingers were clasped tight round her throat, as though to choke back the sobs rising there.

Seeing that she could not or would not speak, he went on; his voice growing firmer, as though it pained him to speak the words that were only the truth after all, as he had known it four months now.

"When I told you I loved you, when I asked you to be my wife, I did not know my heart. I spoke then only what I felt, but now——" he stopped, glancing down at the still face among the shadows—"but now—I—Ethel—I love Vivienne Stuart."

She gave a little sob; were it for her life, she could not have helped it, and he was beside her in an instant, both her hands in his—tender, remorseful.

"Forgive me, Ethel! Forgive us both; we really could not help it," he said; "but if you feel it like this, I will keep my word to you. I will——"

There she stayed him. She drew her hands out of his. She got up and stood away from him, at the far corner of the huge carved mantel-board. The tears were dry in her eyes; her cheeks burned crimson.

"You will give up nothing for me," she answered. "Why do you talk of keeping your word? You broke it for ever the last hour you loved Vivienne Stuart. You will marry this woman you love the best; and as for me and my pain, let me never trouble you for an instant."

He stood abashed before her.

"At least you will forgive me, Ethel? You will let me be your frend as poor Gilbert was?"

"When we can meet as friends, we may," she said, and turned and left him standing there in the mingled gloom and brightness of the low-roofed parlour, where often and often in the past he had he had sat and told her how he would love her, and her only, all his life.

Jocelyn, riding home that night, facing the snow-flakes and the keen wind that came in with a rush from the sea, carried a sore heart with him. He had obtained his freedom, longed for so often of late, but in some way he had receive a sting with it. Like many another, this hour of his success was not the brightest of his life, not even the freest from haunting memories.

CHAPTER XV.

How long the sad days and weeks of our lives appear! He wearily they progress under their burden of pain or care, till our tired hearts cry out for the days to be over, the load laid by.

Ethel learned that lesson in the Spring and Summer months of the year after Gilbert's death. She was a brave girl, and a proud one. She hid her trouble well, but what of that? It was there. It prayed on her; it ate her youth away, and it dimmed the freshness of her beauty. No one in Thornton knew of it with the exception of her father and one other perhaps Herbert Grant.

The second week after her return she went away again. "She did not feel as strong as she would like, as strong as she had expected she would have felt; and she was going back to the same friend, to see if a longer visit would do her more good." So she told Mrs. Thornton, and she in turn told it to Jocelyn, who said nothing.

Vivienne Stuart, full of her new joy, wracked and tortured by a horrible haunting memory that would not rest, had no thought of her on her doings. She had rarely visited at the Doctor's of late. She seemed to have taken a dislike to the little stone house. No one guessed the reason. No one ever dreamed that this beautiful Vivienne had a spectre in her life that grew too terrible to face at times; thinking of the Doctor's study where the bottles stood in files, with one among them labelled so plainly "Poison."

Every day of her life Gilbert's pale face, in its death-sleep, rose before her; every day of her life that tiny glass bottle seemed to be burning her fingers, as it had burned them that night when her hand dropped out its contents so steadily, so pitilessly, so surely.

Jocelyn never kissed her without pain tearing her heart. "What if he knew?" They never talked of the future, of the long years of happy life that stretched before them, but she sickened over the past that lay behind, terrible through its one fatal stain, never to be forgotten.

And yet remorse, repentance, never entered the strange, wilful heart that could suffer all this and live. She knew, while she thought of what had happened, that, were it all to return, she would do just the same again.

"I could not have lived without Jocelyn," she often said to herself in those dreary talks she held with her own heart. "Ethel never would have let me have him. And so one of us must have died: and better he who could not have lived the year out, at the furthest. Besides, he had nothing and no one to care to live for, and I had Jocelyn."

Every one in Thornton knew that Mrs. Thornton's beautiful young ward would one day marry her son; and late in Autum she did.

It was a very quiet wedding. Only a year since there had been the funeral coaches at the old gates. How could they have any other wedding but a quiet one?

Looking at her husband's eyes that day, the fear and the pain died out of Vivienne's face and out of her heart. The greatness of her love and of her joy swallowed up all else. She had no thought for the past, no memory for anything but that she had that day won the love that was more than life to her.

They went away into Scotland for a month, to see the old house among the bleak Scotch hills in which her father had been born. She had often longed to go there, for she had won the love of her grave, proud father—not like her beautiful young mother, who had failed to win it.

When they came back, they found Ethel West standing beside Mrs. Thornton, to welcome them home. Vivienne threw her arms about the young girl's neck, and kissed her again and again; and, what was rare with her, she cried a little as she looked up into the sweet face she had always thought so beatiful.

"It is so good of you," she said—"so kind of you. You will come here often as you used to do? You will be my own dear friend, Ethel?"

And Ethel, flushing softly up to her golden hair, kissed her and answered that she would.

"I don't know of anything that could please me so much as seeing you here to-day," said Jocelyn Thornton, taking both her hands in his as his wife released her.

He was a little nervous, this stalwart, bearded man, and he spoke fast in his nervousness. But he was also very much in earnest, and even more pleased than he might have quite dared to own.

"When we can meet as friends, we may," Ethel had said to him, not scornfully, not mockingly, but very sadly, that past night which, looked back upon, seemed so long ago—the night he had ridden through the snow-storm to tell her that he loved this Vivienne Stuart, who was Vivienne Thornton to-day.

This time had come then. She told him that by her presence in his home; by every word, by every look she told it him. And happy as he was in his new love, he was glad that this girl he had used to love was his friend once more. Ethel herself was glad of it. The first edge of her pain had worn down. Sometimes she thought how light a thing her love must have been, to put aside so easily. But it was only at times she imagined this. At others, she knew only too well what the love of this man had been to her—what its loss must be to her all her life through.

TEAS! TEAS!

CHINA and JAPAN.

As an article of Domestic use, there is none perhaps for which there is at the present day a greater demand in the aggregate than TEA.

Notwithstanding the increased demand, yet the price of TEAS is lower to-day than it has ever yet been.

The causes which have procured so desirable a result to the TEA-DRINKER are practical.

First:—A more extended and scientific system of cultivation in the Tea producing countries.

Second:—Cheaper and better carrying facilities, and

Third:—Increased and closer competition amongst traders and dealers.

TEAS are popularly known as Green, Black and Japan, and of each of these there are a number of grades and varieties. Thousands of pounds are annually adulterated and sold in this country.

For description of grade, modes of adulteration, and tests for detection, see "ads" to follow.

Meantime we offer JAPAN TEA at 40c. per pound. NONE BETTER. TRY IT!

OUR IDOL.

Close the door gently,
Bridle the breath,
Our little earth angel
Is talking with death;
Gently he woos her,
She wishes to stay,
His arms are about her—
He bears her away.

Music comes floating
Down from the dome,
Angels are chanting
The sweet welcome home.
Come, stricken weeper,
Come to the bed,
Gaze on the sleeper;
Our idol is dead.

Smooth out the ringlets,
Close the dark eyes,
No wonder such beauty
Was claimed in the skies.
Cross the hands gently
O'er the white breast;
So like a wild spirit
Strayed from the blest;
Bear her out softly,
This idol of ours,
Let her grave slumbers
Be mid the wild flowers.

IN MEMORIAM.

Against expenditure in honor of the dead Heaven has uttered no prohibition, and Earth is not injured but benefited by them. All those beautiful emblems which adorn the many tombs around which we love to linger, assure us we are in a world of warm and loving hearts; the adorning of the sepulchres of the "loved ones" alleviates our grief and soothes the wounded heart. It also cheers the bereaved to know that an additional embellishment of the grave presents stronger atractions to arrest the attention of the stranger, and causes him to pause and learn the name of one who has shared so largely in the love of others.

I take this method to inform you that I can fill orders for decorating the graves of departed friends, at low figures, executed in the best style of workmanship.

SIGN OF SUMMER. The first awning of the season made its appearance on George street yesterday, over the store of Mr. D. Lemay.

THE MECHANICS INSTITUTE will meet tomorrow evening to dispose of the prizes awarded to successful competitors in the recent examinations.

THE SCHOOL BOARD. A meeting of the Board of Education is in progress as we go to press. A report of proceedings will appear in next week's issue.

TOWN COUNCIL.—After a somewhat unusually lengthy recess, the Town Fathers will meet again for the despatch of business on Monday evening next.

CROSSINGS.—The disgraceful state of the street crossings during the recent thaw, will, we hope, stimulate the Street and Bridge Committee to have some improvements made at the earliest moment.

MY CUSTOMERS and the general public will please observe, that we have received large shipments of plain and fancy Ducks, Derrys, Shirtings, Gray and White Cottons, Prints, &c. Something remarkably cheap in Tea. Please call and examine these goods. W. J. WALLACE, Lakefield. 9-4t

GOVERNMENT EXPENDITURES.—We are told that "the new Government building at Belleville will be of stone, and will front on Bridge-street." When will the the Government buildings at Peterborough be built, we wonder?

SLEIGHING GONE.—Sleighing is almost entirely gone on the country roads, and many waggons are to be seen on the streets. Livery men are washing their wheeled vehicles, and laying their sleighs up to dry.

FOOT & MCWHINNIE are receiving their stock of Boots and Shoes for the spring and summer trade, and, as they purchased on very favorable terms, are offering the same at remarkably low prices. See their advertisement next week.

CENSUS ENUMERATORS. The Census Commissioners' organ announces that the following have been appointed Enumerators for West Peterborough:

SMITH. Lewis Davis and Geo. Fitzgerald.
NORTH MONAGHAN. Henry Collins.
SOUTH MONAGHAN.—T. M. Willis.
ENNISMORE. Daniel Costello.

DANGER OVERHEAD.—Some of the copings on the older buildings on George street are in a dangerous state of decay, particularly between Brock and Hunter on the east side, and Hunter and Simcoe on the west side. We suppose some of the officials will take action after somebody has been fatally struck on the head by a falling brick.

MDLLE LITTA.—As will be seen by an advertisement in another column the Litta combination give an entertainment in Bradburn's Hall on Thursday evening, March 31st. Referring to this gifted lady, the Paris Figaro says: "Her voice is fresh, crystalline like a fine thread of spring water, but having the precious quality of a fine tone. It rises in "Sonorities," and swells over the orchestra in a remarkable purity and equallity of sound. She played with the vocilazations, trills and points "d'orgie," without ever losing control of her voice. The audience recalled her before the curtain three times after the expiration of the Mad Scene." Mdlle Litta is assisted by Miss McLain, contralto; Mr. H. I Cleveland, the favorite tenor; Miss Mantey, an eminent violinist; Mr. Skelter, cornetist and Miss Mllie Banga, pianist. A choice entertainment is assured.

EASTER ORGAN RECITAL.—St. Luke's Parish Church Register has the following announcement:

"On the 22nd ultimo the members of the above Committee, together with the Organist and Choir Master, met at the house of Incumbent to consider the advisability of having another Organ Recital immediately after Easter. It was decided to commence the work of preparation as soon as possible and a list of suitable music made out, consisting consisting of sacred anthems, solos, a trio, and a quartette, all of which are of a very superior class, and of a character seldom heard in provincial towns. We find the members of our own choir and congregation, who so ably assisted us last year, and also the other kind friends to whom we owe the success of the last recital, are again very ready to lend their aid in the choruses. Mr. Millar has kindly consented to act as conductor, and Mr. Hallett will preside at the organ. An attempt will be made to procure the service of a soloist from Toronto or elsewhere. The first practice took place on Thursday evening March 3rd. We append a list of music so far selected, and can assure our readers of the treat in store for them when the Recital comes off. Anthems:—"Sing Unto God."—Handel. (Judas). "But the Lord is Mindful of His People."—Mendelssohn. "To Thee, Cherubim."—Handel (Dettingen Te Deum.) "Behold How Good and Joyful."—Whitfield. "They have taken away my Lord."—Steiner. Quartette, "La Carita,"—Rossini."

GONE WEST.—Mr. W. Lech left yesterday for Colorado, where he will remain for two months. We wish him a pleasant journey and a safe return. Mr. Lech, in leaving, wishes us to state that his son is empowered to give receipts for all accounts due in his business, and requests those indebted to pay up.

THE RED BOOT.—The clearing sale of Boots and Shoes is still going on at the sign of the red boot, and as the present large stock must be greatly reduced during the next two weeks unprecedented bargains may be expected. No old or worthless stock, but goods of most fashionable styles and best material.

SHIPMENT OF HORSES.—On Monday Mr. Wm. Jacobs, of Montreal, shipped a carload of 14 horses from the Stewart House, per G.J.R., to that city. To-day Mr. Jas. Walsh ships a car load of 16 horses by the same road for the same destination. The latter cargo is said to be the best lot shipped from Peterborough this season.

MIDLAND RAILWAY.—Traffic returns for week ending March 7, 1881, were:—Passengers and mails, $1,619.63; freight, $2,734.50; total, $4,354.13, as compared with $4,276.66 for the corresponding week of 1880, being an increase of $77.47; and the aggregate traffic to date is $34,424.58, being an increase of $1,605.45 over 1880. Thos. Gladman, Auditor.

CLUXTON'S NEW BLOCK.—The preliminary operations on the handsome new structure which Mr. William Cluxton is to erect this summer on the site of the burned block, corner of Hunter and George streets, have already begun. Mr. Arthur Rutherford has the contract, and Mr. D. Carlisle will do the masonry for him. The cost of the building will be about $12,000, and it will be an ornament to the town

TRACT SOCIETY.—The following are the officers of the Tract Society for the current year: President, Rev. Ashton Fletcher; Secretary, Mr. Henry Grundy; Treas., Mr. W. C. Nicholls; Depository, Mr. W. W. Johnston; Committee,—John Carnegie, Wm. Yelland, Robert Kingan, Thomas Greenhow, Joseph Ford, Col. Haultain, John J. Lundy, Samuel Curtis, Wm. Aldridge, G. M. Roger and James Stratton.

THE FAKIR OF OOLU.—A genius claiming the above imposing title, gave a performance in Bradburn's Hall on Monday evening. Having announced that there would be a present with every ticket, and the mysteries of the spirit world were to be unfolded, there was a very large audience at what proved to be the most stupendous sell of the season. The programme consisted of a speech by the Fakir, whose stream of eloquence was closed by violent expressions of anguish on the part of the victims, and vociferous demands to "go on with the show." The slack wire performance was the slackest ever shown here, the daring acrobat showing his agility by several very graceful tumbles. The proceedings by the band were highly interesting, consisting of solos on the base drum, with cornet variations of an alarming character. The spiritualistic seance consisted of the old cabinet trick, executed in its flimsiest style. Every person who wanted one got an "album," which, judging by the number lying around the arcade the next morning, did not seem to be appreciated. People seem to enjoy being gulled, as a transparent fraud like this generally gets a full house, while too frequently first-class entertainments are meagrely attended.

SYSTEMATIZING CHARITIES.—A meeting will be held on Tuesday evening next, in the Council Chamber, consisting of the Mayor, Charity Committee, the clergymen of the various denominations, and the representatives of the Hall Trust and the Protestant Home, for the purpose of considering the best means of obtaining uniform action on the part of the various bodies dispensing charity in the town. It is to be hoped a satisfactory conclusion will be arrived at.

SOME MEAN MEN.—An exchange says:—We know of no meaner man than one who will take a newspaper for three, six, or nine months, and then, without paying a cent for it, insist on stopping the paper and when furnished with his bill not paying the smallest attention to it. Such a man is mean enough to rob the poor box at church if he got the chance. Does such an one not know that the publishers have to pay for paper, ink and labor, and can no more furnish their publication for nothing than the grocer or dry-goods men can afford to sell their merchandise for nothing? No man is obliged to subscribe for a newspaper, but when a man takes it regularly for several months he ought in common honesty to pay for it. We regret to say we have on our list a few men of this class, who on sundry occasions have shown their true inwardness by acting in the way described above. We wish all such men to understand that in acting so they are simply acting the part of very mean, contemptible rogues."

DONNYBROOK.—On Monday evening a row, which resulted in prominent phrenological and physiological developments of an abnormal character, occurred in town, having its denouement in Ashburnham. It seems that there had been some ill-will between Conductor Brownlee of the Grand Junction, and Cuthbertson, a section foreman. On Monday night the section men were up loading a train with wood, and there not being room for all to bunk in the caboose, Cuthbertson applied for leave to sleep in the passenger coach. This was refused, and subsequently the parties met on Charlotte street, when a row ensued, in which the conductor got his head pretty badly used up. After repairing injuries, he procured a couple of assistants to "see fair play," and hunted up his assailant in Ashburnham, when a second combat ensued, in which the section foreman got decidedly used up. The sum total of it is, that each party has had his wounded honor appeased, and each bears the marks of the other's "satisfaction." That ought to make things "square," but it is likely the end is not yet.

IN SPITE OF THE N.P.—Messrs. Wm. Graham and M. Sanderson, of Smith, have each received this week, an elegant cabinet organ from the firm of Marshall, Smith & Co., of New York, which were laid down here, notwithstanding the freight and high duty, at the low cost of $85 each. They think the firm entitled to much credit for placing such excellent instruments at the disposal of people of moderate means at so low a price. What about the N.P. which was to keep down prices, and keep out American manufacturers' at the same time?

HANDSOME WORKMANSHIP.—A very handsome "Regulator" has recently been placed in the store of Messrs. Muncaster & Sanderson. The machinery of the clock, which is of the most perfect kind, was all made by Mr. R. Muncaster, and occupied over two months. The woodwork, which is massive solid black walnut, elaborately carved and ornamented, was made, according to design supplied by the firm, by Mr. M. McFadden, upon whose skill it reflects much credit. The clock is probably the finest in town, runs for eight days, is valued at $175, and is calculated to last for a hundred and fifty years.

CONTESTED ELECTION CASE.—Last week in the County Judge's Chambers, a summons obtained for Mr. R. W. Errett by Mr. N. D. Beck to set aside the election of Mr. T. W. Robinson, as School Trustee for No. 4 Ward, was argued. Mr. J. F. Dennistoun appeared for Mr. Robinson, and Messrs. C. A. Weller and Beck for the summons. On Tuesday Judge Dennistoun gave judgment setting aside the election, on the ground of non-compliance with the requirements of the statute, in the ordering of the election. A new election will be necessary, the nomination to take place on March 30th and the polling on the 6th of April. We understand Mr. Robinson is again a candidate with every prospect of election by acclammation.

"PARISH CHURCH WORK."—This useful and interesting little magazine has entered upon its sixth year. In its initial article of the new volume, it says:—"We have made a valuable addition to the paper's usefulness, by the publication of the Sunday School Lesson Leaves on the Church Catechism, which must commend Church Work to all interested in Sunday School work. It has been generally admitted that Mr. Bradshaw has done good service to the Church by their publication." This refers to the popular Incumbent of St. Luke's, Ashburnham. "Parish Church Work," in connection with St. Luke's, is published monthly, with four extra pages devoted to the local work of the church, admirably compiled by the Incumbent, and has, we are glad to observe, successfully completed its first volume.

POLICE COURT NOTES.

On Wednesday of last week Joseph Weaver made his appearance before the P.M., charged with dipsomania, and having acknowledged the "corn," was allowed to go after the confiscation of a bottle of corn-juice which he had in his pocket.

On Friday last Dr. Campbell, of Campbellford, was charged with illegally practicing medicine without being a duly registered practitioner. The evidence being conclusive, the P. M. fined him $100 and costs, or one month in gaol in default of payment forthwith.

On Saturday Messrs. Plummer & Co. were charged by Inspector Beavis with selling goods without a license. The defendents had paid a license of $100 before the case was called, and the charge was withdrawn.

Michael Galvin was fined $1 and costs for an assault upon Thos. Graystock.

On Monday the adjourned case of Daniel Cushing, for maliciously injuring property of Edward Phelan, came on. The evidence of the complainant, his bartender and others, went to prove that Cushing after receiving a volley of decanters from his assailant, Wilson, threw one in return, which smashed again the wall. He also broke several tumblers with his elbow during the row. The decanter and liquor therein contained the Magistrate held were maliciously broken, and having appraised their value at $2.25 damages, he fined Cushing an additional $2 and costs. The charge of breach of thep eace was enlarged.

On Tuesday Robert Houlihan of Otonabee was arrested on old warrant issued in December last last for assault on one Garry. The prosecuter was not present but the prisoner pleaded guilty and he was fined $3 and $7 costs. Had he pleaded "not guilty" he would have saved his $10.

A case was heard yesterday, Mayor Smith presiding, against Mr. Pilon, a section man employed by the Midland R. R., on an information for damaging shade trees in connection with the widening of the Midland track. The action is virtually against the Company. By consent, the case was enlarged till Monday.

Jas. Watson was charged with the theft of two call bells from Bell's hotel on Tuesday night. In absence of witnesses, he was remanded till to-day.

PETERBOROUGH PRESBYTERY.

ST. PAUL'S v. ST. ANDREW'S.

Superior Diplomacy of St. Andrew's—St. Paul's Boycotted with the "Previous Question"—The Case Appealed to a Higher Court.

There was a pretty full attendance of members of the Presbytery at St. Andrews Church on Monday evening and the church and galleries were fairly filled with visitors who came to witness the anticipated renewal of the conflict upon the Hammond question.

After the usual routine business the docket report was adopted, the first item on the list being the statement of St. Andrews session, having reference to the petition from the same session.

THE STATEMENT.

To the Rev. the Presbytery:—

The Session of St. Andrew's Congregation, Peterborough, beg respectfully to state in reference to their memorial presented on the 11th January last:—

1. That when they prepared and presented that memorial they had good reason to believe that serious charges would be brought against their minister in your Court; and that those charges might be so formulated as (under the rules of the church) to prevent that full investigation into all the circumstances connected therewith, as in their opinion the ends of justice would require.

2. That since its presentation the inquiry in part, already made in accordance with its prayer, only some of the charges actually, but at first informally made, were at length duly formulated and tabled, and these again have been withdrawn, thus removing the cause which led to its presentation.

3. That while, for reasons which they need not state, they (the Session of St. Andrew's congregation) do not see their way to ask the Presbytery to allow them to withdraw their memorial, they think it their duty at this stage of the proceedings to draw the attention of the Presbytery to the circumstances just stated, and leave it with the Court to say whether the investigation shall proceed or not.

THE PETITION.

To the Reverend the Presbytery of Peterborough:

The petition of the Session of the congregation of St. Andrew's Church, Peterborough, respectfully sheweth:—

1st.—That for several months past the propriety and expediency of inviting Mr. E. P. Hammond to visit Peterborough and hold revival services has been pressed upon the consideration of the several evangelical denominations of the town.

2nd.—That your petitioners acting upon the best and most reliable information at their command, and which information they are prepared to submit to your Rev. Court, passed the resolution hereto attached, on the 13th October last, which resolution was unanimously approved at a meeting of the congregation called for the consideration of the question, on the 10th December following, which resolution is also hereto attached.

3rd.—That your petitioners have reason to believe that the steps which have been taken to bring Mr. Hammond to Peterborough have been taken chiefly at the instance of Session of the St. Paul's congregation, the other Presbyterian congregation in Peterborough.

4th.—That the antagonistic positions of members of the Presbyterian church in Peterborough with regard to Mr. Hammond's visit is destructive of that harmony and union which should exist between members of the same communion, detrimental to the legitimate growth and prosperity of Presbyterianism in and around Peterborough, and calculated to bring discredit upon us as a denomination.

5th.—That in the opinion of your petitioners the existing state of affairs among us, if permitted to continue, must prove subversive of Presbyterian church government and discipline and foster and stimulate latitudinarianism in doctrine to an extent which must ultimately prove disastrous to the interests intrusted to the care of your reverend Court.

Your petitioners therefore pray that your reverend Court will be pleased to institute a searching enquiry into the part taken by the Sessions and the individual members of the two congregations in Peterborough with regard to the bringing of Mr. Hammond to Peterborough for the purpose of holding revival services, in order that it may clearly appear who have been pursuing the right or wrong course in this matter, and your petitioners will ever pray. Signed,

JOHN CARNEGIE, Session Clerk. ALEX. BELL, Moderator.

Resolution of the Session.—That while recognizing the right of others to judge for themselves as to the best means of promoting the interest of Christ's Kingdom, we claim the same right for ourselves, and as from present information we are of opinion that Mr. Hammond is not the man through whose instrumentality or agency the good sought would result, we therefore deem it inexpedient to join in inviting Mr. Hammond to visit Peterborough, and cannot therefore take any part in so doing.

Resolution of Congregation.—Moved by Dr. Bell, seconded by Mr. Glover,—That having heard the very extensive and trustworthy information placed before us by the Session, the congregation heartily approves and commends their action as set forth in the resolution of the 13th October last in regard to Mr. Hammond's proposed visit, and in view of the almost unanimously unfavorable reports of Mr. Hammond's methods of conducting his services; his manner of presenting the truth; his plan of dealing with both children and adults in estimating their conversion, and the unsatisfactory results as given by so large a number of the ministers of our church who have had experience of his working, and ample opportunities of judging, and in view of the further fact, that three public meetings, called for the purpose, declined to invite Mr. Hammond, this congregation cannot help expressing the opinion that it would be both unwise and imprudent for it to countenance any any effort being made to bring Mr. Hammond to Peterborough.

Col Haultain moved that the investigation proceed. The Petition of St. Andrews session was of too serious a character to be left in its present shape and there were other reasons why it should be investigated. It had nothing whatever to do with the matter which had been in controversy between Mr. Bell and himself, but it referred to an indefinite number of the elders and members of the St. Paul's congregation and associated them with un-Christian and improper conduct.

Rev. Mr. Torrance seconded the motion.

Rev. Mr. Beattie (Baltimore) said that while he sympathised with the mover and seconder he ventured to think that if they looked at the whole case as affecting the prosperity of Christ's cause, they would not proceed further with it. They would be doing no injustice that he could see, and he did not think any good purpose could be served, or Christ's cause advanced by proceeding with the investigation. He moved seconded by Mr. Ewing in effect that the matter be dropped.

Mr. Torrance asked if this motion passed, would the petition be allowed to remain on the session books of St. Andrew's Church? This was a serious matter, and if it were allowed to remain, the people of St. Paul's would not feel that justice had been done them.

Rev. Mr. Beatty saw no difficulty in that. The Presbytery could put everything in its right place and in its right light.

Col. Haultain said the congregation of St. Paul's could not feel that justice had been done them if this motion passed. They had already allowed one party to make a statement casting injurious reflections upon certain members of St. Paul's session. He thought it would not be justice to deprive them of their right to be heard in reply. He asked leave to read the petition of St. Andrew's session.

Rev. Mr. Cameron, (Millbrook,) objected.

Col. Haultain said many elders and an indefinite number of the members of St. Paul's had been charged with disloyalty to Christ's kingdom. He desired to read the memorial, in order to show why the investigation should not be dropped in the manner proposed.

Rev. Mr. Cameron said Col. Haultain had no right to read the memorial. They did not want to go into this matter again.

Col. Haultain said the charges were of too serious a character and affected too many of the members of the church to be put aside in this manner.

Rev. Mr. Smith said he could not allow Col. Haultain to read the memorial. He considered the whole matter had been disposed of at the last meeting.

Rev. Mr. Bell said they could not allow Col. Haultain to make a speech on the merits of the question until they had decided whether they would go on with the investigation or not.

Rev. Mr. Bennett said Col. Haultain contended that they should go on with the case, and he desired to read the memorial to show the gravity of the charges. It was necessary to his argument.

Rev. Mr. Bell said he had spoken under a misapprehension. He thought it was the paper from St. Paul's that Col. Haultain proposed to read. If the memorial were read it should be read by the Clerk.

Mr. Carnegie said the Clerk should read the document and not Col. Haultain.

Rev. Mr. Smith said the memorial did not belong to Col. Haultain, but to the Presbytery, and if read, must be read by the Clerk.

Finally the Clerk was allowed to read the petition of St. Andrew's session and resolutions of the congregation.

Col. Haultain thought he could not complain of having been too generously treated in being refused his reasonable request, to read the charges of St. Andrew's session.

Rev. Mr. Beatty said Col. Haultain had no right to refer to the reasonableness of any action of the Presbytery.

Col. Haultain said the petition associated serious charges with twelve elders and many members of St. Paul's. The matter which has been settled between Rev. Mr. Bell and himself was not connected with the charges in the petition, and the members and elders affected ought not to be deprived of the right to reply according to the decision of the Presbytery.

Rev. Mr. Cleland did not think it was necessary for the Presbytery to investigate the matter. He looked at the whole thing as a difference of opinion between St. Andrew's and St. Paul's, as to Mr. Hammond's character and proceedings. The Presbytery were not going to decide between them.

Rev. Mr. Torrance asked why the case had been taken up at all, if they were not prepared to go on with it?

Rev. Mr. Cleland Circumstances have changed now. (Laughter.)

The Moderator called the audience to order.

Rev. Mr. Cleland said the case could not be proceeded with without taking up the other matter. He maintained that the whole thing had been disposed of at the last meeting of the Presbytery.

Rev. Mr. Torrance said at the last meeting of the Presbytery, after the settlement between Rev. Mr. Bell and Col. Haultain had been arrived at, it was decided by motion to entertain the memorial of St. Andrew's. Why did they not go on with it now? (Applause.)

The Clerk said it was Rev. Mr. Cleland's own motion to go on with the St. Andrew's memorial. (Applause.)

Rev. Mr. Cleland said the consideration of the memorial was postponed, on the understanding that the matter would be settled before this meeting of the Presbytery.

Rev. Mr. Ewing suggested that the representatives of St. Paul's be asked if they were willing to consent to the withdrawal of the St. Andrew's memorial.

Rev. Mr. Beatty said this was quite uncalled for. The matter was in the hands of the Presbytery.

Rev. Mr. Torrance said he was quite as anxious as any one to arrive at a peaceful and harmonious conclusion, but the members of St. Paul's church would be very much aggrieved, if the matter were allowed to drop in this unceremonious manner.

Rev. Mr. Cleland moved in amendment that the Presbytery deem it wise that the matter be now allowed to drop, with the withdrawal of the memorial.

Mr. Carnegie said the Session of St. Andrew's had been convinced that if they had come before the Presbytery and asked leave to withdraw the memorial, they might be open to suspicion of attempting to burk the investigation and to place the members of St. Pauls in a false position. If the Presbytery decided to go on with the investigation, the St. Andrew's Session and congregation were ready for it. But they were prepared to leave the matter in the hands of the Presbytery, and to abide by their decision. This memorial would never have been presented if they had not understood that charges were being made against their pastor. They did not assume to be infallible, and if they had done wrong they were ready to accept correction.

Col. Haultain thought it an extraordinary thing that St. Andrew's congregation should have sought to inculpate the elders and members of St. Paul's church on such a ground as this. If they wanted to defend their pastor why did they not come before the Presbytery in a candid and straightforward manner and justify him. If the charges in this petition were not heard there could be but one feeling on the part of St. Paul's, that of deep injustice having been done them.

Rev. Mr. Cleland again maintained that the whole matter had been disposed of.

Col. Haultain said the matter of bringing Mr. Hammond here had nothing whatever to do with that between Mr. Bell and himself, which had been disposed of.

Rev. Mr. Torrance said he would like to have the matter settled, but he could not agree that the two things were not entirely separate. That was definitely decided at the last meeting of the Presbytery, when the memorial of St. Andrew's was entertained after the settlement between Mr. Bell and Col. Haultain.

Rev. Mr. Cleland said the question now was whether the interests of religion and of Presbyterianism would be advanced or not by going on with this investigation.

A Rev. Presbyter said it had been stated that one side had been heard and the other not. He thought both sides had had equal consideration.

Rev. Mr. Cameron moved, seconded by Rev. Mr. Smith,—That the matter be allowed to drop.

Rev. Mr. Cleland moved, seconded by Rev. Mr. Bennet,—That the Presbytery recommend the Session of St. Andrew's to withdraw the memorial.

Rev. Mr. Cameron objected to this.

Rev. Mr. Smith said he could not separate this question from that settled at the last meeting. He thought God had aided that settlement, and he had hoped that would be an end of the matter. He had intended to move that the whole matter be blotted out from the Session books.

Rev. Mr. Torrance called attention to the motion put in at last meeting of the Presbytery, after the settlement. He would be willing that the motion be put in such a way as not to cast any reflection on St. Andrew's.

Rev. Mr. Cameron moved the previous question.

Rev. Mr. Torrance asked what they were to understand if the matter were simply "allowed to drop."

Rev. Mr. Cleland having withdrawn his motion, recommending the withdrawal of the memorial by St. Andrew's,

Rev. Mr. Bennet said, as the mover had withdrawn the motion without his consent as seconder, he wished to move it himself.

Mr. Carnegie said the previous question having been moved he could not introduce a motion.

Rev. Mr. Bennet said he claimed the privilege—

Rev. Mr. Cameron—You can't discuss it.

The previous question was then put and carried.

Col. Haultain read a rule of the church, and asked to have his dissent recorded.

Rev. Mr. Cleland said in his experience he had never heard of dissent being recorded on the previous question.

Col. Haultain—The law says "any question."

Rev. Mr. Bennet asked to join in the dissent. He thought there were very good reasons for dissenting.

The motion to drop the memorial having been carried,

Col. Haultain rose and stated that he protested against the decision and called for leave to appeal to a higher Court.

There was quite a demonstration of applause here from the body of the church and the galleries, when the Moderator called attention of the ladies and gentlemen to the fact that that was a Church Court, and that no one had the right there, strictly, save the Ministers and duly appointed Elders. He hoped visitors would bear this in mind.

Rev. Mr. Smith said he was sorry that Col. Haultain's appeal had prevented his moving the motion to have St. Andrew's and St. Paul's Sessions blot out from their session books all records of this matter.

The yeas and nays on the motion dropping the memorial having been recorded, the Presbytery proceeded to other business.

CELEBRATING HIS MAJORITY.

Monday, the 14th, was the twenty-first anniversary of the eldest son of Mr. Thomson, President and Manager of on the Longford Lumber Company, and steps were taken by the employees to duly celebrate the event. Outside themselves it was known only that a social gathering and dance would take place in the spacious dining room of the boarding house connected with the mills at Longford and at eight o'clock on Monday evening a large company had assembled including a few invited friends from Orillia. Before sitting down to supper mysterious movements were observed among certain of the men and when Mr. Thomson was called out and immediately confronted by two men bearing something in a huge gilt frame, and two others supporting a tray on which was an elegant silver tea service and liqueur stand the mystery was in the fair way of being solved. Mr. Stewart, engineer, then read the address, which was beautifully illuminated, and embellished with scenes associated with the life and business of a lumberman. Altogether it was most handsomely got up, and not less appropriate than beautiful. Mr. Thomson was wholly taken up by surprise. He could only thank them in the warmest and most feeling terms, for such an expression of their friendship and goodwill. This was followed by the presentation of a valuable gold chain and locket to Mr. Wm. Thomson, the innocent cause of the demonstration, who acknowledged the kindness implied in the gift and expressed in the address in most suitable terms. His, too, was illuminated, the two being somewhat similar in design and equally beautiful. The latter was signed by the employees engaged about the mill, while on the address to the Laird were the names of those in both mills and shanties. The occasion was a singularly happy one, and demonstrated the deep feelings of friendship and confidence existing between the employers and employed. Probably in a few business concerns in the province, so large as this, does there exist the same degree of mutual good-will and cordiality as are to be found at Longford. We omitted to mention that the address to the son was read and presentation made by Mr. Maxwell Hall, accountant to the firm, formerly of Peterborough. Sentiment over, the more prosaic work of disposing of supper was engaged in. After which the room was cleared and dancing kept up until a reasonably early hour in the morning.—Orillia Times.

PETERBOROUGH, MARCH 24, 1881.

Agriculture and Arts.

The annual report of the Hon. Commissioner of Agriculture and Arts is one of the most important of the reports of Departments which are published from year to year for the public information. Agriculture is the great staple interest of this Province, and it is by far the most important of them all. This fact is more and more becoming acknowledged under the wise and prudent policy of the Government of Mr. Mowat, which has recognized the fact that the farmers of Ontario are no longer, as formerly, to be regarded as hewers of wood and drawers of water—a taxpaying people without recognition in the legislation or influence in the Legislature of the Province. Every election the representation of the agricultural interest by members of agricultural pursuits increases in numbers and importance, and every year the legislation of the Government is marked by an increased tendency to giving that interest more consideration and respect. The time is not far distant when political wire-pullers and second-rate lawyers, who assume to all the wisdom, in most communities, fit to adorn our legislative halls, will understand that their services are not required in the race for political honors in the rural constituencies, and when the farmers, who have never been behind in intelligence, will take rank with the best in education and the cultivation of those talents which it is desirable to have in our members of Parliament. They are already rapidly asserting their true place in the affairs of the country, and with our Local Government at least their claims are both recognized and encouraged. Hon. Mr. Wood, in his report for the past year, expresses his satisfaction at being able to speak in more hopeful terms than for several preceding years, "of the improving condition of the great interest of this Province, as also of our commercial and manufacturing industries generally. There is now good reason for believing that the late severe depression, which for so long affected this Province and Dominion, in common with other countries of the world, has at length reached its climax, and that we may carefully look forward in expectation, that by obeying the laws which alike govern the financial condition of individuals and communities, we may with some degree of confidence regard the present as indicating the commencement of a revived, and, it is hoped, enduring prosperity. The past few years will teach people to be more careful and persevering in future, and gladly to avail themselves of the ever advancing light which the progress of knowledge and experience is always ready to impart to such as diligently seek it. The principal cause of the revival we are now experiencing is unquestionably to be traced to the late abundant harvest, with the renewed activity of the great lumber interest, which suffered in duration and intensity unparalleled, perhaps, in our industrial history. Although in certain localities of limited extent, the crops may have fallen below an average, yet on the whole they proved much above the results realized of late years, and prices have been obtained of a remunerating character. The live stock of the Province, and of the Dominion generally, have continued to maintain a very healthy standard, and no diseases of an epidemic character have occurred to prevent our breeders retaining a free and untrammelled communication with the British markets. It is therefore to be hoped that the utmost vigilance will continue to be exercised to prevent our live stock from falling a prey to those terrible epidemics which have unfortunately been so injurious, or rather, in some cases, destructive, of this important branch of agriculture in several European states." The report goes on to refer to the work of the Agricultural Commission, the result of which it says, as we quite agree, "cannot fail to be highly interesting and of great practical usefulness to the farmers of the Province and indeed to all who feel an interest in the continued progress of the great industry which lies at the root of our wealth and prosperity." The transfer of the Mechanics' Institutes from the Department of Agriculture to that of Education is referred to as more in accordance with the proper functions of the latter, and with a view to increase the usefulness of the Institutes. Under the head of Agricultural Societies, in his report, Hon. Mr. Wood refers to a subject which we have repeatedly urged upon the attention of our agricultural readers, and we reproduce his remarks, urging them upon the earnest attention and consideration of our readers:

"It is still to be regretted that so comparitively few societies introduce into their returns a record of facts and results of experiences obtained under varying conditions, that could not fail to secure the attention of farmers in general, and which would very much tend to awaken a deeper interest in agricultural pursuits in their relation to both science and practice. I have, on previous occasions, referred to the advantages which might be obtained by members of Agricultural Societies holding a few stated meetings, particularly during the leisure of winter, for considering and discussing the best means of promoting this great interest in their respective localities. In some instances this principle has been practically recognized, and we have a few Farmers' Clubs scattered over the Province which have evidently been attended by beneficial results. No Agricultural Society should regard its work fully and finally done by simply holding an exhibition, as is too commonly the case. Subsequent meetings of the members for reading papers and comparing notes would awaken a very valuable interest in these matters and would exert a beneficial influence, especially on young men, who might thereby be influenced to take a more earnest and rational interest in their pursuits, and strengthen the invaluable habit of correct observation and the formation of sound business principles."

The report refers to the growing conviction that an alteration is necessary in the existing status of the Provincial and Local Agricultural Societies, a subject which, from frequent allusions in our columns, will be familiar to our readers. Hon. Mr. Wood, after dwelling on the advisability that "whenever this matter "is brought forward for practical treat-"ment it should receive as careful and "complete investigation as possible, and "consequently that nothing should be "done in a hasty or superficial manner," concludes that: "it is therefore most "earnestly to be hoped that our leading "farmers and manufacturers will give "this intricate question all the consider-"ation which its magnitude deserves, and "that when the time for action arrives "such changes may be wisely made as "will best meet the altered wants and "conditions of the country." The report refers to the Veterinary College and the Fruit Growers' Association, the latter now embracing the important subject of Forestry, and to the Entomological Society. The report of the Agricultural College and Experimental Farm appears for the first time in the Commissioner's report. This institution is making steady and substantial progress, and has already given proof of its practical and important usefulness. We regret to note that the list of pupils contains only one name from the County of Peterborough, that of Mr. Samuel Redmond. The report of the Dairymen's Association is of the most encouraging nature, showing the sound and rapid progress of this interest. It is noted that increased attention is being paid to the quality of Canadian butter, and that the co-operative plan where adopted has met with success. A gratifying revival is reported in the cheese business. Special attention is devoted to the Poultry Society, and the importance of raising poultry and eggs is demonstrated. The Directors are urged, "in their future reports to give such reliable and detailed information on the breeding and management of poultry as will induce our rural population to take a deeper and wider interest in the matter." Hon. Mr. Wood's report shows that he is not merely a conventional head of a department, but that he takes a keen, active and intelligent interest in the wants and requirements, as well as the progress, of agriculture in the Province. We might remark, that the amount expended in the County of Peterborough by the Government, in aid to the various Agricultural Societies, was in the year reported upon, $2,245.55.

Our Local Member.

If there is any one member who deserves credit for acting with impartial liberality towards both supporters and opponents, and who has realized in his conduct in the Legislature that, being elected, he represents the whole constituency, and not merely those voters who elected him, it is our member in the local House. We say our member, because during the past session the two ridings have had but one representative in the House. Mr. Blezard has been as zealous and as indefatigable, and, we are glad to say, successfully so, in the interests of the town and the West Riding, as if he were their proper representative, and we believe the fact is recognized by Conservatives generally. Considering the malicious and insensate manner in which the Review has sought to mis-represent and belittle Mr. Blezard, we are not sorry to see that journal wounded in the house of its political friends the more so since the opinion of its confrere, the Norwood Register, we believe, more properly represents the feelings of the bulk of the Conservatives, and is, at all events, much more creditable to them. The Register says:

"Mr. T. Blezard, M.P.P., paid us a visit on Saturday last, having just returned from his Parliamentary duties at Toronto. He looked like a man perfectly satisfied with himself and his record in our Legislative Halls. We think he can face his constituents in this Riding without any fear of being upbraided for dereliction of duty there as his course has been well watched, and on the whole has given satisfaction. His opposition to the Grand Junction extension under a roving commission, will receive the approval of nearly the whole of his constituents in this Riding, though he also received for so doing a torrent of abuse from E. O. Bickford, though that don't amoutt to anything. As regards Orange Incorporation, there is a great deal of truth in what Mr. Blezard said about that question on the floor of the House."

Mr. Blezard is fully entitled to the credit which the Conservative paper for his Riding awards him, and the Review richly deserves the rebuke conveyed. We direct the attention of the ex-member of the riding to the sentence italicized at the end of the above extract.

The Grain Duties.

The following occurred in the proceedings of the House of Commons on Friday:—

Mr. Wheler asked whether it is the intention of the Government to amend the Order in Council dated 21st day of April, 1880, respecting the importation of wheat in bond for milling purposes, so as to remove any doubt of such wheat being ground and sold for consumption in Canada, without duty having been paid thereon?

Mr. Bowell said that the Order in Council of 21st April amply provided that wheat could not be taken out of bond without the duty being paid, and, therefore, there was no necessity for altering it.

This means that the much-complained-of abuse of selling flour in our markets ground from Western wheat, and raising the bonds on this wheat by the exportation of inferior qualities of Canadian wheat, will be allowed to continue, and that our millers in the interior are to remain handicapped in consequence. However, we must not forget that this is the Government of monopolists of every stripe. Our member has authorized the publication of the following letter:—

Ottawa, March 15, 1881.

WILLIAM CLUXTON.

DEAR SIR, I have to report that the deputation appointed by the Ontario Miller's Association failed to put in an appearance, simply because they found that their demand would not get the support of a single member of Parliament. The members representing rural districts in Ontario waited upon the Ministers of Customs and Finance this morning, recommending that no change be made in the bonding regulations as they now stand, but that the Government adopt more stringent measures in putting the law in force, and I am in hopes that the Government will look closer after this matter in the future. Yours,

G. HILLIARD.

This is as clear and candid a confession of judgment as need be desired. While Mr. Hilliard and his organ have all along been strenuously denying in toto the existence of any irregularities, or evasions of the duty by the means which we have fully exposed, we find Mr. Hilliard now recommending "more stringent measures in putting the law in force." What is the necessity of "more stringent measures," if there have not been the reasons for complaint which have been urged upon Mr Hilliard's attention? Our member expresses his hope "that the Government will look closer after this matter in future." Why does Mr. Hilliard entertain such an aspiration as this if there have not been carelessness, negligence or failure in connection with it in the past? We fear that we cannot share Mr. Hilliard's hope in this regard, and we fancy the experience of the future as of the past will teach our local millers that their only hope lies in a change of personnel in the Government at Ottawa.

The Syndicate Land Monopoly.

Last week we published a letter from Mr. Peter Imrie—one of the British Agricultural Delegation, brought out by the Dominion Government to report upon the capability and adaptability of the North-west as a field for settlement—in which he showed conclusively that at the lowest estimate the increased cost of wheat carriage, by reason of the monopoly, would amount to a charge of $16,000 per square section, taking the very moderate estimate of 6d. per bushel as the increase over ordinary competitive rates. Mr. Imrie's letter seems to have alarmed the monopolists' organs, and Dr. Tupper's paper, the Halifax Herald, among others, claimed that Mr. Imrie had taken his ideas from "Grit" speeches, which misrepresented the true facts of the case, and that, therefore, his opinions were the result of a misapprehension. Mr. Imrie, however, writes to the Herald in reply, proving his position with more emphatic distinctness. There can be no doubt, from this letter which we re-produce, that at the very outset the monopoly clauses of the contract, against which Mr. Blake so earnestly remonstrated, have already inflicted a damaging blow upon the prospective settlement and development of the great North-west:

SIR,—It was with great reluctance that I determined to cancel, as far as possible, the account I sent home of the attractions of Manitoba. I certainly did not do so without carefully studying the matter, utilizing for that purpose the contract itself, the speeches of the Premier, the Minister of Railways and the leader of the Opposition. I also had two very lengthy explanations from the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa. So you may rest assured I am far from being ill-informed on the subject. If no monopoly is intended, there can be no occasion for the 15th clause. If the liberty to make opposition railways across the frontier is perfectly open to all, I am certainly silenced, as that is all that I am contending for. However, I must not attempt any complete justification of my views here, as it would take up more of your space than I could reasonably claim. Moreover, it would be no use, as the only way in which we may now hope to get the monopoly clause cancelled (and that is the limit of my complaint) is by exposing it and its possible effects, not in Canada but in England. In this way the Syndicate may possibly be brought to see that it will have to choose between "no monopoly" and an empty territory. The latter, of course, will be synonymous with ruin, and such a prospect may, perhaps, in turn defeat the efforts of the Syndicate to raise money in London or New York or elsewhere to build the railroad even. I cannot but think that a little timely pressure on the Syndicate in this matter may prove an advantage, not only to the settlers and intending emigrants (in whom alone I am interested), but also to the Syndicate itself; and certainly it is with no ill-will to the country that I am making the attempt. Indeed I have been particularly careful to emphasize the merits of the country alongside the demerits of the railway scheme, in the supplementary report which I have sent home.

Yours faithfully,

Halifax, March 8th. PETER IMRIE.

A stable in the rear of, and immediately adjoining; the large brick stores of Murdoch Bros., Bowmanville, was set on fire about one o'clock Saturday morning. The farmers of South Verulam have decided upon combining their forces, and trying what can be done in the cheese making business. The tenders for the new bridge at Fenelon Falls were opened on Tuesday 15th, and the contract was awarded to the Toronto Bridge Co. for an iron bridge at $16.17 per foot. The bridge is to be 305 ft. long so that the cost will be $4,931.85. Mr. H. Walters's tender for a wooden structure was $9.25 or $2,821.25; and Mr. Ranney's of Peterborough $42 per foot.

The public should bear this in mind that Dr. Thomas's Eclectric Oil has nothing in common with the impure, deteriorating class of so-called medicinal oils. It is eminently pure and really efficacious—relieving pain and lameness, stiffness of joints and muscles, and sores or hurts, besides being an excellent specific for rheumatism, coughs and bronchial complaints.

Napier Maybee, 40, a dissipated man addicted to opiem eating, was found dead in front of T. Horkin's store at Campbellford, on Monday of last week. The window of the store was broken and he had evidently been in the act of stealing boots. The Herald says:—His fallen career, the deceased frequently asserted, was due to disobedience to his parents when a youth.

Miss Dumble, of Cobourg, took part in the recent performance at the Opera House, Ottawa under the patronage of his Excellency the Governor General, in aid of the Protestant Hospital, which was an unqualified success. The Ottawa Citizen says of Miss Dumble, that she, in the farce, "Old Goosberry," "as 'Maty,' the discontented housemaid, acted most charmingly, and won deserved applause."

The police authorities of Toronto and Montreal have recently discovered that some fiends incarnate have been engaged in the business of alluring young girls to the large cities of the United States under the pretence of getting them situations and bringing them to places where efforts are made to induce them to lead a life of infamy. The Port Hope News says that efforts have been made by parties in Port Hope to ply the same vile trade there.

On Saturday, 5th inst., Conrad Branscombe, an old resident of Hallowell, died suddenly. He had been in Picton during the day and on his way home stopped at a friend's to get Mrs Branscombe. The people of the house wished them to stay to tea, and Mr. Branscombe went out for the purpose of putting up his horse, when he was seized with a fit of apoplexy it is supposed. One of the children saw him fall and ran for help. He was taken into the house and medical aid sent for, but he never spoke and died in about an hour. He was 63 years of age.

Messrs. Northrop & Lyman are the proprietors of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, which is now being sold in immense quantities throughout the Dominion. It is welcomed by the suffering invalid everywhere with emotions of delight, because it banishes pain and gives instant relief. This valuable specific for almost "every ill that flesh is heir to," is valued by the sufferer as more precious than gold. It is the elixir of life to many a wasted frame. If you have not purchased a bottle, do so at once, and keep it ready for an emergency. Its cheapness, 25 cents per bottle, places it within the reach of all. To the farmer it is inispensable, and it should be in every house.

Last week a French Canadian named John Clevitt, who was working in Mr. Whimile's shanty in Galway got his right hand badly cut by a somewhat singular accident. One of his companions having asked for some tobacco, Clevitt was in the act of handing him a plug, when the axe of another of the gang, who did not observe the action, struck him between the thumb and first finger, inflicting a deep and ugly gash, which extends nearly three inches towards the wrist. He had to be taken to Fenelon Falls before a doctor could be found to attend to his wounds.

On the 4th instant, during the great snow storm, Mr. E. Hall undertook to take Mrs. Ellis across Crow Lake to her father's funeral, and being unacquainted with the lake he strayed up Mud Lake. When driving on this lake one of his horses broke through the ice, he immediately commenced to shout for help. The alarm was heard in Blairton, and a number of men started out in search of him. When they reached the place Mr. Hall had given up all hopes of saving the horse, as it had then been in the water for an hour and a-half, but it was taken out and well cared for, and is now doing well, looking none the worse for its bath.

The body of an unknown man was found on Monday by a gang of men in the employ of Irwin & Boyd, within a short distance of their shanty, in Dudley. One of his hands was first noticed above the snow, and on removing the snow the body was discovered lying on a bed of brush. The face and feet were so much eaten away by foxes and other animals as to render him beyond recognition. The authorities were notified by Mr. Adams, foreman of the shanty, but an inquest was considered unnecessary, as it was evident the unfortunate man had been under the snow all winter. It is generally supposed the remains are either those of a man who had been at work for a farmer in Dudley during last summer and who was subject to fits of lunacy at times, or some unfortunate lumberman who had got lost during the early part of the season.

The Lindsay Post says: Another large party left town on Wednesday for Dakota. About five hundred people gathered at the depot to see them off, many being friends of members of the out-going party. The leave-taking was very demonstrative in many cases kisses and tears being mixed up considerably. One tall young fellow as he took leave of his sweetheart remarked that would shortly follow. "I am not worth coming after I am not worth having," was the response as she looked into his eyes, the expression of which told her plainly that he would return for her. Among the party were Mr. Wm. O'Keefe and family (9); W. H. Fee and family (7); T. Short and family (6) W. Coffee and family (4); J. H. Emson and family (2); Chas. Fee and family (3); P. Callaghan and family (4); and a number of single men and women, making all over sixty passengers, or counting little children ninety souls. About one fifth of the number were bound for Manitoba and four-fifths for Grand Forks, Dakota. All the arrangements were made by Mr. F. C. Taylor, who received nearly $3,000 for freight and passage. They had six carloads of freight, which included besides household goods thirty horses and other live stock.

THE GREAT CONE PUMP CASE.

OWENS v. TAYLOR.

PROUDFOOT, V.C.

The patent issued 17th July, 1872, for "The Cone Pump and its connections" for a period of five years, and on the 16th July, 1877, it was extended for another period of five years. Powell, the patentee, in the specification attached to the patent, claimed as his inventor:—

1st. The Cone-shaped Pump, head or stock.

2nd. The oscillating or rocking support for the fulcrum pivotted, or secured at or near the surface of the ground.

3rd. The combination of the oscillating support with a wooden pump.

4th. The arrangement of two cylinders and connecting chamber with the lever connecting with the plunger rods in the cylinder.

And these were the improvements in pumps covered by the patent.

There was abundant evidence that the cone shape was not new, pumps tapering in a similar way for a similar purpose, to enable them to be banded and thus give additional strength, have been long in use. It had been used, according to different witnesses, from fifty years ago downwards.

The rocking support or fulcrum also was shown by several witnesses not to be new. Powell himself says:—"The oscillating fulcum is an old thing; fastening it to the side of the pump is an old thing; the advantage of mine is fastening it nearer to the ground." Similar rocking supports are figured in the Scientific American for 1856 and 1857, and Reports of Patent Office of Washington, for 1855, 1857, 1859, 1860, 1862 and 1863, which involve the same principle, but different mode of attachment to the pump, some being nearer the top of the stock.

One witness saw 40 years ago a pump with a rocking support used for pumping water in York, in England, and the fulcrum rested on the ground and fastened about 8 inches from base of pump. Another witness said that thirty-two years ago he worked at the tin mines in Cornwall, where pumps with with oscillating fulcrum were to be seen on every ledge. The patent is for a fulcrum attached at or near the ground. In the diagram attached to the specification, it is not attached to the pump stock, but to a stand upon which the pump rests. Powell says that before he got his patent, he saw an oscillating support set up on the top of the spout, (that would be about half way up the stock). He attaches his to the stock. The nearer to the ground the better. It would need experiments to determine how far from the ground it could be with advantage. Without having made such experiments, it seems to me impossible to say that attaching the support 6 inches, 12 inches, or 18 inches lower, could be the subject of a patent.

The combination of the oscillating support with a wooden pump, does not seem to have been new any more than the parts of which it was composed. But I apprehend that changing the material of the stock would not render that patentable which was not so before.

The fourth claim set out above has never been used and is therefore void. (35 Vic., C. 26. S. 23.)

It would be of little use to give a lengthened analysis of the cases. I have referred to all those that were cited to me and others. They appear to establish that the element of invention is wanting in this case.

In my opinion the patent is void for want of novelty.

HUMBUG STOPPED!

H. Owens and his agents have systematically canvassed the surrounding Counties, distributing Circulars, and also threatening all those having Taylor's Pumps or any person who they thought were about to purchase the same—asserting that they would be compelled to pay him (Owens) for said pumps, and that they would have to destroy the same, thus intimidating the public for the purpose of damaging my business as a manufacturer of pumps.

All this humbug I have now succeeded in stopping.

Feeling satisfied that the public will now appreciate my endeavors to obtain free competition as the best mode of regulating trade for all. I would inform them that I am still prepared to supply everything in the pump line on the best possible terms.

Lynch, Beck, Clementi, Roberts and Harper, Councillors Kelly, McNaughton and Richardson, Col. Haultain and A. P. Poussette representing the Hall Trust, Mrs. Gilmour and ladies representing the the Protestant Home, Dr. Kincaid, Mr. Gillespie, E. C. Hill and others.

The Mayor explained the object of the meeting which was to devise a uniform system of dispensing charity, with a view to prevent imposition, and secure more effectual administration of public charities with better results.

Mr. J. G. Macdonald was appointed Secretary.

After some discussion, Mr. Poussette suggested the naming of a small Committee to consider the matter, and arrive at a conclusion.

Rev. Dr. Harper said the relief afforded by the Hall Fund must be distributed according to the provisions of the deed of trust. They could, however, give the town or a committee a list of the names receiving aid, for their guidance. Cases not receiving aid from that or other private sources, could be dealt with by the town.

Mr. Kelly called attention to the case of Ann Brenpan and Mrs. Rochon. The former would require an operation soon, and must have nourishment before that could be done. He suggested that an arrangement be come to with the Protestant Home.

Mr. Poussette said that was a matter for private arrangement. The Charity Committee should see the Managers of the Home.

The Mayor said that matter could not be arranged at this meeting.

Mr. Poussette suggested the appointment of a Relieving Officer, to act for all the charitable bodies, and to make strict enquiries, and report upon every case soliciting relief.

Rev. Mr. Beck said the movement might have the effect of preventing private charity. Many deserving persons would shrink from accepting public charity, who would be thankful for aid from persons they might regard in the light of friends.

Col. Haultain thought appointing a Relieving Officer would put too much power in one person's hands. Such a person could, however, go around weekly and collect lists of persons receiving relief from the various charities.

Rev. Mr. Beck said the difficulty appeared to be with the town money. $800 of the Hall money went to the Peterborough Home, and they looked to the Managers for its proper administration. The balance was given to persons who were, in a sense, stipendaries upon the fund. Thew were not in any sense to be classed with those securing aid from hand to mouth. The difficulty seemed to be in distributing the $1,100 of the town money without the means of knowing how far it was properly distributed.

Mr. Yelland mentioned instances in which imposition was sought to be practised on the town.

Rev. Dr. Harper said the town could be supplied with lists of persons receiving assistance from all the charitable sources.

Dr. Kincaid spoke of his work as town phyisician, and said the difficulty was in treating persons who were not in a position to have proper nourishment and care, without which no medicines could do any good. He recommended the establishment of a small hospital in connection with the Home, to be attended gratuitously by the physicians of the town in turn.

Rev. Mr. Clementi thought a hospital out of the question, but a dispensary might be established in connection with the Home.

The following were appointed a Committee: Mayor Smith, convener, Rev. Messrs. Clementi, Lynch, Stobo and Harper; Col. Haultain, Gen. Haultain, Dr. Kincaid and Wm. Yelland.

The Mayor said he would call an early meeting of the Committee, and would be prepared to lay before them papers showing the working of the Industrial Home in Norfolk County, and others concerning similar institutions in the United States.

The meeting then adjourned.

The Indians, or rather their wives, have called out their forces again, and are tomahawking the maples on all sides.

Cheese and cheese-making is the all absorbing thought of the farmers here, now. There have been two parties working for some time to monopolise the business for the coming season, each wishing to erect a factory in Roseneath, which has made considerable excitement.

THE PETERBORO' PRESBYTERY, AND ST. ANDREW'S SESSION.

To the Editor of the EXAMINER:—

DEAR SIR,—I have not been in the habit of attending meetings of the Presbytery, but curiosity having been excited by the recent correspondence which appeared in your paper, went along with many to the meeting last night.

The Minister and Elder of St. Andrew's Church had done their utmost to prejudice the minds of their own unfortunate flock and of the Presbytery against Mr. Hammond, by reading to both of them numerous letters, defamatory to that highly honoured servant of the Lord. With what gusto these were read by Mr. Bell, and listened to by the Presbytery, they themselves can tell. I have only to say that a more disgusting spectacle I seldom witnessed.

But as these letters were so signally falsified, and the position assumed by these parties so thoroughly undermined, by the wonderful success and Divine blessing accompanying and following the labors of the Evangelist, it became a very pressing difficulty how to skulk out of the position. To candidly acknowledge their foolish error, was too christian a course to expect from such men as the aforesaid Minister and Elder. Doubtless they only repented, (though not after a godly sort,) of the mistake in bringing such an elephantine memorial before the Presbytery, but how to get rid of the elephant was enough to exercise their wits, which, however, proved equal to the occasion. An artful "statement" was made, expressing their willingness to have the whole subject quashed, knowing full well that the Presbytery were as anxious as themselves to beat a retreat out of the untenable position. To cover his retreat, Mr. Bell had the astounding disengenuousness to say that he and his session agreed to withdraw the memorial, because the charges made by Col. Haultain had been withdrawn, (which had nothing whatever to do with it); instead of confessing that its contents had all been refuted by the fruitful services of Mr. Hammond. The audacity of such an assertion was only equalled by the Presbytery's trying hard to wink at it, or the by the valor with which his right hand man took up the challenge to go on with the "enquiry," perfectly aware, as he was, that the Presbytery, who had unlawfully taken up the matter against the session and people of St. Paul's were resolved to hush the matter up, and mutually prepared to help each other out of the mire.

It was a very fitting prelude to the convenient settlement of the case, for Mr. Bell from his place in the court to announce aloud to the members of it, that on the morrow "dinner" would be provided for all of them in the adjoining school-room, where his loyal people had been preparing a sumptuous repast. There all disquieting qualms of conscience about flagrant partiality shown to one side, and injustice to the other, will be allayed by the hospitable viands indulged in. Well, does Mr. B. appreciate the influence of the prospect of eating of the "loaves and fishes."

PERSONAL.

We had the pleasure of a call during the past week, from the highly esteemed pastor of Baltimore, Rev. R. W. Barker, while on a visit to friends in town.

J. B. Dixon, Esq., Barrister, of Lindsay, and an old Peterborough boy, paid us a call on Thursday last. He is looking well, and appears as good-natured as ever.

We regret that Mr. M. is not in as good health as might be wished for, owing to his suffering from a very severe cold. He is on his way home to Belleville for a few weeks to recruit.

POLICE COURT NOTES.

Peggy Oakley, an unfortunate, well known in town, was up before the Presence, on the 17th of Ireland, on a charge of vagrancy. She said she had recently been sent by the civic authorities from Napanee to Belleville, and thence home to Peterborough. She was sentenced to six months imprisonment, and given one hour's start of the Constable, which she took a lively advantage of.

On Saturday the case of the young man, James Watson, after several remands came up. As there was no evidence of intentional felony, the Magistrate dismissed him with a caution to avoid drink in the future.

On Tuesday the charge against Mr. Pillar, section boss of the M. R. R., for destroying a shade tree, was gone into, the evidence going to show that the tree was cut in the performance of a duty for the protection of life and property. Mr. Dumble appeared for the prosecution and Mr. Dennistoun for the defence. Decision to be given at 10 o'clock to-morrow.

P. C. McGhee charged Chas. Beavis with interference with a constable in discharge of his duty on July 21st last. The case was enlarged till to-morrow, the prisoner being allowed to go on bail.

Jas. McCulloch, for whom a warrant was issued for disorderly conduct on the 12th August, 1878, was arrested yesterday, and will give an explanation of his lengthened absence before the Court to-morrow.

Corporal Mortimer, of the Royal Artillery, has disappeared from Halifax with about $90 he had been entrusted with to pay his company. A gunner of the same corps has also deserted.

Councillor Yelland entered and took his seat.

FINANCE COMMITTEE.

In the absence of the Chairman, Councillor Rutherford presented a report from the Finance Committee, recommending the payment of an account of $10.70 from Dennistoun Bros. & Hall.

COURT OF REVISION.

Councillor Rutherford presented a report of the Court of Revision, recommending that the cases of Charles Cameron, Samuel Montgomery, Wm. Kearns and Thos. Bradburn be not granted, and that the cases of Eliza Johnston, Henry Owens, and Samuel White be granted. They also recommended that the Council take no further action in such cases as the last one.

The report was received and adopted.

FIRE, WATER AND GAS.

Councillor Rutherford presented the following report of the Fire, Water and Gas Committee:

1.—That in the matter of letting contract of drawing Fire Engine and Hook and Ladder Truck, the same was awarded to Robert White.

2.—Your Committee visited the Engine House and found several little matters that wanted attention, and gave instructions to Engineer to have them at once put in a state of repair.

3.—Your Committee would recommend that the Clerk be authorised to have 100 copies of the Fire Brigade By-Laws printed.

The report was received and adopted.

THE EX-TREASURER'S BONDS.

The Mayor stated that some time ago Mr. Edwards had made application to have his bonds delivered to him, and had again spoken to him a few days ago. He asked the Council what they would do in the matter.

It was agreed that the bonds should be held until after the Auditors had reported.

THE MARKET BY-LAW.

Councillor McNaughton said he had been requested by several of the ratepayers to draw the attention of the Council to the fact that hucksters were allowed to purchase on the Market prior to the hour prescribed by the By-Law, and that Councillor Chamberlain hired boys to do his buying for him. If this was so Mr. Beavis was certainly not attending to his duty.

Both Mr. Chamberlain and Mr. Beavis gave the charge a most emphatic denial, and challenged any person to prove the assertion.

MATTERS OF CHARITY.

The Mayor said General Haultain had drawn his attention to the matter of Ann Brennan, who was laying in a critical condition. Dr. Kincaid, Town Physician, was attending her, and reported that amputation of her leg was necessary, but at present she was not in a condition to have the operation performed. It would be necessary to do something for her at once. A meeting of the Charity Committee and the ministers of the town would be held on Tuesday evening, when he hoped some scheme would be suggested that would enable the Council to deal more satisfactorily in the matter of charity, the cost of which was now assuming rather large proportions. In the meantime something had to be done in this particular case.

After considerable talk, this case and another in the north end of the town were referred to the Charity Committee with power to act.

THE MARKET FEES.

The Mayor reported that he and the Clerk had, as directed by the Council, proceeded to Toronto to meet the deputation from other town and cities in reference to bringing the question of market fees before the Government. After meeting and discussing the question the deputation laid their case before the Government, and the Bill which was then before the House was withdrawn until next Session. They had also seen Mr. Hardy, in reference to the License question, and he suggested that the town memoralise the Government in the matter, when they would take the question into consideration.

SHADE TREES.

Moved by Councillor Rutherford, seconded by Councillor Hartley,—That a By-Law be passed by this Council in accordance with the Act passed by the Legislature, giving the owners of property the ownership of trees planted opposite their property on the street, and that the Clerk be instructed to have a By-Law prepared at the next meeting of this Council.—Carried.

Councillor Rutherford drew attention to a few cases where the bailiffs had seized for taxes, and as the whole amount was but $15 or $16, he thought proceedings should be stayed. He did not wish to see the parties' chattels sold, when the owners were really unable to pay.

The Council adjourned for two weeks.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY CONCERT.

The aniversary of the day set apart for honor to the Patron Saint of the Emerald Isle, was celebrated in a very quiet manner in Peterborough. The day was miserably foggy, with a drizzling rain in the evening, but that did not prevent the assembling of one of the largest gatherings in Bradburn's Hall, in the evening, which has ever been seen there, to witness the entertainment announced by the Emerald Dramatic Club. Nor was the programme presented, nor its execution, in any way unworthy of the audience who throughout testified, by repeated and hearty applause, their appreciation of the treat provided for them. The Dramatic Club possesses amateur talent of no ordinary merrit, within its own members, and they were strengthened on this occasion by the engagement of the Shepard Comedy Company, whose German and Irish sketches deservedly found the highest favor with the audience. Mr. Shepard was supported by Mr. Ed. Beverly and Mrs. Shepard, and their presentation of the "Dutch Duellist" and the "Maid of Wicklow," was simply perfect, and kept the audience in roars of laughter. They gave the correct idea of comedy—fun without frivolity, and wit without vulgarity. Mrs. Shepard's songs were repeatedly encored, and the lady made herself quite a favorite with the audience. Miss J. Begley gave some Irish ballads in a most creditable manner, and fully deserved the hearty applause accorded to her. Messrs. Tierney and Callaghan in their songs and dances cannot be accorded too much praise. We have seen many professionals who couldn't hold a candle to them. William and George Ball gave duets, "The Minute Gun at Sea," and "Larboard Watch," with good effect, and made a very favourable impression on the audience, testified to by an encore. Mr. Dan Donoghue, who needed no introduction to the audience, proved, as he always is on the stage, a host in himself. The farce "More blunders than one," was very creditably executed, and terminated an evening's entertainment, which leads us to hope that the Emerald Dramatic Club will not confine their talents to St. Patrick's Day celebrations. The next entertainment will be welcome whenever it comes.

SELWYN NEWS.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The Templars who some time ago purchased a fine organ for their Hall, announced a concert for Tuesday evening, the proceeds of which was to be used in paying for the instrument, and being for so good an object quite a number turned out to honor the cause. The Committee of management deserve great credit for the very able manner in which they overcame all difficulties, and for the very excellent programme prepared and carried out. The Lakefield friends deserve our hearty thanks for their readiness in responding to our call for assistance, and by well trained talent doing much towards making the entertainment a success. First on the programme came as a matter of course, a speech from the chairman; but unfortunately it existed nowhere else. This was followed by music by the choir, who in this and other pieces acquited themselves creditably. Mr. Wm. Graham rendered a solo in his usual agreeable style, and being loudly aplauded and encored responded in a comic song, by the skillful rendering of which he fairly brought down the house. Misses Lousia McKee, M. Moore, Clarin, Coates, and McDonald each favoured us with a solo, and by the hearty applause of the audience must have felt gratified to find their efforts so highly appreciated. A solo by Mr. Dixon was well rendered, and being warmly encored, he responded in so humorous a strain as to keep the audience convulsed with laughter. Miss M. E. Wood delivered a recitation, "Mary Queen of Scots," in an exceedingly able manner, and by the rapt attention which pervaded the audience they were evidently carried away by the eloquence of the fair recitor. Mr. Brown also delivered a recitation fairly. Readings were delivered by Misses Shields Mann, and Findlay also by Marsh, Roberts and Soucie, all of which were well received. After singing God save the Queen the audience dispersed about 11 p.m, having spent a most pleasant evening.

The Bible Class, conducted by Rev. G. Washington, which for some time past has been discontinued on account of the revival services in Lakefield, has been started afresh, but owing to the disagreeable condition of the roads, attendance is not quite so large as formerly.

Special services are being conducted in the Baptist church, under the superintendence of Rev. Mr. Ratcliffe.

Snow is now nearly all gone and fall-wheat, where already exposed appears in a fine healthy condition. Mosquitos are already out prospecting—So are crows etc

WARSAW NEWS.

(From our own Correspondent.)

The Methodist Church has entered upon the third week of their revival services, conducted by Rev. C. W. Watch. The interest taken in the meetings is on the increase, and much good will be the result of the efforts.

HAGYARD'S PECTORAL BALSAM is composed of the most healing balsams and gums. The Balsams, which enter into its composition, were used by the natives when America was first discovered, and are combined with other vegetable tonics, so blended together that it is a specific for all affections of the throat and lungs. Thousands of bottles are used annually, and it is considered one of the standard preparations of the day. 11-2t

HAMMOND IN TORONTO.

Address by Rev. Mr. Torrance.

Saturday's Toronto Telegram says:—Shaftesbury Hall was again crowded to excess last night, scores of persons being unable even to obtain admission. After the introductory musical services, which were of the usual character, Rev. Mr. McLeod rose and said he was glad to introduce to the audience a gentleman who had come from a distance to give what assistance he could, and to say a few words of encouragement on behalf of the people of his own town to the Christians of Toronto. He then introduced Rev. E. F. Torrance, of Peterborough, who said he had come to give a few facts with regard to the remarkable work which had been accomplished by the grace of God in Peterborough within the last two months, the news of which, carried to other places, has been the means of extending the work in a way which was altogether wonderful. Judging from appearances in Toronto, he thought the Spirit was working with power here, and that the influence of such meetings as this could not but have a very beneficial effect on other places outside of the city. Some persons look with suspicion upon the very word "Revival," but if reclaiming of sinners and the salvation of souls were objects to be desired, then surely revivals should be cordially welcomed, as these were the results aimed at and in so many cases secured. These movements of the Spirit had also the effect of quickening professing Christians many members of the churches having testified that in their past life had had a name to live but were dead, and some church members became converted, for he had known many such instances, one member of a church in Peterboro' for twenty years having told him that he had never known Christ till Mr. Hamond had come to the town, and since then the whole family had been converted. And how many members were there in every church who come to the communion, but who have no knowledge of a personal salvation, than observance of the rites of religion being merely a form? Besides this, church members were quickened, some having established family prayer where no family altar had been before, and parents spoke earnestly to the children who had never been urged to give themselves to Christ before, and many backsliders were brought back to duty, many who did not know they were backsliders imagining they were living Christians and that their hearts were full of Christ, but who when urged to go to work in an enquiry meeting, or to open their mouths in prayer or otherwise for Christ, said they were ashamed and would prefer to leave that others who were more accustomed to the work. Then the unconverted men were reached, abandoned characters, gamblers, drunkards, and others being brought to the Saviour. And men who had not been to church for many years, who were practically infidels, and some also who had held infidel views for years were converted. He knew of one intelligent young man, a student, who came to the meetings two or three times and said he would not come again, but he could not study, and at last he did come once more was brought to the Saviour through the means of the experience of an infidel who had been converted, as told by Mr. Hammond. Before many days had elapsed two companions who were infidels, were rejoicing in Christ as their personal Saviour. Mr. Torrance also gave some account of the progress of the work in several of the villages and towns in the district in the heighbourhood of Peterboro'.

OBITUARY.

It was our painful duty to announce yesterday the decease of Mr. W. H. Weller, of Cobourg, at the time of his death Master in Chancery, and an ex-Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of A. F. and A. M. of Canada. His removal was not unexpected; his friends have for months had reason to look forward to the sad event which they now deplore, and it only surprises them that their apprehensions were not sooner fulfilled. The deceased was a native of New York, the family removing to Canada when he was two years old. He was educated at Upper Canada College, after which he decided to enter upon the legal profession, and was called to the bar in 1847. He practised for several years in Cobourg until his appointment to the office of Master in Chancery. His connection with the Masonic Order is briefly indicated in the following notice. He was initiated on the twentieth of January, 1846, in St. Andrew's Lodge of Toronto, No. 487, English Register, and was raised to the degree of Master Mason in the Spring of the following year. He filled the offices of Senior Deacon and Senior Warden in the same lodge, and during his residence in Toronto he also filled the office of Junior Warden in the Zetland Lodge. He assisted in 1848, in the formation of Corinthian Lodge, Peterborough, and was one of the charter members, filling the office of Senior Deacon. Six years later he transferred his allegiance to St. John's Lodge, Cobourg, of which he was Secretary. In 1855 he succeeded his father as Master of the lodge, and was re-elected in 1856, 1858 and 1864. He was an active member of the Committee of the Grand Lodge to re-arrange the different districts, and was elected District Deputy Grand Master of Ontario, to which office he was twice re-elected. In many other positions he served the Craft faithfully and ably, and at length attained the high position of Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Canada. The deceased was held in high esteem for his personal qualities and his business uprightness, and his removal will be very widely deplored. Port Hope Times.

Deceased was a brother of Mr. C. A. Weller, Master-in-Chancery, of this town, and was well known and highly esteemed among a large circle of friends here. A number of Masons went down from this place to take part in the funeral ceremonies.

Drinking up the Farm.

"Come Tom, have a pint—I the money will stand,
"No, I shan't drink the price of a square yard of land."
"Drink what?" "Why the price (look, this foot is a shaker)
Of a square yard of land, sixty pounds for an acre—
Four thousand eight hundred and forty yards clear;
About threepence a yard, or a pint of strong beer!
Nay, some land in this country to buy you'd contrive,
Not at sixty pounds ten, but at thirty pounds five.
Four square yards for sixpence! then don't be a fool,
And drink down a small garden at one single pull.
Six feet every day, neither greater nor less,
To sow radishes in, or some mustard cress.
Stop one pint a day, you'd have bought in one year
Seven hundred square yards for a few pints of beer!
Do the sum for yourself, and you'll find it quite true,
That the temperance pledge is the best thing for you.
Then don't be a fool; join the teetotal band,
And don't drink any more solid square yards of land."

Farm, Garden and Household.

Household Hints.

To Clean White Satin and Flowered Silks.—Mix sifted stale bread crumbs with powder blue, and rub it thoroughly all over, then shake it well and dust it well with clean, soft cloths. Afterwards, when there are any gold or silver flowers, take a piece of crimson ingrain velvet, rub the flowers with it, which will restore them to their natural lustre.

Scotch Broth.—Take one-half teacup of barley and four quarts of cold water; bring to the boil and skim; put in now a neck of mutton and boil again for half an hour; skim well the sides also of the pot; have ready two carrots, one large onion, one small head of cabbage, one bunch of parsley, one sprig of celery tops; chop all these fine; add your chopped vegetables; pepper and salt to taste. Cook two hours.

Lemon Pies.—The juice and grated rind of one lemon, one cup of sugar, yolks of two eggs, two tablespoonsfull of flour, milk to fill pie-plate. If milk is not convenient, water, with a small lump of butter, is a good substitute. Line a medium-sized plate with nice pastry, pour in the custard; bake until done. Beat the two whites of eggs to a stiff froth, sweeten with four tablespoonsfull of powdered sugar, spread nicely over the pie when baked, and brown lightly in the oven.

Every Housekeeper should know

That boiled starch is much improved by the addition of a little sperm or salt, or both, or a little gum arabic dissolved.

That salt will curdle new milk; hence in preparing milk, gravies, etc., the salt should not be added until the dish is prepared.

That in boiling meat for soup, cold water should be used to extract the juices. If the meat is wanted for itself alone plunge it into boiling water at once.

That kerosene will make tin tea kettles as new. Saturate a woolen rag and rub with it. It will also remove stains from and clean varnished furniture.

That blue ointment and kerosene mixed in equal parts and applied to bedsteads is an unfailing bed bug remedy; and that a coat of whitewash is ditto for wooden walls.

That the skin of a boiled egg is the most efficacious remedy that can be applied to a boil. Peel it carefully, wet and apply it to the affected part. It will draw off the matter and relieve the soreness in a few hours.

That steak should be broiled without salt. Salt draws the juices in cooking; it is desirable to keep them there if possible. Cook over a hot fire, turning frequently, searing both sides. Place on a platter; salt and pepper to taste.

That beeswax and salt will make rusty flat-irons as clean and smooth as glass. Tie a lump of wax in a rag and keep it for that purpose. When the irons are hot rub them first with a wax-rag, then scour with a paper or cloth sprinkled with salt.

That beef having a tendency to be tough can be made very palatable by stewing gently for two hours with pepper and salt, taking out about a pint of liquor when half-done and letting the rest boil into the meat. Brown the meat in the pot. After taking up make a pint of gravy of the liquor saved.

Farm Hints.

Liquid Manure. "A subscriber," writes: "Please let me know whether in would profit a farmer to apply Liquid Manure to land, and the quantity to the acre." Liquid Manure is the "double-distilled extract of fertility" distilled, so to speak, in the animal economy. There is not a plant on the farm which will not be grateful for it, but it must not be too strong. Whether you can apply it with profit, is another question Probably you could with proper appliances, especially a good sprinkling cart. The quantity to be applied to the acre is hard to measure. Experience will indicate the strength desirable, and it will be found most beneficial upon grass and grain crops, frequently applied while they can be gone upon without detriment.

Weeds. The farmer should be deeply interested in the two leading points concerning weeds: how they get into fields and gardens, and how to get those out that are already in. Many of the seeds of weeds are sown with those of the crop, especially is this the case with those that are nearly of the size, color, etc., of the grains and grass seeds. Great care should be exercised in sowing only pure seeds. If the weeds are already in the soil, the quicker steps are taken to eradicate them the better. Let no weeds go to seed. This will end the annuals. With perennials the work is more difficult, but it should be remembered that they are much more easily destroyed when young. Cut frequently and dig out by the roots when possible.

How Good Stock Pays. Mr. Jas. I. Davidson, Balsam, lately sold eleven head of short-horns and one fat cow from his herd at $3,420 averaging $285 per head. The principal buyers were the Messrs. Snyder, of German Mills, near Berlin. One of their purchases of six calves, five heifers and a bull under a year, were sold to Mr. Palmer, of Morrison, within two days, at an advance of $375 on the price paid Mr. Davidson. The same American buyer purchased direct from Mr. Davidson a four-year old cow and short-horn bull at $800. The Messrs. Snyder also bought at a high figure a heifer calf from John Miller, of Thistle Ha', Brougham, and three head from Mr Archman, of Epsom. We are informed that there is an increasing demand for thoroughbred stock, and also for horses by United States buyers. Mr. Davidson had three other applications from parties in the States for stock;—he sold a Clyde mare at $210.—Whitby Chronicle.

Improving Stock.—Several cattle buyers have recently been through this district with a view to purchasing cattle for export to England. They all made the same report: "Plenty of cattle but none of the kind we want." The reason of this is very clear. They want large, heavy cattle, but the cattle of the country are small and light. Such cattle will not pay the cost of a sea voyage to Liverpool. What has to be done is to improve the stock by the introduction of the larger breeds. This is a work that can be accomplished in a few years and at a slight expense. The suggestion we now make has special reference to the county of Haliburton—a county which possesses exceptional facilities for the raising and breeding of stock. The position is this: The Government gives $300 a year between the two agricultural societies in the county, $150 to each. We suggest that a portion of this $300 be appropriated each year to the purchase of bulls of the large kind needed. In three or four years the stock would be greatly changed for the better from the exporter's point of view, and the farmers would find they possessed the means of largely increasing their annual cash receipts. This is what is needed. Let the suggestion, then be fairly considered.—[Independent. We cordially second the proposition, and hope a change will be made in this direction, as we have on more than one occasion advocated.

Selection of Seeds.

There is nothing of greater importance to the farmer than the selection of seeds. Not even the tillage of the soil and the preparation of the seedbed require greater care and the exercise of more skilled judgment than the selection of pure seed and of the variety best adapted to the soil and climate. The Farmer's profits in tillage or in mixed husbandry depends principally on the productiveness of his crop. A perfect seed is an individual member of a certain species, inheriting all the good qualities belonging to the good species, and capable of transmitting those qualities in equal perfection to other generations. The influence of cultivation, soil and climate often changes the nature of seeds so as to impress upon them characters different from the species to which they belong, and in this way varieties are produced. The valuable properties thus acquired by cultivation, climates and other causes, are, for example, increased hardiness and symmetry of appearance, in the case of roots, and weight of kernel and stiffness of straw in the case of grain. It is well for the farmer in his selection of seed to acquaint himself of the peculiarities of certain varieties, and adapt them to his special circumstances. For seed grain for an exposed situation, select a variety that ripens early, and is by nature hardy. For rich soil, on which the crop would be apt to lodge and the grain be consequently light, let such be selected as will produce short, stiff straw—always selecting that which is most suitable to the circumstances.

For the production of a healthy vigorous plant, the seed should have in itself a sufficient store of nutriment to supply the want of the young plant until its roots and leaves are fully developed. This needed nutrition cannot be supplied unless the several parts of the seed be fully developed and its vital powers be unimpaired. It has been shown by experiments, carefully conducted for the purpose of testing the vitality of seed of different ages, that at least half the vital powers of our cultivated seeds are lost after the first year. To this general rule there are a few exceptions, but, as a rule, it is well to select fresh seed.

Not only should seed be so fresh as to possess all its vitality, it should also be fully developed. A puny seed cannot put forth nor nourish a healthy, vigorous plant. See in selecting seed, that it has been fully matured. Of this an accurate judgment can generally be formed from its plumpness and color. Seed should, as much as possible, be selected that is of uniform size and color. In selecting a sample of grain, this rule is a good one; but it does not hold good in regard to small seeds, such as clover. And in many instances you must, after the most careful selection, rely greatly on the known character of the seed merchant.

The purity of seed is another matter of great importance. Farmers have little idea of the extent to which seeds of weeds are sown by them with their crops. Respectable seedsmen take great care to have the seed they sell as free from the seeds of weeds as is in their power but the farmers selecting for himself must always use every precaution. Some deleterious weeds, that are thought by superficial observers to be indigenous to the soil, have been introduced with imported seeds.

M. Prudhomme lauds the advantages of gymnastics. "There is nothing like it for the health,' he says, "it increases a man's strength, prolongs his days"—— "But our ancestors did not practice gymnastics, and yet"—— "They did not, and what it the consequence? They are dead, every man of them."

A youth just launching out in trade
Unto a wealthy merchant said;
Pray, tell me, sir, what you profess

The nabob's eyes with pleasure shone
As he replied in earnest tone:
"The secret simple is, I think,
You'll find it, sir, in PRINTERS INK."

A creditor who had given his debtor a week to contrive some plan to meet him his obligations called at the expiration of the period and politely asked, 'Have you thought over that matter yet?' Not exactly,' responded the debtor with a troubled look. 'You see, I wanted to think over it a good deal, but the very day you left, my doctor told me I mustn't do any brain work.'

Several young men were sitting together, and a young lady happened to approach the vicinity. One 'real sweet' young fellow seeing, as he supposed, the young lady was looking at him, remarked with a becoming simper, 'Well, Miss ——, you needn't look at me as though you'd want to eat me.' 'Oh, no,' sweetly replied the young lady,' I never eat greens.'

RESTORATION OF THE HEALTH.

During the past ten years the Great Shoshonees Remedy has faithfully redeemed every promise and guarantee made to the public. Alarming and apparently hopeless cases of Lung Diseases, Dyspepsia Liver Complaints, Afflictions of the Kidney and Chronic Complaints of every description, including Scrofula and Skin Diseases of lifelong duration, have been permanently removed and eradicated. Those who volunteered their testimony to the efficacy of the Remedy, are not bogus people in unheard-of localities of foreign countries, but respectable citizens of this country, easy of access and open to question, upon whose verbal recommendations we are willing to rest the reputation of the Great Shoshonees Remedy If you are afflicted, do not delay until medicine may be powerless to aid you. No injurious effects can possibly follow the use of these Indian Remedies, as they contain no minerals, by which the fate of the invalid is so often sealed under the form of some temporary sedative or stimulant. These Indian Remedies are widely known and still possess the public confidence, after the lapse of sufficient time to test their efficacy. The Shoshonees Vegetable Sugar Coated Pills have won for themselves the most favorable reputation of any pill before the public. Their efficacy has been fully proved as a remedy for billiousness, Sick Headache and inactivities of the stomach. Price of the Remedy in pint bottles, $1; Pills, 25 cents a box' Sold by all medicine dealers.

People tormented by the many disagreeable sensations produced by dyspepsia, or are thin, nervous and weak, should use the standard tonic—Northrop & Lyman's Quinine Wine. They will find it agreeable and beneficial. It enriches the blood by aiding digestion and assimilation; soothes and invigorates the nervous system, and imparts a healthful appetite. When used as a remedy for bilious and intermittent fever, it produces the happiest results, if taken between the attacks. Convalescence is hastened, and untimely decay of the physique and constitution is arrested by it. The spirituous constituent, sherry wine, is of the best quality, and the aromatics combined with it renders its flavor additionally pleasant. They who use it gain flesh as well as strength and it exerts a cheering influence upon the mind. It promotes a healthy secretion and flow of bile, sound repose and regularity in the action of the bowels. If judiciously used it may be taken without apprehension of any ill result by persons of the most delicate constitution. A fair trial is all that is needed to prove the genuineness of its claims to public confidence, and to the truth of the general verdict in its behalf. No article of its class commends its self so strongly to nervous invalids who require building up—none is so well adapted to fortify the system against the dangers which threaten the debilitated. It should not be mistaken for a mere stimulant of appetite, which so many so-called tonics simply are. It so regulates the stomach that it is enabled to perform its various functions with regularity and vigor, and its action is not only thorough but prompt. MARKET BLOCK

The Detroit, Mackinac, and Marquette Railroad Company

New offer for Sale over 1,350,000 Acres of the Choicest FARMING and TIMBERED LANDS in the Northern Peninsula of Michigan.

Destined to be the best wheat-producing region in the world. These lands are situated in the counties of Chippewa, Mackinac, Schoolcraft, and Marquette, and embrace many thousands of acres of the best agricultural lands in the State of Michigan

Among those in the counties of Chippewa and Mackinac are tracts of what are known as the "burnt or cleared" lands. These lands offer many advantages over the prairie lands of the West, as the timber lands adjoining insure a supply of fuel at little cost. The soil being a rich clay loam of great depth. The timber remaining upon the land being generally sufficient for the settlers' use in building and fencing.

These partially cleared lands are now offered at the low price of from $4 to $4.50 per acre, one-fourth cash, and the remainder at purchaser's option, at any time within nine years, with interest payable annually at seven per cent.

Roads are being opened through these lands, and no better opportunity has ever been offered to men of small means to secure a good farm, and intending purchasers will be wise by availing themselves of this chance before prices advance, as the lands are being rapidly taken and settled upon.

The lands more immediately on the line of the Detroit, Mackinac, and Marquette Railroad, from Straits of Mackinac to Marquette, are more heavily timbered, and are almost universally good agricultural lands, leaving splendid farms when the timber is removed.

The iron and lumber interests of the upper peninsula are of such magnitude as to call for all the charcoal and lumber that the timber and wood upon the lands will produce—this will enable the settler to make good wages while clearing the land.

Lumber Mills and Charcoal Kilns will be built at various points along the line, and Furnaces are now being erected along the line of the road at Point St. Ignace.

The great demand and good prices for labor, both in winter and summer, make these lands particularly desirable as homes for the poor man. The lands adjacent the Railroad are offered at prices from $5 upwards, according to location, value of timber, etc. The lands are at your very door, and are being rapidly settled by Canadians.

For pamphlets, maps, and other information, address, W. O STRONG, Land Commissioner, 39 Newberry and McMillan Building, Detroit, Michigan. 9-1y.

Ayer's Hair Vigor,

FOR RESTORING GRAY HAIR TO ITS NATURAL VITALITY AND COLOR.

It is a most agreeable dressing, which is at once harmless and effectual, for preserving the hair. It restores, with the gloss and freshness of youth, faded or gray, light, and red hair, to a rich brown, or deep black, as may be desired. By its use thin hair is thickened, and baldness often though not always cured. It checks falling of the hair immediately, and causes a new growth in all cases where the glands are not decayed; while to brashy, weak, or otherwise diseased hair, it imparts vitality and strength, and renders it pliable.

The Vigor cleanses the scalp, cures and prevents the formation of dandruff; and, by its cooling, stimulating, and soothing properties, it heals most if not all of the humors and diseases peculiar to the scalp, keeping it cool, clean, and soft, under which conditions diseases of the scalp and hair are impossible.

As a Dressing for Ladies' Hair The Vigor is incomparable. It is colorless, contains neither oil nor dye, and will not soil white cambric. It imparts an agreeable and lasting perfume, and as an article for the toilet it is economical and unsurpassed in its excellence.

Vivienne's Crime;

OR,

FOR LOVE OF HIM.

By the Author of "Clinton Manor," "Mrs. Sheldon's Ambition," &c., &c.

CHAPTER XV.—(Continued.)

But then Mrs. Thornton was a friend of long years' standing; Vivienne too had grown into her daily life; and she found that she could not afford to lose them. Had she been able, she would not have cared to turn her back on the people of the old Manor House.

That formidable first meeting with Jocelyn and Jocelyn's wife over, she went and came among them much as she had been used to go and come. It was hard to do at first—so hard, that she sometimes told her own heart that the pain of it would kill her. And yet she forced herself to go through with it. There were many reasons why she did this. Their old friendship for her was one: her pride, jealous of itself, furnished another. And then this money, this golden chain which poor Gilbert, never dreaming to do her a hurt, had flung about her with cruel kindness, bound her, whether she would or no, to the Thorntons. All the time she knew—no one better—that Mrs. Thornton, Jocelyn's mother, in her heart did not admit her right to this money. "Young Mrs. Jocelyn," as Vivienne, in her new state, was called, never gave a thought to the matter. Among her sins avarice could not be counted. Ethel would have given the money up long ago, if she might have had her own choice regarding it; but her father would not let her.

"No," he said "you shall keep it. It is sacred, if but for one reason—it was the only proof Gilbert could give of his love. Living, he was dumb, tongue-tied by the force of circumstances over which he had no control; but, dying, he freed himself, as it were; and, in his grave, his money speaks for him, and tells you of his love, as nothing else could have told you all his life. Besides, the day may yet come when you will need it."

Doctor West had changed in those few months in which he had lived by himself in the little stone house. He knew that his darling, away from him, was suffering keenly. He looked older—he stooped. There were sad lines about his mouth, wistful shadows in his gray eyes, that made his handsome face look almost pitiful at times, when he thought no one was noticing him.

Then his practice was not as large as it had been, and he did not like the change—it told on his temper. Long hours he sat in his little study, writing sometimes, but oftener brooding. As he passed along the lanes, or through the rambling, hilly street, people looked after him, shaking wise heads, and whispering to each other that "Doctor was ageing."

So he was, fast. But he did not care to hear it; he did not care either to be watched, as he began to realise that he was, by curious eyes every time he went out or in. The knowledge of this irritated him. He took to wandering away by himself over the crags and along the shore, as Paul Knox had used to do.

All this tried Ethel. The deepening lines on her father's face wrote themselves on the girl's heart during those long weeks and months, and added not a little to its aching.

"You have worked too hard, father, and it is telling on you now," she said to him one day when he came in from his long lonely ramble, looking so wan and ill that he frightened her.

"My little daughter, hard work does not often kill a man, used to it all his life, as I have been. I am failing," he said, "but not with hard work. It is—it is——"

"What is it, father?"

Her eager voice stayed the words on his lips, and brought a deep flush into his face, but he answered her lightly.

"It is old age, I suppose, that is coming upon me with rather longer strides than I had expected."

Looking at him, so pale, so thin, so terrible care-lined, she knew it was not that. Even her young eyes could see that those sorrowful tracings were not all—not even half—the writings of Time.

Soon after that, in the middle of August, as they sat in the parlor reading over a long letter from Paul Knox, the Doctor laid down the closely-written sheet to look across at his daughter, sitting idle-handed in the sunlight.

"How would you like to leave this quiet little place, and go to London, to live somewhere near to Paul, and see somewhat of town life?"

The abrupt question startled her; she could not think him in earnest. Leave Thornton, where she had lived all her life—where the happiest days she had ever known had been spent—where the happiest days she might ever know, doubtless, would be spent! Tears filled her eyes at the thought, and her lips trembled. That was answer enough for Doctor West.

"You would not care to go, I see. Well, then, it shall not be. We'll stay here, as you like the place. After all, it doesn't so much matter."

He spoke like a man who was trying more to convince himself than to convince her. The shadows on his face, the change that had come into it, had never shown more clearly than they did then, as he stood in the full glare of the sunlight, with intent eyes and lips twitching as with pain or nervous unrest. It seemed to Ethel that her wish to stay in Thornton was not shared by him.

"If you would like the change, father, if you are tired of this place, let us go. I dare say I should like London very much when I got used to it. It might be very pleasant."

She spoke calmly, but her face belied her words, and he read it.

"Paul has grown famous there, and so perhaps his descriptions are little rose-coloured in consequence. We might not like the place as he does; therefore we'll just stay where we are, Ethel, and not turn wanderers in our old age."

He stroked her hair, smiling tenderly upon her as he always did, although a trifle sad just then, and went away into his study, carrying Paul's open letter in his hand.

Ethel went down to the shore as soon as he had left her, to shut himself into his study, where of late he had not cared to be followed even by her. The tide was out, and the wet sands, the drifted sea-weed, the bare rocks, glistened in the sunshine.

Down the coast, where the boats were, little groups of men were gathered. They were making all straight for the night's work, and, as they moved about, they laughed and talked, and sang snatches of songs. Rude enough these ditties may have been, but they came to her mellowed by distance and the soft still Summer air.

Sitting down in the shadow of the crags, Ethel looked on the scene with hazy eyes. There seemed to be a gloom over everything, which the sunshine could not chase away.

Little by little a new trouble had crept into her life—a trouble so grave that she could not grasp it—a trouble so black that its shadow chilled her. She could not have put this trouble into words, and yet she never walked out but she felt it, she never looked in her father's face but she saw the effect of it. She had seen great pity in people's eyes when she went among them, and it had made her cheek burn and her heart throb as no spoken words could.

This money, which Gilbert out of his great love had left her, seemed to her to bring a blight with it. Since its coming a barrier had risen up between them and the people among whom they had lived so long. A shade had fallen upon them, in which they stood alone as it were. Of all the people they knew, the Thorntons were the only ones that had not changed towards them.

Sitting there in the afternoon sunshine, with the great gray crags towering above, and the lonely sands stretching out before her, the girl shed bitter tears thinking all this over, trying to find even a name for her unrest. But she could not. She could only say, at the end of an hour's time, what she might have said at the beginning, that she felt the pain of this strange change, and that her father felt it too.

Writing busily in his study at home, Doctor West found clearer words in which to clothe his thoughts than Ethel could, than her girl's heart dared let her speak, even had she found them. He was writing to Paul Knox. It was a long letter, and his face paled and flushed as he wrote it. He grew excited, too, before it was ended, and walked up and down with long, heavy steps, as though considering some few of the sentences which he had written.

When it was finished to his entire satisfaction, he took it to the post himself, as though not caring to trust it to the hand of another. That done, he turned into the Rectory to have a talk with Herbert Grant.

They seemed to have much to say to each other, these two, that sultry afternoon. They sat and talked till the sun went down, and the tide coming in, began to gurgle and splash over the rocks, sending its echoes as usual through the rugged street, right into the quiet shaded Rectory drawing-room, where Doctor West and the Rector were too busy with their own converse to heed or even hear them.

When the Doctor looked at his watch, he was surprised to see how late it was. "I must go at once. I have one call to make. I had no idea it was so late as this."

Herbert Grant did not answer. He was thinking of something else besides this half-forgotten visit.

"You will remember my words, Doctor. These things will pass away in time, like the flimsy things they are, mists of ignorance and distrust born of that ignorance."

"I will remember them surely," replied Doctor West, "and as soon as I can I will believe in them too. At present I don't see my way clear. It is too hard, too hard."

He spoke emphatically, with a grave face. Herbert Grant sighed as he thought how true the Doctor's remarks was.

"We can still hope," he said, after a momentary pause; "and meanwhile we must bear our burden as best we may."

Doctor West turned sharply round to look at him, as though the words had surprised him somewhat. Under his glance the Rector's pale face flushed hotly.

"Yes, I mean that. This is 'our' burden surely. That which in any way touches you, or Ethel, touches me," he said, "and always must."

"Then you have not forgotten——" the Doctor paused, irresolute, and Herbert Grant, speaking low, but very earnest, finished what he would have said.

"I have not forgotten that I loved her, you would say, Doctor. No, I have not. It would be hard for me to do that, because—I love her still."

The handsome face was very pale, the resolute lips quivered.

"Thank you, Grant. It is more than any other man would say of my darling now."

"It is no more than any man, feeling as I do, would say at any time. It is but the truth."

They shook hands very heartily but silently after that, as the Doctor went out through the sultry dusk, to pay his final long-deferred visit.

CHAPTER XVI.

Paul Knox, working hard after an irregular fashion of his own, prospered. Perhaps there was more of the real artist in him than he was aware of; perhaps, too, circumstances favoured him. Which among us can say how much we owe to these or how little? Certain it is that the pictures painted so rapidly by Paul sold quickly. He still lingered on in his quiet lodgings. He had grown used to them; and use with him was a strong second nature. The long letters he found time to right to Thornton told all about his hard working life—told, too, how well his work was beginning to pay him.

Often, sitting in the dusk, as he was found of doing, Paul thought over the past days out of which this resolve to work diligently had grown. He never forgot the hours that had gloomed so darkly before this late dawn; and he never forgot Doctor West and his golden-haired gray-eyed daughter. A dreamer now as ever, he passed hours thinking of the days to come, when he would be able to go back to quiet Thornton, and end his life beside them these two who had been passing good to him at a time when help meant everything—life, hope, the power to rise again—to poor downcast Paul Knox.

"No one knows—I don't quite know myself," he cried, thinking these things over, and speaking out in his old fashion—"all that Dick has done for me—all that he has planned and suffered to keep me straight, to save me from myself if that might be. And now he won't hear a word about it! If I could only do something for him, I should feel more content. But Dick will never need help of mine; I know that."

He was thinking somewhat like this, as he stood brush in hand before his work, the morning the little servant brought Doctor West's letter to him, held carefully between her finger and thumb.

"A letter for you, please, sir."

He took it from her with a smile. He knew well who it was from—no need to look at the post-mark to see that—and he sat down to read it at his leisure.

Twice he read the letter through, his face very pale, his brow knit, an angry sparkle in his dark, keen eyes. Not only angry was he, but startled, dismayed almost, and his face, a tell-tale face at all times, showed it plainly.

The second time of reading, the undercurrent of weariness, the half-repressed sadness bordering on despair that lay in every sentence of the epistle, struck him.

He rested his elbows upon the table and leaned his chin upon his open palms, the better to think the matter over.

TEAS! TEAS!

CHINA and JAPAN.

As an article of Domestic use, there is none perhaps for which there is at the present day a greater demand in the aggregate than TEA.

Notwithstanding the increased demand, yet the price of TEAS is lower to-day than it has ever yet been.

The causes which have procured so desirable a result to the TEA-DRINKER are practical.

FIRST:—A more extended and scientific system of cultivation in the Tea producing countries.

SECOND:—Cheaper and better carrying facilities, and

THIRD:—Increased and closer competition amongst traders and dealers.

TEAS are popularly known as Green, Black and Japan, and of each of these there are a number of grades and varieties. Thousands of pounds are annually adulterated and sold in this country.

For description of grade, modes of adulteration, and tests for detection, see "ads" to follow.

Meantime we offer JAPAN TEA at 40c. per pound. NONE BETTER. TRY IT!

1881.—SPRING.—1881.

Our Millinery and Mantle Show Rooms will be opened at an early date, when we hope to have the favour of a visit from all Ladies who would like to inspect the LATEST NOVELTIES IN STYLES AND DESIGNS.

These Departments are now under the supervision of MISS McPHERSON, who has had a large experience in both Town and City trade, and we can assure our lady friends that all orders entrusted to her care for either MILLINERY or MANTLES, will be executed in a most satisfactory manner.

The variety of odds and ends which, when grouped together, constitute a Millinery Department, is so great that any detailed description of them is both superfluous and impossible. We would much prefer that our customers and lady friends would come and see our display for themselves on the opening days. Suffice it, therefore, to say here, that the stock has been selected with that taste and judgment which a knowledge of the trade and the requirements of our customers has given us, and that our prices are on the ONLY BASIS COMPATIBLE WITH LEGITIMATE TRADE.

MANTLES: In Silk Pattern Mantles we are showing very rich goods, surpassing in finish anything we have hitherto seen in made-up goods.

FARMERS BEWARE. The Kingston News sounds the following warning note: "We have been informed that patent right agents are in the country victimizing farmers. They sell the patent right of a certain agricultural article for the county and take a note for the amount. The sale is repeated as often as possible in the one county, the amount realized by each transaction being $196. Farmers in the eastern counties have been victimized to a great extent."

SUDDEN DEATH. Josiah Thompson, who had been working in Irwin & Boyd's shanties, and who had been home about a week, on Saturday evening was called to the residence of Mr. Elias Thompson, his brother, on business, and remained with him over night, having eaten heartily and retired to bed in the best of spirits. On being called on Thursday morning he made no answer, and entering his friends were shocked to find him quite dead. Drs. Fraser and King decided that no inquest was necessary as it was evident deceased had been taken off with heart disease.

THE LITTA CONCERT. Concerning the Litta Company, who are to appear in Bradburn's Hall here on Thursday evening, 31st, the Globe says: "The company is composed of picked artists and the programme is an exceedingly attractive one. M'lle Litta has been meeting with great success in Canada on her present visit. In St. Thomas and Galt, the last towns where she appeared, the houses were crowded. The instrumental features of the concert will prove as attractive almost as the vocal. Miss Zeline Mantey is one of the best violinistes on this continent, and Miss Nellie Bangs is an accomplished pianist. Mr. Skelton is a celebrated cornet player." For particulars see advertisement.

SERIOUS FIRE. On Tuesday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, an alarm of fire turned out the Brigade, the cause soon being discovered in the row of wooden buildings between Trenoum's brick block and Mr. Owens' brick residence on the east side of Water-street. The buildings were roughcast and burned obstinately, otherwise a more serious conflagration might have ensued. The firemen were promptly on hand and the hose laid, but they had patiently to wait for a long time till water was furnished, and then only got fairly to work when another delay arose through the bursting of the hose. The fire was got under control in about an hour's time, without damage to other buildings. The frame buildings burned were occupied by Messrs. Cope, Pine and McAuliffe, and were owned, one by Messrs. Graham and Head, and the other by Mr. John Edmison. The loss will probably be about $1,500, on which there was no insurance. All the goods in the buildings were got out safely. The new fire company showed themselves to good advantage and did good service

LOCAL BREVITIES.

The pay list of the Street and Bridge Inspector's myrmidons, for the last fortnight, amounted to $28.62.

Chas. Brewer, at the south end of the town had a horse killed by a Midland train on Tuesday.

Another brutal fight took place on Saturday afternoon on Water street. The police being elsewhere engaged, no arrests followed.

An inconsequent "busting" of the chimney of a student's lamp at the residence of Mr. C. Sawers, last week, laid the foundation of a terrific kerosene explosion in the Daily Evening.

Mr. George Walton's property, advertised for sale in the EXAMINER, was sold on Saturday by Mr. Chas. Stapleton, at auction, and bid in by Mr. Aaron Cox for $4,600 cash.

THE CENSUS.—The Commissioner's organ announces that Mr. Thos. Millburn has been appointed Enumerator in the place of Mr. Louis Davis, who resigned the position owing to illness in the family.

C. Henderson, of the Muskoka Slide, Dam and Boom Company, secured 15 men on Friday, and Mr. T. Cavanagh has since forwarded 15 more. These men are taken from the shanty men returning home.

E. W. Johnson and D. C. Ross, two "athletes" who didn't make a fortune on their visit to Peterborough last summer, have fallen out, and Johnson states that all the recent contests in which Ross has figured have been put-up jobs, that the reported rows and disputes were all prearranged to draw crowds, that the championship belt which Ross shows was purchased for $30, and that most of his medals were bought. When rogues fall out if honest men don't exactly get their dues they at any rate learn enough to warn them against being duped again.

A VICTIM OF THE TRAP.

On Saturday afternoon last, Mr. Paul Payne, of Dummer, visited the EXAMINER Office, in company with one of the most sanguinary and ferocious-looking denizens of the Canadian forest, which we have ever laid eyes upon. The animal was dead, fortunately, or its room would have been preferable to its company. Mr. Payne had been trapping for lynx, of which he has victimized several this winter, and the week previous to his visit, this monster had numbered himself among the victims of curosity and a taste for mutton. To our mind it was a lynx, an exceedingly large one and very old, but Mr. Payne insists that it is not. Some thought it a wolverine, and others maintained that it belongs to some hitherto unknown species of Canadian tiger. Probably it is some abnormal condition of lynx, the result of the stimulating influence of the N. P. on the animal kingdom. However that may be, it is certain that this dangerous marauder has lived a freebooter's life in the neighborhood of the 6th Line of Dummer, during the past five years, and has been frequently seen and trapped for. Among other marks that he bore, that are not common to the ordinary lynx, were a number of buckshot wounds in his hide, inflicted two years ago by Mr. Alex. Watts, who shot at him at that time. This incident did not, however, appease his taste for choice mutton, and he continued to pursue his unhallowed career till trapped, as stated, by Mr. Payne. Mr. Payne regrets very much that he had not taken the animal alive, as he might have done, but that Mr. Richard Wilson, a neighbor, who first found the animal in the trap, despatched him with a club, a task it is stated of no little difficulty, as he fought desperately in the trap, and seemed to have as many lives as a cat. The animal would have been an ugly customer to meet alone in the woods, and it is fortunate that his existence has been put an end to. Mr. Hudson is stuffing the "critter."

MECHANICS' INSTITUTE.

Dr. May's report to the Minister of Education, on Mechanics' Institutes, shows that at the time of inspection there were 3,272 volumes in the library, 19 newspapers, 9 magazines and 8 periodicals in the reading room, 241 members; assets $4,317.07 and liabilities $50. The Government Grant from 1868 to 1880 aggregated $4,600. The Inspector remarks:

"This is a first class Institute, with an excellent Library well arranged and in good order. It occupies two up stairs flats over a store. The Library has good fixtures, and there is a Reading Room, a Lecture Room, Class Rooms, and Recreation Room. There is a large Law Library in connection with the Institute, the members of which must be also members of the Institute. The librarian is paid $180 per annum. The building is open every day excepting Sundays and holidays. Rent $100. Classes in Drawing and Book-keeping were being conducted at the time of my visit. The Directors receive a grant of $100 from the Town Council. Their expenditure for the year was over $1,100. The subscriptions from members amounted to $249.50."

On Friday evening last, very interesting proceedings took place at the Institute, consisting of an essay by the President, J. F. Lewis, on "Perseverance," and an address by Mr. W. H. Trout, on "Mechanical Drawing," followed by the presentation of prizes to pupils of the Institute classes. The attendance was very small, and the proceedings were certainly worthy of a heartier encouragement. The Mechanics' Institute is one of the best institutions of the town, and something ought to be done, not only to give it a greater sympathy from those who ought naturally to be expected to lend it their encouragement and assistance, but to bring it nearer to those for whose especial benefit it is designed. It is discouraging to find that young men who have here every facility for self-education and advancement, seem to prefer the street-corners, the saloons and billiard-rooms, to the more wholesome and salutary influences of the Institute. The following is a list of the prizes awarded: Mathematical Drawing. F. Hilliard 1st, $5.00; W. Redpath 2nd, $3.00; S. Paterson 3rd, $2. Book-keeping. F. Clarke 1st, $5.00; J. Cobb 2nd, $3.00; B. Green 3rd, $2.00.

"Hail beauteous, bounteous, gladsome Spring" this was Mark Twain's prize poem but the dire disease incident to Spring, spoil the romance. Burdock Blood Bitters is the prize remedy, the prized by all who have tried it as the best Blood Purifying Tonic and System Regulator in the market. It cures all Blood Humors from the worst Scrofula to a common Pimple. Sample Bottles 10 Cts., for sale by all dealers in medicine. 11-2t

That marvellous purifyer, Burdock Blood Bitters, will speedily change the sallow face to one of freshness health and beauty. DOMINION GRANGE FIRE INSURANCE ASSOCIATION.

Since the institution of this Association, four years since, notwithstanding the predictions of other insurance men, its career has been one of unexampled success, so much so, that the Government Inspector of Insurance Companies, writing of this Company, states as follows: "I consider it one of the best Mutual Companies both as to its plan of operation and management, that we have in the country." This Company have insured property to the amount of $4,181,552. The capital of the Company on 1st January, 1881 was $105,256.30 and no liabilities. About $14,000 surplus cash has been invested at interest at 6 per cent., for the benefit of members. A cash balance of unexpended premium is now being returned to policies expiring. There are now some 4,000 policies in force, and as an evidence of careful management, we may mention that the losses last year were only $2,181. Among the advantages which it presents is that the payment of losses is made promptly and without any of those tedious delays which often deprive the insured of the full value of his insurance. The rate of insurance is slightly over one half of that charged by other companies doing a similar business. The success which has attended the operation of the Association has induced them to establish a General Branch, which will take risks at the same rates on all good farm property outside the Grange. This cannot fail to be a great advantage to the farmers generally. Mr. Dawson Kennedy is the agent for this district; address, P. O. Box 113, Peterborough. 12-1

SPORTING NOTES.

The Omemee Herald says:—The following is the order of the trotting match held on Thursday last:—A. Germain's Orphan Girl, 1st; Thomas Graham's Chestnut Mare 2nd and W. Clarke's Dan 3rd. The affair was very tame.

The Port Hope News says:—"Mr. D. H. Scott has received several favourable offers for 'Gray Tom' since that memorable drive to Peterboro' and return. Mr. Scott, however, is reluctant to part with such a valuable animal. He claims that there is not another horse in Canada can show such a record—64 miles in 4.30."

The following are the three highest scores at the bowling match on Friday night. P. Rudkins 196, A. Sawers 194, John Lynch 188.

The Port Hope Times last week contains a challenge from W. Pengelly to any resident of Port Hope for a match game of billiards, 3 or 4 ball game, 100 to 500 points up, for $15 a side, to be played on or before Monday 21st. Port Hope billiardists could'nt muster the spunk or the shekels, we dont know which.

The snoe-shoeing club have hung up their shoes till the snow of next winter, the advent of spring having put a stop to this peculiar line of tramp business.

A special meeting of the Peterborough Boating Club was held in their rooms on Monday evening last. Mr. F. J. Lewis, President of the Club, occupied the chair. After the reading of the minutes of the previous meeting had been dispensed with and Messrs Budden and Wood appointed auditors to audit the books of the club for the past year and report at the annual meeting which will be held on the 1st Monday in April, the President stated that the object in having this meeting called was to consider the advisability of sending delegates to Toronto to attend the annual meeting of the Canadian Association of Amateur Oarsmen which meeting would take place prior to the annual meeting of this club. After discussing the matter Messrs. E. B Edwards and A. J. Belcher were appointed delegates, with G. C. Rogers spare man. The meeting then adjourned.

AN OLD RESOLUTION UNDER A NEW NAME.

On Sunday evening last in the George St. Methodist Church, Rev. Mr. Starr said that he never liked to make the pulpit an advertising medium, but last week he had received through the Post Office a letter containing information that he believed would be for the public good, and as he had not noticed in the town papers the information contained in the letter he would read it. Then, selecting one from a number of letters he had in his pocket, he read the following:—

Peterborough, March 18th, 1881.

REV. J. E. STARR.

DEAR SIR,—I beg herewith to enclose you a copy of a resolution which I believe was passed at the last session of the Donkey Club of Peterborough.

Yours, &c.,
A YOUNG LADY.

Resolved,—That the Donkey Club of this town inform the young ladies especially and the public generally that they have made arrangements for an extensive demonstration on the steps and sidewalk in front of the Canada Methodist Church, the members locating themselves upon either side, on Sunday evening next, and each succeeding Sunday evening during the warm months (weather permitting.) Positions to be taken immediately after the close of the services within. Carried unanimously.

RAILWAY NOTES.

The Grand Junction people are talking of commencing work on the Omemee extension in the spring.

Mr. Bailey now admits that the new Company will build the T. & O. R. R., and will re-imburse Mr. Gooderham for his outlay. It looks as if it were a simple speculation from the first, and we may be grateful that our $150,000 bonus is not included in the bargain.

The traffic returns of the Midland Railway for the week ending March 14, 1881, were:—Passengers and mails, $1,599.66; freight, $3,343.65; total, $4,943.31, as compared with $4,808.77 for the corresponding week of 1880, being an increase of $134.54; and the aggregate traffic to date is $39,267.89, being an increase of $1,739.99 over 1880.

The Intelligencer learns from Mr. Bickford that it has been determined to commence very shortly the erection on the Grand Junction Railway wharf of a grain elevator of 120,000 bushels capacity. It will be erected on the Chase plan, which permits of its enlargement to an indefinite extent at small cost. The site has not as yet been chosen, but is expected to be settled upon within a few days.

MASONIC.

At the funeral of the late W. H. Weller, at Cobourg, on Friday, all the Peterborough Lodges of Masons were represented, with those of Lindsay, Port Hope, Whitby and Belleville.

The following are the officers elected at the meeting of Corinthian P. C. Chapter, Peterborough: Ex. Comp., Rev. V. Clementi, Z; Ex. Comp., Dr. Fraser, H; Comp., J. Hull, J.; V. E. Comp., H. Rush, E.; Comp., W. Paterson, Jr., S. N.; Ex. Comp., H. C. Winch, Treas.; Comp. Geo. Munro, P. S.; Comp. Col. Stewart, Janitor.

A Lecture to Young Men

ON THE LOSS OF

MANHOOD

We have recently published a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediment to Marriage, etc., resulting from excesses.

Price in a sealed envelope, only 6c. or two postage stamps.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicines or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

This lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.

MORSE'S PAIN RELIEF!

A Favorite prescription of a celebrated New York Physician, for the IMMEDIATE RELIEF OF ALL PAIN.

Twice as powerful as any known remedy. Four times as quick in its action. Sold at the low price of 25 cents a large Bottle. The following testimonials of the great number received will shew most conclusively the remarkable merit of the Relief.

EASTWOOD, ONT., March 5th, 1880.

"I am gratified to hear from various quarters that your medicine is doing wonders. As an instance, one man received a severe blow from a block of wood thrown from a circular saw. It struck him in the thick part of the leg, so injuring him as to render him unable to walk. Two applications of Morse's Pain Relief cured him. I might multiply instances." JOS. EDMUNDS, Druggist.

CHATHAM, ONT., Sept., 14, 1880.

"Your Pain Relief gives general satisfaction; in fact I believe I sell more of it than all other pain remedies put together. J. C. Bright, M. D. and Druggist

CHESTERVILLE, ONT., June, 25, 1880.

"All speak highly of your Pain Remedy, and I have much pleasure in recommending it as a good and reliable medicine." CHAS. T. CASSELMAN.

BRUSSELS, ONT., Aug. 26, 1880.

"I hereby certify that my son has suffered for six years with a pain in the thigh, had tried a great number of things which did no good. He has been completely cured by one bottle of Morse's Pain Relief which was obtained at your agent in Brussels (Wm. Grahame, M. D.)" GEORGE CROOKS.

STRATHROY, ONT., July 5, 1880.

"For the benefit of suffering humanity I write you of the great value of your Pain Relief. I was suffering from a bruised thumb and leg, and by its use obtained immediate relief and in 2 days I was entirely well." GEO. M. FRANCIS, Baker and Confectioner.

FIVE TESTIMONIALS From EASTWOOD, ONT., SHOWING MORSE'S PAIN RELIEF Cured the following; Diarrhœa, Deafnes Swollen Face, Toothache, Cold, Headache and Pain in the Stomach.

No. 1. Used a trial bottle for a much swollen face with instant relief. A relative used the relief for deafness and to her surprise was perfectly cured. (Signed) S. G. ROBINSON

No. 2. Having suffered much with toothache, I concluded to try your Pain Relief. One application gave me instant relief. I also cured a violent cold I had contracted with the remedy. (Signed) MR. E. HERBEE.

No. 3. I have tried your Pain Relief in Cases of Headache, Pain in the Stomach and Toothache, the result in every instance being the same, instant relief. (Signed) A. FREDENBURG.

LAND SALT!

TO FARMERS!

The experience of Canadian Farmers during the last few years corroborates almost without exception the benefits to all grain crops by an early and liberal application of LAND SALT. The immediate effects noticeable are the retention of moisture and a marked stiffening of the straw preventing its lodging; thus enabling the kernel more fully to mature.

These effects were fully brought out at the last meeting of the N. and D. Association held in town on the 12th and 13th of January. Many of the most influential members of the Society testified that they had used Land Salt for several years, and always with good results.

In reply to the question as to which kind of Salt was the best, the testimony of all was emphatically in favor of LIVERPOOL SALT. In fact it was stated that one sack of Liverpool Salt was worth from one and a half to two barrels of Goderich Salt.

Liverpool Salt is stronger, it has more vitality, and hence is the most economical to apply. It has been proved to be better than bulk salt, which is the refuse left from refining the finer kinds of barrel salt, also; it is acknowledged to go further and give better results.

WE OFFER TO THE FARMERS

Several Thousand Bags Liverpool Salt,

At 60c. per bag, of 185 lbs. LAND PLASTER in Barrels.

It may be safely inferred that the murder of Mohammed Jan, who commanded these regiments, was the first act of the rebellion, instead of the result of a private quarrel. At last accounts the rebellion was so formidable that Ayoob Khan was virtually besieged in the citadel. This gives a favourable opportunity for Abdurrahman Khan to reunite Afghanistan under the supremacy of Cabul. Five thousand of his troops are now on the road hither, and should be in full possession of Candahar Province by the 15th of April.

GOVERNOR SEYMOUR INTERVIEWED.

HE EXPRESSES HIS OPINION REGARDING THE VALUE OF CANALS TO THE STATE.

New York, March 28. The Herald's Albany special reports an interview with Governor Seymour in which he says:—The experience in reducing canal tolls goes to show that good results may be only feebly seen for the first year; it may take more time to develop them. In forty years our population will reach 100,000,000, and we cannot possibly calculate the magnitude of our domestic commerce at that day; all existing routes for trade will not be able to meet his damand. Railroads carry things which have reached their ultimate value; canals carry things in first stage. I thoroughly agree with Vanderbilt that one of the principal features of the value of canals to the State of New York is their influence in regulating railway charges. I would enlarge this influence by maintaining and developing canals.

PETERBOROUGH, MARCH 31, 1881.

East Northumberland Election.

The Tory organs have been making much ado over the course of the alleged re-action in public opinion. They point to the fact that in the general election of 1878, the following constituencies returned Liberal members, and that they have since been won by the Tories, viz.: Argenteuil, Charlevoix, East Hastings, Selkirk, Brome and Belchasse. As to the only seat in this Province included in this list, East Hastings, it has always been conceded a Conservative county. Mr. John White was declared elected in the general election, but lost the seat on a recount. The election having been avoided, he was allowed to walk over the course. The seat has never been claimed by the Liberal party, and stands to-day where it has always stood. The election in Selkirk, by which the Conservatives gained a seat, surprised no one. Winnipeg is the hot-bed of officialdom, and will return a supporter of whatever Government may be in power. In Argenteuil the right of Mr. Abbott to his seat is still questioned in the courts. In Brome, in violation of a long-standing agreement, the French Canadian vote acting under the pressure of the hierarchy, went solid against the Liberal candidate, and secured his defeat, and in Bellechasse, the same sinister influence secured Mr. Amyot's election by a very trifling majority. It is a significant circumstance that the apparent re-action in favor of the Government should be confined to the Province of Quebec, but it is not in the the least surprising to any person who will take a survey of the policy of the Government in regard to Quebec, as compared with its policy towards other Provinces of the Dominion. Since their accession to office, the Government has been as effectually under the domination of Mr. Langevin and his Jesuit friends, as if he were the Premier, instead of the member for Victoria, B.C. On every occasion Quebec interests and Quebec prejudices have been pandered to at the expense of the other Provinces. It mattered not what was demanded—the dismemberment of Ontario's lawful territory, the removal of a Lieut.-Governor, or the "reconstruction" of the Supreme Court—Mr. Langevin and his friends have had but to ask, and it was given them. It is essentially a Government for French-Canadian Quebec, and backed by a powerful hierarchy, it is not surprising that the Government should gain advantages in that Province. Nevertheless even the defeats of Bellechasse and Charlevoix are not without a lesson of encouragement for the Liberal party, in the face of such influences, for they indicate how slight an effort will suffice to turn the scale, when the general elections come on. No one knows better than the Premier that it is to the Province of Quebec that he will look for his "solid vote" in the next elections, and that by this vote, with an Ontario minority and the votes of Manitoba and British Columbia, he hopes to be enabled to continue his evil rule. It is to the Province of Ontario that the Liberal party must look for the fatal breach in the Tory fortress. The Maritime Provinces will almost unanimously pronounce condemnation on the Government of taxation and monopoly, and it will be left with the people of Ontario to turn the scale in favor of honest government, or by indifference or apathy, to suffer the upas-tree of government for monopolies, to sink its roots still deeper and firmer into our Parliamentary system. We believe the vast majority of the people of this Province are not insensible of the danger which threatens them if the present Government receive a new lease of life in 1883, and that they are vigilantly waiting the opportunity of discharging their duty when the time comes, and ready to discharge it for the public good. We had a good instance of this in the adjoining riding of East Northumberland on Friday last. There, in 1878, Mr Jos. Keeler was elected by a majority of 63 votes. In the election on Friday the Government candidate was defeated by the emphatic majority of 176 votes. And what renders this verdict still more striking is the fact that, to influence the result, an appropriation of $25,000 was placed in the Estimates for the Murray Canal, and by request afterwards increased to $50,000; the Irish Canadian, which was a professed supporter of Mr. Blake, turned itself into an election sheet, urging all Catholic voters to unite upon Mr. Kennedy; Mr. Coghlan, a Conservative Catholic member, was brought in from Middlesex, for the same purpose; while on the other hand Hon. Mackenzie Bowell and Mr. Thos. White, M.P., appealed to the people of the other faith. Every effort that could be put forth by Government influence and patronage, and crafty appeals to sectional and religious feelings, was exerted to its utmost, and the result is Mr. Crouter's triumphant election by a majority of 176. The Liberal candidate on his side had no adventitious aid. He fought his battle alone, relying on the justice of his cause and the people's sense of resentment at the injuries heaped upon them by the present Government, and his confidence has been fully rewarded. We ought not, perhaps, to omit stating that Mr. Plumb's visit to the county to talk in Mr. Kennedy's behalf was of the greatest service to Mr. Crouter, and we owe the sweet singer of Niagara a vote of thanks for his valuable contribution to the cause of Liberalism.

This election should stimulate the people of the Midland district to renewed life and activity. It only requires an organized and determined effort to change the face of the political map in the other riding of Northumberland, the adjoining riding of East Durham, and the two ridings each of the Counties of Peterborough and Victoria. East Northumberland has set a glorious example, which should not be lost sight of till the approaching general contest has been fought and won.

A Significant Lesson.

The Minister of Railways and Canals has had an unpleasant intimation that he has raised a "spirit that will not down" at his bidding, by his promises to the people of the Trent Valley district. However much or little sincerity there may have been in Dr. Tupper's promises regarding the Trent Valley Canal, it is abundantly evident that the people interested look upon them as earnest pledges, and intend to act upon that belief. In the East Northumberland election, Mr. Crouter, who had been an active an earnest advocate of the canal long before he had any idea of being a candidate for Parliamentary honors, in a very large measure owed his success to that fact, in connection with the equivocal position of his opponent, Mr. Kennedy, upon that subject. We are not at all sorry to see this lesson brought home to the Government with such direct force. It will teach them that they cannot afford to trifle with a matter of so great importance, and that where their material interests are at stake people are apt to forget political sentiment for more practical objects. What is wanted to promote this enterprise is an united delegation to the House of Commons from all the counties on the Trent navigation route, whose politics will be neither Grit nor Tory, but simply Trent Valley Canal. Had we possessed such a representation in the present Parliament, we should have had before this something more than mere promises, and would have had the work well under way. As it is, among those who ought to be the advocates of this scheme in Parliament, we fancy the members for Peterborough are the only ones who are sincerely anxious to promote the enterprise, and as a consequence, Sir Charles Tupper has handled the question at his leisure, and with only one object, as we have pointed out before, viz: to keep the scheme dangling before the people by means of fair promises till the general elections approach, when he may turn it to good advantage for political purposes. We believe we are justified in saying that nothing would more effectually ensure the construction of this important work, than the placing of Mr. Edward Blake in power. Quebec influence, dominant in the present Ministry, is jealous of anything calculated to bring an expenditure of public money into the Province of Ontario, or to promote the interests of this Province—hence the shifting and evasive policy of the Government on this question. With a government in power who would give a just importance to Ontario interests in their public policy, we might have a reasonable hope that this project would be adopted and carried out. The East Northumberland election shows that the voting element is at least conscious of its true interests, and intends in the future to assert them.

In 1878 the business of the Department of Secretary of State was done with 29 clerks at a cost of $33,980; under the N. P. system of economy the same Department in 1881 takes 39 clerks to run it, at a cost of $40,035. Hon. Mr. Mills, in 1878, ran the Department of the Interior efficiently with a staff of 35 clerks at a cost of $42,760, but the Arch-Economist, Sir John, for 1881, requires 66 clerks at a cost of $67,030. Public Works in 1878, under Mr. Mackenzie, required 32 clerks, who cost $49,780, but l'homme de $32,000, M. Langevin, for 1881 require 47 clerks, who cost the country $69,980. And so the money goes! According to the Tory idea, you double the taxes and produce a surplus—that is "prosperity." Multiply to the number of clerks—that is "cutting down employees." Add 50 per cent. to the cost of Departments—that is "Economy."

CONDUCTING FUNERALS.

We have more than once referred to the inconsiderate manner in which funerals are too frequently conducted, not only with regard to the comfort and patience, but of the health, of those who assemble to pay the last and tribute of respect to a departed friend. The following from the Stratford Beacon is very apropos of the subject:

"The London Advertiser states that at a funeral which recently took place in that city on a bitterly cold day, the people were compelled to "shiver and freeze" in their sleigh in the street until an "unpunctual and long-winded" parson concluded the services. Would that London were the only place where people attending funerals had to suffer in the same way. As a rule no funeral procession starts until nearly an hour, and frequently over an hour after the appointed time, and the suffering and inconvenience caused by the delay often becomes a serious matter. On a fine day in summer or autumn people can sit or stand outside comfortably enough, but waiting in a heavy rain on a cold winter day is absolutely intolerable. As our contemporary remarks, fatal colds are often caught under these circumstances, and one funeral leads to several others. We do not say that the clergyman conducting the service is always to blame, though it does seem a little out of place to conduct a service an hour long in a crowded room while fifty or a hundred people are shivering outside. It would save a great deal of inconvenience and suffering if the religious services were concluded before the hour announced for the procession, and the majority of the people attending would not be compelled to remain standing outside often in cold and wet weather. As a rule only a few people hear the services, and these are usually present before the hour announced for the procession to start. A funeral is sad enough in itself, but there is no use in adding to its sadness by making it the cause of two or three more deaths and burials."

MORE LIGHT WANTED.

The following appeared in the Grand Falls, Da., Herald, of the 3rd inst., under the head of "Fife Wheat." Perhaps some of our readers can throw more light on the subject:—

To the Editor of the Herald.

Having observed this subject in the last issue of the Plaindealer, I beg to submit the following as a solution of the problem—"The origin of the name 'Fife Wheat.'"

Mr. David Fife, of Otonabee, county of Peterborough, Ont., Canada, imported this variety of wheat from Scotland in 1851. Its excellence being fully appreciated by his neighbors they named the wheat "Fife," the name it has since borne.

In support of this I will add the following eulogy, written in 1855 by a local bard, Mr. Alexander Graham, and afterward published by the Peterborough Examiner:

This man conferred a blessing great
In many a town and many a state;
On man and woman, youth and child,
Alike on Saint and Sinner wild.
This wheat grows, tho' the soil be wet.
Where folks ne'er thought of growing wheat;
Before that some this new wheat got,
They oftentimes did mourn their lot.
And what to do they could not tell -
It beat them to raise wheat to sell.
They often tried a change of grain,
But the harvest cry was, rust again!
Through disappointment oft they sighed,
Blasted their hopes, all kinds they tried.
The voice of joy left many a place,
And gloom was seen in many a face;
Some sold out to ease their woe,
Bought land where they thought wheat would grow.
This was their state till this new wheat
They tried and found to be complete.
Through it a blessing there has come
To many a one and many a home.
His fame shall last after his life.
Who introduced the wheat called Fife.

Being myself acquainted with both Mr. Fife and Mr. Graham, who are still living I believe in Otonabee. I believe the above to be the true facts of the origin of the name. Yours respectfully,

J. A. DeLaney.

Grand Forks, D. T., Feb. 28th, 1881.

AN EXPENSIVE LUXURY.

The Department of the Interior is managed by that veteran, Sir John. A glance at the expenditure under this head shows that the Chief is bound to maintain his well established reputation for getting rid of the cash. Under the Mackenzie regime 36 clerks were found equal to conducting the business; Sir John employs 70, the increase in the pay list being $26,000. In teaching the indians how to farm, a Commissioner has been appointed at a salary of $3,000 or $4,000, who does little more than interfere with the proper duties of Mr. Vankoughnet. As now managed, his office is no use whatever. Mr. Dewdney has a secretary. He is to have a house built for him by the Government at a cost of $12,000. The expenses of his office last year were $7,686. Mr. Dewdney drives through the solitary regions of the North-West four-in-hand, and in a manner that would astonish even Peter the Great. Besides receiving his salary, Mr. Dewdney charges his expenditure for board and lodging to the Government. It is said that Mr. Dewdney's expenditure for horses is something that would astonish the most wealthy and extravagant man in the country. We select the following items from the public accounts before this high pressure system was well under way. We begin with the travelling expenses of Mr. Dewdney and secretary:—Supplies for commission furnished by J. G. Batter & Co., $157.20; travelling expenses, Assiniboine to Helena, $56; travelling expenses, Ottawa, $230.64; horse hire, $22.15; expenses to Battleford, $15; travelling expenses, thirty-one days, $186; concealed items: $446.20; concealed items, $595; concealed items, $700; concealed items, $985; concealed items, $300; total, $3,576.71. This sum, so far as we are able to know or guess, is an expenditure mainly for travelling. Then when we look at the public accounts we find that the expenditure upon Mr. Dewdney's secretary, Sir Alexander Galt's son, has also been considerable for passage money. We find the following items: $41.20, $91.10, $100, $222.80; travelling allowance, $110.50; board and allowance for Commissioner and secretary, 29 days, $174; board and allowance for Commissioner and secretary, 31 days, $93; do., do., do., 134 days, $402; outfit for Secretary, $90.46; freight on Secretary's baggage, $35.25; board for Commissioner and Secretary, $7; unexplained item, $885.50; do., do., $300, and some other items, making a total of $2,422.51.
